MISS WILLARD WEDS RUSSELL E. BULLOCK

Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson Officiates at Home of Bride's Cousin, This City.

Miss Gertrude M. Willard, daughter of Mrs. Anna Willard, of Louisville, St. Lawrence county, N. Y., and Russell E. Bullock, of Mauch Chunk, Pa., were married at 8 o'clock last evening at the home of the bride's cousin, George W. Frech, on Prospect avenue. Rev. E. Vivars Stevenson, rector of Grace church, performed the ceremony in the presence of about fifty relatives and friends of the couple.

The bride was gowned in white chiffon and carried bride roses. She was attended by Miss Lulu B. Conkling, of Flanders, as bridesmaid, who wore a corn color satin gown, trimmed with shadow lace. She carried pink roses. The best man was Clinton C. Bramble, of Baltimore, Md. The wedding march was played by Merrill B. Davis, of Boonton.

It was a green and white wedding, those colors being carried out in an attractive way throughout the parlor, hallway and dining-room. Following the ceremony congratulation were offered and a wedding supper was served. The bride received a large collection of gifts. Later in the evening the couple left on a wedding trip.

Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Bullock will reside at Wilkes Barre, Pa., where the bridegroom is engaged as an instructor in the Henry Hillman Academy. He is a graduate of Dickinson College at Carlisle, Pa. Both he and the bride have a large circle of acquaintances. Mrs. Bullock has frequently visited in this city where she has many friends.

Hugh Murray, aged sixty-five years, brother of Robert Murray, the West Front street auctioneer, died on Monday at his home in Croton, Hunterdon county, after a lingering illness. He was born in Sutherlandshire, Scotland, and came to this country when twenty-one years of age, after which he learned the hat finishing trade in Orange at which he worked until twelve years ago, Mr. Murray lived in Elizabeth for a time before removing to his farm.

Mr. Murray then retired and purchased a farm of seventy acres in Hunterdon county on which he lived until his death. He was a man of unusual habits and was admired for his excellent qualities. There survives a wife and three children, two girls and a boy; two sisters in Scotland, Christina and Isabelle; two brothers in Maryland, Kenneth and Angus, and James Murray, of Illinois, and Alexander Murray, of the State of Washington; Andrew Murray, of Elizabeth, and Robert Murray, of Plainfield. The funeral will be held at the late residence tomorrow afternoon at 12:30 o'clock and the burial will be at Quakertown.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK DECLARES 100TH DIVIDEND

The First National Bank, of this city, yesterday declared its one hundredth dividend. The bank has been doing business for the past fifty years and during that time has distributed including today's dividend, $889,500 to its stockholders. It was incorporated in March, fifty years ago, and has been declaring two dividends yearly, which brings this one up to the century mark. The dividends have averaged about five per cent.

COURT PLAINFIELD TO VISIT COURT SOMERSET

Considerable routine business was transacted at the session of Court Plainfield, No. 1144, I. O. Foresters, at their meeting last evening. Plans for a paying a fraternal visit to Court Somerset, of Somerville, July 7, were made. A committee composed of Henry Hansen, John P. Casey, Jr., and James F. McCarty was appointed to complete the arrangements.

A special trolley will be chartered to convey the local members to the Somerset county seat, leaving the local station at 7:15. J. C. Morgan, superintendent of the I. O. F. Orphans' Home, as well as other high court officers will be present at that occasitno. After the session last evening, refreshments were served in the banquet rooms.

Mrs. Andrew Murdock McCardell and Master Walter L. Hetfield, 3d, motored to Keansburg this morning, where they wil be the guests at the Samson, Judge Hetfield's cottage.

SUDDEN DEATH OF RAMSEY BLAIR

Friends of Ramsey Blair, of Park avenue, were shocked today to hear of his sudden death at Belmar this morning, where he has been stopping for the past six weeks with his wife. While Mr. Blair has not enjoyed the best of health for some time, his death, due to old age together with other complications, was not looked for at this time.

Mr. Blair was eighty-eight years of age, and had lived in this city for the past thirty-five or forty years. Prior to his coming to this city, he owned a small farm at Dunellen. Prior to that time he was a resident of Jersey City. He has lived a retired life practically ever since coming to this city. Beside his wife, Mr. Blair is survived by three sons, James R., Adam C. and Dr Thomas D. Blair, and two daughters, Mrs. D. C. Boice and Mrs. A. W. Anderson, the latter of Portchester, N. Y. The other children reside in this city. For several years Mr. Blair and his wife resided with their son, Dr. Blair, of Park avenue, spending the summer months at Belmar. Mr. Blair was a member of the First Presbyterian church. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

DAVID E. KENNEY ON REFORMATORY BOARD

North Plainfield Man Appointed to Body Controlling State Institution.

Trenton, July 1.—Governor Fielder appointed David T. Kenney, of Plainfield, as a member of the board of managers of the Rahway Reformatory today. He succeeds the late Senator Michael T. Barrett, of Newark. Mr. Kenney was a member of the board of managers of the State Home for Girls and was legislated out of office by the Legislature following an investigation at the home recently.

The North Plainfield appointee has been interested in this line of work for a number of years and has made a close study of the conditions in these institutions. During the existence of the State Home for Girls he was actively engaged in bettering the conditions and gave a large portion of his time to the controlling interests of the institution.

FUNERAL OF MAJOR W. DEWITT MILLER

The funeral services for Major William DeWitt Miller, who died at his late home, 309 East Seventh street, Monday morning, were held at that place this morning at 11 o'clock, and were private. The Rev. Dr. Richard C. Campbell, of the borough, officiated at the services and interment was made in Hillside cemetery.

A delegation from the New York Commandary, Military Order, Loyal Legion, attended the funeral in a body and three members of the organization acted as honorary pall-bearers. The floral tributes were beautiful and came from several relatives and life-long friends of the veteran. As is the custom the Loyal Legion paced a large American flag over the bier.

The honorary pall-bearers were the Messrs. Morse, Breck and Wells, of the New York Commandary, and Edward L. Suffern, of this city; William C. Spellman, of Short Hills; and a brother, Isaac L. Miller, of this city.

GIVEN A SURPRISE.

Mrs. J. J. Varley, of West Front street, was given a surprise party at her home, Monday afternoon by members of a card club to which she belongs. "Five hundred" was a feature of the affair. Mrs. Fred G. Lynn received first honors and Mrs. Hillaire Blatz second. Refreshments were served after the game.

SCRIBNER—BINSKY.

Miss Mabel Scribner, daughter of W. H. Scribner, of the boro, and Joseph Binsky, of East Second street, were married at the home of the Rev. J. O. McKelvey Saturday night. The couple will reside in the borough. Mr. Binsky is a machinist in this city.

U. S. EXPRESS CO. DIED AT MIDNIGHT

At midnight last night the United States Express Company's employes, having their headquarters in the North avenue depot, were dismissed from the employ of that concern but one minute later automatically entered the service of the American Express Company. The shingle on the local office was replaced by a new one and the United States Express Company's gold letters were cast into discard, that concern having ceased to exist.

Thus it was all over the country in offices now taken over by the Adams, Wells Fargo, American and other successors of the defunct carrier. The transformation took place without stopping the progress of the great machine's wheels that operate the corporation and baggage of every description in being shipped to day in the same manner as it has been heretofore. To patrons of the local office today there is no noticeable change in the method in which business is being handled. The old employes have been retained and are attending to the same duties today as they did under the other corporation yesterday. The old claims and unsettled business will be taken over by the new company and settled, and the only change will be the gradual improvements of methods.

The American Express will operate not only on the Central Railroad but on the Reading, the Lehigh Valley and several great systems in the West. The Wells-Fargo Company will operate on the Baltimore and Ohio and the Staten Island Rapid Transit, a subsidiary of the the B. and O. The B. and O., too, has many many large western roads on which the United States Express Company formerly operated. The Adams Express will do business on the Lackawanna and the Michigan and Lake Shore, and several of the western roads.

The final cleaning up in the office at the North avenue station was completed last night when the records were boxed up and shipped to New York where they will be placed on public file.

FUNERAL OF CHARLES B. FOWLER IS HELD

The funeral services of the late Charles B. Fowler, aged seventy-eight years, who was found dead Monday morning, by Chief Marshall Weiss, of the borough, will be held at 3 o'clock, this afternoon at the undertaking parlors of Henry DeMott, of Somerset street. Rev. C. C. Can, pastor of the Grace M. E. church will officiate. The interment will be made in the soldiers' plot at Hillside cemetery. The bearers will be William Corriel, James Lewis, J. W. Coddington, Chris Pope, and Dr. J. F. Berg, all Civil War veterans.

Although Mr. DeMott has been endeavoring to locate relatives of Mr. Fowler since the body was brought to his place on Monday morning, his efforts thus far have been futile. He learned, however, that a bank in Hopewell had a deposit in the name of Fowler, as well as several papers among which was an honorable discharge from the army.

ATTRACTIVE PROGRAMS FOR "SAFE AND SANE" FOURTH

Anouncement has been made of the cast to present the two act playlet to be offered Saturday morning at the Plainfield Theatre in connection with the "safe and sane" celebration Fourth. The story of the play, "Soldiers Brave and Maidens Fair," is laid out in early colonial times and the scene of the acts take place in the parlor of Ruben Adamson. The cast is as follows:

John Tallmage (Captain Washington's body guard), Harry Srley; Captain Armstrong (a British officer), Walter Gleantz; Ruth Adamson (a staunch Loyalist) Henry Donnelly; Tarpo (negro servant), Peter Walsh; Marshall (negro servant), Raymond [illegible]; Patience Powell (Ruth's friend, but determined in her allegiance), Miss Anna Pierson; Ruth Adamson (daughter of a Loyalist, but herself a patriotist), Miss Edith Allen. Harry E. White is the coach.

In connection with the exhibition, it has been announced that pictures will be taken of the children Saturday morning from 10 to 12 o'clock at Prutz's Theatre. An Italian band will play from 10 to 11 in regular celebration in front of the theatre.

ELKS' RECEPTION LARGELY ATTENDED

Members of the Organization Hosts at Elaborate Affair.

Members of the local Elks' Club and a number of women guests enjoyed a pleasant social evening in the clubhouse on Watchung avenue, last night, the affair being the second of its kind to be conducted under the auspices of the fraternal order. As a success, the event last night eclipsed the previous one and all who attended, thoroughly enjoyed the occasion.

A committee of members arranged a unique and original program of entertainment and the roof garden was inspected by many for the first time. Although this feature has been open to the club for several weeks, last night was the first time that friends of the members have had an opportunity to view it since its completion. Refreshments were served in the open-air and the place served as an excellent retreat for the dancers.

Excellent music was furnished by Paroubek's orchestra and this was one of the feature events on the program. Modern dances were indulged in by the members and their friends and refreshments served during the intermissions.

EXCELSIOR BURNED IN FIREPROOF ROOM

Excelsior burning in a fireproof room in the factory of the Rushmore Dynamo Works, on South avenue, last night, kept the firemen busy for nearly two hours. The blaze was confined to the pile of inflammable material, and although it took many gallons of water to extinguish it, little damage was done. The time intervening between the sounding of the alarm and the sounding of the recall attracted many curious persons to the scene, but upon arriving at the place it was found that the fire fighting corps had the blaze under control at all times.

How the flames started is a mystery, but there is a belief that spontaneous combustion may have been the origin. The excelsior is piled in the room as debris and a portion of it is oil soaked and burns with a stifling smoke. This latter feature made the task of the firemen a difficult one and the interior of the cement structure resembled a raging furnace with volumes of heat pouring out.

First appearance made it look as though th entire factory was doomed by fire, the smoke pouring out of all recesses in clouds. When the heart of the blaze was once located, however, the department soon had it under control. Mr. Rushmore's plant is constructed entirely of reinforced concrete and had there been any inflammable material in the walls or ceilings the damage might have been far more serious.

DOG SHOT BY THE POLICE SUFFERED FROM RABIES

A report received by the local police department from the State Board of Health brought the information that the dog shot by Patrolmen Flatley and Mernagh, on West Front street, Monday morning, was suffering from the rabies. Health Officer Randolph Chandler severed the animal's head from its body following the execution of the canine and submitted it to the State authorities for examination.

According to the police at least two other dogs were bitten by the frenzied animal during its rampages in the business section, Monday, and Chief Kiely has ordered his men to keep a close watch on all other canines acting suspiciously.

TAKES ANOTHER POSITION.

Mrs. Nan. Melvin, acting supervisor of the work carried on at the social centres since February left today for Connecticut, where she will take another position similar to the one she held in this city. Mrs. Melvin made many friends in this city during her short stay here, where her work was greatly appreciated by the committee. Mrs. Melvin goes from this city to Bridgeport, Conn., where she will have charge of the summer work at the playgrounds of that city.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Abram returned last night from their honeymoon, and as soon as it can be arranged the couple will move into their new home on West Front street.

WEDDING ATTENDED BY MANY FRIENDS

Miss Mathilda Clara Muller, youngest daughter of Mrs. Emilie Muller, of Dunellen, was married to Frederick Newell Whitney at the home of the bride's mother, last night by the Rev. Ernest R. Brown, of the Dunellen Presbyterian church. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Orville C. Whitney, of Dunellen.

The bride wore a gown of white silk crepe trimmed with white lace ribbon. She carried a bouquet of white roses and sweet peas. The couple were unattended. The wedding march was played by Miss Margaret W. Fuller, a niece of the bride.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the bride's home to which a large number of guests were invited. The home was attractively decorated with pink ramblers and ferns. Following a short wedding trip the couple will return to Dunellen and will leave again Saturday for Chicago where the bridegroom is employed as western representative of the Wadsworth Watch Case Company.

Yesterday was also the occasion of the bridegroom's parents' thirty-ninth wedding anniversary. Mr. and Mrs. Whitney were each presented with a gold seal ring, the gifts of their children. The engraving on the ring read "1875-1914."

Those present at the wedding were: Mrs. Emilie Muller, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Muller, Miss Violet Muller, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Muller, Miss Echo Muller, of Bayonne; Mr. and Mrs. Albert L. Muller, Mr. Walter Muller, Miss Gertrude E. Giles, Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Fuller, Miss Margaret W. Fuller, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Vliet, of Dunellen; Mr. and Mrs. Richard F. Flynn, Miss Marion Flynn and Master Howard Flynn, of Brooklyn; Mrs. A. Graeter, Miss A. Graeter and Miss Ida Niess, of New York city; Mrs. Charles B. Dildine, of Dunellen; Miss Louise Keres, of Bayonne; Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Nelson, Piscataway; Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Whitney, Mr. and Mrs. H. Dean, Miss Margaret Dean and Miss Gertrude Dean, of Dunellen; Miss Antoinette Savory and Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Dickey, of Bingham[illegible]; Mr. Frank [illegible]ers, of Roc[illegible] Park; Rev. and M[illegible] Ernest R. Brown, of Dunellen.

MISS FLORENCE M. VAIL BRIDE OF J. W. RICHARDSON

Miss Florence M. Vail, and John W. Richardson, of this city, were married Monday afternoon, at the home of Rev. Dr. Charles E. Hetring, of East Front street. The couple was accompanied by the bridegroom's father, T. W. Richardson, his sister Miss May Richardson and Mrs. John Hopewell, of this city.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents on Duer street. They will take a wedding trip to Niagara Falls. Mr. Richardson is employed in this city.

STATE TRUST COMPANY DEPOSITS $626,122.95

In another part of the Daily Press will be found an itemized statement of the condition of The State Trust Company on June 30, indicating the rapid progress being made by this local banking institution. The statement shows that the company continues to move forward at a very satisfactory pace, its deposits having increased to $626,122.95, and its total assets to nearly $800,000. This company, although the youngest of the banking institutions in Plainfield, is rapidly making a place for itself in the community.

The officers are: R. Henry Depew, president; E. F. Feickert, vice-president; M. C. VanArsdale, second vice-president; H. C. Nash, secretary and treasurer, and the board of directors are Frank C. Ard, George L. Babcock, Samuel Binnigan, George S. Clay, J. H. Cooley, Henry Depew, A. H. Dundon, Edward Feickert, W. A. Garrigues, [illegible] M. Holstein, Alex. Milne, W. Auto Smashes [illegible] Wagon Throwing [illegible] to the Roadbed.

CAR BADLY DAMAGED

Traveling west on Front street shortly after 3 o'clock this morning, an automobile driven by Walter Apgar, of this city, crashed into a delivery wagon owned by Louis Fay, of 512 West Third street, demolishing the latter. Apgar was running the car at a moderate rate of speed along the thoroughfare when the wagon, used in the delivery of bread, loomed up in front of him. According to the owner of the automobile, the other vehicle bore no tail lights and he did not see it until it was too late to avoid a collision.

The two vehicles came together with a terrific impact and the occupants of the car, Louis E. Starker, of Dunellen, and Robert Gow, of 831 West Fifth streets, had narrow escapes from serious, if not fatal injuries. Harry Fay, a son of the baker, who was in the wagon, was hurled to the road-bed as the automobile stove in the rear-end of the horse-driven vehicle, and he was the most seriously injured. The boy landed on the macadam roadbed on his knee injuring the kneecap. He also sustained several bad cuts and bruises.

Those in the motor car suffered principally from shock. The thick glass in the windshield was smashed and some of the fragments were thrown into the rear seat, narrowly missing the occupants. So severe was the impact that the axle of the car was twisted out of shape and the mud-guards and searchlights were completely demolished, it had to be towed to a garage and it now resembles a vehicle that came in contact with a brick wall while speeding at a fast clip.

Reports received at the local police headquarters indicate that the driver of the baker wagon was at fault for the collision, inasmuch as he displayed no tail lights. The accident occurred in a dark place near Clinton avenue and it was impossible for the automobile pilot to distinguish the obstruction ahead.

REPORTS OF CENTENNIAL MEETING WILL BE GIVEN

A service of unusual interest may be expected at the First Baptist church, tonight, when reports will be given of the Centennial Missionary Meetings recently held in Boston. These meetings were in many ways the most remarkable ever held by the Baptist denomination and some features of them can never be duplicated.

Besides a general summary and address given by the pastor, Mrs. Albert L. Kennelly will give a report of the women's sessions; while Mrs. Benjamin J. Shreve will speak upon the Wednesday afternoon session at which two of the sons of the great missionary, Adoniram Judson, were present. This session in some ways was the most remarkable of the ten days meetings. A cordial invitation is extended to the public to attend this service tonight.

Miss Ila Strickland, daughter of ... Strickland, is to be married this evening to Robert W. Wright, of Brooklyn. The ceremony will be performed at the home of the bride's parents.

President E. J. Dusel, of the Board of Trade certainly solved the supposedly difficult problem of having the school children participate in the Fourth of July parade. Mr. Dusel enlisted the assistance of Mrs. George W. Vander Veer, president of the Parent-Teacher Association, and Mrs. E. L. Field, of Fourth street, two women who are noted for their willingness to assist in any worthy cause. These two rallied committees of women about them, the one under Mrs. Vander Veer making a house to house canvass on the southside of the track and the committee under Mrs. Field doing likewise on the northside. The Lincoln School children will start with the parade at Washington Park, congregating there at 8:30 o'clock. The Whittier School children will assemble on the school grounds between 8:30 and 9 o'clock and fall into line as the parade passes that school. The Lincoln School children may possibly fall out of line at Centre street, in order to give them a rest, and fall into line again as the parade approaches the business section. It looks now as if the New Market School children would also parade, falling into line at New Market. POLITICS AND POLITICIANS

Pennsylvania Republicans will open their State campaign in Pittsburg, August 26.

The Unitedd States senatorial contest in South Carolina will be settled in the Democratic primaries August 25.

Former United States Senator Thomas M. Patterson is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor of Colorado.

Former Congressman John J. Lentz is conducting an active campaign in behalf of his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for United States senator from Ohio.

James W. Gerard, United States ambassador to France, has sent a denial of the report that he intended to seek the Democratic nomination for governor of New York.

Chase S. Osborn, former governor of Michigan, has fulfilled the predictions of his friends by entering the race for the Republican nomination for governor of Michigan.

Dr. William Draper Lewis, the Progressive party candidate for governor of Pennsylvania, has resigned his position as Dean of the Law School of the University of Pennsylvania.

A. Piatt Andrew, former Assistant Secretary of the Treasury of the United States, is a candidate for the Republican nomination for Congress in the Sixth District of Massachusetts.

The mayor of Chicago receives an annual salary of $18,000, which is said to be the largest amount paid to any municipal officeholder in the United States. It is $3,000 more than is paid the mayor of New York.

Johnson N. Camden, who has succeeded the late William O. Bradley as United States Senator from Kentucky, never took any active interest in politics until three years ago, when he was chosen a Democratic committeeman.

Horace S. Wilkinson, a wealthy manufacturer and financier of Syracuse, is said to be slated as the successor of Theodore Douglas Robinson, Col. Roosevelt's nephew, as chairman of the Progressive State Committee of New York.

Emil Seidel, who several years ago jumped into prominence as the Socialist mayor of Milwaukee, is now the nominee of the Social Democratic party to succeed Isaac Stephenson as United States Senator from Wisconsin.

William Marshall Bullitt, who was Solicitor General of the United States under President Taft, is a candidate for the Republican nomination for United States Senator from Kentucky for the short term ending March 4, 1915.

Candidates now in the field for the Republican nomination for governor of Wisconsin are W. T. Utman, of Hudson, Henry Roethe, of Fennimore, W. H. Hatton, a former State Senator; Andrew H. Dahl, former State Treasurer, and Merlin Hull, who was speaker of the lower House of the Legislature last session.

SHOE PRINT BASIS OF CHARGE.

Westfield, July 1.—John Johnson was held for the grand jury yesterday on a charge made by Dr. M. F. Egel, by whom he had been employed as a gardener. Johnson was discharged by Dr. Egle on May 27, and a few nights later nearly all of the rose bushes and vines on the doctor's place were cut off just below the ground. Johnson wore a peculiar shoe which, it is said, tallied with tracks in the garden.

—If it would be "good business" for you to sell that real estate now, advertise it NOW.

LIQUORS BANISHED FROM NAVY.

Washington, D. C., July 1—The famous order issued by Secretary Daniels last April banishing all intoxicating liquors from the United States navy went into effect today. The order reads: "The use or introduction for drinking purposes of alcoholic liquors on board any naval vessel, or within any yard or station is strictly prohibited and commanding officers will be held directly responsible for the enforcement of this order." The anti-canteen laws for army, passed by Congress after a severe and prolonged battle of the temperance forces of the country, are less sweeping than the prohibition which has now been put into effect in the navy. The order of Secretary Daniels abolishes the officers' wine mess and absolutely forbids the "use or introduction" of alcoholic liquors. In the army prohibition is restricted to "the sale of or dealing in" intoxicating liquors. Army officers under this law way maintain a wine mess at their clubs.

UPHOLDS SERVICE OF SUMMONS.

Trenton, July 1.—The Supreme Court has handed down an opinion denying a motion to set aside the service of a summons upon the president of the J. G. Greendyke Company, a foreign corporation, in a suit brought by the Watson Machine Company to recover $500 claimed to be due on a contract.

The question involved was that service upon the president of the Greendyke company was accomplished while he was in New Jersey transacting business in behalf of the warden of the Michigan State prison and not as the representative of the Greendyke Company. Admitting that this situation existed, the Supreme Court pointed out that the Greendyke Company had, nevertheless, been doing business in New Jersey, that this business had not been concluded and that, therefore, the company must be regarded as having submitted itself to the jurisdiction of the courts of this State.

AMERICAN INSTITUTE.

Cambridge, Mass., July 1—The American Institute of Instruction, which is the oldest educational body in the country, began its eighty-third annual convention today at Harvard University. The attendance includes teachers from many parts of the country. Prof. Albert B. Hart, of Harvard; Arthur W. Dunn, of the United States Bureau of Education, and a number of other well known figures in educational circles will deliver addresses during the three days' sessions.

Flemington, July 1—Under the joint auspices of the Self-Governing Committee, of New York, and the George Junior Republic of New Jersey, a fresh air camp will be established during July on the Republic's farm, situated on the south branch of the Raritan river at Flemington Junction.

About twenty-five boys from the East Side of New York will camp there and try out the self-governing problem. A part of the expense will be borne by the residents of Somerville, Clinton, High Bridge and Flemington, who will donate provisions, wearing apparel and money.

LAWN FESTIVAL.

A lawn festival will be held on the lawn of the Netherwood Reformed church on the afternoon and evening of Thursday, July 9, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society. Ice cream, cake and candy will be on sale and an added feature will be a sketch entitled "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch."

—At Westfield, C. F. Wittke has the Daily Press on sale each day.

Plainfield, N. J. July 1, 1914.

Now for a safe and sane Fourth.

Plainfield in recent years has been gradually getting away from a noisy fourth of July, with its accompanying serious and oftentimes fatal accidents. Last year we were free from any mishaps whatsoever of a serious character that could be attributed to the deadly giant firecrackers, to toy cannons or other minature death dealing agencies. Let us all hope that similar results will be attained this year, and that Chief Doane's timely warnings will also prevent any fires in the city.

All over the country there was a corresponding decrease in the number of fatal and non-fatal accidents last year, as statistics compiled by a great Chicago newspaper show that there were but 32 lives sacrificed on the holiday in 1913, as compared with 466 ten years before. The number of injured greatly decreased also, there being 1,131 last year, compared with 3,983 ten years before.

A persistent, strenuous and consistent campaign for a quiet and safe Fourth everywhere has been responsible for the big improvement in the last ten years. Instead of giving the children a big bunch of noisy and dangerous firecrackers, the parents have organized picnic parties to nearby woods and shore resorts. The holding of patriotic exercises and sport tournaments, such as the one to be held on Parker Field on Saturday have become popular diversions. Everyone is safe at such celebrations, both children and grownups, and they have plenty of opportunity to work off superfluous zeal in cheering their favorites among the contestants.

Last year was America's sanest Fourth. Let Plainfield people do their part in helping to establish a still better record this year.

TRUTH IN ADVERTISING.

Toronto churchgoers were given an unusual opportunity during the recent convention of the Associated Advertising Clubs of America, and one which probably attracted full congregations to every religious edifice in the city. Delegates to the convention were asked to occupy the city pulpits, in recognition of the fact that they carried a message for the uplift of public honesty in business. Among the speakers were Frank LeRoy Blanchard, editor of the Editor and Publisher, and C. B. Hamilton, manager of a big furniture company at Grand Rapids.

Mr. Blanchard delivered in a Methodist church what has been characterized as a "business sermon," in the course of which he said the motto of the advertising men was truth. He said the cornerstone of all honorable and successful business is "truth" and as advertising is the greatest force in modern business life it cannot reach its highest efficiency unless it is kept clean, truthful and dependable.

Mr. Hamilton, speaking in another church said the advertising men were trying to establish a closer relationship between business and religion. He expressed the view that spirituality in business was not the ability to quote from the Bible and to look sanctimonious but was the kind of life Christ exemplified and which he said can be realized by men today.

That the advertising men are fully alive to the morality of their profession and the great influence of honest advertising as a moral force in business is thus made evident. As the Asbury Park Press says in commenting on the matter, the growing realization of business men that advertising must be honest and truthful to be good business is merely an expression of the public awakening in behalf of honest methods. Under the white light of publicity dishonest practices in business are disappearing and there is a widespread effort of the people themselves to bring business up to the standards that harmonize with justice and truth. As the entire structure of business is founded upon the public confidence it will be seen the advertising men have struck the keynote of a campaign that will be more fully developed as a result of their organization.

Advertising is a contract with the public. In its highest ideal it is a statement on one side given out and emphasized as something absolutely dependable and to which the other side, the public, may attach its entire confidence and respect. When both advertisers and advertising men are controlled by the single principal of "truth" and each have in mind the principle of justice and fair dealing the value of advertising and boundless publicity will be trebled and the business world will move forward under an impulse that will go far to make itself felt as a controlling force in all the several relations of life.

"There is so much bad in the best of us, and so much good in the worst of us, that it hardly behooves any of us to knock the rest of us," said Josh Billings. The East Second street philosopher says that there is more or less truth in this utterance but the hard nuts around town seem unable to get the plain, unvarnished truth through their shells.

Whatever may be said by the opponents of James C. Calvert, we have yet to be shown wherein he has failed as an efficient and generally satisfactory county clerk.

"Under Two Flags" may be all right for the title of a book of fiction, but the up-to-date citizen of Plainfield should get on the band wagon that has but one.

DEFICIENCY IN NORMAL TEMPERATURE FOR JUNE

The deficiency from normal in the temperature for the month of June, according to the report of Weather Prophet John Neagle, was 1.5 degrees. The highest was 92 degrees on the 12th, 24th and 25th, and the lowest, 46 degrees on the third. The mean was 67.8 and the normal 69.3. The greatest daily range was 34 on the third and the least daily range, 7, on the 22d.

The highest recorded for this month in twenty-eight years was 100 in 1893 and the lowest recorded for this month in the same length of time was 39 in 1897. The total precipitation for this month was 2.67 inches and the normal for this month was 4.13 inches. The deficiency from normal was 1.46 inches and the deficiency since January 1, 1914, was 2.19 inches. The greatest precipitation in twenty-four hours was 0.64 inches on the 4th.

The greatest precipitation for this month for twenty-eight years was 10.14 inches in 1903, and the least precipitation for this month in the same period wos 1.32 inches in 1913. The greatest number of consecutive hours with precipitation was 26. The prevailing wind direction was southwest. The number of clear days was ten, number of days partly cloudy, eleven; number of days cloudy, nine. There were thunderstorms on the following dates: 7, 8, 10, 12, 15, 19, 23, 24, 28. There was fog on the 23d and 24th.

BOROUGH COURT NOTES.

Albert Sutterline, who was to have appeared in the borough court this morning in connection with the taking out of a license for a dog, appeared yiesterday afternoon instead, and adjusted the existing difficulty satisfactorily. Robert Carson, of Belmont avenue, who was sentenced to three days in the borough lockup yesterday morning because he could not see his way clear to buy a license for his dog, or to pay a fine because he did not conform with the borough ordinance in this respect, came to the conclusion yesterday afternoon that he would both pay a $3 fine in lieu of spending any further time in the lockup, and secure a dog license as well.

TWO PLAYS NET $8 FOR TUBERCULOSIS WORK

As the result of an entertainment comprising two plays, "Cinderella," and "Bluebeard," given by several children at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Cottrell on West Sixth street, last night, $8 was realized for the benefit of the local tuberculosis work. The plays were given in a creditable manner before a large audience, the young pople taking their parts exceedingly well, reflecting credit on the coach.

Those who took part in the two plays were the Misses Jean Cottrell, Jennie Fullerton, Helen Voorhees, Kathrine Martin, Augusta Clawson and Richard Fullerton, Robert Spicer and Thatcher Cottrell. During the evening a considerable sum was realized from the sale of candy.

ANNUAL PICNIC OF LOCAL TEACHERS' GRADED UNION

The annual picnic of the Plainfield Teacher's Graded Union was held yesterday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank French, of Washington avenue. About thirty-five of the primary teachers of the city were present, and a general social time was had on the lawn. Dinner was served under the trees and in the afternoon a program of vocal and instrumental music was enjoyed.

Miss Luella Harris, who was formerly soprano soloist of the First Baptist church, rendered several pleasing songs and several members of the Dutch Arms Band entertained with instrumental selections. Those who took part were, Lawrence French, Elmer French, E. D. Young, William Briggs, Henry Kinney and Millard McAfee.

MISS PEACOCK GIVES AN INFORMAL DANCE

Miss Dorothy Peacock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Peacock, of West Seventh street, gave an informal party and dance at her home last evening. There were about twenty-four guests from this city, Bound Brook and Bayonne. The lawn was attractively decorated with Japanese lanterns and flags. Dancing, a feature of the evening, was enjoyed on the large veranda until a late hour. Music was furnished by a talking machine.

During an intermission refreshments were served, after which the dancing was continued. The out of town guests included Miss Raphael Smith and Preston Smith, of Bayonne, and Miss Anna Hastings and her brother, David Hastings, of Bound Brook.

ANNUAL CAMPFIRE.

The annual campfire of the Men's Bible Class Conference of the First Baptist church will be held tomorrow evening in the field at the corner of Grove street and Interhaven avenue. The affair will start at 6:30.

VOTES FOR WOMEN

Woman Suffrage in Denmark.

Copenhagen Denmark, June 9.—Woman suffrage is to be enacted in Denmark, and all property qualifications for electors of members of the Upper House abolished by a constitutional amendment bill which passed the Lower House of the Danish Parliament today. The vote in favor of the measure was 102, while only six Deputies cast their votes against it. The House consists of 114 Deputies, so that only six did not participate in the vote.

Suffrage Rating in Wall Street.

Wall street, at the corner of Broad, was much more hospitably inclined towards woman suffrage at noon to-day than it was when the first meetings were held there two or three years ago. When the crowd first began to gather, it was a curious and conventionally light-minded one, but when Miss Helen Todd, of California, accompanied by other Women's Political Union workers, finished talking, the street was crowded with silent men, real men, and not office boys, who had not missed a word, who clapped vigorously and who demanded and took charge of the collection plate themselves, without waiting for the collector.

Miss Todd talked for three-quarters of an hour, setting before New York men the whole California situation, the fight the women made there for suffrage, the kind of men who helped and the kind of men who hindered, and, finally, what the women had done since they won.

"It was only the men of what we call the 'silk-stocking ward,' the illiterate men, and the men concerned with the vile and vicious interests of the State who voted 'No,'" Miss Todd said. "It was the average man, the intelligent man, who voted 'Yes.'"

Clearly and graphically she told the whole story, and the men who heard it listened as if they had really never quite got this woman suffrage idea before. When she had finished, the only sound, except the clapping, was a man's gruff voice, saying, "Where's the collection plate?" The crowd was liberal.

General Federation of Women's Clubs Puts Itself on Record.

On Saturday, June 13th, the greatest organization of women in the country, the General Federation of Women's Clubs, placed on record, "its earnest belief in the principle of political equality, regardless of sex." Thus 1,600,000 American women organized for social betterment through their delegates enthusiastically endorsed the principle of woman suffrage.

Supreme Court Decision in Illinois also on June 13.

By a happy coincidence the decision of the Supreme Court of Illinois confirming the women of that State in their enjoyment of the franchise was handed down on the same day.

The fifth annual conference of mayors and municipal officials of New York State came to a close at Auburn, June 5. During the final business session, the following resolution on the question of woman suffrage in this State was adopted:

"It is the sense of this conference that the question of granting women the right to suffrage should come before the voters of this State for decision in 1915."

Press Support for Suffrage.

Mr. Betts, President of the New York State Press Convention, said in his opening address at Syracuse the other day that he was a cordial supporter of woman suffrage. Suffragists rejoice to have Mr. Betts' support.

There are no men more abreast of the times nor who form and reflect public opinion more than the editors of papers. At the New York State Press meeting in Syracuse, 52 out of 60 editors gave written guarantees of their support of woman suffrage.

The Street Railway Men's Union, of Providence, R. I., is out strong for the passage of the act now before the General Assembly, giving women the right to vote for presidential elections. In a letter sent to Senator Wilbour, the railway men say: "Perhaps it would be well to inform you that this question of equal political rights is an established doctrine on which 90,000 members of our organization stand indivisible."

Carpenters' Union of Yonkers, N. Y. Enrolled.

Yonkers has a taste for unanimity. Recently every member of the Carpenters' Union enrolled as an active suffragist. This week the Progressive Club held a large and enthusiastic meeting which was addressed by three suffrage speakers. The first spoke on "Child Labor," the second on "A Woman in the Home," and the third, "Would You Like to be a Woman?" So searching was the last question that every man present signed a slip to support the amendment for enfranchising women in 1915.

Commercial Travellers Support Suffrage.

The Grand Council, United Commercial Travellers in session at Jamestown, N. Y., carried without opposition a resolution supporting Woman Suffrage. There is no class of men who have better reason to appreciate the importance of good housekeeping than travelling salesmen, and it is no matter for wonder that through their organization they support the giving of political weight to the housekeepers of the Nation.

Missouri a Campaign State.

The 23 000 signatures necessary for the Woman Suffrage petition has been obtained by the Missouri Equal Suffrage League. This means that Missouri swings into line this year with Nebraska Montana, Nevada and North and South Dakota as a campaign State. The work of collecting the signatures has been particularly arduous, the State President having traveled many hundreds of miles, even by farm wagons and by stages over poor roads. It is expected that the west will be solid Equal Suffrage territory in time to help the campaigns in the East in 1915.

One of the interesting events of the month past was the return of Dr. Anna Howard Shaw from Rome, where she attended the International Council of Women, bringing with her the good news that delegates representing at least 7,000,000 women of 28 nations passed unanimously a strongly worded suffrage resolution. "Suffrage is settled once for all with the International Council of Women," says Dr. Shaw.

Suffrage Wedge in South.

From N. Y. Evening Post of June 24.

A State suffrage league, composed of five city leagues and several members at large, and a suffrage organization of over 225 members in Columbia have been formed in South Carolina. This is the surprising news which Mrs. Henry Martin, president of the Columbia League, and prime mover in the cause in her State, brings on her visit to New York. The formation of suffrage leagues has become so much a matter of course throughout the north and the west that it is interesting to meet Mrs. Martin and hear her tell of what work for the cause means in the South, especially in South Carolina, where, 'till three months ago there was supposed to be no sentiment in favor of votes for women.

"It was on Saint Patrick's Day in the morning that four women, besides myself met at my house to begin our study of the suffrage question," explained Mrs. Martin. "I had been led to the study of the question of equal suffrage through a knowledge of the corruption in our State. Our Red Light bill failed to pass, our Compulsory Education bill also failed and the Governor of South Carolina is making himself notorious as a liberator of criminals. He has been known to free twenty men convicted of the most terrible crimes, in one day.

People Were Agitated.

"Women read about these things and remark, 'How awful!' and stop there. It seems to me that we have a greater responsibility in the matter. The good men of the State are in the minority; try as they may, they cannot bring about drastic reforms. They need the help of women.

"You cannot imagine the sensation which the meeting of five women at my house to discuss suffrage made. The newspapers had editorials condemning us, ministers denounced us, and the whole community was much aroused over the matter. But the climax came when Mrs. B. B. Valentine, president of the Virginia Suffrage Association, came to town and held a public meeting.

"We invited every one to come and had about three hundred present to hear her. It was an enthusiastic meeting. Women and men asked questions after her speech was closed and the women met with her next morning. The second meeting resulted in the formation of the suffrage league in Columbia, which began with a membership of fifty.

The Democratic policy of Pennsylvania now not only pledges itself to submit the woman suffrage amendment to the voters (as it and all other parties in the State did last year), but it squarely endorses the principle as follows:

"The denial of the right of suffrage to the women of our State has aroused a deep feeling that they are deprived of those equal rights to which, as American citizens, we believe they are entitled. We favor an immediate referendum on this important question."

Pennsylvania Democrats and Progressives are now pledged to equal suffrage. Next month the Republicans will be heard from.

June 27 a delegation of women from the National American Woman Suffrage Association presented their petitions in Washington. Speaker Clark's words to them were these:

"For one thousand years, men have been trying to run the world and some thnik they have made a bad mess of it. I hope that when you women run it you'll improve on it. I think woman suffrage is inevitable. The only question you folks have to consider is how most expeditiously to get what you are after. You can get it quicker by the States than by Congress.

"In some places there is a great prejudice against woman suffrage. You want to remember one thing: that if you lose the fight, you are out for years. Whenever the subject comes up for a vote in Missouri, I am going to vote for woman suffrage. This is not because all women are fitted to vote and I may add that I would not like to say that all men are fitted to vote. If you ever do vote, and I think it is coming certainly, I hope you will vote for the best principles and the best men."

You Can Play The Piano as Well as anyone

TOMORROW, or the day after, you can have a piano in your home, that you, yourself, can play. You can play on it all the music you are fond of—all the dear, old, "live forever" tunes—anything from the classies and everything of the Cohan, Lauder, Bert Williams and Irving Berlin nature. With a little practice you can play this piano better than can any pianist you know—with never a mistake and with an expressiveness and feeling which even your most critical musical friends will admire.

This wonderful piano which will do so much for you, is

The Stroud Pianola

Price, $550

Better than any player-piano, sold by any other music-house, at any price

There is but one Pianola. It is made exclusively by The Aeolian Company in the following models only—The Steinway Pianola, The Steck Pianola, The Wheelock Pianola, The Stuyvesant Pianola, The Stroud Pianola and the magnificent Weber Pianola.

The artistic supremacy of The Pianola is recognized by all the world's greatest musical authorities. The Pianola dominates the player-piano markets of every civilized nation on the globe. Its supremacy is so absolute that to say The Stroud is a genuine Pianola is sufficient to establish its superiority over any player-piano, regardless of price, sold by any other music house.

THIS WEEK, The Stroud Pianola may be purchased on a FIRST PAYMENT of $15, balance on convenient amounts weekly or monthly.

RUSSELL-CARPENTER TEAM IS CLIMBING

The Russell-Carpenter team of the Dunellen Presbyterian Two-team Bowling Tourney, went from a seventh place tie to a tie for fifth place in the contests, last night, by winning three of the four matches they played. Both women bowled well and the ont they lost was very close to the last frame. The Smith-Smith duo went to .250 per cent. by breaking even in last night's encounter and the Parker-Strickland team retained the same average.

The first place tie will probably be broken at the next meeting and one team will have the sole claim to the top rung. The scores and summary:

JOHNSON WILL NOT EQUAL 1913 RECORD

It will be impossible for Walter Johnson to amass as high a percentage of victories this season as he did last, but indications point to the Chalmers car winner of 1913 equalling one of his records of that campaign—namely, pitching more complete games than any other major league artillerist. Last year Sir Walter went the route in 29 controversies. Tyler, the Braves southpaw, running him a close race for the honor of being a sticker by finishing 28 of the games in which he had been his manager's choice.

In the first ten weeks of the 1914 campaign Johnson twirled 14 complete contests, no other major league pitcher doing as well. Dauss, of the Tigers, and Caldwell, of the Yankees, each have lasted from start to finish 11 times, while these men—Christy Mathewson, of the Giants Larry Cheney, of the Cubs, and Grover Alexander, of the Phillies, have rid their systems of 10 complete contests.

Ray Caldwell, of the Yankees, has the unique record of having finished every game he has started—and his starts have numbered 11. Joe Wood, of the Red Sox, lasted through both games in which Manager Bill Carrigan selected him to officiate, and Kahler, of the Naps; Luque, of the Braves, and Kantlehner, of the Pirates, went from start to finish in the lone contests in which they were picked by their leaders to subdue the enemy. Kahler and Luque lost their combats and were sent to minor league teams, Kantlehner won his game, but a lame arm since has kept him idle.

Johnson has a "finishing" average of .933—that is his percentage of games in which he has lasted when he has been Clark Griffith's original pitching nominee. The Senator would have a perfect record like Caldwell, had his commander not pulled him off the slab in the game against Detroit, on May 25, after the Senators had plied up an eight-run lead in seven innings. All told, there are 29 major leaguers (17 of them Johnsonites, 12 of them Tenerites, who have "finishing" averages of .600 or better. The high mark—1000—is claimed by Caldwell, Wood, Kahler, Kantlehner and Luque; Johnson follows, with .933; Pfeffer, of the Superbas, a newcomer to the fast set, has .857; Christy Mathewson, .833; Dick Rudolph, of the Braves, .818 ,and Urban Faber, of the White Sox, .800.

Nine of the men who have records of .600 or better are southpaws. The list follows:

NEWARK SPRINTERS HERE.

Three of Newark's fastest sprinters have entered in the short runs at Parker Field next Saturday. Joe Higgins, representing the First Regiment, and Jack Graham, of the Prudential Athletic League, will run in the 200-yard dash and they will also enter in the 100-yard novice. Alfred Walthers, another Prudential athlete, will run in the short dash.

S. S. GAMES SATURDAY.

As there are no games scheduled in the Sunday-School League next Saturday, the teams will play independent teams in the morning. Hope will lineup against the strong Saurer aggregation on Second street and the Monroe team will meet the Park Avenue Baptists on the Clinton avenue field. Both games will start at 10 o'clock.

WEBER IN TWO MEETS ON INDEPENDENCE DAY

Billy Weber, of the Elizabeth Y. M. C. A., who ran here in the local Y. M. C. A. marathon two years ago, will be a busy man on the Fourth of July, when he will compete in two meets in one afternoon.

He will run at New Brunswick early in the afternoon and then come to this city by automobile to take part in the monster meet at Parker Field. Weber is well-known in this vicinity as a long distance runner and will go after the first prizes in the five-mile open. He recently won the 800-yard run at the Metropolitan junior championships in New York.

Bernie Castles, a teammate of Weber, who finished third in the local marathon, will also enter the local meet, and Bert Holden, the Elizabeth association runner, will be here.

PRINCE MAXIMILIAN.

Strong Party Wants Austria's Throne For Dead Duke's Son.

A strong party is being organized to push forward young Prince Maximilian, son of the murdered Archduke Ferdinand as pretender to the Austrian throne. The Archduke Charles, the recognized heir to the throne, may thus have to fight for his prerogative. The position of the young prince is a strange one. His father, the murdered archduke, was heir to the throne of the aged Emperor Francis Joseph. His mother, the Duchess of Hohenberg, was the archduke's morganatic wife. Before their marriage the archduke swore that he would never try to confer royal rank on her or to make any childen they might have heirs to the throne. Under the law of the House of Hapsburg, Prince Maximilian is effectively barred from the throne.

WOMAN SHOT DEAD IN DOCTOR'S OFFICE

Bullet Pierces Her Heart as She Leaves.

Freeport, N. Y., July 1.—Mrs. William D. Bailey, thirty-six years old, wife of a New York city manufacturer, who lives at Hempstead, was shot through the heart and instantly killed in the office of Dr. Edwin Carman, who lives in an attractive colonial home in Merrick road here.

Dr. Carman said on calling aid that the shot was fired through a window He pointed to a broken pane of glass in the window nearest the door at which Mrs. Bailey stood when she received the fatal bullet.

Persons who examined the window said that a wire screen covers the window on the outside, but that a close view of the screen did not reveal any bullet hole.

The doctor, who was showing Mrs. Bailey to the door when the shot was fired and who immediately called up the police, has told his story to Roland B. Lamb, village president and chief of police; also to County Prosecutor Lewis Smith. In addition several county detectives are on the ground and at a late hour last night Justice of the Peace Corydon Norton, acting as coroner, began an investigation into the murder.

The mystery was further increased when Bailey, the husband of the murdered woman, arrived here and told the police that he did not know that his wife had gone to the doctor's office. He was greatly surprised to learn that Mrs. Bailey was accustomed to call on the doctor occasionally for treatment.

Mrs. Bailey was an unusually attractive woman She was of light complexion, with golden hair, and always dressed in excellent taste. She was about five feet six inches tall and of good figure.

ALL-GAS KITCHENS GIVE IDEAL SERVICE

With a Cabinet Range, a Circulating Water Heater and a Reflex Light in the kitchen, much of the unwelcome part of housework is done away with.

How much easier it is to do the cooking, especially in summer, when you can get your fire ready simply by turning a valve and striking a match. You don't have to bother with filling the stove with fuel; it's there in unlimited quantity to be used just as you want it. And gas costs only 90 cents per 1,000 cubic feet.

How convenient it is, too, to have all the hot water you need without being compelled to build a fire! A Circulating Water Heater gives you all the hot water you want for all purposes. And when it is in use the gas HEATS THE WATER WITHOUT HEATING THE HOUSE.

Hundreds of houses and apartments are being constructed with All-Gas Kitchens. It's the modern, sanitary way. We can equip your house with an All-Gas Kitchen and it won't be so expensive, either. Call, write or telephone and let us tell you all about it.

A Talk With the Merchants of Plainfield

At a meeting held Monday evening it was voted that the stores close at 1 o'clock Saturdays during the month of August; as most of the employes prefer a full holiday instead of half a day it has been decided by most of our merchants that the local stores close all day Thursday during the month of August.

To make this a success it is necessary that all merchants co-operate—and we take this method of asking YOU to join in this welfare movement.

Let's get together—say YOU will close your store—never mind the other fellow—if he is the right kind of merchant he will fall in line.

Co-operate with employes and you will find the shopping public to co-operate with you.

EPWORTH LEAGUE SILVER JUBILEE

Buffalo, N. Y., July 1—The eyes of hundreds of thousands of enthusiastic Epworth Leaguers throughout the land will be turned toward Buffalo during the remainder of this week. The occasion will be the international convention of the organization and the celebration of its silver jubilee. The gathering had its formal opening today and the ensuing proceedings will be the theme of conversation in Methodist homes throughout America.

For nearly a year the local churches and church societies have been preparing for the convention. The advance guard of visitors arriving last night and today are loud in their praise of the arrangements made for their accommodation and entertainment. Every arriving train is being met at the station by white-capped members of the reception committee, who escort the visitors to the quarters assigned to them. Hotels and boarding-houses are booked to the limit of their capacity and many private homes have been opened for the entertainment of the delegates. Nearly every large city of the United States and Canada will have representatives at the gathering. It is estimated that the attendance will set a new high record, as the proximity of Niagara Falls is expected to attract many additional visitors.

Convention headquarters were opened today in the Delaware Avenue M. E. church. The official program of the convention covers four days of song and service meetings, but the diversions and instructions will carry the gathering over a day or two longer. Open sessions are to be held each morning and evening in Elmwood Music Hall, the Broadway Auditorium and the Plymouth M. E. church. In these three places the same addresses will be given at the same time by different speakers. In numerous other halls and churches department conferences will be held each afternoon.

Bishop William Burt will preside at the opening session and Bishop W. F. McDowell, of Chicago, will preside at later sessions. Other notables churchmen who have accepted invitations to participate in the convention proceedings are Bishop Berry, of Philadelphia; Bishop Briston, of Quebec; Bishop Hughes, of San Francisco; Rev. Dr. B. Bentley, of Calcutta, India, and Rev. Dr. William Fitzgerald, of London, secretary of the Wesley Guild of Great Britain.

One of the leading features of the convention will be the patriotic parade and demonstration to be held next Saturday in honor of Independence Day. The delegates to the convention and the members of the league in Buffalo and vicinity will form at McKinley monument and march to The Front, where a program of patriotic exercises will be carried out. It is expected that William J. Bryan, Secretary of State, will be present to deliver the oration of the day.

One of the public sessions of the convention will be devoted to a commemoration of the founding of the Epworth League, which was formed in Cleveland twenty-five years ago this year. Prior to the organization of the league in Cleveland there were a number of organizat'ons of young people in the Methodist Episcopal church. During the gathering for the purpose of consolidation there was much discussion as to the most appropriate name for the new organization. Delegates of each of the old ones wanted their name retained. During the addresses one of the speakers suggested Epworth League, in memory of the little English village in which John and Charles Wesley, the founders of Methodistism, were born. The suggestion was adopted unanimously and immediately. Since its organization the league has continued to grow steadily in membership and influence. Today it has branches in almost every city and town of any importance in the United States and Canada. The league's function and place in the Methodist church is the same as the Baptist Young People's Union in the Baptist church and the Christian Endeavor in Congregational and Presbyterian churches.

The international conventions of the Epworth League are held every four years. The convention in 1910 was held in Seattle and attracted a large attendance of delegates and visitors. The league maintains permanent headquarters in Chicago. The president is Bishop Frank M. Bristol, of Omaha. Wilbur F. Sheridan, D. D., of Chicago, is the general secretary, and Edwin H. Forkel, also of Chicago, is the treasurer of the organization.

MANY DIE IN MOSTAR RIOTS

200 Are Killed When Serbs Are Attacked.

FIGHT FROM HOUSETOPS

Croats Seek to Avenge Assassination of Archduke by Force—Town Is Burning, and Its Complete Destruction Is Feared.

Budapest, July 1.—Two hundred persons were killed at Mostar, the capital of Herzegovina, in fierce riots between Mohammedan Croats and Serbs, which grew out of the assassination of the Archduke Francis Ferdinand and his wife, the Duchess of Hohenburg, at Sarajevo on Sunday.

The Croats, according to the dispatches received here, were infuriated at the assassination and stormed the Servian quarter of the town in thousands, carrying banners inscribed, "Death to the Murderous Serbs!"

The women and children of the Servian quarter took refuge inside the houses, while the men, many of whom had fought in the recent Balkan war on the side of Servia, attempted a defense. The Serbs, well armed, took up a position on the outskirts of the quarter and disposed men along the housetops.

As the Croats approached the sharpshooters began firing at them from their positions on the housetops and killed many of the invaders. The attacking party finally fell back, and the Serbs ran out of the quarter and pursued them as they scattered and fled through the streets.

As soon as word that the Serbs had repulsed the attacking party and were taking the offensive outside of their own quarter was circulated thousands of Croats who had not taken part in the first attack rushed to the aid of their fellows.

Fighting followed in the principal streets over much of the town. The Serbs had barricaded themselves in business buildings owned by their countrymen and resisted for hours all efforts of the Croats, assisted by mobs of Austrians, to drive the Serbs back to their own quarters. The Serbs continued their firing from the windows and roofs, and the Croats and Austrians attempted to dislodge them. There were many hand to hand fights on the roofs between Serb and Croat, in which the Serbs generally came out victorious. Sabers and bayonets were used freely.

Fire Buildings.

Unable to dislodge the Serbs by other means, the Croats set fire to the buildings in which the enemy had taken up positions. The police and firemen then set themselves to fighting the flames, while the two parties battled on. The authorities were entirely unable to cope with the rioting and made little attempt to stop it after it had once become general.

The fires spread rapidly. The Serbs, now dislodged frof their positions, were driven back finally to their own quarters, where the battle was renewed and the attacking Croats set fire to many more buildings.

Mostar dispatches tell of reports received in the Herzegovinian city that Mohammedans in many towns of Bosnia and Herzegovina are arming themselves for attacks on the Serbs and the latter are preparing to resist. Minor rioting already has occurred in other towns, according to Mostar reports.

Mostar is a town of about 17,000 population, about half of which is Mohammedan, on the river Narenta, eighty-one miles southwest of Sarajevo, the Bosnian capital in which the archduke and duchess were assassinated, and on the railway from Sarajevo to Ragusa, the Dalmatian port.

GLASS OF SALTS CLEANS KIDNEYS

If Your Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers You, Drink Lots of Water.

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which removes the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this, also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.—Adv.

By GEORGE RANDOLPH CHESTER

Copyright, 1913, by the Bobbs-Merrill Co.

CHAPTER VII.

Among the Dougalbobbers.

AT the same moment in which Wallingford strode down the ravine, with Toad Jessop panting at his heels and still watching the marvel of that magic city sprouting its domes and spires against the sky, Blackie Daw, with a cynical smile beneath his inky mustache, sat across the table from Ralph Dougalbobber in a New York hotel bar.

"But you won't even investigate these remarkable mining stocks," Mr. Dougalbobber was expostulating.

"Quite so, my son," returned Blackie, grinning. "I used to sell them."

Mr. Dougalbobber spread his knees very handily around two legs of the table and arched his feet together, while he scratched one broad, red, outstanding ear in perplexity; then he ran his fingers through his muddy brown hair.

"But you won't even look at this marvelous assay," he again expostulated.

"Quite so, my son," returned Blackie, grinning. "I used to buy them."

"You can get in now at 45," offered Dougalbobber enticingly. "Last week it was 40."

"Quite so, my son," returned Blackie, grinning. "I used to tilt them too."

At about the identical moment in which Blackie lighted a triumphant cigarette, after offering one to the confused and awkward Mr. Dougalbobber, his friend Wallingford was still awaiting his answer, but when No. 3 actually slowed down, red haired Alec came running from the office, the cover of which he had gained by making a detour of the hill, and panted up to Wallingford with:

"Yes."

"Thanks," returned Wallingford, and then, as if in afterthought, "I think I'll give a share of your stock with every house."

"We'll make it to you at 45," offered Alec promptly.

"The operating company?" asked Wallingford.

Alec's ears almost perked forward. "How did you know there were two companies?" he demanded in a panic.

"Saw the state records of incorporation," explained Wallingford, and then in a much smoother tone: "You see, these few shares are to give the townspeople a greater interest in the mine, and for that purpose they should be in the operating company. Do you object to parting with some of them?"

Alec considered the matter doubtfully. The train thundered down to the platform and stopped to a mere crawl.

"No," he said hesitatingly, and then again, with sudden decision: "No! make you those at 85."

"Make it 80 and I'll go you," offered Wallingford.

"I am," answered Wallingford, mounting the lower step. Toad was already on the platform with a bag and suit case. "Eighty?"

Alec still stood in indecision. The conductor, muttering curses, waved his hand and jumped upon the steps of the car ahead. The engine gave an angry puff, and the train, which had not come to a complete stop, began to pick up its momentum. Wallingford leaned far out from the steps.

"Make it 80!" he shouted.

The miracle happened—two miracles, in fact, one when J. Rufus Wallingford erected his mushroom city in the twinkling of an eye, as it were, from a job lot of portable houses that he and Blackie Daw had obtained at 10 cents on the dollar and the other when he induced a big press association to "fall for" his scheme of gratuitous advertising. Through this publicity the wonderful Kimbely mine became a household word overnight, and the astonished Brother Ralph, who had been waging a desperately uneven battle for subscribers in the effete east, suddenly wired frantically to his brothers to increase their capitalization, as he was running out of stock. Immediately after sending this telegram he placed his derby between his ears and followed the cleavage of his nose in the haunt most infested by Blackie Daw.

"The Kimbely mine is just doubling its capitalization," he proudly twanged.

"Good work," approved Blackie. "There's no reason why you shouldn't keep right on printing the stock as long as they'll buy it."

"They'll buy it as long as they have such proof as we have of a fivefold profit," enthused the eastern Dougalbobber. "It's worth 55 now. Have you seen in the papers how Dougalville was built overnight?"

"I invented that trick myself," stated Blackie complacently. "It's the greatest mine selling scheme on earth, and I lost a fortune by not patenting it."

Brother Ralph was working no harder than they were in Dougalville, however. Laborers flocked there in shoals and were either put into the mines or chased down the track to the jeers of the rapidly growing populace. Wallingford, for the time being, did nothing but sell houses—for cash when he could, on instalments when he must. For $700 he could sell a house and lot that cost him $30 and a share of stock that had cost him $80. He obtained copies of the charter, constitution and bylaws of the Kimbely Mine company, and every time he read them he frowned over just one puzzling problem; then he went out and mingled anew with his tenantry, for every householder would be a voter in the approaching stockholders' meeting. He got a grocer, a butcher, a baker and other enterprising merchants to buy bungalows and open shops; a lawyer and four doctors—allopath, homeopath, osteopath and horse—cast their lots with him, and carpenters, bricklayers and stonemasons fairly swarmed to the place.

Even in the early days, before the inrush began, Wallingford occupied himself very fully by spending as much time as possible in and about the mine, although nearly always under the watchful eye of one of the Dougalbobbers. He noted one very peculiar thing—no chemist was employed, and nobody interested seemed at all curious regarding the quality of the ore. When he wanted to take some of it away to show prospective citizens, however, they evinced a sudden jealous regard for it and positively refused to let him have any. He obtained some, though, through the efforts of Toad Jessop, who brought it away a lump at a time. It looked like any other iron ore, so far as Wallingford could see, but he was very curious about it.

When the influx began Wallingford became the patriarch of the town, its founder and father, its chief benefactor and adviser, and in the first two weeks Dougalville would have elected him unanimously to be president of the United States. At the end of two weeks, however, Big Bill Slammet came to town, with one wife, six children, three dogs and $7, and sought opportunities for investment. Big Bill busying himself on the investment proposition, Mrs. Slammet, a woman as faded and decrepit as Big Bill was flamboyant and hearty, came to Wallingford and obtained a house on sheer defenselessness. Big Bill, having found the only easily obtainable form of investment in the town to be whisky, invested his $7 in that commodity for the use and benefit of himself and various sundry kindred spirits. Shortly upon the heels of this he discovered Wallingford and immediately made a speech.

He was from Cinderburg, Big Bill was, and he knew this man Wallingford of old. He was a common grafter, this J. Rufus person, one who robbed widows and orphans and honest laboring men like him out of their hard earned money. In Cinderburg Wallingford had organized a concern known as the Bang Sun Engine company, which company was a fraud and a swindle from beginning to end. Big Bill fairly frothed at the mouth in telling of the iniquities of Wallingford, and as he had a good corner just between the Miners' Club saloon and the Merchants' cafe, he had a rapidly growing and highly gleeful audience.

Wallingford and Toad Jessop, taking an evening constitutional in the pleasant silence that comes to friends of long standing who have no question of each other, came upon the orator in due time and were just about to join the group when Wallingford heard his own name and drew Toad quickly into the shadow of a high pile of beer cases at the side of the Merchants' cafe, where he listened a moment.

The Dougalbobbers hurried into view just then and stopped at the edge of the crowd to listen. Toad ran out and brought them back to the shadow of the beer cases.

"You have a bunch of hired wallopers, haven't you?" asked Wallingford.

"Well, we don't call 'em that," returned Frank hesitantly. "They're our watchmen."

"Where are they?"

"Wherever the most excitement is," returned Frank, with a grin. "I reck on that's right here. I saw two or three of 'em as we circled the herd."

"I want to borrow them."

"I should say you would," responded Alec. And, stepping over to the edge of the crowd, he lifted up his shrill nasal voice with:

"Soak 'im, boys! Soak 'im! Soak 'im! Soak 'im!"

The response was instantaneous. A raw potato hit Big Bill Slammet in the teeth. He turned, full of rage, to discover the vandal if he could, when from the other edge of the group of his beloved hearers, a clod of raw dirt caught him in the ear. Big Bill considered that situation for only one second before he decided to step down from his nail keg and seek some more secluded spot. As he edged through the crowd somebody poked him in the back of the neck with several hard knuckles. Big Bill started to run, and the nearest open space being the railroad track he made for that and headed due southeast, followed by six well muscled experts in the art of personal encounter, who pelted him with rocks at every jump until the darkness swallowed him up forever, whereupon his wife took in washing and raised her family and was happy ever after.

Immediately after the exodus of Big Bill, Wallingford's new found friends, the Dougalbobbers, in huge admiration escorted him to his own portable bungalow.

"We didn't know you was a wise William, too," said Alec, with a little laugh, as Wallingford produced a bottle and glasses and cigars. "If we'd 'a' known that we'd 'a' had our wallopers, as you call 'em, look out for you, and this never would have happened."

"You have to watch for these red necks," agreed Frank, smiling and looking Wallingford squarely in the eye for the first time in his life. "Just one of 'em's liable to upset your whole game any minute. You don't want to give 'em a chance to even cough inside your town. Come over to our office tomorrow at train time and we'll show you how we handle 'em."

A Raw Potato Hit Big Bill.

A sudden idea hit Wallingford, and the frowning crease that had been steadily in his brow for two weeks disappeared as if by magic. He chuckled, his broad chest heaving and his big shoulders shaking, his eyes closing and his round, pink face wreathing itself in a smile, which, as an evidence of friendly understanding, the Dougalbobber brothers saw with delight.

"You must have had a lot of experience," suggested Wallingford, and chuckled again over the splendid solution he had found for his secret problem.

The brothers exchanged smiles of comradeship.

"We've got it down to a science," boasted Frank. "You see, we're specialized. We do nothing but iron mines, and we know how. We figure right from the beginning that most likely a mine is no good, but if it isn't we don't want to know it. So we never fuss around with the ore except to dig it out. When we have nearly all the stock sold we slip some ore to the smelters, and what they tell us after, the actual reduction is worth more than all the assays in the world."

The brows of both the brothers darkened, and their ears turned redder.

Practical Fashion Hints

Here we have a boys' jumper suit, with unusually short trousers, and, a short middy blouse which slips on over the head. Mercerized cotton, poplin, khaki, duck or linen may be used with this design if the suit is intended for summer wear; also a thin serge or one of the mannish mixtures. These cottons come in several shades.

Two of the most favored colors for boys this spring are medium blue and light brown. These colors are usually used in the trousers and a white blouse is worn, having a touch of the brown or blue in the collar or cuffs. If the trousers of this suit were made of brown or blue cotton poplin and the blouse of white, a narrow brown or blue linen soutache braid could be used to edge collar and cuffs and the bottom of the blouse; by way of finishing, a knot of blue or red silk could be added at the throat.

This suit (8190) comes in three sizes, 2, 4 and 6. For a boy of 4 the suit requires 1⅞ yards of 36-inch material.

This is a Perfect Pattern.

Be sure to give right size, passing the tape around the widest part of the breast, well up under the arms. It may be obtained by filling out the coupon and enclosing 15 cents in stamps or coin to the Pattern Department of this paper.

VARIETY OF STITCHES TO PRODUCE HARMONIOUS EFFECT

While the names of the various stitches required in embroidery work may appear formidable to the beginner, she need have no misgivings as to her ability to soon learn and apply them to any of the 160 beautiful designs contained in the Imperial Pattern outfit now being distributed by the Press.

In this outfit are included instructions which are illustrated and enable the learner to easily master all the different kinds of stitches that are used, among which are the Outline, Chain, Seeding, Cat, Buttonhole, Couching, Satin Eyelet Work, Wallachin, Embroidery, Cross, French Knots, Fagotting, Solid Kensington and Roman Cut Work. Every woman who does home work can, after a little practice, manufacture her own embroidery. She can apply her skill to the ornamentation of many articles of her own clothing that hitherto she has always worn without this exquisite medium of decoration.

Just at the present time there is a rush for the Imperial Pattern Packets at the Press office which are handed out for 48 cents and one coupon, and mailed for 5 cents extra, so the girl who intends to do embroidery should lose no time in getting this outfit, which, if bought in the regular way would cost considerable more.

BAN ON PHOSPHORUS MATCHES.

Washington, D. C., July 1—A law placing a prohibitive tax on the manufacture and sale in the United States of matches containing white phosphorus became effective today. The law is a result of investigations carried on in this and other countries and which established the fact that the health of the workers in match factories was much impaired by handling the white phosphorus. So far as the American match factories are concerned the coming into operation of a new law will have little effect, as practically all of the factories discontinued the use of the dangerous substance some time ago.

NEEDLEWORK

THREE SMART DESIGNS FOR EMBROIDERING LITTLE BAGS.

Bags are so useful that they have become really an essential feature in dress. Bits of ribbon, silk, velvet or linen may be utilized in making these attractive bags, which are often made of material matching the gown in color, of a contrasting color or of white. These bags are distinctly different, affording a variety in shape as well as design. The bag at the top of the illustration is 10 by 7 inches with a flap 10 by 4½ inches. The edge of this flap should be heavily padded then buttonholed and the design may be developed in solid work and eyelets. This pattern, 14424, also includes a cutting pattern and design for a bag 5½ by 6½ inches.

Made of black velvet and embroidered in gold and old blue, this design, 14423, would make a very handsome bag. The design in this case should not be padded but developed in slanted over-and-over stitch. It is 9 by 9½ inches and may be made of linen.

Solid work and eyelets may be used to develop bag 14422, which is 5½ by 6½ inches. Two designs are contained in this pattern. Guaranteed, hot-iron transfers will be supplied for 10 cents each.

Some Cookery Suggestions

SERVING STRING BEANS.

STRING beans served with a butter and milk sauce are nice when they are young and succulent, but they become monotonous when sent to the table in this form too often. Owing to their nutritive qualities they make an excellent substitute for meat, especially in the summer, when too much of this is not wholesome.

Boiled butter beans, served with sliced tomatoes and savory balls, are excellent. The balls are made of breadcrumbs, minced parsley, pepper, salt and a grate of lemon. Bind with milk or egg.

Savory and Nourishing.

String Beans With Sauce.—Take one quart beans, string and cut small; lay in cold water and boil thirty-five or forty minutes, uncovered. Drain and add one cupful hot milk, one teaspoonful butter and one teaspoonful flour rubbed together, seasoning to taste; boil two minutes.

String Bean Salad.—Take small, tender beans of uniform size. String and wash in cold water; then cook in boiling salted water, uncovered and rapidly, for fifteen minutes. When tender turn out into a colander and rinse in cold water. Let dry and put into the ice chest until you are ready to make the salad. Macerate them with French dressing. Arrange a bed of crisp lettuce leaves in the salad bowl and place the beans in the center.

Flavored With Parsley.

String Beans In Parsley Sauce.—Take some beans, string them and place in boiling salted water. Boil for twenty minutes. If the beans are young and fresh they are served in the same manner as green peas, but should they have become a little old the skins should be removed after boiling and the beans placed in some nicely prepared parsley or plain white sauce.

An Odd Combination.

String Beans and Onions.—Take some beans, string them and boil whole in plenty of water, with salt to taste. When done, drain them dry. In the meantime cut one or more onions into thin slices lengthwise. Put them in a frying pan with a lump of butter and keep stirring till they are a golden color. Then add the French beans, with pepper and salt to taste, and toss the whole for ten minutes, adding the least drop of stock and a very little vinegar or lemon juice. Serve hot.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

The Strawberry Shortcake Birthday Party.

In Front of Beatrice Was a Big Shortcake.

JACK and Evelyn had been hunting all day for wild strawberries and had found a great many.

"We will have quite enough for breakfast, won't we?" asked daddy.

"Yes," replied Jack; "I really think we will have enough for a strawberry shortcake for lunch too."

"That's fine," said daddy. "There is nothing much better than a strawberry shortcake made out of wild strawberries. I heard of a little girl the other day who had a strawberry shortcake birthday party."

"A strawberry shortcake birthday party!" repeated Evelyn.

"It was time for Beatrice's birthday. In two more days it would come, and her mother and daddy thought they would give her a birthday party. So they invited all her little friends. Beatrice's little friends got up quite early one morning and picked lots and lots of wild strawberries. These they gave to Beatrice's mother. Then Beatrice's mother made the most delicious strawberry shortcake with whipped cream on the top.

"They played games of all sorts, and then they had supper on the lawn. First they had delicious creamed chicken with stewed potatoes. Then they had lettuce salad. But next came the treat. In front of Beatrice was placed a big shortcake made with wild strawberries, and around it was a wreath of green myrtle with candles in the wreath.

"Beatrice clapped her hands with joy. The bright red strawberries with the whipped cream on top made the cake look like beautiful sea foam. Around it were the lovely lights of the different colored candles.

"'Now, be very careful in eating the shortcake,' said Beatrice's mother, 'for in some parts of the cake you will find several hard things.'

"'Oh, what, mother?' A ring?' shouted Beatrice.

"'Just wait and see,' replied her mother, and just at that moment Beatrice cried, 'I have something!' But, oh, how they all did laugh when Beatrice brought forth a large white button!

"There were lots of things to be found, though. There was a little ring with a blue stone in it, a bright silver thimble, a little gold heart, a tiny silver pig and a wee wax doll.

"And such fun as they all had! But best of all the party was the strawberry shortcake which Beatrice's mother had made with the wild strawberries Beatrice's little friends had picked."

BEAD NECKLACES

STRANDS OF AMBER POPULAR.

Unstrung Specimens May Be Purchased and Combined In Schemes to Suit the Individual Taste—Ribbon Used With Semiprecious Jewels.

The popularity of beads as accessories to smart costumes has been one of the developments of the season's novelties. Any woman who has been able to discover a startling new combination or unearth a rare set of beads has been the envied of her little circle.

One very charming feature of this fad is that the bead sets may be restrung to suit the wearer. If a special combination to match the costume is desired two or more suitable strings of beads may be purchased and be rearranged to suit the taste and color requirements of the costume.

A great variety of unstrung beads may be purchased in the shops, and some women are clever enough to make beads of their own. The scented rose beads are especially popular. They are made with crushed rose leaves.

AMBER AND CRYSTAL BEADS.

Some strands show the beads strung alternately, while others have alternate groups of the two hues.

One of the pretty sets is made of pink coral and cut jet beads arranged alternately. Jet combined with color, as it is in many of the necklaces, loses all hint of somberness.

One of the season's special fads is the use of beads as large as robins' eggs. These are strung in loops of fan chain lengths. They are made of wood, finished with a hard, fine glaze, and come in every color. Scarlet, yellow and green bead strings, which are usually one toned, are popular. In spite of their size the beads are very light in weight.

Italian porcelain beads, white or colored, decorated with gay floral designs, are used for entire necklaces or in combination with one toned beads that harmonize or contrast well.

Clear crystal beads, cut or plain, are used in strings of opaque beads to give a touch of gleaming lightness.

Some of the newest ribbon necklaces are simply plain long loops of velvet ribbon about an inch wide, finished with a bead tassel, fastened to the ribbon with a gilt ornament or a huge bead.

Pearl necklaces abound. Nothing shakes their popularity. Fashion sanctions the use of imitation and of any kind of simple bead. The only requirement is that a necklace shall be effective, a distinguished feature of a costume. With many costumes the necklace is the finishing touch.

The necklace illustrated here is of amber and crystal. The little amber heart and the tiny neck bow of black lace impart a quaint and individual finish to the chain.

Queries, Comment and Answers

Sporting Editor:

Query—Are motorists allowed to run through this State with their mufflers wide open?—H. F. T.

Answer—In some towns there are ordinances against this practice. The New Jersey law relating to mufflers on engines provides that municipalities can provide ordinances compelling motorists to muffle their engines while operating within the municipality.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Is there an ordinance in this city relative to the burning of soft coal? If so, why is the ice plant in the heart of the city permitted to throw out dense clouds of black smoke every day ?—E. C. S.

Answer—Such an ordinance has been agitated several times during the past few years, but nothing definite was ever accomplished.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Is there a city ordinance creating the office of fire marshal? If so, when was it adopted and who makes the appointment?—B. F. M.

Answer—There is no such thing as a fire marshal in the city of Plainfield. The chief of the department has full power as the head of the fire fighting force.

Sporting Editor:

Query—When are the dog licenses due?—H. J. T.

Answer—You should have yours by now. They are long past due.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Where is the nearest place to Plainfield where a fisherman can get boats for deep sea fishing?—B. F. L.

Answer—The best way is to go to Perth Amboy where motor boats leave daily for the fishing banks.

Sporting Editor:

Query—I am training for the five-mile road race to be held on Parker Field, July 4. In what time should I be able to cover the route in order to have some show for the prizes?—B. J. R.

Answer—If you do the stunt around thirty minutes you are going fairly well. If you can turn the trick in twenty minutes we will hand you the cup without running. The amateur record is twenty-five minutes, eight seconds, held by Kolehmainen.

Sporting Editor:

Query—What are the prices of admission to the Vailsburg bicycle track and to the Brooklyn Federal League park?—C. N. D.

Answer—Fifty cents is charged for admission to the Vailsburg track. The Brookfeds charge twenty-five cents for a bleacher seat and fifty cents for a grandstand seat. These latter prices were recently reduced from fifty and seventy-five cents respectively.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Is Asbury Park too far from Plainfield to attempt to ride it for a day's outing on a bicycle?—N. F. T.

Answer—Not if you like long distance riding. The distance is about sixty miles and if you are used to pedaling you ought to be able to cover the route in less than a day, easy riding.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Are telephone poles placed any regulation distance apart or are they placed just where they are needed?—N N.

Answer—There is no regulation distance, but as a rule they are about 100 feet apart in a city the size of Plainfield.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Will there be a canoe regatta at South Plainfield July 4?—J. H.

Answer—One was agitated, but the proposition has been abandoned.

ROD AND REEL

According to a local angler, bass, pickerel and perch are biting good at Lake Hopatcong and vicinity.

Fishermen at Ambrose Channel are having good luck these days. One man landed forty—five large fluke, each weighing five pounds or over.

Weakfish and bluefish are biting good for the first time this season, at Keyport.

A pickerel measuring thirty-four inches and weighing four and three-quarters pounds, was landed at Lake Hopatcong yesterday.

BASEBALL NOTES

In a driving finish Perry Lipe's Savannah team copped first place in the first half of the South Atlantic League season.

"Clocking" fans at the entrances to all Federal League parks is one way the National Commission has of keeping tabs on the Feds' attendance figures.

Washington's recent invasion of the West came very near putting the team on the rocks. The Senators were successful in only five of their sixteen games.

Honus Wagner, who has hit for more than .300 ever since he entered the big show, has fallen below the .300 mark this season. But everyone expects the old warrior to come back.

The Cleveland club has recalled Pitcher Morton from the Waterbury team of the Eastern Association. On his last appearance with Waterbury, Morton pitched a no-hit game and fanned fifteen batsmen.

President Lannin, of the Boston Red Sox, is very anxious to sign up his men for next season. He has succeeded already in signing Lewis, Scott, Janvrin, Rehg and Leonard to continue with the team in 1915.

Dave Robertson, the heavy hitting Southern Leaguer, is making good with the Giants. This is Dave's second trial with the McGraw crew and his clouting will probably land him a permanent berth this time.

Fred Lake's new Fitchburg team is finding the New England League race too speedy for comfort. The old big league manager's outfit has proved to be rather soft picking for the other New England League teams.

In Britton, the Musgegom Michigan State League team has a third baseman who is proving to be a sensation. Along with other brilliant achievements this season he has accepted 118 chances without an error.

The Saskatoon team, which is leading the Western Canada League, is traveling some 300 points ahead of the second team in the standing. Fans in the other cities of the circuit surely have a right to lose interest in such a top-heavy race.

TEAM WITH A "REP" WILL PERFORM HERE

St. Peter's Aggregation Coming Strong to Beat Locals Sunday.

Everything is in readiness for the big game between the Knights of St. Peter and the Plainfield Sunday baseball team, which will be played here Sunday. The game is creating a great amount of interest among the fans of New Brunswick, who are planning to accompany the team.

The locals have banded together a fast bunch of ball tossers, and they have been playing a fast article of ball this season, and have great hopes of administering the sleep punch to the Knights.

From the past performances of the two aggregations, the game will no doubt be exciting from start until finish. The game will be played on the new grounds of the Plainfield team, which is opposite the Plainfield golf links, and will be the first played on the grounds.

The Knights will come to Plainfield by automobile. The Knights expect to bring at least two large automobiles filled with fans over to the game.

The strongest team that can possibly be gotten out of the ranks of the Knights will come here. Pete Zenewich or Billy Harding will be on the mound for the Knights, with McAlvaine or Harding behind the stick. The infield and outfield will be practically the same as in the past games. The outfield will see Jefferies, Reilly and Keefe. A bunch of substitutes will also be taken along.

That the Knights are playing a fast article of ball is manifested when one looks over their record up to date. They have played ten games and have lost but three, which is a record to be proud of. In the ten games they scored fifty-two runs, while their opponents scored but twenty-seven. Two shut-outs have been registered by the Knights—against the strong Ionians, of Perth Amboy, and the Sewaren A. A.

The records to date is as follows:

4..... South River A. C.	12

LIDGATE'S TEAM MAY BE SHIFTED TO LANCASTER

If $1,000 is subscribed by the baseball fans of Lancaster, Pa., in the next few days, that city will have a professional baseball team. The York club, of the Tri-State League, will be sold and transferred to that place.

Eugene Lidgate, of Fanwood, catches for the York team. The latter club, which is at the bottom of the league standing, is playing to poor crowds and has not been successful financially. Whether Lidgate will remain with the club if this change is made or not is not known.

WITH THE BOXERS

"Kid" Williams, the new bantam champion, says he is willing to take on any boy who appears to be worthy of a battle for the title.

If Snapper O'Neil, the English lightweight, is successful in his matches in Australia, he will be given a chance to meet Freddie Welsh.

In meeting Georges Carpentier, Young Ahearn, of Brooklyn, is going against the toughest game found among the European boxers. The pair are billed to box in London early in August.

LAURELS WERE CHAMPIONS.

In yesterday's issue of this paper it was announced the Red Star baseball team was the champion of the Parker Field Junior Baseball League last year. This has been found to be wrong as the honors go to the Laurel A. C., which defeated the Stars in the deciding game for the title.

JAP BALL TEAM TOUR.

Seattle Wash., July 1.—The baseball team of the Meiji University of Japan is due to arrive here tomorrow on the steamship Sado Maru. The team has arranged to make a two months' tour of the United States, in the course of which games will be played by numerous college and club teams both in the East and West.

HARTMAN IN BRUNSWICK.

Louis Hartman, who played shortstop for the Plainfield team last year, has signed up with the C. F. J. team of the New Brunswick Factory League. He will make his first appearance with that team next Sunday. He formerly played with another team of that league, but recently secured his release.

FREE TRESCA OF SABOTAGE CHARGE

VERDICT IN 21 MINUTES

Second Indictment For Similar Offense Still Hanging Over I. W. W. Leader's Head—Prosecutor Says It Will Be Brought to Trial—Elizabeth Gurley Flynn Delighted Over Acquittal.

Paterson, N. J., July 1.—Carlo Tresca, the I. W. W. Italian leader of the great Paterson silk mill strike, was acquitted in the Passaic county court after an all day's trial on an indictment charging him with "inciting silk workers to assault" in a speech alleged to have been made by him at a strikers' meeting at Turn hall on April 17, 1913. The jury was out only twenty-one minutes. The panel consisted of twelve men living in Hudson county who were impaneled on motion of the defense in place of Passaic county citizens owing to the inflamed state of public opinion during the strike.

Tresca was previously tried on the same indictment, and a "foreign jury" disagreed. The second indictment for a similar offense is still hanging over Tresca's head. Prosecutor Dunn said that it will be brought to trial.

The case against the I. W. W. agitator hinged on the translation of the Italian word "battelli" used by Tresca, who delivered his speech in his native tongue.

According to Detectives Pirola and De Luccia, Italians, who made notes of the speech, Tresca said:

"This strike is the start of great revolution. I want to know how many of you will go to Madison street. Go in flocks. As I am a man, too, I realize that when you hit them you will hit them easy."

The state contended that going to Madison street meant going to a silk mill where weavers were at work and going in flocks meant going in crowds. It also held, and witnesses so testified, that "battelli" meant to beat by force.

Witnesses for the defense said that "battelli" could be translated as "beating by force" or "beating by skill," as in a contest. In other words, they interpreted the alleged words of Tresca as meaning that "the strikers would win the strike or beat them easily."

It was also denied by witnesses for Tresca that he used the words at all.

Prosecutor Michael Dunn received a telegram from the "chairman of an international mass meeting" of anarchists in New York saying that the judge, prosecuting attorney and individual members of the jury would be held personally responsible in the event of Tresca's conviction."

Elizabeth Gurley Flynn said she was delighted over the acquittal of Tresca.

SUES WIFE FOR "ACCOUNTING"

Wants Her to Tell of Cash Received In Thirty-five Years.

Jersey City, N. J., July 1.—Although married thirty-five years and still living under the same roof, James W. Donely and his wife, Mrs. Alice M. Donely of 71 Baldwin avenue, this city, are involved in one of the most unusual suits that has ever been instituted in the New Jersey court of chancery. Donely has filed a petition asking that his wife be compelled to account for all the money he has given her to pay the household bills and saved during all the years they have been married. She filed an answer replying that it would be impossible for her to render such an accounting.

Mrs. Donely says that her husband, who was recently retired as an engineer by the Pennsylvania railroad, has not given her as much as $20,000, as he asserts. She contends that he never took any interest in how much she has saved until a week ago, when there was a rumpus at the house. He demanded her to account for every penny right on the spot. When she told him she couldn't he filed suit.

JANITOR, HURT, SUES CHURCH

Action Under Liability Act For Injury In Ringing Bell.

New Brunswick, N. J., July 1.—Because one of his legs is now an inch shorter than the other Sabota Nataro, who says he was janitor of the Church of Our Lady of Most Holy Rosary at Perth Amboy, is suing the church under the employers' liability act. He had been earning $5 a month as janitor. If he wins his suit the least he will get is $5 a week for a few hundred weeks. The church is contesting the suit, which is being tried before Judge Peter F. Daly.

Nataro claims that on Jan. 27 last when he tried to ring the church bell the rope broke. He had to climb up a ladder in the belfry to repair the rope. The ladder broke, he says, and he had a long drop that resulted in a compound fracture of the left leg.

GENERAL ANGELES.

He is Reported to Have Been Executed by Villa.

© 1914, by Mutual Film Company.

The report is persistently circulated that General Pancho Villa has caused the execution of General Felipe Angeles. Personal representatives of General Carranza will not go so far as to say that General Angeles faced a firing squad, but they assert that he has been dishonorably discharged from the army by Carranza on charges of insubordination and treason. They do not know whether this order has been recognized by the general's immediate superior, Villa. Angeles, once an artillery general in the Mexican federal army, a graduate of Chapultapec, is held to be one of the most highly trained soldiers in the republic.

HECKLED, PRESIDENT SNUBS SUFFRAGISTS

States Position, Refuses to Be Cross Examined.

Washington, July 1.—Declaring that the cause of women suffrage was a question to be settled by the states and not by the federal government, President Wilson caused a sensation in the ranks of 700 ardent suffragettes yesterday afternoon when he refused to let them heckle him on that opinion.

He abruptly turned on his heel and walked out of the east room, leaving the women gazing at him in apparent astonishment.

Most of the women who had gathered in the White House had expected to shake hands with the president, but were afforded no opportunity.

Mrs. Harvey W. Wiley, Mrs. Ellis Logan and Rhetta Childe Dorr had made brief appeals asking the president to favor a constitutional amendment granting suffrage. Miss Dorr had told the president that at their last meeting he had refused to indorse suffrage because it had not been dealt with in the Baltimore platform.

"Yet you have since indorsed the tolls repeal bill in opposition to that platform," she said, "and, as I think, times have changed and under present conditions you can now take a definite stand on this question."

"No one could fail to be impressed by this great company," began the president. "I have stated to you once before that as the leader of a party I am bound by the declaration of principles as adopted by it.

"You now ask me for my personal stand on this question. Perhaps it would be more serviceable if I stated to you that the Baltimore convention did not pass upon this question of suffrage because the delegates to that convention believed it was a matter for the states themselves to act upon first. The principle of state rights was involved, and the party delegates preferred to safeguard these rights."

ROOT OUT OF SENATE RACE.

Notifies Barnes That He Won't Run Under Any Circumstances.

Albany, N. Y., July 1.—William Barnes, chairman of the Republican state committee, has received from Senator Root the following letter, which Mr. Barnes makes public at Senator Root's request:

Washington, June 29, 1914.

Dear Sir—Will you be good enough to inform the members of the state committee and through them the Republicans of New York that I shall be unable to serve as United States senator for another term after the 4th of March, 1915, and cannot under any circumstances be a candidate for re-election to that office.

I am very appreciative of the confidence and the honor shown me by the legislature in choosing me to be one of the senators of the state, and I am grateful for the good opinion which has led many of my friends to express the wish that I shall continue. I regret that I cannot render the service. Very respectfully,

ELIHU ROOT.

BATTLESHIPS BILL SIGNED.

Three New Ones to Come, and Two Old Ones May Go to Greece.

Washington, July 1.—President Wilson signed the naval appropriation bill providing for the construction of three additional Dreadnoughts for the United States navy and permitting the sale of the battleships Mississippi and Idaho to Greece.

Our Statement is rendered in this comprehensive way, in order that it may be readily understood, even by the casual reader.

The Bank Statement, as ordinarily prepared, is mystifying to the uninitiated and we have tried to overcome such a criticism.

In submitting this Statement we desire to call attention not only to the strength shown by the figures, but to the personnel of our Board of Directors—an evidence of past and a promise of future good management. Our plea for additional patronage is based on responsibility as well as service.

NOT TOO LARGE TO RENDER INDIVIDUAL SERVICE NOR TOO SMALL TO OFFER EVERY MODERN FACILITY.

FAMOUS ATHLETES ENTERED IN MEET

PLAINFIELDERS LISTED

In the Eleven Events There Will Be 283 Starters—Running and Jumping the Features—Prizes Are Handsome and Numerous.

There will be 283 entries in the eleven events that comprise the monster program arranged by the Playground Commission for Parker Field on July 4. Every Metropolitan athletic club of importance will send men to this city in an effort to get in the prize list and the cream of the athletic talent of New Jersey and New York is booked to appear. Handicaps alloted by the Amateur Athletic Union's official handicapper place the competitors on an equal basis and the eleven contests will no doubt be the source of keen fighting.

Besides New York and New Jersey athletic clubs of repute, a number of the larger colleges have men entered in the field of events and although several live in the Queen City, others will come here for the sole purpose of striving for some of the honors. Athletes who have established field and track records in many large meets in various parts of the country have been attracted to Plainfield and this city will be the mecca for all on Independence Day.

The one mile and five mile runs have attracted the most number of competitors and the former will have forty-one starters and the latter forty. Included in the most popular of the milers are W. R. Grangler, of the Irish-American A. C.; Bernard Cassell, of the Jersey Harriers; James F. O'Connor, of the New York A. C.; Leo Grangler, unattached, and J. P. Daly, of the Pastime A. C. In the five mile we have such notables as Harry Nye, of the Mohawk A. C., and Romaine Harris, of the Chrome Y. M. C. A.

The official entry list for the meet is given below:

ALVIN E. HOAGLAND IS NOW POSTMASTER

It is now Postmaster Alvin E. Hoagland, the new appointee succeeding Elias H. Bird, who held the position for sixteen years, taking up the duties of his office yesterday. Mr. Hoagland was at the office bright and early and when he arrived he was pleased to see a large floral horse shoe there. This token came from residents of the Washington Park section of North Plainfield, where Mr. Hoagland has many friends.

After reaching the office, Mr. Hoagland personally greeted the employes on duty and there was a happy exchange of greetings for the success of the new administration. Mr. Bird in retiring left his best wishes with the new postmaster and the latter also expressed the hope that the retiring officeholder would continue to be successful. Throughout the day Mr. Hoagland has been the recipient of best wishes. William B. Sharp, who has been money order clerk, also assumed his new position today as assistant to Mr. Hoagland. He, too, received many congratulations.

Inspectors Larrabee and Updyke from the postal department were at the office yesterday checking up accounts, and they will return to morrow to complete their work. They have found Mr. Bird's accounts absolutely correct. The inspectors and Mr. Bird were guests of Postmastera Hoagland at dinner at the Queen City Hotel, yesterday. The repast was not a "Dutch Treat," but was paid for by Mr. Hoagland.

EDMUND RUSHMORE WILL RUN AGAIN

Petitions for Councilmanic Nomination Appeared in the Borough Today.

Petitions endorsing Edmund Rushmore for renomination as a borough councilman, made their appearance in the borough, today, indicating that he intends to start his campaign early. His term expires on January 1 next, as does also the term of Councilman Julius J. Stahl, who, from present indications will seek a renomination on the Republican ticket with Mr. Rushmore.

Whether the Democrats will place a local ticket in the field has not been stated as yet. Last year the party was without a ticket except in the case of George Kirch, who was the candidate of both parties for freeholder.

Neither Councilmen Rushmore nor Stahl are expecting any opposition, it is said. William J. Trembath was recently approached on the subject but he decided not to seek councilmanic honors in the borough and in consequence will keep out of the race. The present indications point to a quiet election in the borough next fall.

PARK AVENUE BAPTIST CHURCH ACCEPTS RESIGNATION

The congregation of the Park Avenue Baptist church at a meeting in the parlors of the edifice last night, accepted the resignation of the Rev. Gabriel Reid Maguire. It will take effect after the church service, Sunday, September 6.

On the evening of that date he will preach his farewell sermon in Plainfield after being here four years. A committee of three composed of D. M. Runyon, Willard Maxim and John H. Doane was appointed by Chairman B. F. Hadley, to draw up suitable resolutions. These will be presented to the retiring pastor.

POULTRY OFFICERS TO MEET.

The officers, together with the Board of Trustees, of the New Jersey Poultry Improvement Association will meet in this city next Monday evening, at which time matters relative to the show to be held at Newark during the fall, wil be discussed at length. A full attendance is desired.

NO PAPER SATURDAY.

Following its invariable custom the Daily Press will not be published on Saturday next, July 4. The business office will close all day. 7 1 3

POLICE RECORDS ARE REVIEWED

FIGURES ARE OFFICIAL

Comparison Shows the Number of Arrests Made by Each Officer Together with Disposition of Some More Important Cases.

The controversy that has arisen in certain quarters over the appointment of a captain in the police department to fill the vacancy caused by the retirement of Christian Frederickson, has led to an investigation into the records of Sergeant Maurice Higgins and Detective-Sergeant John J. Flynn, the two candidates being considered for the place. The records as they are here given are official, being taken from the reports of Police Chief Kiely. They cover the past seven years and are published solely for the purpose of showing just what each man has actually done during the period named.

Sergeant Higgins became a patrolman on February 1, 1897, was promoted to the position of roundsman on March 25, 1907, and about one year ago was appointed a sergeant by Mayor Percy H. Stewart.

Detective-Sergeant Flynn was appointed a special officer on February 6, 1893, assigned to regular duty as a patrolman July 10, 1894; appointed a roundsman February 1, 1897 and appointed a detective-sergeant on March 25, 1907, the same time that Officer Higgins was made a roundsman.

The arrests made by Sergeant Higgins from 1907 to date, exclusive of 1913 when his number of arrests was not reported, are as follows:

These arrests were made for the following charges by the entire department from December 15, 1907, to December 16, 1913:

Assault, 109; burglary and robbery, 69; excise cases, 58; larceny, 371; for other departments, 195; gambling, 305; desertion, 26; worthless checks and forgery, 16; carrying concealed weapons, 46; pickpockets, 7; murder, 3; shoplifters, 7; carnal abuse, 58; embezzlement and false pretense, 58; total, 1,328.

Assault, 65; burglary and robbery, 38; excise cases, 39; larceny, 166; for other departments, 44; gambling, 20; desertion, 23; worthless checks and forgery, 10; carrying concealed weapons, 18; pickpockets, 3; murder, 2; shoplifters, 5; carnal abuse, 23; embezzlement and false pretense, 15; total, 571.

Some of the more important arrests made by Detective Flynn during the seven years, and the disposition of the same, many of which are still fresh in the minds of the people, are as follows:

March 11, 1907, Arthur Glassen, Henry Darsch, Fred Celius, copper wire thieves, five years in State Prison; March 21, 1907, Charles Hopes, attempted rape, two years in State Prison; July 25, 1907, Nichola Ta Bianco, and Joseph P. Novello, "Black Hand," twelve years State Prison, New Castle, Pa.; August 3, 1907, June Alston, murder, (O'Dell,) North Carolina, life sentence; September 18, 1907, John Hunt, burglary, six months; January 29, 1908, William Browning, forgery and entering, one year State Prison; February 25, 1908, Charles J. Wilbur, seduction, six years State Prison; March 12, 1908 Walter Baker, gobbery, three years State Prison; Walter Carter, robbery, one and a half years State Prison; March 22, 1908, Peter Harsen, bicycle thief, six months in jail; May 26, 1908, Walcot C. Buckley, forger, three years State Prison; July 5, 1908, Lucius Taylor, bicycle thief, one year State Prison; November 21, 1908, Richard J. Grant, "fake" piano tuner, Rahway Reformatory; December 29, 1908, Richard Fauclough, burglary, Rahway Reformatory; September 16, 1909, George Gardner, robbery, two years State Prison; November 24, 1910, John B. David, worthless checks, two years State Prison; June 5, 1911, Charles Richardson, forgery, one year State Prison; November 13, 1911, Ralstead McAllester, robbery, Rahway Reformatory; November 4, 1912, Charles Robinson, sodomy, three years State Prison; November 9, 1912, Edward Kurtzman, larceny of auto tires, two years State Prison; November 9, 1912, Alexander Kurtzman, larceny of auto tires, two years State Prison; February 15, 1912, James Springs, highway robbery, fifteen years State Prison; April 11, 1913, Mateo Papalillo, murder, ac-

WHO'S ENJOYING THIS BIG LAUGH?

Although April Fools' Day has long passed and the spirit of American patriotism is now clouding the atmosphere, some individual evidently takes a delight in being unseasonable. Such has been proven conclusively to one Edward Maybery, who, until his inauspicious advent into the Queen City, hung his hat in Newburgh, N. Y. Unceremoniously tossed within the confines of New Jersey's Queen City, the Hudson river man wasted hours of patient figuring on how he was going to get out of the predicament in which he found himself.

A firm believer in the old adage "it pays to advertise," Maybery, who has been on the idle list for some time past, inserted a want "ad" in a Metropolitan daily one morning last week. Much to the advertiser's gratification, an answer to the insertion was delivered to him the day following. After spending several hours in expounding on the good that comes from publicity and lauding the newspaper which had been favored by him, Maybery communicated with the sender of the response.

After reading and re-reading the letter with frequent outbursts of glee, Maybery pieced portions of the information therein contained together and found that he had been offered a real job on the "Woodlawn Farm" in Plainfield, N. J. The answer was adorned by the flourishing signature of one "George H. Wilson." The latter benefactor was hailed by Maybery as a friend in need and he hastened to inform the sender that he was fully satisfied with the magnificent terms of the contract as set forth. The Empire State was to live in a house furnished by the "Woodlawn Farm" proprietors and was to receive a handsome monthly wage. Instructions following informing him that he and his family would be expected in Plainfield with all of their personal effects on Wednesday, July 1.

Arriving in this city accompanied by his wife and a carload of furniture, yesterday, he proceeded to establish the location of his future dwelling place. Here began the trouble.

Inquiries failed to reveal such a farm in the immediate proximity of Plainfield and none sporting the handle of "George H. Wilson" could be located. Wilsons galore adorned the pages of the city and telephone directories but none with the big "H" crowded between the first and last installments could be found. City department heads, saloon-keeper, newspapers and various other bureaus of information were approached, but nothing of a substantial nature was dug up by Maybery, who suddenly found himself portraying the role of "Willie" Burns, the sleuth.

Hours of ardent searching, during which he gained many sympathizers, but nothing of value, followed, and footsore and weary Maybery finally abandoned the task cut out for him by someone the identity of whom is a mystery.

It suddenly dawned on the New York invader that he was the victim of a practical joke and when once he realized the situation into which he had been lowered he beat it for cover. It is sufficient to say, however, that the household effects of the Mayberys' are at present trying out the conveniences offered by the United States Express Company's successor enroute to the city from the "Great White Way" the victim of the joke has arrived at the conclusion that Jersey and its notables are not what they are cracked up to be.

"SAFE AND SANE" FOURTH.

Chief Marshal George Weiss is today issuing a notice to the effect that no firearms or giant firecrackers will be permitted to be shot in the streets of the borough. Those desiring to celebrate the Fourth by using crackers and the other fireworks allowed should fire them on their respective properties in order to conform with the borough ordinances.

TEMPERATURE REPORT.

The temperature report from The State Trust Company today is as follows: 9 a. m., 71 degrees; 11 a. m., 77 degrees; 1 p. m., 80 degrees.

—The Mt. Bethel Fire Company will hold an entertainment at the Mountain House of that place July 15. Prof. Naylor, of Plainfield, will furnish the music.

SEWER CONTRACT IS APPROVED

DETAILS OF AGREEMENT

Ample Provision is Made for Litigation or Other Delays—Salaries of Other Officials Are Fixed by Commission.

The Joint Sanitary Sewage Commission, at its meeting, last night, passed upon and approved the contract with George W. Fuller, sanitary engineer, who is to supervise the construction of the trunk sewer to be built by Plainfield, North Plainfield and Dunellen, and its execution was authorized. The price determined upon is $19,500, less $1,500 which has already been paid to Mr. Fuller for work performed.

According to the contract Mr. Fuller is to supervise the construction of the outfall sewer and sewage disposal works, with appurtenances, as set forth in his plans which is now on file. He will also put in complete form such plans, notices to bidders, proposals, contracts and specifications as shall be necessary to secure bids and place the work under contract.

It is further required that he shall furnish a competent resident engineer and such assistants as may be necessary; also competent inspectors. The engineer is to establish and maintain a local office in this city during the progress of the work, but in case the work shall be stopped by reason of legal proceedings or any reason not in the control of the engineer the office can be removed until the work is resumed. It is further provided in the contract that the engineer shall furnish all necessary equipment for service and office work, telephone service and transportation facilities for himself and staff.

In case of any litigation it is provided that the engineer and his assistants shall furnish any attendance at court; also any necessary data. The sum of $5,250 is to be paid thirty days after the making of the contract for the work and the balance in monthly installments of three and six-tenths per centum of the cost of the construction work actually done each month until there shall have been paid a sum, not exceeding $18,500, in addition to the $1,500 already paid.

If through any fault of the joint meeting there should be a delay in work, the engineer shall, in addition to the sums named, be reimbursed for the actual additional cost to them resulting from such delay plus 25 per cent. of such additional cost. The commission also fixed the salaries of the secretary, treasurer and janitor. Charles M. Dolliver, secretary, and William F. Arnold, treasurer, are to receive $300 per annum and William Kline, janitor, is to receive $30 a year.

The commission adjourned to meet on Wednesday night, July 8, when it is expected that the deal for the Darling farm will be closed and all other contracts closed so that within a short time the actual work can begin. There was a full representation present at last night's meeting.

J. F. SHANLEY COMPANY GETS BRIDGE CONTRACT

Elizabeth, July 2—A. E. Smith, of Plainfield, was a bidder on the proposed bridge over the Rahway river in St. George's avenue, Rahway, when the bids were considered by the Freeholders' bridge committee yesterday. The contract went to the J. F. Shanley Company, of Newark, whose price was $19,167.

The bridge will be a reinforced arched structure of concrete and steel. Mr. Smith's bid was on two of the three types of bridges for which plans were drawn. On No. 1 type he bid $25,884, and on No. 2 $25,655. He did not bid on No. 3 type. There were a dozen bidders.

$75,000 IN TAXES IS DUE THE CITY

The city tax collector's office for the past few days has resembled December 20, owing to the fact that delinquents have been anxious to settle their bills before Collector William R. Townsend has an opportunity to advertise their names and charge up interest on the unpaid bills. Several thousand dollars have been paid in this week, and yet there is about $75,000 remaining to be paid.

The work of preparing the delinquent list for publication is now going on. When this list is published those whose names appear thereon will be charged the cost of advertising as well as the usual 10 per cent. interest. In view of this fact Mr. Townsend urges delinquents to see him as soon as possible, if they want to escape additional expense.

"Not in years has the amount of delinquent taxes been as large as it is this year," says Mr. Townsend. "Neither has there been such a large number of parcels of property on which taxes have been unpaid. There is at present $75,000 unpaid taxes, covering all wards. The list of delinquents is now being prepared and will be advertised within a short time.

"The property owners who have not paid their 1913 taxes will be advertised and 10 per cent. interest will be added from December 20 last. I would earnestly urge all delinquents to 'get busy' as soon as possible if they want to escape paying the additional charges."

JUMPS AS TRAIN HITS HIS WAGON

Finding himself entrapped between the two gates, one on the east bound and the other on the west bound side of the Central Railroad tracks at Washington street, Dunellen, yesterday afternoon, Joseph Tetlow, a Dunellen plumber, leaped from his wagon a second before the vehicle was hit squarely in the middle by a fast traveling passenger train and hurled a distance of fifty feet. Tetlow drove the wagon on the track from the New Market side and did not realize his danger until the flagman shouted warnings at him. Realizing the graveness of the situation and finding it impossible to reach the other side before the train bore down on him, Tetlow gave a bound and fell headlong out of the train's path.

The horse attached to the wagon had a miraculous escape from death. The harness and shafts were torn from his back but the animal was unscratched. The wagon was smashed to splinters. In charge of the train mixed up in the collision was Frank Trimmer, of Dunellen.

In crossing the tracks at this point drivers usually depend upon the vigilance of the gate tender but the man was apparently not "on the job" yesterday. Tetlow drove in back of Martin's large auto truck and had little or no chance to get a clear view of the approaching engine.

TRADE UNIONS PLAN FOR LABOR DAY PARADE

A Labor Day parade, with 1,500 men in line, is now being planned by the trade unions of this city. Committees from the twenty local unions have charge of the detail arrangements, and will meet Monday evening next at Trades Council Hall to start the ball rolling. This action on the part of the local unions is a result of a suggestion made some time ago by Hugh Rielly, business agent of the International Association of Machinists.

It has also developed that a movement is on foot to organize a local of laundry workers, definite steps to this end already having been taken. It is expected that a meeting of these workers will be officially called within a short time.

VILLAGE NO PLACE FOR PEACE LOVERS

So Declares Michael Gallagher When He Upbraids Middlesex Borough Council.

SHOCKING ALLEGATIONS

Charges One Drunkard Was Forced to Say the Lord's Prayer While Kneeling on the Public Thoroughfare.

Declaring that he was prepared to "smoke the skunk out of his hole," whether he be the mayor of Middlesex borough or the prosecutor of Middlesex county, Michael Gallagher, of "Gallagher's corner," appeared before the borough council last night and in a dramatic manner launched his individual condemnation proceedings against Andrew Hazlin's bottling establishment. Claiming that the maintenance of law and order in the borough of Middlesex was as foreign to that municipality as it is to a Colorado mining camp, he lodged charges against officials and business men alike. Sparing none whom he had reason to believe was in any way responsible for the alleged conditions, Gallagher demonstrated his oratorical ability for over an hour and when he had finished matters had been stirred up to a high tension.

Mr. Gallagher alleges that the police are not properly protected by the community and when they land a prisoner they have nothing to hold him in custody with but rope, which is used as a substitute for handcuffs. He further stated that there have been incidents where the marshals have been forced to walk in from Dunellen to New Brunswick with a prisoner in the absence of a vehicle of transportation. According to Mr. Gallagher there is a great deal the matter with the government and he can see no immediate relief in the future. He proposes, however, to exert all of his energies to rectifying the evils and avers that by the time he is finished the wrongs will be righted and several officials will turn over new leaves.

The speaker said that he had complained to the prosecutor of Middlesex county about Hazlin's resort but as yet has been able to get no satisfaction. Speaking of the bottling establishment which he continually "shadowed" in his talk, Gallagher said that he had seen two half intoxicated men compel another, who was thoroughly "soused" to get down on his knees and say the Lord's Prayer, and that after the drunken individual had repeated a few words of the prayer, he was stopped and given another "swig" of whiskey, and then compelled to go on from the place where he had stopped. This and other instances, twice as sacreligious, are the scenes enacted every day, according to Gallagher.

He is alleged to have preferred charges of neglect of duty against Mayor Sanford and laid the matter before the Middlesex County Grand Jury. After a long deliberation last night the council remained a deadlock, and although Gallagher demanded immediate adjustment of existing wrongs, his charges were finally laid on the table pending legal advise. The council, however, decided to detail a marshal at the Hazlin property each night and the place will be watched by the minion of the law for evidence pending the next session of the borough body.

LAWN FETE AND DANCE FOR TEMPLE SHOLEM BENEFIT

The lawn fete and dance which was to have been given last night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Newcorn, on West Front street, for the benefit of Temple Sholem, was postponed until tonight, owing to the rain. A large platform has been erected out of doors for dancing and there will be other attractions including "500," bridge whist and other popular card games. A feature will be an exhibition of the latest dances at 10 o'clock given by Miss Rae Praeger and E. J. LaPorte Refreshments will be served. If stormy tonight the affair will be held Saturday night.

CHANGE IN SERVICES.

The Sunday evening services of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church will begin at 7:15 during July and August, and will last one hour. The Epworth League will have charge of the first part of the service and the pastor will take charge of the last part. Next Sunday the pastor will take for his topic, "The National Monument." Holy communion will be observed at 10:45 a. m.

FANWOOD HAS ONE DELINQUENT

Collector Sheelen Reports That All But a Single Taxpayer Has Settled.

AN ENVIABLE RECORD

Borough Council Has Trouble Securing a Policeman—Postoffice Situation is Discussed by Members.

Charles Sheelen, tax collector for Fanwood borough, reported to the Council of that place, last night, that there was only one delinquent on the tax list, and that one will probably be paid within a short time. For several years past, Mr. Sheelen has had an enviable record for collecting every dollar of tax due in the borough. This year will be no exception to the rule.

The finance committee reported cash on hand of $2,199.48. A communication from the Eureka Hose Company regarding some hose sent away for repair, was referred to the proper committee with power. Nothing was done last night as to the appointment of a special officer as no one has been found who wants the job. Efforts will be made to get William Eidgate to fill the position.

These bills were approved and warrants were ordered: Standard Oil Company, one tank of road oil, $313.11; A. D. Beeken, printing of two tax books, $10.50; New Jersey Central for freight charges on car of oil, $29.83; street lighting for June, $109.60; John Logan, repairs to bicycle, $1.75; police service for June, $75.

During a suspended order of business the members of the Council engaged in a discussion of the local postoffice situation. Miss Carrie Bettman, who has been postmistress for the past twenty years, presented her resignation today to take effect Aug. 1. The situation is rather peculiar by reason of the fact that Miss Bettman, beside being ineligible for the office owing to the age limit, is prevented from accepting an appointment on account of ill health.

It was reported that no one took the examination on June 20 for the position and it is said that unless some special provision is made by August 1, when Miss Bettman resigns, the office may be closed and a rural free delivery established. Mayor Hoar will try and persuade Miss Bettman to defer her resignation until he can communicate with Congressman W. E. Tuttle.

MIANTONOMO TRIBE RAISES UP CHIEFS

Miantonomo Tribe, No. 118, I. O. R. M., met last evening at its wigwam at K. of P. Hall, when the recently elected chiefs were raised up. District Deputy Schultz and staff, of Cranford, had charge of the ritualistic work. The officers installed were as follows:

Prophet, Edward Scheffler; sachem, John Flynn; senior sagamore, John Madden; junior sagamore, Lewis Clark; chief of records, Charles Holstein, Sr.; keeper of wampum, Percy L. Culver; guard of the forest, Samuel Montross; guard of the wigwam, Edwin Bailey. A delegation from Menno Tribe, of Westfield, was in attendance. A social hour followed the formal gathering, when corn and venison was served. This part of the evening was under the direction of the good and welfare committee, composed of Charles Halliwell, Thomas Parsons and Peter Sheridan.

WED 'NEATH FLORAL BOWER

RING CEREMONY USED

Rev. Ernest R. Brown Officiates at Home of Bride's Parents—Reception Follows—Couple to Live in Dunellen After Trip.

Miss Ida Strickland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Strickland, of Dunellen and Robert William Wright, of the Park Slope Section, of Brooklyn were married last evening at the home of the bride's parents by Rev. Ernest R. Brown, pastor of the Presbyterian church Dunellen, in the presence of about sixty guests from Brooklyn Derby and Greenwich, Conn., Washington and Dunellen.

The bride was gowned in white crepe de chine, trimmed with Irish point lace. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. Her traveling gown was of blue moire silk trimmed with rare lace. The maid of honor was Miss Edythe Strickland, sister of the bridde, whose gown was of pink crepe de chine, trimmed with shadow lace. She carried pink rosebuds.

Miss Attelia Frances Chaffee, niece of the bridegroom, was the flower girl. She was dressed in white and carried a basket of flowers. The bride's mother wore a gown of black messaline, trimmed with Tango colored satin, while the bridegroom's mother's gown was of black silk trimmed with black lace.

Andrew Moorhead Wright, brother of the bridegroom, was the best man and the ushers were Samuel R. Strickland, Jr., Vernon D. Eckert, John Shaw and Henry Wright. The wedding march was played by Miss Edna Goensch, of Brooklyn. After the ceremony congratulations were offered and an elaborate supper was served. Later Mr. and Mrs. Wright left on a trip which will include points of interest in the south among them the battlefield of the Brandywine. Mrs. Wright received a large number of gifts, including cut-glass, silver and household articles.

The house was attractively decorated with pink and red roses, which were used in the parlor, reception room, hall and dining-room. The ceremony was performed beneath a bower of asparagus fern and pink roses.

The bridegroom is secretary and manager for Robinson Tag & Label Company, of New York, and the bride was employed by the same concern as confidential secretary to Mr. Wright for the past ten years. She has been a resident of Dunellen for the past three years, formerly residing in Brooklyn. Upon their return from a trip the couple will live in Dunellen.

FIRST EXCURSION OFF FOR THE SHORE

Twenty-two coaches carrying over twelve hundred pleasure seekers, members and friends of the Sunday-schools of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian, Grace Episcopal, St Stephen's Episcopal, Seventh-Day Baptist, Holy Cross Episcopal, New Market Baptist and Dunellen Presbyterian churches, left here this morning for a day's outing at Asbury Park and Ocean Grove. The excursion was run in two sections, leaving here at 8:20 and 8:30. The first section was well filled when it arrived here, with excursions from Dunellen, Clinton an Grant Avenues. The second section picked up a majority of the Plainfield people.

Ideal weather greeted the excursionists who turned out in large numbers. The committee attended to every detail and so far as known no one was left behind who intended making the trip. Those who had charge of the excursion comprised Howard H. Williams, chairman; Henry L. Finch, Garret DuBois, Clinton Berrien, M. J. Apgar, Ducios Van Mater and Charles Roll. The schools from New Market and Dunellen were also represented on the committee. The excursionists will leave for home at 6:30 o'clock tonight.

MEDIATION ENDS WHEN PLANS FAIL

South American Envoys Quit Niagara Conference.

OPTIMISM IS NOT SHARED.

"So Far We Have Averted War," Says Da Gama In a Formal Speech Before Leaving—Delegates Are Chagrined.

Niagara Falls, Ont., July 2.—Being unable to find a solution to the Mexican problem, the three South American diplomats who undertook the task two and one-half months ago have brought their work to an end.

The closing of the mediation conferences was marked by a formal luncheon given by the mediators to the newspaper correspondents who have attended the proceedings. All the members of the American and Mexican delegations were present.

The formal statement in which Ambassador da Gama of Brazil and Ministers Naon and Suarez of Argentina and Chile virtually admitted that they had abandoned hope took the form of a speech made by the Brazilian envoy.

After declaring that he and his colleagues had never disagreed and that the mediation board was "probably the most united political body ever constituted in the world Senor da Gama announced that the international side of the conflict had been settled, thanks to the mediators, and that "so far we averted a war."

Their Optimism Not Shared.

The optimism expressed by the ambassador of Brazil and his two colleagues does not appear, however, to be felt by any one else connected with the mediation conference. The American delegates are not less disappointed than the Mexicans at the sudden decision of the mediators to abandon their efforts to restore peace in Mexico.

It is known here that the Washington government was quite willing to keep its representatives there until a solution had been found, and both Justice Lamar and Frederick W. Lehmann, the American delegates, were prepared to continue their work until every vestige of hope had been lost.

The Mexican delegates, on the other hand, although unwilling to venture the slightest criticism of the mediators' action, are known to be sorely disappointed. They feel that in a measure they have been misled by the men who invited them to come here.

It is understood that they had received positive assurance that no effort would be spared to bring about a peaceful agreement between the contending factions, and none of them had at any time supposed that the mediators would be those responsible for the breaking up of the conference.

Federals Want Fight.

Chihuahua, Mex., July 2.—That General Medina Barron, Huerta commander at Zacatecas and Aguas Calientes in the recent fighting, has rallied his men and returned to the fight at the latter city is the news brought here by telegraph.

The message came from General Pancho Villa to his chief fiscal agent, Lazaro de la Garza, and stated that Barron is reported to have secured 10,000 men, with whom he has returned to the fighting at Aguas Calientes. Barron was reported to have lost almost his entire command at Zacatecas. He fled to Aguas Calientes, but hardly halted. The rebels took the city without more than skirmishing. Barron is said now to have halted his men in their retreat and returned to the fight.

No effort is made here to cover the breach between Carranza and Villa. "We will henceforth do as we please. We will not ask Carranza any more." This declaration was made by De la Garza publicly in this city. It expresses the general sentiment.

SON IS CHIEF HEIR OF CAPTAIN PARKER

Former Local Man Made Executor and Will Receive Large Estate.

Andrew McLean Parker, formerly of Franklin place, but more recently of Princeton, is made executor and chief heir by the will of his father Captain James Parker, of Perth Amboy, which was made public today. He confirmed a gift of a $1,000 insurance certificate to his daughter, Emily Parker Lauder. He gave his sword and silver plaque, presented to him by Commodore Barrett's family, to his son, James Parker.

The late Captain Parker was well known in this city, where he formerly lived and was a frequent visitor. Andrew McClean Parker was also well known in this city. He was the donor of Parker Field and personally supervised the work of laying out the public playgrounds. Prior to retiring from active life several years ago, he was engaged in engineering work and had charge of the construction of the Williamsburg Bridge. He removed to Princeton for the purpose of being nearer the New Jersey college where he pursued a post graduate course of learning.

LOCAL REPUBLICANS AT STUCHELL DINNER

One of the largest Republican gatherings held in this county was the "Dollar Dinner" in Turn Hall, Elizabeth, last night, under the auspices of the Republicans of Rahway, with speeches by many of the pre-primary candidates. Included among the diners who gathered around the banquet table were the following from Plainfield: Frank H. Smith, William R. Townsend, Horace Adams, George Ballentyne, J. J. Carroll, Joseph Harrigan, Richard Harrigan, Hyman Adelberg and Johne H. Cose. Horace E. Gore-Kelley presided as toastmaster.

Besides William T. Stuchell, who is Rahway's candidate for Congress, the speakers were Sheriff Wright, seeking the county clerkship nomination; William H. Madison, A. Edward Woodruff and former Assemblyman John Moxon. They are all residents of Rahway. Mr. Woodruff made the nominating speech for former Congressman Fowler at the Phillipsburg convention some years ago and followed it up by effective work in his behalf.

All the municipalities of the county were represented as the sale of tickets was county-wide. In addition delegations attended from Morristown, Dover and other places in Morris county. Plans are now being formulated to hold a similar affair in that county before the primary election.

While the affair was strictly a Stuchell dinner and was held under the auspices of the Rahway Republican Club, the committee in charge made it known in extending invitations to leaders and other candidates, that by accepting them they would not be committed. The fact that it was a "dry" dinner was also a feature that aroused no small amount of interest.

PASSED EXAMINATION.

Irving Kunzman, of this city passed the June bar examinations for attorney of this State at Newark, yesterday afternoon. The examination for counsellor was also give at that time and Former Acting Governor Leon R. Taylor, was among those who passed.

WILLIAM H. MURPHY.

William H. Murphy, aged sixty-two years, died at his home in Scotch Plains this morning. He is survived by two sons, Charles P. Murphy and James B. Murphy, of this city and one daughter, Miss Violet M. Murphy, also of this city. Funeral services will be held at the chapel of J. J. and C. A. Higgins, on West Fourth street, Sunday afternoon and later in the Scotch Plains Methodist church. Interment will be made at the Scotch Plains cemetery.

FIRE COMMITTEE TO MEET.

The Councilmanic fire committee will meet tonight to consider the bids received last week for furnishing the city with an automobile fire engine. It is expected that after the committee goes over the bids it will decide upon a recommendation to be made to the Common Council at its meeting Monday night.

RESTAURANT CHANGES HANDS.

The National Quick Lunch, on Somerset street, has been sold by Samuel Smelson, who has conducted the place for some time, to his former partner, S. B. Miler.

UNION COUNTY TENNIS CHAMPS.

The Union County doubles tennis championship will be held at Elizabeth on the Fourth of July.

Y. M. H. A. NOTES.

The annual meeting of the Young Men's Hebrew Association was held last evening for the election of officers. Irving Kunzman was re-elected president and Harry Siegel was elected vice-president; Aaron Hirsch, secretary, and Louis Rothberg, treasurer.

Owing to lack of support the baseball team representing the Y. M. H. A. in the league, dropped out at the meeting held in Elizabeth, Tuesday night. The club will enter a strong team in the basketball league to be formed in the fall.

A dance will be held in Abrams' Auditorium on Wednesday evening for the benefit of the association. Music will be furnished by a local orchestra and refreshments will be served.

COMPLETE THE WORK.

Much criticism is now being made of the Wilson Administration. Some of it may be just, but we fear that much of it has political motives as a basis. Probably this is father to the criticism. Everyone must concede, whether they approve or not, that the history of the country records few, if any, parallels in the enactment of so many administration measures in an equal length of time, as are down to the credit of the President and Congress since March fourth, 1912.

It is very easy to pull down. It is very difficult to construct. When a President does really accomplish something then we hear the cry, "Stop, give the country a rest"; when he hesitates, then the cry goes up, "it is a do nothing administration." We have been wondering what legislation urged by President Wilson have been omitted by his critics had they been in his place.

The people gave Mr. Wilson and Mr. Roosevelt a combined vote of over ten millions, and Mr. Taft much less than four millions. The platforms on which Mr. Wilson and Mr. Roosevelt ran were both very progressive, and each demanded the legislation which Mr. Wilson has secured or which he is now trying to secure; except, possibly, that the Progressive Platform was more radical in its demands than this legislation seems to be. In fact Victor Murdock, the leader of the Progressives in the House of Representatives, has at all times declared that the Progressives only voted for it because it was a step in the direction they wished, but did not go as far as they would go.

Does any one expect that any of this legislation will be repealed? If they do they do not read the signs of the times aright. It will not be repealed. Would any one suggest the repeal of the Interstate Commerce Act? That act was criticised just as strongly, we think even more severely, than the legislation now pending. The thing to do is for Congress to pass it all and then let the country adjust itself to the new conditions. The thing that makes the trouble is the uncertainty as to what is coming. It had much better be finished now, before Congress adjourns, than leave "in the air" just what the future is to be. It has also another advantage. It will give a square issue in the fight for Congress this Fall. The issue will then simply be: "Do the people approve what actually has been done, and will they elect a Congress to sustain and maintain the legislation?"

That President Wilson believes in the legislation already enacted and in that which is now pending as to the trusts we have no doubt. The President is wise, both politically, and for the business interests of the country, in insisting upon making an end of this legislation now, and not next year. Then the country can know what it is and put the flat of approval or disapproval upon it.

Reports submitted by the medical inspector of the local public schools for the term just closed show that nearly 33 per cent. of the 3,[illegible] pupils examined during the year have been found to be in need of immediate attention. A majority of the cases were disorders of a minor character, many of which would have been undiscovered for some time had it not been for the school examinations. Some of these cases, in some instances, would have resulted seriously in a few months. Reports show that the public schools of Plainfield were unusually free from contagious diseases during the past year and every effort is being made to preserve this standing. Parents of children in the grades should take an active interest in the work of the medical department and co-operate in every way possible with the examiners.

THE OPEN AIR SCHOOL.

The acquirement of the open air school by the Plainfield Board of Education gives this municipality, at a very small expense, the benefit of fresh air work, a feature which has in other communities, been so successfully assumed by the Boards of Education. Heretofore this phase of city educational work has been controlled by the Anti-Tuberculosis League, but the expense involved in conducting the school has now reached proportions such as the league is unable to bear. Until the present time the work has been carried on by private contributions and although conducted on a small scale, it has been entirely successful. The new arrangement will afford those interested an opportunity to branch out and spread the good from such an institution over a wider radius.

Every person of common intelligence or ordinary good sense knows that in fresh air and sunshine lie the secret of good health. There are no greater foes to tuberculosis than these two elements. Many children are kept at home and miss studies through illness. Children compelled to miss school through this reason are, nine times out of ten, children with constitutions that have never been very robust. Under these circumstances the worst thing that can be done is to shut them up in a schoolroom with forty or fifty other children, bad for them and bad for those who are reasonably strong in body. The experiment such as has been tried by the Anti-Tuberculosis League here does not involve the expenditure of a large amount of money and vast good has already been done.

A FIRE DEPARTMENT NEED.

Although the Common Council has authorized the purchase of several pieces of modern fire fighting apparatus for the fire department recently, it has yet to supply a small one which might some day prove of great value in preventing a catastrophe. Departments in other cities of Plainfield's size are provided with helmets as a protection to firemen against gas and other poisonous vapors which they sometimes encounter in the course of their duties, but Chief Doane has been unsuccessful in his efforts to secure one of these devices for the local department. This equipment is very necessary where a man has to enter a gas or ammonia filled apartment and without it in some cases the fire fighters would be rendered powerless.

Recently a local butcher who has his own ice plant, discovered that the ammonia valve had in some way been opened. The interior of the store became filled with the powerful vapor and the employes were driven to the street. Efforts were made to secure a helmet for the purpose of sending a man in to turn off the valve, but all steps proved futile. In other cities in cases of this kind the victim generally rushes to the fire department and naturally this was the first thing that the local man did. He was informed by the chief that the city had no such equipment but that he hoped to have it before long. Inasmuch as he could not get the helmet in Plainfield he was forced to go to New Brunswick to get help. During the two hours which elapsed the vapor worked its way through the doors to the streets and pedestrians were forced to walk on the other side of the thoroughfare.

Considerable criticism has been heard of the admission fee fixed for the Playground Commission's athletic meet to be held on Parker Field July 4. It is contended that the public field should not be used as a source of revenue by the commission and that all fees should be done away with whenever a public demonstration is given there. These critics are laboring under a misapprehension and are spreading erroneous impressions. In order to give Plainfielders an exhibition of the splendid calibre proposed it is necessary to raise a certain amount of money, the fund provided by the council for playground work not being sufficient to meet the demands. The admission fee is not an exhorbitant one and the entertainment proposed for this city would cost double or triple as much in other municipalities. Local pleasure seekers are constantly clamoring for some sort of amusement especially on holidays, and in providing for that demand the promoters have been subjected to unjust and uncalled for criticism. The proposition needs boosting and habitual knockers, if not smothered, are likely to do a whole lot of harm. "Join the Boosters."

Women and children in the business section of the city were treated to a scare one morning this week when a mad dog raced at large for several minutes in the vicinity of Park avenue and West Front street. After six shots had been lodged in the animal's body by a pair of patrolmen the health officer added to the terror of the feminine onlookers by cutting off the canine's head in the crowded thoroughfare. When it becomes necessary to disect an animal for the purpose of sending its brain to Trenton for analysis it is well to perform the operation out of sight of children and women. A little more discretion should be used in matters of this nature in the future by the health department.

SOME FEATURE EVENTS

Attempt Will Be Made to Lower Bridge Building Record—Will Try to Duplicate War Conditions in New Jersey.

Duplicating as far as possible the conditions as they existed in New Jersey prior to the Declaration of Independence, the Boy Scout troops of Plainfield, on Saturday will conduct a "hike" that will represent the visit of Washington and his troops to this vicinity which gave Washington Rock its name in history. Indian stalking will be demonstrated, strategy will be employed and general scoutcraft will be utilized in the movement of the troops from different rendezvous in the city to a point to the northeast of the New Market pond. There a stand will be taken by the patrol first arriving at the carriage bridge over New Brunswick avenue, which must be defended against all the other patrols of the city. The program of the day includes a nautical sortie in which boats containing a reconnoitering party will try to effect a landing in an ambushed territory, cooking of dinner consisting of meat, vegetables and pastry in the open and, if conditions permit, the attempt to lower the bridge building record of ninety minutes for erecting made last Fourth of July at Scotch Plains. The start will be made at 4 o'clock in the morning from secret assembly places in Plainfield and the boys will be back in town by 2 o'clock to attend the athletic meet at Parker Field.

Scout Commissioner Allen E. Beals, through Deputy Scout Commissioner A. V. Searing, Jr., issued general orders for the day this morning. They are as follows:

The Fourth of July "hike" this year will be devoted to a demonstration of stalking and general scoutcraft. For this purpose a camp site has been selected on the north shore of New Market creek at a point midway between the carriage bridge at New Brunswick avenue and the Lehigh Valley Railroad bridge.

Scouts will assemble under director of leaders at 4 o'clock. They will report light without staffs, musical instruments or other impliments. Buglers will, however, take their bugles with them. Scouts will carry haversacks containing two pieces of rope each at least 8 feet long, light luncheon and quarter of a pound of beef, a vegetable suitable for frying or roasting and some flour previously mixed into dough suitable for baking over an open fire according to Scout Handbook formula. Dough must be prepared by scouts of first class rank themselves.

Scouts will lay in ambush for competing patrols or individual scouts. Captures count ten points for each scout and twenty for each patrol leader caught. Scoutmasters captured scores a patrol one hundred points. In the holding of the bridge at New Brunswick avenue the patrol having the greatest number of scouts in actual possession of the structure at 8 o'clock will be accorded one hundred points in addition to whatever points they may have accrued for scout or patrol captures enroute.

In case of accident to any scout while in the woods, four short bugle or whistle blasts will be the signal for help. When that signal is heard the game is to be immediately called off and all speed possible made for the point of call. The usual course followed in emergency cases will be taken by the Scout leader or his first assistant.

Scouts will carry their scout axes and at least two twenty-penny wire nails for use in bridge building. Each scout must have five cents for carfare. No firecrackers, fire works or fire arms will be permitted under any circumstances while on "hike." Failure to obey this order will result in courtmartial for the offending scouts. Signal flags will be carried, but not on staffs. The semaphore code of flag or arm signals will be followed exclusively.

Scout leaders will be in supreme command of scouts. All musicians of Troop 5 will be under the direct supervision and leadership of Scoutmaster W. A. W. Thompsen. Bathing will be permitted only when scouts are provided with suits. Bathing will be permitted only at a time to be set by the commissioner.

The points obtained by scout patrols and individual scouts will count favorably in individual patrol ratings in counting up the handicaps of patrols competing for the Paul R. Collier championship pennant next fall. Cooking done by scouts taking second class examinations and for first class ratings will be credited or checked by the work done at the camp on Saturday.

Scouts are instructed to depend for water rations upon their filled canteens upon starting on the hike. Under no circumstances should water be drunk enroute unless out of a well in good condition and O'Ked by the leader. Scouts who for any reason are unable to start at 4 o'clock with their patrols may join the hike, but must take their chances on getting into camp without capture by a hostile patrol.

Great care must be exercised by leaders in passing through fields under cultivation, not to damage property. In case of rain the hike will be considered as postponed.

SUPERISOR WRISTON ILL.

George Wriston, supervisor of the Parker Field playground, is confined to his home on East Seventh street, with a slight illness. During his absence from the playground Ralph Runyon, of East Fifth street, is in charge.

THE FORUM

Editor Plainfield Daily Press:

Dear Sir:—In the edition of The Westfield Standard, dated Friday, June 19, 1914, was printed an article written by H. H. Butler, D. V. S., of Westfield, N. J., entitled "Rabies," in which he described the various symptoms of rabies and enlarges upon the terrible sufferings of dogs supposed to be rabid. An article such as this seems to me to be highly dangerous.

To substantiate which assertion I will endeavor to give you facts relating to the case.

The name of "Dog Days" is to be heard mentioned by the profession and laymen as well. Hardly any phrase in the English language is more misleading or has done more cruel injury to man and beast than this. By the "dog days" people understand the period of great heat occurring chiefly in July and August, in which they suppose that dogs are in a peculiar danger of rabies, and that human beings are therefore in a peculiar danger from the disease of hydrophobia, which is supposed to be communicated by the bite of a rabid dog. The consequence is that any dog which may happen to be suffering from any disease whatever during the "dog days" is at once set down as "mad." A frightened dog cruelly pursued by thoughtless children with the cry "Mad Dog" is regarded with terror and often brutally killed. Any report of a case of rabies, however ill-founded it may be, is at once communicated to the newspapers, and through them spreads consternation among hundreds of thousands of nervous people, sometimes, as we shall presently see, causing them to experience the very symptoms which are supposed to accompany hydrophobia. When it actually happens that a human being is bitten by a dog, he is at once assumed to be in danger of hydrophobia, and he very often resorts to expedients of prevention or cure which are much more liable to induce a simulated hydrophobia than to prevent or cure the reality.

Now, the very first observation we have to make on this subject is that there are no such days in the year's calendar as "dog days." There are no days on which, and there is no kind of weather during which a dog is peculiarly likable to rabies. Rabies is a rare disease in all seasons of the year and there are no more cases of rabies in July and August than in December and January. It follows, therefore, that there is no more reason to dread our family friend, the dog, in hot weather than in cold, and no more reason to dread hydrophobia from his bite at one time of the year than any other. The phrase "dog days" is a false and misleading phrase which all humane persons ought to avoid in the interest of the dog.

They ought equally to avoid the phrase in the interest of human beings, for we shall presently show that greatly and cruelly as dogs have been made to suffer from the general dread of rabies, it is more than probable that human beings have been even more extensively and more cruelly afflicted by the terror of hydrophobia. The object of the present article is chiefly to remove, as far as possible, the pernicious and utterly unfounded terror which has produced such injurious and often cruelly fatal results.

First of all, then, we undertake to show that genuine hydrophobia, is one of the rarest of all diseases, the canine disease, from which hydrophobia is supposed to be contracted is also one of the rarest diseases of the dog. Medical men of eminence have not hesitated to say that there is no such disease; that no microbe of hydrophobia has been found; and that what we call the microbe of hydrophobia is found even in the healthy dog, and therefore can give no assurance in diagnosis. In a paper read before the American Neurological Association at Philadelphia, Dr. Irving C. Rosse, F. R. G. S., did not hesitate to speak of hydrophobia as a purely imaginary disease, with no more reality to rest upon than the imaginary witchcraft which was punished with death in New England not so very long ago. Dr. Rosse said that during many years of travel he had made diligent inquiry of the oldest practitioners of cases of hydrophobia which had fallen under their observation. Many of them told him that they had never seen a case, and the result of his own experience and inquiry had been "about as fruitless as the search for well authenticated instances of shark bites," which he had spent years investigating. Dr. Rosse stated many facts confirmatory of his own experience. In Asia Minor and Constantinople, where pariah dogs abound, one never hears of hydrophobia. It is unknown in Japan and Kora, where there are more dogs than in any other country. In Germany it is seldom heard of; not a case has been recorded in Berlin in many years. In London, with five and a half million inhabitants, only one case was reported in 1892, and of the eight thousand stray dogs which were captured, not one showed symptoms of rabies. "The statistics of New York for thirty-five years (says Dr. Rosse) show nine years in which no death occurred, and two successive years in which there was not one." This statement, however, falls far short of what Dr. Rosse might have said. During the thirty odd years of the existence of the American Society of the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals there has been no single well-established case either of rabies or hydrophobia. This experience of our society which makes it a point to look into all reports of rabies and hydrophobia is confirmed by the experience of the most eminent physicians. Dr. Landon Carter Gray publicly stated before the New York Academy of Medicine that "there was not a neurologist in New York who had seen a case in his practice." Dr. Birdsall said that he had never seen a case of rabies, but that he had seen cases of simulated hydrophobia from fright excited by the bite or scratch of a dog. Dr. H. P. Loomis said that "of 20,000 necropsies at Bellevue Hospital, eight cases of alleged hydrophobia showed no gross pathological lesion." Dr. Charles W. Dulles, of Philadelphia, examined seventy-eight cases of supposed hydrophobia and pronounced the great majority of them to be utterly incredible and wholly spurious; and it is a remarkable fact that no one "has yet claimed the large money award offered by various kennel clubs and several physicians to any one producing a well authenticated case of hydrophobia in man or beast."

It is hardly necessary to say more on this subject, and yet it may be advisable to do so, because the popular belief in hydrophobia amounts so nearly to a superstition that it can probably be suppressed by nothing but superabundant evidence. When we read of cases of hydrophobia, what we have already said may be sufficient to cast some discredit upon them, but when all the symptoms popularly supposed to be connected with that fell disease do actually occur, what is to be said against this? When a man or woman is writhing in agony, and gives every symptom of hydrophobia, shall we say that all this horrible suffering does not exist? Surely not. And yet, those very symptoms, even when they are most awful, may be, and often are, the product of a diseased and super-excited imagination. When man thinks of food, his mouth waters, because nature supplies saliva not only to food, but to the very thought of food. Nothing is more curious than this response of the physical system to the operations of the mind. Dr. Matthew Woods, in an admirable pamphlet on Mimetic Diseases, speaks of the familiar fact that "at the close of many discourses delivered from the Chair of the Practice of Medicine, the professor is privately consulted by students suffering from all the symptoms described; and this imitative peculiarity is not limited to such ailments as disease of the heart, but some have been known to become incapable of motion and sensation in the right or left half of the body, during a realistic lecture on cerebral apoplexy; others seized with violent pain in the knee during and elucidation of the symptoms and pathology of Pott's disease, while there are reports of students acquiring all the subjective symptoms of dislocation or fracture, because of the impression made upon their minds by the lecturer while discussing these surgical states."

Physicians and philosopaers perfectly understand the effect of "expectant attention" which has been the cause not only of individual diseases, but of marvelous epidemics in various parts of the world. Dr. Woods believes hydrophobia in human beings to be a mimetic disease caused by expectant dread, and not by innoculation with the virus of a rabid animal. There can be no soundness, he says, in a disturbed mind or in a disturbed body, and he adds the question, "Can we not hope for the time when 'hydrophobia' also may be relegated to the limbo of abandoned vagaries?"

Dr. Woods has shown only that the subjective symptoms of disease, and even of the dislocation of joints or the fracture of bones, are often induced by imagination, and that the influence of expectant attention does, in fact, cause not only individual suffering, but fearful epidemics. His conclusion is legitimate that the influence of imagination and expectant attention in a person who has been bitten by a dog and is in terror of hydrophobia may induce the symptoms of that disease. All such cases must, of course, be clearly distinguished from genuine hydrophobia, if, indeed, there is such a disease—that is to say, the rabies of the dog transferd to the human body. But is there, in fact, any hydrophobia that is really caused by the bite of a rabid dog?

Dr. Charles W. Dulles, the eminent lecturer on the history of medicine at the University of Pennsylvania, "has corresponded on this subject with most of the distinguished medical men in Europe." He has been repeatedly appointed by the medical societies of the State of Pennsylvania to investigate rabies. Dr. Woods says that he has also "performed the almost incredible task of investigating, either personally or by correspondence, every case of hydrophobia reported in the newspapers of the United States for the past sixteen years." The result of all this patient and conscientious work has not only brought Dr. Dulles to the conclusion that "hydrophobia is extremely rare," but has also inclined him to believe that "there is no such specific malady," since he has failed, "after sixteen years of investigation, to find a single case on record that can be conclusively proved to have resulted from the bite of a dog or any other cause." We need hardly observe that this fact, for a fact it is, reduces the probability that any supposed case of hydrophobia has been really caused by the bite of a dog almost to zero. And then this other conclusion of necessity follows, that the cases of supposed hydrophobia which do undoubtedly occur from time to time are almost, if not universally, caused by the influence of imagination excited by dread of a disease which probably has no existence. In view of these facts, is it not a duty to humanity to endeavor in every possible way to combat the superstition which dreads hydrophobia from every overheated dog in the dog days? Is it not time for the press to refuse to publish reports which tend to spread a disease which is not rabies transferred to the human subject, but which is the spontaneous product of imagination, and is, therefore, called by at least one eminent medical man by the name of "newspaper hydrophobia."

So, at least, many eminent physicians believe, and among them the following:

Dr. Parvin, of Jefferson Medical College, says: "During an experience of forty-four years as a physician, I have not seen a case of hydrophobia, and I am of the opinion that if newspapers could be prevailed upon to talk less about it, the number of so-called attacks of the disease would be greatly diminished."

Dr. Thomas G. Morton, of the College of Physicians, says that during a period of thirty years as one of the surgeons of the Pennsylvania Hospital, he has known of but two cases of hydrophobia brought three for treatment, but even these were questionable.

Dr. Mills, of the University of Pennsylvania, says that while he does not feel justified in saying that hydrophobia does not exist, he has taken special pains to find a clear case in the human subject, and has not yet succeeded.

Dr. Hearn, of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, says: "I am of the opinion that the bite of a dog is no more dangerous than the scratch of a pin or the puncture of an infectious nail, but because of the exaggerated accounts, the picture of hydrophobia is so stamped upon the public mind that the thought of it, after being bitten by a dog, throws imaginative people into such panics of nervous excitement that they unconsciously reproduce its supposed symptoms." After twenty years' practice in private and in many of the hospitals of Philadelphia, Dr. Hearn declares that he has "never seen a case of hydrophobia either in man or dog," nor does he know any other physician or surgeon who has. Other eminent physicians and surgeons agree ;and their caser seems to us to be fairly made out that hydrophobia, in at least a vast majority of cases, is a disease of the imagination which simulates the characteristics ascribed—and very inaccurately ascribed, by popular superstition—to the disease called rabies, when transplanted to the human subject.

It is fair to suppose that Dr. Butler would not presume to combat the statements or evidence of very prominent physicians and surgeons, such as have been quoted.

Thanking you for your space, I am,

Sincerely,

EVA L. VAN HOESEN,
Special Officer S. P. C. A.

PARKER FIELD WILL HAVE SUMMER BALL

Junior and Senior Leagues Will Start for the Summer Next Week.

Four teams were present at the meeting of the Parker Field Junior Baseball League yesterday morning, at Parker Field. The teams that applied for franchises this year are the Laurels, last years champions; Red Stars, runnerup last year, Laurel seconds and Arrow A. C. The Parker Field management would like two more teams in this league so as to make it more interesting. The schedule will be made out in a few days and the opening games played next week.

The meeting of the Senior league that was called for the afternoon did not materialize as only two teams showed up. The Athletics and Ironsides were present but the meeting was adjourned until a later date when more teams will be present. Owing to the illness of Supervisor George W. Wriston, Ralph Runyon, the local athlete, took charge of the meeting.

F. G. THOMAS WANTS TO BE STATE SENATOR

Frederic G. Thomas, of Somerville, announced yesterday his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for State Senator from Somerset county. It has been currently reported for some time that Mr. Thomas' friends were urging him to accept the nomination, but he hesitated to undertake the work of a campaign. Since he has decided to enter the lists he will put up a determined fight. Mr. Thomas was born in New York city, but has lived in Somerset county since he was seven years old, and has been a resident of Somerville for upwards of twenty years, his early youth being spent at Flagtown. He is a merchant of Somerville conducting business in his own building, one of the largest in the county, which was the first apartment house to be erected in Somerville. He has been the president of the Somerville Merchants' Association since its organization, besides being the president and promoter of the Somerset County Automobile Association, both of which have large memberships. Mr. Thomas comes of Democratic parentage, and doubtless will make things lively in political circles in Somerset county this fall, it is said.

Other likely candidates for the nomination will be the present Republican Senator from the county, W. W. Smalley, who will undoubtedly seek re-election and whose nomination will be unopposed. It is also strongly hinted that the Progressives will place former Mayor Charles C. Kenyon, of Somerville, in the race for the nomination, his many friends urging him to make the run.

MAKE YOURS A PUBLIC SERVICE STORE

This is the age of service. The rewards of today go to the men who give the most in return.

Translated for you, Mr. Merchant, this means that the customers are certain to patronize the store that will give them what they want when they want it.

Cut prices may bring some trade, but better service will bring more.

This is the age when people are reading the advertising in their daily newspapers because they are finding it a distinct part of the service they expect their newspapers to give.

When a nationally distributed article of merit is advertised in the newspapers a demand for it sets in right away.

They are going to turn to the store that lets them know it has the article. That store will be giving them the service they want at that particular moment.

If it is a good article they are going to remember the store where they got it and will come back to that store again.

Co-operate with the manufacturers who come into the newspapers of your town to exploit their goods and you will be building business for yourself.

REST NEAR IN BAILEY MURDER

Prosecutor Has Clew to Slayer of Woman.

WIFE SUSPECTED HUSBAND

Dictograph Found In Office of Doctor. She Admits She Installed It to Hear Him Talk to Woman Patients—Undergoes Severe Grilling.

Freeport, N. Y., July 2.—That an arrest is near for the murder of Mrs. William D. Bailey, who was shot in the office of Dr. Edwin Carman, was admitted by District Attorney Lewis J. Smith of Nassau country, who stated he had a real clew as to the identity of the murderer.

Mr. Smith made this admission after he had put Mrs. Edwin Carman through a two hour examination during which she admitted that because she had been suspicious of her husband she had installed a detective dictaphone in his office. The receiving of the machine was placed in the clothes closet of her room directly above the doctor's office. She admitted that she had frequently listened when the doctor had women patients in his office.

"I could hear very much, but what I did hear was a great comfort to me," said Mrs. Carman in admitting that her suspicions of her husband were ill founded. The only motive conceivable to the district attorney, he said, was that some insane former patient had done the shooting.

"I can't imagine any one trying to kill Mrs. Bailey," he said. "She lived near me in Hempstead, and I knew her well."

He said that Dr. Carman did not remember ever having attended an insane patient, but had sat on insanity commissions appointed by the court to judge the mental conditions of criminals.

Story Differs.

Mr. Smith's story of the examination of Mrs. Carman differs strongly in one important essential from the story told by George A. Levy, attorney for both Mr. and Mrs. Carman. Mr Smith said that no revolver was found in the house, but that an old rusty revolver which could not be shot of was found in the garage.

Mr. Levy said that besides this revolver a new 22 caliber automatic was produced voluntarily by Mrs. Carman who said her husband carried it when he drove one of his autos. He has two one for sick calls in the country. Mr Levy was positive that this had been handed to the district attorney, who denied having received it. The examination was over so late that the two men did not confront each other.

Another discrepancy is found in the statements of the officials as to the time of the shooting. The police blotters show that it was reported to them at 9 o'clock. Dr. Carman said he called up the police immediately. W. W Black, next door neighbor, who heard the shot, says it was fired at about 7:50, or an hour and ten minutes before the police were notified. Mr. Black fixes the time at before 8 because he and his family took an 8 o'clock trolley for a ride out into the country.

Mrs. Bailey's husband is prostrated. He is William B. Bailey, a New York hat manufacturer, and he lives in a comfortable house at William street and Thorn avenue, Hempstead. He was allowed to take his wife's body home after an examination by the coroner's physician, which showed the bullet had entered the right rear shoulder, traveled down and across and pierced the lung.

Mr. Bailey has two children, Madeline, seventeen years old, and Harry, nine. With the stricken family yesterday was Mrs. Jennie Duryea, mother of the dead woman. Mrs. Duryea belongs to an old Long Island family and owns much property here.

Installed Dictograph.

The man who installed the dictograph in the home of Dr. Carman, at the request of his wife, is Francis Calvin Burnell. He said last night that on May 25 he received instructions from the General Acoustic company to go to Dr. Carman's home in Freeport with a machine and to set it up in accordance with directions to be given him by an elderly lady who would let him into the house. He was to hold his hat in his left hand as a signal to her that he was the person expected.

He arrived there at 2 o'clock in the afternoon and everything went according to schedule, except that instead of putting the dictograph receiver in a clothes closet he put it in a drawer of Mrs. Carman's desk. He said that the transmitter was set up behind a case of surgical instruments and that the wire was run under the linoleum of the floor and then through the hall behind the telephone wires. The hall is trimmed with white and talcum powder was sprinkled over the black dictograph wire to conceal it. Carrying the wire in this way to Mrs. Carman's room Burnell said that he bored a hole through the back of the desk and let the wire into a drawer where he attached the receiver.

JERSEY EDITORS HAVE BIG TIME

Fifty-eighth Annual Outing Proves Splendid Success.

JAUNT TO RHODE ISLAND.

Boat, Train and Auto Rides Combine to Make Delightful Trip For One Hundred Members of New Jersey Press Association, Their Wives, Families and Friends—J. Ward Richardson Elected President.

By ISABELLA H. DEMAREST.

June 26, 1914. Old Sol was in a melting mood, and the members of the New Jersey Press association, on whom he showered his caresses, reciprocated his attentions and in a melting state reached the Norwich line pier in New York city late that after noon. They came, in taxis, in trolleys, by the subway or in the antique pedestrian fashion for the fifty-eighth annual meeting of the clan. Over 100 strong, they gathered, singly or in groups, editors, with their wives and families; invited guests, business acquaintances, publishers, reporters, men noted in the professional world, all of whom had learned either by experience or reputation that the press lights of New Jersey always had a delightful outing and in consequence were eager to be one of them. At 5:30 sharp the Lowell gave its parting whistle. A few short throbs and the happy company were off for fresh fields and new scenes, "little Rhody" being the state and Watch Hill the objective point, where they were destined to set up their banners or, more literally, display their badges.

PRESIDENT J. WARD RICHARDSON.

The great city's streets and apartment houses faded gradually from view, and Long Island sound, calm and serene, bore them on its placid waters, evidently doing its best to be so attractive that in coming days these voyagers would desire to be again piloted over its surface.

A fine family dinner well cooked and served helped to fill up the measure of content, the opportunity following for renewing acquaintanceship, greeting old friends and welcoming new ones.

Staterooms were sought comparatively early for a view of the rising sun at New London, Conn., was on the program, from whence a special car attached to the 6:30 a. m., train proclaimed an "onward" progress. Through sleeping Connecticut towns, past quiet farmhouses and a diversified landscape of highlands and lowlands, the train sped to Stonington, Conn., where the disembarking process was again gone through, and a dash made for a boat which looked too small to accommodate the company, but proved its capacities much greater than its seemings and carried all with the impedimenta of "bundles, bandbox and umbrils" to the wharf at Watch Hill, where the New Watch Hill House opened its hospitable doors for the housing of the New Jersey folk who were seeking rest and refreshment for body and mind. The sail in the tiny boat had been most charming. Little Narragansett bay had smiled a happy welcome to the new comers, and the tang of the salty atmosphere had increased awakening appetite so that the fine breakfast served on arrival, eaten with the accompanying sauce of hunger, was a most delicious repast.

An Ideal Location.

New Watch Hill House, situated on an eminence back of the beach, gives the eye from its broad verandas and its windows a sweep both rare and beautiful of ocean, bay, hills, homes, beaches and islands. Under the varying changes of sunshine and shadow the waves glint and dance or frown and repel, while the wild waste of waters is humanized by the nearby reaches of hill and valley, beautified by greenery, with nestling cottages and princely homes.

New Watch Hill House, for the past six years under the management of Colonel A. E. Dick, is superbly kept, its cuisine of the finest, its rooms spacious and harmonious. It caters to the best in every particular, and the New Jersey guests were soon at home.

The Westerly board of trade, having learned of the advent of these literateurs of New Jersey, with charming hospitality offered them an automobile drive, and at 10 o'clock a line of over thirty autos appeared, were quickly filled and sped away over hill and valley on splendid roads and now and then through dusty crossroads, stopping at points which it was thought would be of interest to the visitors, giving them an excellent idea of the lay of the land, the continuous line of inlets from the sea, which were like placid mountain lakes; the stretches of beaches with their rocky points, over which the Atlantic gently rippled and played.

PANORAMIC VIEW OF WATCH HILL, R. I.

Not only were natural beauties and oddities seen, but the things men do which call for the strenuous toil of the hundreds—quarries, granite works, rotary press works, thread mills, even a wonderful continuous pump, which will probably revolutionize fire fighting.

Westerly was the turning point, a town of 8,500 inhabitants with a million dollar endowed park, fine library postoffice and commercial building and large manufacturing plants.

It not only received due exploitation and consideration, but also some of the seaside towns where homes are built for the occupation of Jack and Jill and their little brood when the year's daily routine can be set aside for a recuperation which will bring added power and worthier effort. It was a ride long to be remembered.

Officers Are Elected.

The afternoon brought its quota of walks and talks to the wives, children and guests of the company, while the members of the association held their annual meeting for the election of officers and executive committee; the discussion of plans for the coming year; the hearing of papers prepared on special topics of interest to the association, and the remembering for a short time those who during the twelve months had passed from labor to reward.

J. Ward Richardson was elected president; A. C. Studer, vice president, W. B. R. Mason, treasurer; John W. Clift, secretary.

The executive committee is as follows: D. P. Olmstead, Perth Amboy News; W. M. Dear, Jersey City Journal; J. W. Naylor, Allentown Messenger; A. S. Crane, Elizabeth Journal; J. Z. Demarest, Bergen Record; Charles H. Folwell, Mount Holly Mirror.

The president, D. P. Olmstead, gave a general address on the work of the year. The papers presented were: One by Henry Berdan on "More Truthful Advertising," read by W. A. Sweeney; one on "Agents' Commission," by A. C. Studer; one by E. H. Tomlinson on "Press Agents—What Shall We Do With Them?" and one by W. J. Lee on "Theatrical Advertising."

Memorial papers were given by J. W. Richardson on B. F. Ladd, A. S. Crane on J. E. Clarey, C. H. Frost on B. J. Carney, J. W. Clift on I. R. Pierson and J. Z. Demarest on Caleb Van Husen Whitbeck.

At 7 o'clock the order of the day was the annual banquet, and every one was present to enjoy the delicious menu and its after dinner accompaniment of amusing, interesting and helpful speeches.

President D. P. Olmstead was an excellent toastmaster, blending wit and wisdom in his happy presentation of those who were expected for a little time to speak to and think for the association.

Dr. John Champlain of the Westerly board of trade complimented Jersey resorts, but put Watch Hill at the top of such places, welcoming the New Jerseyites to this section that they might see for themselves the beauty and advantages of the region, which had organized press clubs of two by the hundreds during past summer seasons. With many jests and peals of laughter as compliments he played his part of host most effectively.

Rev. Dr. John Handley, the association "chaplain," told of his admiration for New England towns, which had not been lessened by his added knowledge of them gained on this trip. The press and the pulpit he considered the two greatest community factors for good, except character, and urged the cultivation of both personal and newspaper character, which, united, would mean a revolution of civic righteousness and general betterment.

G. B. Utter of the Westerly Sun seconded Dr. Champlain's welcome and invited a return of the visitors and such a boom throughout New Jersey for this section from this trip that there would be an influx of visits from the "mosquito coast." He desired, however, that the future slogan of the newcomers should be, not "Westerly! Oh, yes; it is near Watch Hill," but "Oh, yes; Watch Hill is near Westerly!"

Judge Lyon Chief Speaker.

Judge Adrian Lyon of Perth Amboy was the chief speaker of the evening. He spoke of the growing elimination of border lines, the nation becoming one big state, with the centralization of power in the national government; of the unrest which prevails throughout the world, which, squarely met, would mean a growth in brotherhood and in uplifting power and for the right direction of which the press would be largely responsible, and urged the facing of this situation by the New Jersey press with the optimisms of truth and love.

John O. H. Pitney of Morristown, N. J., brother of Mahlon Pitney of the United States supreme court, welcomed the Jerseyites as a fellow Jerseyman and a cottager of Watch Hill of many years' standing who knew and appreciated the beauties and excellencies of both states. He drew from memory's collection some humorous and interesting reminiscences.

President Olmstead passed over to the incoming president, J. Ward Richardson of the Bridgeton News, the insignia of office and placed the remaining work of the toastmaster in his hands. Mr. Richardson accepted his new work with becoming dignity, giving a surplus of avoirdupois, according to Mr. Dear of the Jersey Journal, as the reason for his occupancy of the presidential chair and promised loyalty to the traditions of the clan. An adjournment was then taken to the dancing parlor, where the hesitation, tango and maxixe held sway for a time. Saturday night the rain fell, a boon to the dwellers of the coast who had been anxious for its coming, and ushered in a somewhat cold and overcast Sunday which was not mirrored in the warmth and comfort of the New Watch Hill House.

Many attended the Episcopal services in the chapel, enjoying an hour of worship which crowned the day. In the afternoon a party of the gentlemen visited the works of C. B. Cottrell & Sons in Westerly and the plant of the Westerly Sun, the owners of which, being stanch believers in Seventh Day doctrines, "remember" that day of the week and "keep it holy," ignoring the change to the first day after the resurrection of our Lord.

Sunday evening the time honored custom of a Sabbath service in the temporary home of the association was regarded, and all gathered for a song service and an evening meditation. Miss Ridgely of Bridgeton and Fred Clift of Summit favored the appreciative audience with charming and appropriate solos. All enjoyed uniting in some of the grand old hymns of love, adoration and hope, and Dr. Handley spoke on "What Is Your Life?" He presented the created life, the inherited life, the individual life, the spiritual life, all of which combined were only the successful life when surrendered to and piloted by the triune God, Father, Son and Holy Spirit. A shaking of hands with each one's neighbor was the formal benediction which was to send all forth to new interpretations of life through helpful association with humankind.

The Kalkhof orchestra, which had just arrived, followed with a number of fine musical selections, and Mr. Clift and Miss Ridgely were again heard. The orchestral combination is one of artists—B. A. Kalkhof, cellist and leader; Peter Cooper and Edward Sutton, first and second violins, and Julius Schendel, who is a born accompanyist as well as an artistic piano soloist.

Their renditions rounded out a beautiful harmonious day which sent all to their rooms strengthened and enthused for coming morrows.

Monday was spent in visits to the forts, lighthouse and other interesting places, walks, rides and quiet selections of beautiful scenes for memory's halls.

Evening saw the departure for New London, Conn., and the return sail to the great metropolis which was reached Tuesday morning, when goodbys were said, and hope voiced for a next year's renewal of association and comradeship, and all went their separate ways to meet the coming labors of the individual hours.

—If you have a really desirable house or apartment to rent, your "ad" will constitute GOOD NEWS to some anxious people in this city.

Facts Versus Fancies.

Richard Le Gallienne was sympathizing with a young writer whose book of poetry had been refused by twelve publishers.

"Real lovers of poetry," said Mr. Le Gallienne, "are unfortunately becoming rare. Too many people nowadays are like the judge.

"This judge was recommended by a poetic friend to read Shelley. The great man of the law said he supposed he ought to read a little poetry, and, having heard so much of Shelley, he would try him.

"'And what do you think of it?' said his friend to the judge after he had waded through a few pages of 'Epipsychidion.' 'Isn't it beautiful?'

"'Well, well—oh, yes. I daresay it is,' said the judge. 'But what I want to know is when are we going to get at the facts?'"—Washington Star.

The Supreme Court.

The supreme court of the United States is supposed to be strictly non-political, free from all parties and above all parties. It was designed by the fathers of the constitution to act as the "governor," or "flywheel," of our system of government, maintaining justice and right in the midst of the wrangling factions and clashing interests. According to the theory, the supreme court is to know nothing but the constitution and the laws that are made in pursuance thereof and in every matter that is brought up before it to hold the balance even, regardless of everything else.—New York American.

Copyright, 1913, by the Bobbs-Merrill Co.

CHAPTER VIII.
The Glad Hand.

"I SEE," returned Wallingford, nodding his head and pouring them another drink. "In the beginning you get some good iron ore from some place or another and have an assay made merely for the benefit of your brother Ralph, who sells the stock. In the meantime you incorporate two companies, a largely capitalized mine company and an operating company of small capitalization. You make a contract between the two which will allow the operating company to reap most of the profits. You sell the mining company stock and hold the operating company stock yourselves, so that if you do happen to strike a winner you still have the big end of it."

"That's the trick," admitted Alec, delighted to find some one who appreciated the Dougalbobber cleverness, and both the brothers grinned thinly. "Only we never hit a winner."

"What do you think of the prospects of this mine?" asked Wallingford, bending forward with apparent anxiety.

The brothers glanced at each other quickly.

"The ore looks fine to me," declared Alec.

"I don't think we ever had so good a chance to strike a real one," added Frank.

"You know, I'd like to take a gamble myself," said Wallingford, smiling, his eyes opened to the most innocent roundness of which they were capable. "How much of the operating company stock would you sell?"

The brothers glanced at each other incredulously. Could this be possible?

"Well, of course, we'd never let go of control," asserted Frank, with a sober face and not looking toward Alec lest their eyes sparkle and betray them.

"That means that you'll sell 499 shares," Wallingford quickly calculated. "You have in the operating company 1,000 shares of $100 per value each. I've sold the biggest part of the 499 shares for you to my home buyers, but I think I'll take the balance of it and keep it for myself."

The brothers dared not look anywhere near each other.

"We'll have to charge you par for it," ventured Frank, controlling his voice with an effort, while Alec tapped nervously upon the floor with his toe.

Wallingford only laughed at them and did the honors with such refreshment as he had to offer. "You'll do nothing of the sort," he assured them. "You'll be tickled stiff to sell it to me at 70. You don't think you have a mine, anyhow."

They wrangled for a half hour over the price, but they finally compromised at 80. The Dougalbobber brothers laughed all the way home, while Wallingford chuckled himself to sleep.

The next day, when the train came, Wallingford, who made it a practice to extend the glad hand of fellowship to every possible home seeker, was called over to the office by Alec.

"There'll be quite a bunch gettin' off o' this train," said the red topped one, rubbing his hands together in anticipatory glee. "You stay here and watch the fun. It'll be a good tip for you, brother."

Wallingford winced at this fraternal expression, but kept his own counsel, of long habit, and inspected the curious arrangement of the office with interest. The rough board shanty, small as it was, had one narrow room across the front, and in the rear partition of this were two doors, one leading into an inclosure—a mere cell, in fact—which had no other openings except for one tiny window high up under the eaves. The other door led into a compartment that was barely wide enough to contain a bench at one side of the passage to the rear entrance. In the narrow front room sat a stupendously broad shouldered and short necked and wide jawed man whom Alec introduced as Mr. McCorkle.

McCorkle's grin in reply was a crevice. "Get your money down on it quick," he said to Wallingford. "It's all over before it starts."

"Here they come," he explained.

Through augur holes bored in the door Wallingford and Alec watched the proceedings. McCorkle opened to the hol pollof.

"One at a time now!" he bellowed and let in a clay cluttered digger and delver, after which he bolted the door. "Where'd yuh work last?" he demanded, and followed this with a string of usual employment questions, which the man answered quite satisfactorily, though he mumbled it and twisted his hat. "All right," decided McCorkle, filling out a time slip. "The boss'll sign this for you, and then you k'n go right to work."

This being Alec's cue, he opened the door and stepped in. Both Dougalbobber and McCorkle watched the man narrowly. Alec, slowly advancing, took the slip and, after another searching look at the man, signed it, glancing up furtively at the fellow as he did so. Alec rejoined Wallingford and closed the door after himself. McCorkle opened the front door, let out his man and admitted another one. Four laborers in succession passed muster in the same way, and then came one who went through swimmingly until Alec Dougalbobber appeared in the doorway, when the applicant's jaw dropped.

"Alec Shellbark!" he exclaimed.

McCorkle arose quietly and opened the door of the room which had no other outlet. "Just wait in there," he directed.

"No, I won't wait," declined the laborer. "I don't believe I want a job, anyhow."

"You'll wait in there," declared McCorkle, stepping on the other side of the fellow.

"Not on your life!" refused the man. "Let me out o' this. I wouldn't work for that Shellbark outfit"—

Mr. McCorkle put one enormous hairy paw against the man's shoulder, pushed him into the cell with a shove that sent him spinning against the rear wall, closed the door and calmly bolted it. Then he let in the next applicant.

Two more trouble makers came out of that day's grist, and when all the lucky applicants had plodded off up the ravine Alec stepped inside with Wallingford and sent in his six paid gladiators, who had been waiting eagerly in the rear. The "rumpus" began immediately, and it lasted for about five minutes, during which time the little frame office rocked and shivered and resounded to the thumps of heads and heels until it finally gained relief by belching nine superheated men out at the rear door. Three of them ran down the track, headed due southeast, while the other six followed, pelting them with rocks.

McCorkle, who was too blase and ennui to care to take part in the outdoor portion of the gymnastics, came to the rear door, with a slightly bored expression.

"Kind of a tame bunch this morning," he remarked apologetically, "but it's enough to give you a tip on how we handle 'em."

"That's Brother Ralph's idea," said Alec, with proper family pride. "Simple, isnt it? We never have any trouble around our camp."

What there was about that simple remark to make Wallingford laugh so heartily Alec could not understand.

On that day Ralph Dougalbobber walked in upon Blackie Daw with this startling information: "The price now is 60 per share, Mr. Daw. We have 300 men upon our payroll."

"No wonder you have to sell stock," said Blackie.

In the two trips that he had taken to the city, Wallingford had noted upon the banks of a cold looking stream, about ten miles down the track, the remains of a mistaken little sawmill, which had long since gone out of business because there was nothing to saw. It had possessed a big, weather tight tool and stock house, however, and in pursuant of the happy idea that the Dougalbobbers had given him, Wallingford bought the place for $250; then, pleased with himself, he hurried away to complete his errand of mercy. About three miles below Dougalville a forlorn country road crossed the railroad track, and Wallingford made this point shortly after the up train had passed. He waited patiently. In about an hour two men came down the track, one limping and the other occasionally holding his hand to his jaw, and both cursing.

"Hello, boys!" hailed Wallingford. "Been up to the Dougalville mine hunting a job?"

Both men stopped and glowered savagely at Wallingford, then the man who limped made a fervent speech, while the other one listened in envious admiration.

"Thanks," said Wallingford, much refreshed. "I'm glad to find you in this reasonable frame of mind. Here's $10 for you."

"I k'n lay him all out cussin', but my jaw hurts," insinuated the other man.

"Here's $5 for your willing spirit," offered Wallingford with a chuckle. "That's only grub stakes, boys. You're both hired from this very minute, at your usual mine wages. Seven miles farther on there's an old sawmill, an old straw stack and a bunk house. They're mine. Kick the padlock off the door of the bunk house and make yourself at home. There's a real town five miles farther on. When you get rested, drill down there and bring back all the provisions you can carry, because there's to be more of you, and I want you all fed on raw meat. What's your name?" he asked of the limping man, a brawny giant who showed all his gums.

"Mike Dimple," replied the man defiantly.

"Well, Mike, you're foreman of the works," announced Wallingford without a grin, for which Mr. Dimple voted him a gentleman. "Your job will be to pick out the best, the bravest and the truest of the yeomen who have hurried away from Dougalville. Hire these until you have twenty. Give the sickly ones a hearty meal and pass them on."

"Rest," replied Wallingford, his big pink face wreathing itself in a sudden smile of such cheer that both of the men smiled in sheer fellowship. "Just rest and eat and sleep, and take a little healthy exercise and keep in good training. I may want you all to come back to Dougalville some day and have your own way."

"Bless the day!" exclaimed Mike Dimple, and forgetting his limp, he jumped up and cracked his heels together. "Bless the day, and thank you, sir! I'll get you the finest bunch of rowdies together that ever tore down a circus tent."

"I thought I told you not to fight with bigger boys than yourself," chided Wallingford, surveying the wreck, with mingled compassion and amusement.

"I wasn't," confessed the defiantly truthful Toad. "He was one size littler than me, but he was some fighter. I guess he could nearly lick a man. He's most licked me."

"What brought on the battle?" asked Wallingford.

"He said you was a crook," explained Toad, and then, with refreshing candor, "Mebbe he was right, but what I licked him for was for sayin' it."

"Who was the boy and what else did he say?" inquired Wallingford, seriously interested.

"Carrots Saghorn. He's got freckles, too, but they ain't as many as mine, so they have to name him after his hair. Gee, he's a good fighter! He won't wash his hands in the winter time because it cracks his knuckles."

Business being business, Wallingford dismissed, with a chuckle, the vivid picture of the red streaks cut into the black hands. "What did he say?" he insisted.

"Well, his paw come from Cinderburg, an' Carrots says that his paw says that what Big Bill Slammet said about you was so, an', then Carrots said, his own self, that you was a crook, an' then I smashed him, an' he smashed back, an' they made a ring an' hollered, only, say, more of 'em hollered, 'Sick 'im, Freckles'—that's me, you know, Freckles, in this town—than hollered, 'Sick 'im, Carrots!'"

"What else did he say?" Wallingford was anxious to discover.

"Nothin'," declared Toad indignantly. "He didn't have no chance. But, gee, that kid's some fighter! Say! He rubs snake oil on his muscles every mornin' to make 'em limber. Ketches the snakes hisself and puts 'em in a bottle an' sets 'em in the sun. He stands this way, like the picture of the regular champions, you know. But I licked him. I k'n lick any kid that makes faces to scare you when he fights."

Later on, after he had applied a soothing poultice to the eye of Toad and had put that earnest champion to bed, Wallingford went up to see Mr. Saghorn.

"Is this Mr. Steven Saghorn?" asked Wallingford pleasantly.

"Un-hunh," replied the man, looking indifferently at a point about ten feet ahead of his toes.

"I am Mr. Wallingford, Mr. Saghorn. I sold you your house, you know."

"Un-hunh."

"They tell me you came from Cinderburg," said J. Rufus, trying to give the stubborn conversation another yank.

"Un-hunh."

"I understand there has been some criticism of me in that town," he went on desperately and winced in advance of Saghorn's answer.

"Un-hunh."

"Entirely unjust, I assure you, Mr. Saghorn," explained Wallingford, as suave as a roll of butter, even under these discouraging circumstances. "It is true that I helped Mr. Bang incorporate his Sun Engine company. I believed in that engine. I thought it the greatest thing in the world. But I am a mere promoter, not an engineer, and it was not my fault that the infernal engine wouldn't work. You see that, don't you, Mr. Saghorn?"

"Un-hunh."

"Thank you," returned Wallingford, delighted with his unexpected success. "I'm glad to find you so reasonable. I was afraid that possibly you might have heard some of the unkind things that I have heard were said about me after I left Cinderburg; and, of course, I am more than delighted to find that you do not. If any one in Dougalville repeats these things in your hearing you will be kind enough to correct them, won't you, Mr. Saghorn?"

"No," announced Mr. Saghorn, and, knocking the ashes out of his pipe against his horny palm, he arose and went into his portable house and shut his portable door. Mr. Wallingford went home.

By Alice Gibson

Silk is being used a great deal for separate skirts, especially taffeta. These silk skirts are combined with nifty little jackets in black or a contrasting color and may serve for almost any afternoon function. For sports and general wear, worsteds, shepherd checks, crêpes, poplins, gabardines and other novelty stuffs are being made up; tweed and Scotch homespun are excellent materials for separate skirts. No. 8327 is a three-gored model with the fullness at the top, laid in softly about the waist. There is a narrow stitched belt which may be used or omitted. This skirt is a bit wider at the bottom than we have been having them lately and is therefore practical for walking and sports.

It may be made up in size 24, with 2⅝ yards of 36-inch material or 2⅜ yards of 42-inch material.

The pattern is cut in five sizes, 22 to 30.

Be sure to give right size, passing the tape tightly around the smallest part of the waist and loosely around the widest part of the hips. It may be obtained by filling out the coupon and enclosing 15 cents in stamps or coin to the Pattern Department of this paper.

HISTORY DISCOVERED AFTER SIXTY YEARS OF OBSCURITY

In a modest little house on the outskirts of historic old Jamestown, Va., there died recently a very aged but remarkable woman. She had lived in this house since the oldest resident could remember and for over 66 years she had received every month a 10-pound draft on the Bank of England. Her life was spent with her art work, all of her designs and patterns going abroad, most of them to the great mills of England, Scotland and Switzerland.

She was evidently an artist of great ability, for among her effects were found some exceedingly rare sketches and paintings.

A recent letter bearing the signature of Jane Arden Macfarland, revealed the fact that this mysterious little woman was the grandmother of Jane Arden, "the artist" and creator of the "Imperial Patterns," who was recently presented to the Queen of England and was married to the only son of Sir Edward Macfarland, the Linen Prince of Scotland.

The "Imperial Patterns" were the masterpiece of Jane Arden and were so named by Queen Mary who adopted them for her court costumes and pronounced them the most beautiful designs ever created.

In order to encourage and foster this character of art, this entire sheet of designs have been secured and are now being offered by the Press at what it costs to distribute them.

The most ordinary patterns of this general class costs 10 cents each. This wonderful collection of 160 designs at 10 cents each would cost more than $16, but with one coupon and 48 cents you can secure this entire collection. This is a real opportunity for every woman who loves art and believes in the beautiful.

By MARGARET LAWRENCE

A SIMPLE AND DECORATIVE DESIGN FOR A PLATTER-CLOTH.

Platter-cloths are a great saving to the table-cloths, for the carver is often unfortunate enough to spill a piece of meat, thereby spoiling the appearance of the whole table. Nothing affects one's appetite quite so quickly as the condition of the table, and often one who is not hungry may be tempted to eat, if the table and food look attractive.

This very simple yet decorative design for a platter-cloth, No. 14576, is 12½ inches wide by 18 inches long, but a larger cloth may be made by omitting the scalloped edge and finishing it with a hemstitched hem. It may be made of a fine quality of round-thread linen and embroidered in solid work, eyelets and French knots. If a less elaborate design is desired, the French knots, which appear between each eyelet connecting the leaves, may be omitted without spoiling the effect. These, however, must be cut from the tissue paper before stamping the design. A particularly attractive effect may be gained, if a more elaborate design is wanted by substituting drawnwork for these lines of dots and French knots.

Guaranteed, hot-iron transfer pattern will be supplied to readers upon receipt of price, 15 cents.

HOW TO USE BEETS.

BEETS stewed and dressed with butter and seasoning may be served satisfactorily with almost any menu. In addition to this popular way of serving them, there are many others whose merits need only be known to be appreciated.

Novel Ways of Stewing.

Stewed Beets.—Stew beets in the oven until they are tender; take them out and when cold remove the outside. Cut them in slices and pour a little vinegar over them. Then put them into a stewpan with as much gravy as will cover them. Simmer for half an hour. Thicken the gravy before serving with some cream in which you have mixed a slice or two of beet beaten in a mortar.

Combined With Onions.

Beets With Piquant Sauce.—Take two or three beets and wash them clean. Be careful not to break any of the fibers; otherwise they will lose their color in boiling. Boil till tender with two or three dozen small onions. When they are done take off the skin and the outside fibers of the beets and slice down. Stew in the following sauce for ten minutes. Take an ordinary sized onion, mince it small and fry it brown in a little butter. Add a little flour and brown that also. Then put in a ladleful of soup stock, the juice of a lemon and some salt and pepper. When it is done serve the onions in the center, the beets and sauce around, and serve hot.

A Popular Way.

Plain Boiled Beets.—After thoroughly washing a quart of young beets put them on to boil in cold water. Add a small handful of salt and two tablespoonfuls of vinegar. Cover the saucepan and cook for one hour or perhaps ten minutes longer than an hour. It may be necessary to add a little boiling water after three-quarters of an hour if the first has boiled away. When done skim out the beets into a pan of cold water and rub off the skins. Then put them into a stone jar (glass will do) and strain over them the liquid in which they were boiled. The vinegar keeps this from turning dark. Spread two tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar on the beets, cover and put away in a cold place.

They Fired Them Off Quickly.

Daddy's Bedtime Story — What the Birds Thought of the Fourth of July.

IT was the day after the Fourth of July, and daddy told the children that he must surely tell them about the little birds and what they thought of the wonderful Independence Day.

"Didn't they like it?" asked Evelyn.

"No," said daddy. "They were not so very happy yesterday, but I will tell you all about it, for it is quite a long story.

"You see, some of the older birds knew what the Fourth of July meant. They thought it was splendid to belong to such a fine, free country during all the other days of the year, but on the Fourth of July they did not feel so patriotic. They would have liked it very much if all the little boys and girls had sung songs, but the noise of the firecrackers they thought was most disturbing.

"There were no places where they could go that they didn't find children with firecrackers. Even in front of the farmhouses the children seemed to have firecrackers enough to last them for years.

"The old birds decided that if they went way off in the woods for the day they might get away from all the noise, so they planned to start before dawn. They went, but at the first place they thought of stopping and giving a nice little bird concert, they found a picnic party of children. They waited for a moment until the children unpacked their baskets. But the goodies to eat were not nearly so numerous as the firecrackers to fire off.

"So the birds moved on again, and again they found a picnic party and were at a loss what to do.

"The old birds were grumbling and making every one around feel just as 'grumbly' as they were, when a little song sparrow, who had been keeping very quiet during all the fuss, said:

"'Now, look here, I think it is pretty mean of us to grumble while all the little boys and girls are having such a good time. It is right for them to be patriotic, and we should not grumble about the noise they make one day in the year, when we are singing fit to burst our throats every morning just at sunrise. Besides, we should be more appreciative, for we love this free air, and we should feel proud that we can fly about and enjoy it. And, above everything else, think of the times in the spring when those little girls and boys threw crumbs to us when it was chilly, and how often in the hot days of summer we find little drinking tins in the trees filled with cool water.'

"And all the birds suddenly thought how perfectly right the song sparrow was, and they gave their concert, pretending that the big cannon crackers were huge chords of music accompanying their solos and choruses."

LADIES! DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR
Use Grandma's Sage Tea and Sulphur Recipe and Nobody Will Know.

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and abundant. Whenever any hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is mussy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," you will get this famous old recipe which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is splendid for dandruff, dry, feverish, itchy scalp and falling hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and abundant.—Adv.

PASTOR FIGHT REFEREE.

Rev. Mr. Digby Impressed by Keenness of Women Fans.

London, July 2—Bombardier Wells knocked out Colin Bell with a stiff righthand jab on the jaw in the fight for the heavyweight championship of the British empire.

The Rev. Everard Digby, vicar of St. Agatha's church, Finsbury, London, acted as ringmaster and director of the fight. A preacher who objected to the vicar's acting in this capacity tried to make his way into the ring to express his opinion, but he was ejected.

The vicar says he was impressed by the clean, decent sort of people who attended the fight and by the keenness of the women, who stood on chairs and waved their handkerchiefs, cheering for Wells at the finish.

LOCAL Y. M. H. A. OUT OF STATE LEAGUE

Plainfielders May Enter Basketball Organization Which Will Be Formed.

At a meeting of the Y. M. H. A., State Federation, held in Charity Hall, New Brunswick, last night, it was decided to form a basketball league for the coming season. It is anticipated that twenty games will make up the league and the local association will probably enter a fast quintet.

The local baseball team, that has been in the league this year, has dropped out and Hoboken will take its place. The locals could not find a field suitable to play on Sundays and therefore could not entertain visiting teams when they were scheduled to play here.

At the meeting last night an athletic meet was proposed and the majority of the delegates favored Bellewood Park. Another meeting will be held for final arrangements next month. The local association was not represented at the meeting last night.

LARAMIRE PARK NINE TAKES BALL GAME FROM B. A. C.

The Laramie Park Juniors defeated the B. A. C. team on Crescent Oval by the score of 9 to 5, yesterday morning. R. Vail's hitting was a feature. He batted out three doubles and a single out of four trips to the bat. Vandenburgh started the pitching for the B. A. C., but was knocked out in the second inning.

Mundy took up the task but he was not much better. P. McDonough, the opposing pitcher was wild and hit hard at times. The fielding of Greenwood and Schmeyer saved him from a defeat. In the ninth inning McDonough walked two and the third batter hit. McDonough missed the ball but Wendell who was right behind picked it up and the runner was caught at the plate. Two runners were still on the bases with one down but the two men were caught in attempting a double steal.

INSURANCE ATHLETES WILL COME HERE TO COP PRIZES

The Prudential Insurance Company Athletic Association, of Newark, expects to cop a few of the prizes in the local meet next Saturday. The club is sending a team of eight good athletes, some of whom are title holders. Kelly, who is entered in the 440 and 880 yard runs, is the New Jersey champion in the former, and Walthers, who is entered in the broad jump, is the champion of that event in the Prudential circles and can leap a long distance.

Captain Hudson will make his opponents go the limit in the quarter as will Wurtz and Lott in the mile. Other members of the team are Calhoun, Graham and VanOrne, who will start in the 100 and 220 yard runs.

TOWNLEY WILL PITCH.

"Hank" Mathewson will pitch for the Pets against Dunellen at Parker Field, Saturday morning, and George Townley, the former North Plainfield High School twirler, who pitched for Springfield Training School last year, will be on the mound for the locals at Dunellen in the afternoon.

ELIZABETH COPPERS WIN, LOCALS NEXT ON THE LIST

The Plainfield policemen will go to Elizabeth next Tuesday afternoon for the second game of the season with the bluecoats of that place. The first game ended in a victory for the Betsytown coppers by the score of 12 to 9 and the local players are going to win this next engagement so that a third contest will be necessary. The local team will go to the county seat in an auto bus.

The Elizabeth cops are playing good ball and the locals will have to play some if they want to come out on top. Yesterday the county seaters took the firemen's team of that place into camp by a score of 17 to 9. The game was somewhat of a farce, the police making ten misplays and the fire laddies eight. The policemen made 11 runs in the first inning. Brennan, the pitcher, who twirled against the locals last week, made five hits and was one of the few who played errorless ball. He struck out 14 of the firefighters.

BRUNSWICK COPS THINK THEY CAN SUBDUE LOCALS

After seeing the Plainfield policemen's baseball team lick the Perth Amboy nine and the Elizabeth team take the measure of the local squad, the men who are employed at the New Brunswick police station think they can clean up anything that lies in this section of the county that looks like a ball team, and consequently have organized an aggregation that will play all of these combinations. They have accepted a challenge to play the Plainfield cops on Parker Field, Thursday, July 9. A despatch from a New Brunswick paper states that "Chief Kiely's star ball tossers will not want to play ball again after meeting the locals."

After "doing up" the local team the invaders will make their way to Elizabeth, where they will meet the guardians of peace of that place and from there will make their final stop at Perth Amboy. After they win that game, they will claim the State championship.

Despite all these "pipe dreams" the New Brunswick crew has some fine material for a team and will give all of their opponents an interesting game. They seem to have a great pitcher in "Luke" Lyons, who defeated the Perth Amboy team two years ago and he is confident of striking out twenty-seven Plainfielders.

TENNIS AT PARK CLUB.

A men's singles handicap tennis tournament will be held on the courts of the Park Club, starting at 10 o'clock on the morning of July 4. All members who wish to enter must hand in their entries to the steward at the club or to Charles P. Lyman, chairman of the tennis committee, before 9 o'clock Saturday morning.

GENERAL HARDWARE AND HOUSEFURNISHINGS

STRAY TOPICS FROM LITTLE OLD NEW YORK

New York, July 2—Hotel roof gardens have been opening so fast since the first of last month that there are now more than a score of these places where diversion may be found in the evening by that portion of the community that has to spend the heated term here, and the visitor from the West or South who every year is more and more generally coming to the conclusion that New York is the best summer resort in the Western Hemisphere, if not in the world. Travelers say there is nothing abroad quite like the New York hotel roof this summer. Paris has its open-air restaurants, though most Americans who visit them don't go to play or to eat, but to be shocked either at the prices or the notorious persons.

A heavy falling off in the imports of precious stones into the United States during the Government's fiscal year ending next Tuesday is foreshadowed in estimates made by William B. Treadwell, examiner of all gem importations entering this country. In the last fiscal year the entries of gems had an appraised foreign value of $48,788,997, while this year's importations, according to Mr. Treadwell, will probably fall below $35,000,000, a loss of approximately $14,000,000 in the twelve months. Maiden Lane authorities estimate the drop at $15,000,000. The drop is attributed in part to "hard times," but more to the fact that the importers overstocked last year in anticipation of the higher duties incorporated in the new tariff.

The fathers of the Franciscan Monastery in Thompson street are exhibiting with a great deal of pride a solid gold receptacle which was made to contain the sacred relic of the bones of St. Anthony. It is made out of gold rings, bracelets, brooches, pins and coins which were melted up. This jewelry, worth nearly $1,000, was contributed by the Italians of the neighborhood. The receptacle is studded with emeralds, rubies and pearls. The relic of St. Anthony was brought here two years ago from Italy and has since reposed in the Church of St. Anthony, of Padua. According to the priests there the relic has worked many miracles, and persons who have kissed it have been cured of illness and suffering.

The hoboes of the Brotherhood Welfare Association, of which J. Eads How, the "millionaire hobo," is the leading spirit, will not go to Kansas to help harvest the big wheat crop this year. The matter was definitely decided at a recent meeting of the "Brotherhood," when a proposition to ship 500 of their members as live stock by freight from New York to Topeka was submitted to them. They might be willing to make the trip in Pullman palace cars, some of them said, but most of them were more or less acquainted with the discomforts of box car accommodations, and preferred the ease of park benches and idleness while the weather continued warm.

Following the example of Mr. Belasco and other leading theatrical managers and producers, the Shuberts have finally decided to take up the "movies." In association with a group of capitalists they have formed the Shubert Feature Film Corporation, with a capital of $2,000,000. The new concern will make photo plays of the regular stage productions controlled by the Shuberts. Among some of the best known productions to be filmed and shown are the English melodrama, "The Whip," "The Midnight Sons" "The Lure." "Girls," "The Blue Mouse," "The Girl Behind the Counter," "A Gentleman from Mississippi," "The Earl and the Girl," "Way Down East," "Bought and Paid For," and "A Chinese Honeymoon."

The present dance craze is doing wonders for dealers in favor and other novelties. So large and varied is the demand that one prominent house in this city is carrying an assortment that ranges in price, retail, from 5 cents to $15. Among them are little dancing couples on pasteboard boxes that are to be filled with candy, as well as similar figures of celluloid, which may be perched on the edge of a glass and which serve as holders for place cards at tango teas and similar entertainments. In the more expensive favors are life-like figures of dancing couples in bisque, which retail at $15, and which are about a foot high. They are imported, of course, and are carried out elaborately as to detail.

An organization called The Church and School Social Service Corporation has been formed here for presenting moving pictures of a religious or educational nature for the use of churches, schools, social settlements, and other similar institutions. An advisory board has been appointed its members including prominent churchmen and educators of New York and elsewhere. The plan is to take pictures in the Holy Land and the mission fields, together with educational and sociological subjects here and abroad, and supply them to the institutions intended to be served at a cost lower than the regular prices of the commercial companies.

Julius Kruttschnitt, chairman of the executive board of the Southern Pacific, has returned to New York after a trip to the Pacific Coast. Mr. Kruttschnitt says that the crops in the West promise to be excellent and that he has never seen conditions in that respect more promising. But he found general business depressed. "I observed signs of depression not only on our lines but on the other roads I traveled over," he said. "There is very little westbound business moving and that coming East is mostly in fruits. We are carrying between 200 and 250 carloads of cantaloupes out of Imperial Valley every day. There is little building going on and merchants have let their stocks get down, but they are not buying. There has been a surprising drop in passenger travel, and the decrease in local revenues has been terrific.

The new apple packing and grading law recently passed by the New York Legislature will come into effect next Wednesday. The law provides for four classes or grades of the fruit, and for having the designations branded or otherwise marked on the containers. The name and address of the packer or repacker must also appear. The minimum size of the apples in a package, stated in variations of one-quarter of an inch, must also be branded or marked on it. Fines will be imposed for violations of the provisions of the law.

NATIONAL DUTY TO STOP BLINDNESS

Says 50 Per Cent of Cases Are Needless.

ASKS STUDY OF OLD AGE

Hartford Physician Says Medical Men Have Concerned Themselves Greatly With Childhood, Extending Span of Life, but Other End of Life Hasn't Been Studied Closely.

Atlantic City, N. J., July 2.—Fifty per cent of all cases of blindness in the nation are due to conditions which might have been avoided, was the statement of Dr. A. B. Horton, one of the trustees of the American Institute of Homeopathy, which is in session here, and he was firm in the conviction that it was a national duty, through the operation of a federal department, to undertake the reduction in the number of victims of this saddest of all afflictions.

Charlatanism in the sale of alleged "radium" could be depended upon. Many of them are sulphuric acid pastes under other names. A new line of thought for an investigation was brought before the physicians by Dr. Edward Beecher Hooker of Hartford, Conn., who wanted the causes of old age studied closer, with the object of determining the reasons better than they are known today.

"Medical men have concerned themselves greatly with infancy and childhood, reducing mortality and extending the span of life. The other end of life never has received sufficient study to explain the reasons for the vastly different terminations of life," he said.

Two Philadelphians interested the physicians with investigations. Dr. Edwin L. Nesbit of Bryn Mawr experimenting with twenty-five volunteer students of Hahnemann College hospital, on the effect of certain drugs on the human system, and summed up his results in a statement that "proving drugs upon human subjects is a complex and delicate proposition and can be made safely and scientifically, but the work must be undertaken seriously and on a scale commensurate with the magnitude of the enterprise."

ABOUT TO SIGN WILL, DIES.

Recorder Was Handing Aged Man a Pen When He Expires.

East Orange, N. J., July 2.—Recorder Francis Nott of this city was summoned by a member of the family of the house of Patrick Brennan, seventy-two, with the information that the dying man wished to make a will.

The recorder wrote the will, containing 300 words, and was handing Brennan a pen to sign it when the latter fell back and died in a few minutes. The recorder is wondering whether the unsigned and unwitnessed document may obtain approval as a nuncupative will, said to be a rarity in New Jersey.

VERONA MAYOR IS SPEEDER.

Pleads Guilty, but Escapes With Reprimand and Warning.

Trenton, N. J., July 2.—Mayor David Slayback of Verona appeared before Commissioner Lippincott of the department of motor vehicles to answer a complaint by Samuel Ludlow, Jr., a special inspector of the department.

Mr. Slayback admitted that he had exceeded the speed limit while driving last Sunday on the Pompton turnpike, between Mountainview and Signac. It being his first offense, he was discharged with a reprimand and a warning.

BOY CYCLIST HURT BY CAR.

Injured About Head as Result of Collision With Trolley.

Newark, N. J., July 2.—Louis Stein, sixteen, of 99 West street is badly injured about the head as a result of a collision with a trolley car. He was riding a bicycle when he and the car came together on the corner.

Captain Springstead of the fire department lifted the boy into a passing automobile and took him to St. Barnabas' hospital for treatment.

CONDENSED STATE NEWS.

Caught in the act of rifling the apartments of Mrs. Frank Petraski of Garfield, a girl about twelve years old ran to a window, leaped to the ground, fifteen feet below, and disappeared.

Seven men were thrown into the Passaic river when the tugboat Energetic crashed into a scow off the foot of Brill street, Newark. Within five minutes the craft, locked together, sank. The men were rescued.

The police are investigating the death of Henry Fischer, who was found asphyxiated in bed in Newark. Fischer's wife, who is twenty-one, was taken into custody, but was discharged later after telling her story.

Judge Abram Klenert gave the city of Paterson a verdict for $3,989 against City Registrar Charles S. Gall for marriage license fees alleged to have been collected from July 1, 1910, to March 5, 1914, and retained by him.

JAMES W. WADSWORTH.

Chairman William Barnes' newspaper, in commenting on Senator Elihu Root's statement to the effect that he will not run again, says: "Representative William M. Calder of Brooklyn a few days ago, believing that Senator Root would not stand for re-election, announced his candidacy for the United States senate. It is now believed that others will do the same. Among those prominently mentioned as candidates are James W. Wadsworth, Jr., of Livingston and Harvey D. Hinman of Broome. The political wiseacres say that Mr. Wadsworth will prove to be the strongest candidate."

TO TALK THIS YEAR ACROSS ATLANTIC

Marconi Confident of Establishing This Service.

London, July 2.—Mr. Marconi announced that an attempt to talk by wireless telephone from Carnarvon, Wales, to New York probably would be made within the next three months.

Godfrey Isaacs, manager of the Marconi company, this afternoon, testifying before the Dominions royal commission on imperial communications, had said this feat probably would be accomplished before the end of the year, and he added:

"I do not hesitate to express the opinion that if Marconi is able to telephone to New York he will, when the stations for wireless communication between this country and Buenos Aires are built, telephone to that city at the same time that he telegraphs."

Sir Rider Haggard, who is a member of the commission, anxious to follow up this peep into the future, asked Mr. Isaacs:

"You expect the time when a subscriber can have a telephone in his house by which he can telephone all over the world?"

Mr. Isaacs answered that he would not like to go so far as that. Many difficulties first would have to be overcome. It might be possible to go to a particular station in London and telephone to New York. There were great things yet to be revealed in the wireless business.

AGAINST GOV'T COMMISSION PLAN

Sentiment at West End Civic Ass'n Meeting Opposes Change.

PRAISE FOR COUNCIL

The sentiment of a majority of those who attended the special meeting of the West End Civic Association, last night, called to decide whether to co-operate with the Board of Trade in a campaign for commission government, appeared to be against the new form of government plan. There were four speakers who favored and three who spoke against the proposition, but the majority of those present seemed to be against the plan.

As a result it was not decided to co-operate with the Board of Trade, the matter being laid over until another meeting to be held Friday night, July 10, when a vote will be taken on the question. During the discussion of the evening the present Common Council was highly praised for its work and the opinion was expressed that men of the same calibre could not be secured to serve as commissioners under the new plan for salaries that the city could afford to pay. However, there was a feeling that the members of the Council should be paid a salary.

Those who spoke in favor of commission government were Jacob Sachar, A. E. Force, J. W. Harrison and David L. Coleman, while those who argued against it were Councilman Richard A. Claybrook, John J. Carroll, chairman of the City Republican Committee, and W. W. Robison. Mr. Claybrook spoke at length on the workings of the present Council, showing what was being done and what it was proposed to accomplish.

Mr. Claybrook said that he had seen the workings of commission government and did not think that it was what Plainfield needs. He rather advocated a business manager. In the commission government plan he said there was room for politics, while he felt sure that there was no politics in the present governing body of the city, that all were working for the best interest of Plainfield.

Mr. Claybrook also discussed the school question and pointed out where in his opinion at least $35,000 a year could be saved the city if a double shift of teachers was employed, one for the morning and one for the afternoon. This he said would require a less number of school buildings and at the same time keep those the city now has in use throughout the day. At present, he said that several schools are not used all of the time.

SOMERSET STREET PEOPLE ANNOYED BY "FLAT WHEEL"

Considerable annoyance was occasioned to residents of Somerset street this morning when a trolley car with a "flat wheel" was used in carrying loads of stone to and from the end of the Somerset street line. Those living along the borough line were treated to a grinding and bumping racket each time the car made a trip past their residences and the noise soon became intolerable.

Protests will be made to the Public Service Railway Corporation and unless that concern does something immediately to abate the nuisance several of the property owners on that thoroughfare will take other steps to stop the operation of flat-wheeled cars.

FUNERAL OF RAMSEY BLAIR.

The funeral services of Ramsey Blair were held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from his late home on Park avenue, Rev. Charles E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, officiating. The service was largely attended. Interment was made at Hillside.

ISAAC SEELEY IS MADE COUNTY SEALER

Elizabeth, July 3.—Isaac Seeley, of Westfield, was appointed county sealer of weights and measures by the Board of Freeholders at its meeting yesterday. At the same time the formal resignation of Augustus W. Schwartz, of Elizabeth, was received. Mr. Schwartz becomes assistant State sealer August 1.

The committee which conferred with the Somerset Freeholders relative to the rebuilding of the bridge on Terrill road, over Green Brook, Plainfield, reported that the Somerset Freeholders were opposed to the plan of rebuilding, as suggested by Union's representatives. A report was therefore submitted and adopted favoring joint repairs by the two counties, Union's share of the cost not to exceed $250.

There was a long discussion on the report of the elections committee, which favored a cut in the salaries of County Election Board members, who now receive $800 per year. The report, after passing by a vote of eleven to eight, was later reconsidered and the matter referred back to the committee of which Freeholder George G. Teller of Cranford is chairman. Freeholder Meisel's amendment fixing the salaries at $400 for members and $00 for the member who would act as clerk was defeated by a vote of ten to nine. The committee's report favored a $500-$600 salary for the members and member who would act as clerk. Freeholder Meisel charged that Union was paying more than other second-class counties for election board services, and this was borne out by a table which Freeholder Teller read and which showed what is paid elsewhere. Freeholder Charles Smith said he favored a cut, as did Freeholder Hennessey and Woodruff. Party lines were obliterated in the voting and the report of petty politics which was heard at the meeting seemed to have some foundation.

Edward C. Brennan and Mr. Wynn, both members of improvement associations in Bergen county, made pleas for financial support for the proposed Hudson tunnel or bridge over or under the Hudson river.

ASSISTANT SUPERVISOR OF THE RECREATION CENTRE

The Plainfield Public Recreation Committee at its last meeting appointed Mrs. R. C. Wormley, assistant supervisor of the recreation center in connection with the Dunbar Social and Educational Club. Beginning today the meetings of this club at the Washington School will be under her supervision. Tehere will be several innovations. All seeking an evening's entertainment will be welcome.

Mrs. Wormley is a graduate of the Washington High School and Normal School and has taught in the Washington public schools. She also took an active part in the athletic activities.

FIRE COMMITTEE UNABLE TO DECIDE ON AUTO ENGINE

The Councilmanic fire committee following its meeting, last night, was unable to decide on the automobile engine to be purchased for the local department and it was thought best before making any recommendation to bring the mater before the Common Council in executive session. This will be done on Monday night prior to the July session of the Council. The committee is considering two or three bids, buc prefers not to decide on one until all the Councilmen have an opportunity to conider the matter.

The committee secured an appropriation of about $8,000 for an auto engine and does not want to exceed that amount if possible. There were a number of bids presented, a majority being around the $8,000 figure, but the members find it a little difficult to decide which one to accept. It is understood that whichever engine is purchased, prompt delivery will be made. The new engine will be for the Netherwood section of the city.

COMPLETE INSPECTION.

Postal inspectors, Larrabee and Updyke, finished their inspection at the local postoffice today and found all the accounts correct and complimented retiring Postmaster Elias Bird on the excellent condition of the office.

ANNOUNCE ENGAGEMENT.

F. R. Mortimer, of Prospect avenue, announces the engagement of his sister, Miss Marion C. Mortimer, to Ray W. Fuller of Arlington avenue.

ANNUAL OUTING ENJOYED BY MANY

Baptist Men's Class Gather on the Mountain for a Spread and Campfire.

Under the auspices of the Men's Conference Bible Class of the First Baptist church the annual outing was held on the spacious grounds on Interhaven avenue and Grove street, North Plainfield. The afternoon shower almost caused a postponement of the festivities, but it was decided to hold the affair. There were about fifty members and friends of the class present.

Tables were set beneath the large trees, and there a picnic lnnch, comprising sandwiches, fruit, cake, ice cream, etc., were served by the committee in charge. The grounds were decorated with lanterns suspended between trees, adding to the attractiveness of the scene.

After the repast a large camp-fire was built and the class gathered around, singing popular songs and listening to several good speeches. Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, pastor of the First Baptist church, gave a stirring talk on "Christian Manhood," followed by George H. Batchelor, one of the leaders of the class, who spoke on "Liberty." J. Henry Crane, also a leader of the class, Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan, George. F. Brown and John G. McLaughlin made interesting speeches on timely topics. The committee in charge of the outing comprised J.T. Vail, Norman Barnes and John Worth.

This class which has had a phenomenal growth during the past few years has been doing a good work. During the summer months it meets every Sunday morning in the main auditorium of the church. The class welcomes all men for membership who have no other church or Sunday-school affiliations.

TO INSPECT PLANS FOR NEW CHURCH

Congregation of Netherwood Reformed Church Plan to Erect Enlarged Edifice.

The congregation of the Netherwood Reformed church, who have been planning for a new and larger edifice, will have the design for the proposed structure presented for its approval by the Consistory, at the Sunday morning service. If the congregation approves the plans and specifications they will be perfected at once, and work on the building will be started within the course of a few weeks. It is desired by the congregation that the work be pushed as rapidly as possible, so that the building may be completed before the winter season. The design is one that is in harmony with the architecture of the neighborhood.

The new building has been made necessary by the growth of the population of the East End of the city. This church was organized about five years ago, when Rev. Royal A. Stout was a stated supply while he was yet a student in the New Brunswick Seminary, being called to the church when he was graduated. Mr. Stout resigned last September to accept a call from the Green Hill Presbyterian church, of Philadelphia. Rev. C. W. Attlee acted as stated supply from last fall until the present pastor, Rev. Edward S. Ralston, arrived early last month.

VAUDEVILLE ENTERTAINMENT.

A Jewish vaudeville performance and concert will be given tomorrow evening at K. of P. Hall on West Front street. Several well-known Hebrew artists will be present, among whom will be Nathan Marcus, in a tragedy sketch, "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," Alfred Barr in comic singing and recitations, and Mme. Barron, a Russian ballet dancer.

FUNERAL OF W. H. MURPHY.

The funeral services of William H. Murphy, of Scotch Plains, will be held Sunday afternoon at one o'clock from the undertaking parlors of Higgens Brothers and from the Scotch Plains Methodist church at two o'clock.

AUTO SERVICE FOR CRANFORD REGATTA

Cars Will Leave This City for the Pageant and Dutch Arms Band Will Play.

Manager Campbell, of the Plainfield Transit Company, announced this morning that auto bus service would be provided betwen Plainfield and Cranford tomorrow night for those who wish to attend the annual regatta held on the Cranford river. This usual Fourth of July feature attracts a large number of people from this city and vicinity and the accommodations offered by Mr. Campbell are the best that have ever been provided from here. The car will leave Plainfield at 6:40, 7.30 and 8 o'clock, and returning will leave Cranford at 11 and 12 o'clock.

The bus service is much quicker than the trolley and early in the evening the train schedule is too irregular to be depended upon for reaching the river. The pageant is one of the water events looked forward to by canoeists and other sportsmen in this section of the State and the event tomorrow night promises to be one of the best ever arranged. Floats have been entered by various clubs and business houses and the river will be lighted for the occasion with large Japanese lanterns. The Dutch Arms Band, of this city, will furnish the music for the occasion.

Over one hundred illuminated canoes and floats will compete for the valuable prizes, and it has been decided to allow entries up to 8 o'clock on the evening of the parade. The prizes will be as follows:

Decorative class—First, sixteen-foot canoe; second, 3-A kodak; third, 2-A kodak; fourth, leather traveling bag; fifth, thermos bottle, and sixth, silk umbrella.

Novelty class—First, sixteen-foot canoe; second, 3-A kodak; third, 2-A kodak; fourth, canoe cushions and back rest.

Floats—Silver loving cups for first and second.

Decorative lawn—First, lawn swing; second, American flag.

Decorative building or business place—First, large American flag. Paddles for honorable mention.

The parade will start at 8:15 p. m. sharp, and move over the river between the Union avenue dam and the second Eastman street bridge. The boats must cover the course twice in order to compete for the prizes. The judges will be: Mrs. Wilbur H. Camp, Mrs. John Low, W. M. Sperry, W. W. Buckley, F. G. Sykes, R. J. Mix and Charles Hansel. Two bands will furnish music for the evening. The Dutch Arms Band of this city, will be located opposite the casino on the vacant lot in Springfield avenue, and the Suhr Band, of Newark, will be located in a stand at the foot of Alden street.

Roderick W. Smith will be commodore of the parade. The approaches to the river and lawns on its bank will be open to the public to view the carnival.

HORSE RUNS AWAY CAUSING HEAVY LOSS

While George H. Martin, of Mt. Bethel, was driving along Sterling Boulevard, on Poggio's Hill, yesterday, his horse took fright at an auto bus and ran away. There were over forty dozens of eggs in the wagon and these were upset and broken, being a complete loss. Mr. Martin in trying to stop his horse in its mad run was thrown out when the rig collided with an embankment, and he suffered cuts, bruises and other injuries.

Beside the eggs, Mr. Martin had a load of butter, cheese, strawberries, raspberries and currants and all suffered in the runaway. Mr. Martin places his loss at about $50. With the exception of a few cuts on his leg the horse escaped other injuries. The wagon was a complete wreck. The accident held up traffic on the road for some time, it being just at the hour that commuters are hurrying for their trains.

FUNERAL OF W. W. CONNELLY.

The funeral services of the late William W. Connelly, of West Fifth street, were held this morning from St. Mary's R. C. church, at 10 o'clock, when the mass was said by Rev. Father Scioli, who was assisted by Fathers Bogan and McDonald. The bearers were Councilman John H. Cose, William Connelly, John Kelly, Michael Legge, Joseph Brown and Michael Devlin. Interment was made at St. Mary's cemetery.

ALBERT R. ANTHONY.

Albert R. Anthony, father of Dr. William H. Anthony, of Park avenue, died yesterday at the latter's home, in his fifty-eighth year. The funeral services and interment will be held at Catawissa, Pa., Mr. Anthony's former home, Sunday.

TAKE STEPS TO OPPOSE "BOSS RULE"

Democrats Discuss Plans to Fight Regular Organization in the County.

It became known today that a meeting of well-known Democrats was held Wednesday night, when it was decided to oppose in the coming campaign what they term "boss rule," and steps were taken to co-operate with other Democrats throughout the county in putting a strong ticket in the field in opposition to the one to be named by those known as the "regulars."

It is said that no attempt will be made to put a ticket in nomination in Plainfield, but the supporters of the movement will vote for whom they consider the best men put in nomination. This faction, which is a "split" from the regular Democratic organization, is the result, it is said, of failure of the party to give proper recognition to those who have sought office.

Just as soon as a county organization is effected, arrangements will be made for holding a large meeting at which all the representatives will be invited to attend. It is known that for some time there has been a great deal of dissatisfaction among some of the Democrats over organization methods and those who have opposed them have chafed considerably over what they consider "boss rule."

Those who have identified themselves with the new faction openly declare that among the candidates to be opposed will be Congressman Tuttle. They are greatly displeased with some of his acts claiming that they have not been in accordance with true Democracy. As yet the detailed plans of the new organization have not been disclosed, but will be within a short time, it is said.

TEACHERS ENGAGED FOR SUMMER WORK

Course of Study Will Be Started in the High School Monday Morning.

The summer session of the public schools of this city will open Monday morning at 8 o'clock in the High School under the direction of Roy W. Lord, who will be in general charge of the work, and will be assisted by Ralph S. Patch, of the Plainfield teaching staff; Phillip Van Arsdale, of North Plainfield; Miss Helen Pearce, Miss Lucy Whitford and Miss Pauline Denton.

It is expected that the total enrollment for the summer months will be about one hundred and fifty. The courses will include the main subjects taught in the elemental grades, five to seven inclusive, and nearly all the studies of the regular High School course.

School will be in session for six weeks at the end of which time an examination will be given those who have been in attendance. The principal object of these summer studies is to enable those who have failed in subjects during the past school year to review their work and qualify themselves to continue with their classes when the regular session of the school opens in the Fall. Besides this the school serves to enable new pupils to fit themselves for entrance to the regular classes before September; and to give the more ambitious students a chance to do advanced work.

It has been estimated that the cost of operation for the summer session is much less than the cost of continuing the children in school for the extra time which it would otherwise take them to complete the courses; as in most cases it is possible for the pupils to catch up with their classes in the six weeks' session and thus save a full year of their time in graduation.

To secure work that will be of more benefit than mere cramming, pupils will not be admitted to the examination unless they have been at least five weeks in attendance at the summer school. If any attend for a less period they may be admitted to the regular examination given at the fall opening of the schools provided they have spent sufficient time in additional study by themselves to qualify them to take the examination.

This year all the classes will be held at the High School instead of being divided between the Stillman and Whittier Schools as was the case last year. School hours will be fro m8 to 12. All pupils are requested to meet at 8 o'clock Monday in the High School auditorium to receive their assignments to the different class rooms.

HOLIDAY CALENDAR OF EVENTS HAS ENTERTAINMENT FOR ALL SEEKERS

All-day Program Promises to Be the Biggest Ever Arranged for Plainfield—Track Sports and Plainfield Country Club Card Prominent—Pyrotechnic Displays in the Evening—Netherwood Residents' Association to Have Big Affair—Theatres Donated by Harry Sanderson.

Fair weather, with moderate temperature is predicted for the holiday, but clouds hovering over the Queen City this afternoon indicate that there is something to fear in the line of rain. Pleasure seekers are "jerry" to the fact that heavy clouds are generally burdened with moisture and should rain fall tomorrow several of the open-air programs for which elaborate arrangements have been made, will be put on the shelf. The weather man is evidently trying to get into the good graces of the populace by doing his part to produce fair weather and sunshine, but his predictions carry with them a grave doubt in the minds of some of the more pessimistic.

Recreation of every variety will be carried on in the Queen City tomorrow morning, afternoon and evening and pleasure seekers will have little trouble in securing the particular phase of enjoyment for which they yearn. Sports, musical programs, fireworks and indoor entertainments feature the Fourth of July calendar of events and while some will go to the hills and seashore over the week-end, those who remain at home will find plenty of amusement. The events are well scattered over the four corners of Plainfield and North Plainfield and there is something of an interesting nature within easy reach of all. The spirit of patriotism will predominate and although the safe and sane idea is uppermost in the minds of the older generations at the present time, the juvenile celebrant will supply the noise that characterizes this occasion. Fair weather is all that is needed to make all projects the success anticipated and if the prophesy of the weather man is to be carried out, we will be given the finishing touch.

The day's festivities will be opened in the morning with a patriotic service in the Plainfield theatre starting at 10 o'clock. This feature will be conducted under the auspices of the Recreation Committee and will consist of a program of music rendered by the Municipal Orchestra under the direction of Martin Kroff, and an oration by Samuel S. Swackhammer. Young folks will take particular delight in the colonial play to be given in connection with the patriotic service. This program will occupy about two hours, dismissing the spectators in time for luncheon at 12 o'clock. At the same time moving pictures will be shown at Proctor's theatre for children. Both theatres have been donated for the celebration.

In the Netherwood section the Residents' Association will inaugurate its program at 10 o'clock. On Seventh street, between Belvidere and Leland avenues, athletics and music will prevail. The Dutch Arms band will be in evidence and the neighborhood is expecting to hear from Mayor Percy H. Stewart, Senator James E. Martine, H. W. Harrmann and former City Judge William N. Runyon. On the roadway and on the adjoining lots immediately following the program of oratory, games for the children will be conducted. Each winner will be awarded a handsome bronze medal of original design.

Golf and tennis will be participated in by Plainfield Country Club members. Mixed doubles will be started on the courts and special events on the links are programmed. In the morning a thirty-six hole handicap Class A will be decided. There will be a prize for the best gross score. An eighteen hole handicap, Class B has also been arranged for in the morning. The men's handicap singles tournament will be started at the Park Club on Washington avenue at 10 o'clock.

The Plainfield and Dunellen base ball teams will appear in the leading baseball game tomorrow morning on Parker Field. The Park Avenue Sunday-school nine will play the Monroes on Crescent Oval and Sauer and Hope chapel teams will meet on Clinton avenue.

The big attraction of the day will be staged on Parker Field at 2 o'clock when over 200 of the best athletes in the metropolitan district will gather at that rendezvous to compete in eleven atnletic events for which handsome prizes have been offered by the Playground Commission. The event promises to be the best of its kind ever conducted in this section and hundreds are expected to attend the affair.

The Plainfield baseball team goes to Dunellen in the afternoon for a return game with that team and in the Netherwood section the Married and Single men will try conclusions. At the Plainfield Country Club a mixed foursome will be contested and also an approaching and putting contest.

Elaborate pyrotechnic displays have been planned for the Park Club and Parker Field. At the former place the annual display will be held and the calibre of fireworks exhibited in other years indicates that tomorrow night's display will be of the top-notch variety. Public subscription has enabled the Playground Commission to purchase fireworks to be set off at Parker Field in the evening and these will be accompanied by a musical program. The Netherwood Resident's Association will conclude its holiday program with a dance and reception on the spacious porch of the Netherwood Hotel.

The banks will be closed, the postoffice will be open until 10 o'clock, and there will be one delivery; the druggists will be closed from 1 to 6; the drygoods stores will be open until 10 o'clock tonight; and some of the grocery stores will be open late tonight. The barber shops will be open until midnight tonight and until noon tomorrow. The entire public library will be closed in the morning but the adult circulation department will be open from 2 to 6 o'clock in the afternoon.

MANY GUESTS ENJOYED LAWN FETE AND DANCE

The lawn fete and dance given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Newcorn, on West Front street, last night, for the benefit of Temple Sholem, proved a success despite the unseasonable weather. It was decided to continue the affair tomorrow night, when there will be many attractions. Some of the guests present last night enjoyed playing "500", bridge whist and other games, while others spent the time dancing on the large platform built on the lawn in the rear of the house. The music for dancing was furnished by a Vitaphone.

The program included all of the latest dances and during the evening an exhibition of dancing was given by E. J. LaPorte and Miss Ray Praeger and other guests. The grounds were brilliantly illuminated with electric lights, while the front of the residence and the large porch were made attractive with many Japanese lanterns. The guests found the enclosed porch a pleasant place in which to play cards. Later in the evening refreshments were served by the hostess and the affair terminated about midnight.

COURT WILL MAKE EXAMPLE OF NEGLIGENT DOG OWNERS

Between fifty and one hundred of those who have been delinquent in taking out their dog licenses were rounded up by Patrolman Craig and Sweeney yesterday and notified to appear in the city court this morning. Various dispositions were made of those who put in their appearance and many failed to heed the officers' summons

Those who are not on hand to explain their delinquency will be notified to appear Monday and stringent measures will be taken by the court to enforce the law. It is probable that examples will be made of those who neglected to put in their appearance this morning.

The schedule of the arrival and departure of mails at the borough postoffice has just been issued and shows an additional arrival from the west at 8:15 a. m. The arrival of mails is as follows: East, 7:15 a. m., east and west, 8:15 a. m.; east, 5:15 p. m., west 7:00 p. m.; local from Scotch Plains, 7:15 a. m. and 5:15 p. m.; departure of mails, east and west, 7:45 a. m.; east, 1:15 p. m.; west, 4:44 p. m.; east, 6:15 p. m.; local to Scotch Plains, 7:45 a. m. and 4:45 p. m.

Although neither the Borough Council or Township Committee have passed an ordinance pertaining to the firing off of explosives tomorrow in celebration of Fourth of July, anything which, in the opinion of the police officer of each place, is dangerous will make the person responsible for same open to arrest and fine.

Although nearly all of the surrounding towns have arranged special programs for tomorrow to celebrate the Fourth of July after the "safe and sane" plan, this place has done nothing. The Lincoln Social Club, which was recently organized in the borough, has obtained the use of the lot at North and Farley avenues and will have fireworks there during the evening for the club members and families. It is probable that the second game of the season between the married and single men will be played. The water carnival at Cranford and field meet at Parker Field, Plainfield, will no doubt be witnessed by many local people.

The Rev. J. Madison Hare, until recently pastor of the Parmly Memorial church at Jersey City, will be officially installed as pastor of the Baptist church at the morning service on Sunday. All the services will be at the regular hours.

Dr. H. K. Carroll will be in charge of both morning and evening services at the Methodist church on Sunday. Services will be at the usual hours.

The services at the Willow Grove chapel will be the same as usual on Sunday.

Miss Anna Littel, departmental teacher in School No. 1, is taking a course in the summer school at Rutgers College.

A meeting of the borough Board of Health will be held in the Fanwood fire house on Monday evening at 8 o'clock.

Watchung.

The large boom of the derrick used at William E. Bartle's stone quarry, broke yesterday afternoon, dropping into the pit, where the men were at work. Several had narrow escapes

Dunellen & Vicinity

Miss Violet Giddes, of Port Richmond, S. I., is visiting her cousin, Miss Helen E. Giddes, daughter of Mrs. Ida M. Giddes, of Lincoln avenue.

More than one hundred persons from this place went on the annual excursion of the Presbyterian Sunday-school to Asbury Park, yesterday. The excursionists all reported having a fine time, the only marring features being a half an hour's shower in the afternoon and the fact that the ocean was a trifle cold to bathe in, its temperature regisering 70.

The regular meeting of the Mayor and Council will be held in the borough hall Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Swarizer and son, of Brooklyn, are spending the week-end with Paul Kratzel, of Front street.

George Kosheck, who at present conducts a meat business at North and Lincoln avenues, has rented the store in the Frank Farrell building recently vacated by Henry Wiedenhaupt, who gave up the meat business and has purchased the latter's fixtures.

Miss Annie Rich, of Dunellen avenue, is visiting relatives in New York city over the week-end.

Walter Eisemann has returned from Watertown, Ohio, where he attended the Wine and Liquor Dealers' convention.

R. G. Minnick and family, who have been staying at the home of John Hannon, on Front street, for the past month or so, left yesterday for Allentown, Pa., where Mr. Minnick has accepted a position as telegraph operator with the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Mrs. Walter Eisemann is visiting in New York city over the Fourth.

The regular weekly meeting of the P. O. S. of A. was held in the W. G. Holton Hall last evening.

The next games of the Women's Two-team Bowling Tournament will be rolled on Tuesday evening, when according to the schedule it will be Miss Alice Apgar and Miss Florence Smalley vs. Mrs. Frank R. Wynkoop and Mrs. E. B. Latham vs. Mrs. W. G. Smith and Miss Florence Smith.

Mrs. H. D. Thompson and son, J. Stewart Thompson, attended the funeral services of Mrs. Isaac Barnkoff, at Beaver, Pa., today.

Mr. and Mrs. David Suhr, of Woodhaven, L. I., are spending the month as the guests of Henry Ritterbusch, of Dunellen avenue.

Ex-Postmaster Peter C. Staats will entertain his daughter from Newark tomorrow.

A jubilee dance will be held at the William G. Holton Hall tomorrow afternoon and evening, under the auspices of Albert Russell and Judson Vliet.

Mr. and Mrs. John E. Tinsman, of Front street, will entertain E. H. Tinsman and family, of Scotch Plains, and Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Todd, of Trenton, tomorrow.

Mrs. Ivan Hardingham, of Mountainview Terrace, entertained relatives from out-of-town yesterday.

Augustus F. Samson, of New Market road, entertained his sister, Miss Mamie Samson, of Elizabeth, and his uncle, John Harris, of Newark, yesterday.

Miss Sarah Dayton, of New Market road, is assisting in the local postoffice during the rush incident to the approaching holiday.

C. Wesley Blaine, of Lincoln avenue, who is ill with pneumonia, was reported as being worse last evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Eric Benson leave tomorrow on a honeymoon automobile tour of a week's duration through Southern Jersey.

The funeral services of Joseph Sherrer were held last evening at the home of his daughter, Mrs. A. R. Young, of Prospect avenue, Rev. E. R. Brown, pastor of the Presbyterian church, officiating. The remains were taken this morning on the 11:31 train to Hampton, where other services will be held in the Presbyterian church of that place. Interment will be there.

Richard Pennock has been obliged to give up his position as operator in the local theatre, being under age, and Manager Eckerson has engaged Burt Green, of Plainfield, to fill the place.

All that remain to insure tomorrow being a banner day in the annals of Dunellen history is clear weather. The town is decorated, the grandstand up in the park for the patriotic exercises and everything practically ready for the big day. The Fourth of July celebration committee will hold its final meeting in the borough hall this evening. The meeting will be informed of the fact that the Piscataway farmers will enter a float in the parade, also that the New Market school children, at least thirty strong, will participate in the parade, falling in at Center street. Schuyler VanderVeer, son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. VanderVeer, of Prospect avenue, will be named as the one who will read the Declaration of Independence. C. T. Voorhees, of the committee on carriages, will inform the meeting that the carriages and horses have all been procured free of charge at a saving to the expenses of the day of at least $45. Among the reports of other committees the most important will be the report of he finance committee, of which J. Newton Apgar is chairman.

DESTROYS SLEEP.

Many Plainfield People Testify to This.

You can't sleep at night

With aches and pains of a bad back—

When you have to get up from urinary troubles.

If the kidneys are at fault

Set them working aright with Doan's Kidney Pills.

Here is Plainfield proof of their merit.

Mrs. O. C. Moore, 57 Manning avenue, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I endured much misery from backache which was caused by my kidneys. Many nights I was unable to rest at all and in the morning, my limbs were so stiff and sore that I could hardly get out of bed. Whenever I caught the least cold, it settled on my kidneys and any strain on my back made the aches and pains worse. I was treated by physicians, but their medicine didn't help me and it was not until I got Doan's Kidney Pills at Randolph's Drug Store, that I had any hopes of getting rid of the trouble. They made me feel like a different person and I have never had any serious trouble since."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Moore had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv.

Somerville

Everything is ready for the great safe and sane Fourth of July celebration at Duke's Park tomorrow. The grounds have been put in proper condition and finishing touches have been put to booths, platforms, grandstands. Preparations have been made for a larger crowd than was there last year. The celebration will begin at 10 o'clock and continue throughout the day. The program will include a band concert by Winkler's Second Regiment Band, of Trenton; baseball game, Company M vs. Somerville A. A.; luncheon; dramatic entertainment, with over 200 performers, presenting the "Pied Piper" and "Rip Van Winkle." Dancing and many other interesting features, which will take place before a wooded grove and may be witnessed from all sides, the grandstands being capable of seating over 1,000 people. Automobiles will be in service to carry any who wish to go from this place, starting from the postoffice, while it is expected that the trolley will run extra cars to accommodate the crowds.

The members of the West End Hose Company, will hold a two-day carnival on the school grounds, commencing tonight. Dancing and other attractions, including fireworks tomorrow night.

Certified Pure Natural Ice

Pure Water from Pure Ice

The value of drinking water depends on its purity. Purity is guaged by the freedom of the water from undesirable mineral and organic matter. In the formation of ice on lakes and streams, not only is the matter in suspension removed by the process of freezing, but also in the neighborhood of 50% of the mineral matter is eliminated, making the Ice much more pure than the water.

Thus nature in her wonderful filtration system, the process of freezing, gives to man a pure drinking water.

MISPLACED TRAFFIC POSTS.

Traffic posts are all right in their place but we repeat that when put in a narrow thoroughfare such as Park avenue at the junction with Second street they are a menace to public safety. Automobiles, and even horse driven vehicles of the larger type, are compelled to make a rounding turn at the centre post, which swings a portion of the vehicle into the side street, endangering the lives of pedestrians on the crossings.

Instructions have been issued by the police department to have the guide removed in case of fire in order to allow the apparatus to pass the spot without colliding with them, but what will happen in case of a still alarm? How will the traffic policeman in the business section be notified of the call in time to remove the post? In no other cities are guide posts placed in a main thoroughfare without stationing a policeman alongside of the traffic regulators.

The post at the junction of Park avenue and Second street stands alone and automobile chauffeurs and carriage drivers in many cases do not see the obstruction until they are nearly upon it. The iron post is not an easy thing to see on a dark day and if the street department is going to leave it in that position a traffic cop should be placed at that point as well as at Park avenue and Front street, and Fourth street and Park avenue, where similar posts have been placed. Several narrow escapes have been recorded at this place recently and many protests have been lodged against the new device by drivers who have had occasion to get into difficulty as a result.

AGAINST THE SOLDIERS.

Strange as it may sound, it is the Colorado mine owners who are clamoring for the withdrawal of the Federal troops from their state. They are not candid in their statement of reasons, because this is not a case in which candor would do their side any good.

It is because the Federal troops, men and officers alike, have seen to it that the mine owners' gunmen don't shoot any more miners or miners' wives and children, and don't burn up any more tent colonies or any other kind of strikers' colonies. The soldiers, in fact, are refusing any privileges to either side.

That, however, seems not to be what the Colorado mine owners want. They are willing enough to have the soldiers restrain the strikers from doing anything, but they don't want these same soldiers to restrain the gunmen from doing everything. Hence there is an insistent demand from the mine owners for the withdrawal of the soldiers. That would allow the gunmen to get into action again.

With the soldiers on the ground the strikers are safe. The mine owners have failed to operate their plants. They can't get the men to accept the conditions of the Colorado mines. So they want the gunmen to have a chance to shoot up some more and try to scare the strikers back to their work.

But President Wilson prefers to take the word of men like Judge Lindsey that civil war in all its horrors will follow the widrawal of the Federal troops and substitution of the Colorado National Guard with its gunmen companies.

The recent inauguration of a campaign designed to bring about the extermination of all dogs found running at large, whether tagged at $2.50 per head or not, has brought forth a great deal of adverse comment as to the apparent non-enforcement of the law. Complaints that owners persist in allowing their dogs to run at large whether accompanied or not are constantly heard and it is the opinion that there is too much laxity in the matter.

Within the past week citizens have complained and it was only a few days ago that one man was attacked by a dog while passing the home of the canine and when he asked the owners, who were seated on the porch to "call off their dog" he was given the "laugh." Another citizen has stated that one day recently he counted at least a dozen dogs that were neither on a leash nor under the direct control of owners and that was in a public place where people are constantly gathering.

Announcement has been made that Mayor Percy H. Stewart intends to appoint a dog catcher soon. This will doubtless result in getting rid of many dogs now running at large, but as a citizen remarked yesterday not until owners are compelled to keep their dogs on a leash or under restraint as the law requires, will people be reasonably safe from the attacks of such animals and the public spared such a scene as was witnessed in the business section of the city this week when two policemen were obliged to fire six shots to kill a mad dog, after which a representative of the Board of Health cut the head off the dead animal to be sent to Trenton for examination.

Carelessness on the part of local business men in leaving their store doors and windows unlocked after closing at night is causing the police considerable annoyance and Chief Kiely has issued orders to his men to notify the offenders that repeated negligence on their part will ultimately result in summons being served for their appearance in the city court. A numer of doors and windows are reported unlocked by patrolmen in the business section every night and in several cases the same doors have been found open two and three nights in succession. Business men who fail to lock their doors are not doing their part in co-operating with the police to put a stop to the numerous petty robberies that are being committed in Plainfield and until this carelessness is curbed there is sure to be more or less thievery.

Sweeping dust and other debris into the streets is a violation of a city ordinance and offenders are liable to a severe fine if brought into court. During the past month several store owners on West Front street and Park avenue have allowed their employes to sweep the dust from the stores to the street pavement and then into the gutter. No matter what the nature of the refuse may be it is against the law to deposit it in the thoroughfares and the police may find it necessary to bring offenders into court to be made examples. That would do a whole lot toward preserving the health conditions in the municipality.

TAPS FROM THE GAVEL.

ANTI-SUFFRAGE

Conducted by Plainfield Branch New Jersey Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage.

Miss Rautz Rees, a prominent official of the National Suffrage Association, is reported to be organizing children into suffrage associations. Judging by a picture in the New York Press, some of them are not over five years old, Rev. Anna Shaw and Jane Addams are assisting in the work. Every child who gets ten companions to join a league and pledge ten cents a year to the National Association will be congratulated by the committee and will receive a picture of the Rev. Anna Shaw! Have the kindergartens in Massachusetts been organized yet? Certainly suffragists will not long overlook this opportunity.

The most militant suffragists in the Washington parade were the children from the settlement houses. These little girls of from 6 to 10 years had a well-rehearsed war-cry. Asked who they were, they chorused "We are militant suffragettes."—Washington (D. C.) Post.

The Woman's Journal recently called attention to the act that the influences in certain colleges for girls are very strong for suffrage. They are also very strong for socialism and feminism, and as the girls hear only one side of the subjects presented it is not strange that many of them are carried away by the propaganda. A volume published by the National College Equal Suffrage League called "The Case for Woman Suffrage," is decidedly feminist in its teaching, and Miss M. Carey Thomas, president of Bryn Mawr, who wrote the introduction to the volume, admits that the old-fashioned suffrage arguments have lost their power with college girls, but that the newer ones "carry instant conviction."

We are always hearing of the strength of suffrage among the students of High Schools and Colleges, in fact there seems to be great pride felt by suffrage leaders, in the acquisition of these unthinking, immature recruits—but what are the methods by which they are drawn

Is it the constant, promise of the millenium for which they are told they must work which will result from the ballot cast by women? Youth even in this 20th century is fired by the desire to do, and grasps at the wonderful hopes and opportunities, laid before it, with promises which cou'd find no foundation, in the results in those States in which women have handled the ballot from three to forty-six years.

Is it that the Suffrage leaders advocate the placing before them in the Movies and on the stage, vice in its lowest forms, on the pretext that to avoid practicing it, they must witness it?

The desire for entertainment and the innocent curiosity of youth to witness new phases of life, are used in this particular method of gaining recruits.

The mature experienced minds which advocate it, must know the sin and horror it is to exploit such scenes before audiences of the youth of both sexes. They know too, that a huge percentage of boys never witness them, and the girls who do so are practically none.

We have much for which to be grateful, that we have a Mayor who "Nipped in the bud" the first attempt by a manager to introduce such exhibitions in Plainfield.

Young people will follow any movement the propaganda of which includes the spectacular and fantastic.

"Noise and notoriety, bands and banners, sentiment and oratory, ribbons and rainbows, plausible theories and superficial arguments" well describe it.

Given all these, what do they care—boys or girls—as to whether the statements made, have any foundation in fact whether they can be proved by experience?

What do they care whether the banners declare the Suffrage slogan of "Votes for Women"—which represents the most rudimentary issue in the present Suffragist-Socialist-Feminist campaign—or whether they decare that derision slogan invented by the Suffragists for the Antis of "Heaven, Home and Mother."

The Anti of autnority has ever yet been known to think, say or write that their whole vision of Life, or of their place and duty in it was encompassed by those three words, enough except to the suffrage mind, they are three pretty good words.

Among men in schools it has always been regarded as dishonorable to try to influence their pupils politically. Not so women—though we are told so much of the superiority of their ideas and methods over those of men—for they are using every effort to force every girl, even those whose parents are avowed Antis, into the suffrage ranks caring nothing for the pain and disappointment of the parents, who incidentally are supporting the schools—when they find their daughters at variance with them on so vital an issue.

One father told me that never in the eighteen years of her life had a daughter defied her parents until influenced by suffragists. But the home training and influence proved paramount, and she could not hold out and hurt them.

eNither do these woen feel any sense of honor towards those who trust their children to them for education.

Never have women practised so strongly and consistently the infamous doctrine that "the end justifies the means" as in this warfare in which they are so loudly protesting entire immunity from any methods or purposes save the highest and most honorable.

The young girls themselves will resort to methods of forcing schoolmates to join them which fall little short of coercion.

In one of the large female colleges in which the suffragists boast many recruits, this despicably mean method is resorted to by the suffrage students. They go around asking the girls for their names as suffragists. If they assent they are not asked "Why are you a suffragist?" If they refuse, they are asked "Are you an Anti? Why are you one?" and if they cannot at once declare a number of reasons for their convictions, they are told "O! all right I'll put you down as 'Ignorant.'"

There are many girls of sufficient spunk and character, to stand by their convictions in spite of this petty bullying, but others more weak-minded cannot endure the slur, and eagerly consent to be counted among the ranks of those who shout "Votes for Women.

Is this the way the girls who practice this coercion think to prove themselves fitted for the Suffrage ranks?

But there is another, far more seditious side to this teaching of Suffrage in schools, evidenced by the following experience of an Anti Suffrage speaker, who was astonished to find that her audience at a school at which she was to speak, was largely composed of girls as young as twelve years.

Suiting her lecture as she felt in duty bound to do, to such youthful hearers, she refrained from any mention of "White Slavery." When she stopped speaking a girl not over fourteen asked in an aggrieved manner: "You haven't said a word about 'White Slavery,' and we expected you to, why didn't you?"

Replying with astonishment, "Because I do not consider it a suitable subject for this audience," she was told that they understood the subject thoroughly and were disappointed at her avoidance of it!"

Comment is superfluous.

It would seem advisable, however, for parents to investigate the political opinions of principals and teachers, before entrusting their children to them, and also if their minds are to be filled with subjects of knowledge beyond and unsuited to their years.

Let it not be imagined that these statements apply to all schools, for it would be incorrect and unjust to suggest anything so wholesale but they fully cover most of those few schools and colleges the faculty of which leans to suffrage.

An Anti-Suffrage speaker about to address an audience in a college was surprised to see that every girl wore a yellow Chrysanthemum when the lecture began, but was gratified to see that at its close two-thirds of them left their flowers on their seats.

Every girl Anti and Suffragist had been made by the faculty to pose as the latter by being instructed to wear the flower emblematic of the Suffrage party.

We heard no boast of the outcome of this lecture.

The following quotation will prove that the same influences are brought to bear on both sides of the Atlantic, and the light in which they are regarded.

"The harm that this proselytisation does to the schools themselves in which it is allowed—not of course, by governing councils of the schools, but frequently with the tacit approval of Suffragist Head Mistress—is very dangerous from the point of view of discipline and order. Many of the girls, coming from homes of declared Anti-Suffrage principles, are set in opposition either to their teacher or to their parents by hearing home doctrine held up to ablogny, and ridicule, and the children are divided into two hostile camps, over a question which they have no competence to decide. If the Anti-Suffrage mistresses in the same schools begin also to spread their opposing propoganda we shall have chaos.

We invite the co-operation of all parents and all governors of girls' schools to use what influence they can to check this disastrous movement." Anti-Suffrage Review, London.)

MEXICAN MEDIATION SHIFTS TO WASHINGTON

Next Step to Be Taken is a Matter of Conjecture by Administration.

Washington, July 3.—Mediation in the Mexican muss, if any Mediation remains, shifted today from Niagara Falls to Washington. It was announced at the White House that certain of the A. B. C. Mediators and one or more of the American delegates would be received by President Wilson. The hour was not definitely fixed, but the peace envoys are expected late this afternoon.

In view of the unyielding attitude of General Carranza the next step to be taken by the Mediators is a matter of conjecture. It is for the purpose of discussing this phase of the situation that the Niagara Falls delegates are anxious to see President Wilson. Some plan for bringing the "first chief" of the Mexican revolution into the peace parley will be sought.

FORM CONCERN IN SOMERSET TO BREED HOLSTEIN CATTLE

Somerville, July 3.—Articles of incorporation were filed at Trenton yesterday by the Somerset Holstein Breeders' Corporation, a concern formed by stockmen of the county to breed and sell Holstein cattle. The corporation is capitalized at $500,000.

The corporation has taken over six large farms along the Raritan River comprising almost 1,000 acres together with several herds, numbering about 200 head of registered cattle. Included in these herds are several record-holding Holsteins. The corporation's charter also provides for the promotion of manufacturing and power interests in connection with water rights.

SEVERAL HUNDRED PEOPLE ENJOYED BAND CONCERT

The second free open air concert by the Dutch Arms Band was given at East ront and Church streets, last night, several hundred people enjoying the popular program given by the band. The band comprising forty members, was in charge of Edmund D. Young the leader. These concerts are more of an experiment at present, the idea being to learn whether the people of the city are willing to give the proper support.

The weather last night was not favorable for a good crowd, but the promoters of the concert were much encouraged. Several years ago band concerts were given once a week and they proved popular. A bandstand and benches have been erected at East ront and Church strets, and the location is considered ideal for the concerts. It is probable that another concert will be given next week if the weather is favorable.

JAMES KEOUGH'S FUNERAL.

James Keough was laid to rest this morning, after funeral services were held from St. Mary's R. C. church where a high mass of requiem was said by Rev. Father McDonald. Many relatives and friends were in attendance. Several floral tributes were sent by friends, among which were set pieces from Watchung Council, No. 552, K. of C., the clerks of Station V of the New York postoffice, and the employees of Christ Church Station, of New York postoffice. The bearers were Michael Griffen, Morris O'Connor, Frank Elhorne, William Lafferty John Gill, and James Flynn. Interment was made at St. Mary's cemetery.

FIRST UNION SERVICE.

Following the usual custom which has been followed for several summers, the congregations of the First Baptist, First Methodist, Trinity Reformed and First Presbyterian churches will join in the first of these services Sunday evening at 7:45 at the First Baptist church. Rev. Dr. Charles E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, will preach.

ASSESSORS MEET.

The Board of Assessors met last night at the city building to go over the work of assessment which has been in progress for sometime. Assessor Henry Leifke, of the Fourth ward is the first to complete his work. The other assessors will finish their work soon when the books will be sent to the county board at Elizabeth.

BURIAL AT SOUTH BRANCH.

A large number of friends and acquaintances attended the funeral services of Mrs. William M. Nevius this noon at her home on Elmwood place, at which Rev. John Y. Broek, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, officiated. Interment was made at South Branch.

IN THE SPORTING SPOTLIGHT

OLD RIVALS TO HAVE SCHOOLBOY MATERIAL

Dunellen and Plainfield Will Have Plentiful Sprinkling of Talent.

Plainfield and Dunellen will play on Parker Field tomorrow morning in the third game of the series and in the afternoon the scene will be shifted to Dunellen, where the second game of the day will be staged. Both teams will present their strongest lineups and two great games can be expected. In the morning a band will be on hand to entertain the spectators between the innings. Matty will pitch for Plainfield in the morning and P. Harney will oppose him. George Townley will perform in the afternoon at Dunellen and the local batters will have to face either Montross or Sminck, the former Plainfield High School twirler. Besides this pitcher, the Dunellen manager has signed up two other city school boys, Victorsen and Rosenson will play in the field. Brunnie, the locals third sacker, will be unable to play in the afternoon game and his place will be filled by N. Harney. The morning game will start at 10:15 sharp. The lineups are as follow:

LAUREL AGGREGATION WINS OVER JUNIORS

The fast Laurel aggregation defeated the Plainfield Juniors on Parker Field yesterday morning by a score of 3 to 2. The game was close throughout the entire nine innings. The features of the game were the catching of Van Nest and the one hand catch made by Kennedy who was laying in deep center for Maiden, of the Royal A. C. Instead Maiden hit a Texas league over second base and Kennedy, running in at full speed, nabbed the ball with one hand. The Laurels were minus the services of Seymour Day, the fleet footed left fielder, and "Polly" Snyder, the hard hitting third baseman, who will be in the lineup in the opening game of the Junior League Monday. The score:

LISTMAN TO ASSIST WITH LOCAL MEET

Former Local Physical Director to Act as Starter Here Tomorrow.

George L. Listman, formerly physical director of the local Y. M. C. A., but now holding the same position in the Montclair association, will be the official starter at the athletic games at Parker Field tomorrow afternoon. Mr. Listman was always active in athletics when in this city and has consented to come here and aid in running the games off to the satisfaction of the spectators. C. R. Bostwick will be the referee and Ralph S. Patch, of Plainfield High School, will act as clerk of course.

The Board of Playground Commissioners consists of George P. Mellick, J. Hervey Doane and George L. Babcock, and those in direct charge of the meet are George W. Wriston and John Fritts.

The complete list of officials follows:

BASEBALL HONORS FOR BORO CHAMPS ARRIVE

The baseball medals for the members of the North Plainfield High School championship baseball team have arrived and are now in possession of the winners. They are little silver baseballs with the words "City Champs, N. P. H. S., 1914," on the front and the players name on the back. The sixteen players, including Tommy Mullin, who received the honors are Ralph Smalley, Charles Beckman, Franklin Lowe, Ashley Burner, Ronald Conroy, Oscar Dilts, Warren Townley, Hyman Abrams, Daniel Denny, Ernest Stahl, Tommy Mullin, Bob Hebert, Ducios Van-Mater, Addison Newkirk, Edson Day and Frank Dunning.

"SCOOP" IS ENTERED.

William Schooley, formerly of this city, but now of Elizabeth, has entered the canoe races on the Passaic river at Paterson tomorrow. The race is under the supervision of the Tuscarora Canoe Club in connection with a safe and sane Fourth of July celebration. Schooley can handle a canoe in great style and has entered in the quarter and half-mile doubles, and the half-mile fours.

GAME AT DUNELLEN.

The Vons, the fast going team of the New Brunswick Junior League, will play at Dunellen Saturday morning and cross bats with the Reserves.

COOPER FOUND GUILTY.

New York, July 3.—The jury in the case of William Cooper, president of the New York Central Realty Company charged with using the mails for the purposes of fraud, filed a sealed ballot this morning finding the defendant guilty on four counts of the indictment.

MANY HAZARDS ON LOCAL GOLF LINKS

Improvements in P. C. C. Golf Course Makes It One of High Standing.

Evidently one of the watchwords of the Plainfield Country Club is progress, and many changes in the links have been made recently. As long ago as a year the officials of the club decided that in order to be entirely up to date something needed to be done with the trapping. Accordingly, the services of Donald Ross the golf course architect, were obtained, and under his direction nearly a hundred additional traps were put in. There are so many of these troublemakers that to describe them all would fill a small volume, but it is sufficient to say that because of the added trouble Plainfield has a course which will rank well with any of the short courses in the country.

The Plainfield officials have a way of taking measurement by air line, which means that the printed card showing 5,900 yards or more, really means that the course measures about 6,200, as links are generally measured.

KRAFT AND NASH BATTERY.

Eddie Kraft, who formerly pitched for the Somerville team, and who has appeared here a number of times against the Pets, will do the twirling for the Plainfield team next Sunday afternoon against the St. Peters, of New Brunswick. Jim Nash, the local athlete, will be on the receiving end for the locals.

HOPE VS. SAURER.

The Hope Chapel baseball team will meet the Saurer team for the first time this year on the Clinton avenue field, corner South Second street, tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. Both teams will have their regular lineups and a good game is expected.

News of Interest in Building World

BUILDING OPERATIONS CONTINUE UNABATED

Six Permits Are Issued Calling for an Expenditure of $7,960.

Building operations still continue in this city. Several permits have been issued, while other operations are being planned at several points. Several contractor's reports indicate that estimates are still being sought and a fairly busy summer season is anticipated.

During the past week, six permits have been issued, calling for the expenditure of $7,960. This brings the total expenditures for the month of June up to $11,976. This is $11,362 less than the same month for last year.

Second Ward.

Samuel T. Carter will erect a hollow terra cotta block garage on Woodland avenue at a cost of $1,000. The foundation will be concrete, the superstructure of the blocks with a shingled roof. The dimensions of the structure as indicated by the permit are 20 ft. 8 in. wide, 18 ft. 10 in. deep and 16 ft. 6 in. high. Marsh and Gette, of New York, are the architects, Coniff Brothers, the masons, and James W. Carver the carpenter.

Third Ward.

T. B. Wills, of 830 West Fifth street, has been granted a permit to place a frame garage on the rear of the above address, at a cost of $30. The structure, the frame work of which is to be of spruce, is to be nine feet wide, fifteen feet deep and nine feet high. The garage will be of the new, portable type built of 3 by 9 sections bolted together, so designed for quick erection or removal.

F. George Tepper is to erect an 8 by 16 foot frame garage in the rear of his residence at 1027 Arlington avenue, at a cost of $80. The structure, which will be twelve feet high, will have a superstructure of hemlock and a rubberoid roof. Emile Beys is the architect and carpenter contractor.

Fourth Ward.

Dr. Charles B. Lufburrow, of West Front street, is to erect a one story building at 329-333 West Front street as described in another column.

Thorwald Lasson, of Pond place will erect a frame dwelling at 334 Bergen street at a cost of $2,000. The structure will be two stories and attic in height, have a frontage of 22 feet, and a depth of 26 feet. The foundations will be of cement blocks with a concrete course, while the superstructure will be of hemlock. Iron columns will constitute the interior supports. A hot air heating system will be installed. Carl Peterson, of New York, is the architect, and John Kerwin the mason contractor. Mr. Lasson will care for the carpentry work himself.

William B. Mundy has been granted a permit to erect a two story, 7 by 9 foot addition to the rear of his dwelling at 314 Lyman place, at a cost of $50. Mr. Mundy will care for the work himself.

IN THE SUBURBS

M. F. Schofield, of Yonkers, has completed his garage on the property he recently purchased from Augustus F. Lawson, on Washington avenue. Mr. Schofield is bringing his family from New York State and will reside in the garage until such time as the dwelling, now in the course of construction, is complete.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Castner, of Lincoln, are now occupying their recently completed dwelling at that place.

Edward J. Herlich, electrical contractor of Dunellen, has been awarded several contracts at Metchuen.

M. F. Gano, of Plainfield, is to conduct a sale of lots at the tract which he is developing at the west end of Dunellen tomorrow afternoon.

The home at South Plainfield, owned by Mrs. Dennis Harlow, is being moved from the property which Mr. Harlow sold to the Township of Piscataway, to the lot adjoining Mr. Harlow's house. Thomas Higgins, the contractor, of Plainfield, has just completed the cellar. William Winges, from New Market, is doing the mason work, and Mobus Brothers from Plainfield, have the contract to move the building.

Carmine Valicinti, of New York, has traded lots at Coney Island for the John Assep home on Plainfield avenue, South of the Lehigh Valley Railroad tracks. Mr. Valicinti expects to move his family here in a few weeks.

Workmen are busy at Camp Endeavor, back of Scotch Plains, putting up a building, 22 by 54 feet, for mothers and children, and another 24 by 30, for a rustic cook-house and dormitory. There is plenty of good spring water.

SWEDISH CHURCH READY FOR WORSHIP

Attractive New Edifice Will Be Opened for Services Sunday.

The finishing details of the new Swedish Lutheran church were completed during the course of the present week by the contractor, Alfred Johnson, of West Eighth street, who was the architect as well as contractor. The edifice is located on East Seventh street, between Richmond street and Carlton avenue, and was erected at a cost of $4,500, with the fixtures costing in the vicinity of an additional $2,000.

The building is of frame construction, with a shingle roof, up-to-date in every respect. The basement contains a modern kitchen as well as a reception room arranged for holding bazaars and other church affairs. The main auditorium has a seating capacity of 225, with provisions made for the erection of a balcony capable of seating seventy-five at any future time in case of necessity. The interior decorations of this room are of a mission finish. A fire-proof, as well as a metal ceiling, makes the building a safe one, as well as attractive.

Gus Meimer is the contractor who put in the flooring, while the metal ceiling was put in by H. R. Burner, of South Bound Brook. The first floor contains, aside from the auditorium, a pastor's study and a library. These rooms, together with the pulpit, have mission finished decorations. Both gas and electrical lighting systems have been installed, this work being accomplished by George Ord, the fixtures having been furnished by J. W. Gavett. The services in the edifice will be held Sunday.

REALTY TRANSFERS

International Distributors Corp. to James P. O'Keeffe, lot 5, block L, map of Chelsea Park, Plainfield, $5.

PLANS FOR FEDERAL BUILDING UNDERWAY

Expected That Actual Work Will Be Commenced This Year.

With the naming of a new postmaster, the question how soon Plainfield may expect the proposed new Federal building in this city has been discussed by the public, especially as Congressman W. E. Tuttle in a recent communication to Postmaster Hoagland indicated that it would be erected during the latter's term.

This project is one on the list of deferred projects set forth in House Document No. 967, Sixty Third Congress, second session. It was the intention of the Post Office Department to start work on the drawings for the building about July 1. The sketches for the Plainfield building are now under way, and the working drawings will be taken up as soon as this project is reached in turn. When the working drawings and specifications have been completed, the work will be advertised in the local press and trade journals throughout the country.

Excavations have been made on the Federal property on Watchung avenue, and samples of the dirt been forwarded to Washington, in order that the architects may know the kinds of soil on which the foundations are to be laid, as well as an exhibit to those contractors who desire to bid on the entire excavations for the basement of the building.

The starting of the work on the proposed building in the near future, should be instrumental in booming both the real estate market and the building trades at this end of the business section of town. With the natural steady increase in population and business activities of the city, it would not be surprising to see the business section of the town overstepping Watchung avenue on both East Second and Front streets. North avenue would undoubtedly come in for an increased share of traffic and business when the new building becomes a reality. The trend of trade to the east of Park avenue on Front and Second streets as well as toward Watchung avenue will be greatly influenced by the erection of this building.

REALTY TRANSFERS IN DUNELLEN INCREASING

Realty transfers throughout Dunellin and vicinity have been on the increase for several weeks and conditions apparently appear to be ready for an unprecedented building boom, especially in the western section of the town, where two large tracks of property have been in the course of development. The S. P. Q. R. Company, which has been developing what was at one time known as the Titsworth tract on the south side of the Central Railroad, report that many of the recently cut-up lots have been disposed of, while the number of inquiries indicate that many more will be sold within the near future. Several dwellings have already been rected here, while others are going up, and still a number of others are being planned. The Equator Park tract, to the north of the tract, has also been the scene of several new dwellings this spring, while a number are now being erected.

Another of the recently completed dwellings in the borough has been sold. John I. Snyder, of New York, recently purchased through an agency, the stucco and concrete dwelling erected this spring by Alberne H. Burdick for investment purposes. The new owner is an employe of the U. S. O. N. Steamship Company, and will take possession of his new residence during the course of the coming week. This dwelling is but one of several that has been erected along this thoroughfare recently. Mr. Burdick anticipates starting work on other dwellings for investment purposes within the near future.

Councilman William A. Castner has removed to his new bungalow dwelling on Front street, which was erected this spring. Mr. Castner sold his former residence to E. R. Heilig.

M. F. Scofield, of Yonkers, N. Y., who recently purchased the Augustus F. Samson property on Washington avenue, has started the erection of a dwelling on the property, which he will occupy when completed.

An addition, as well as several interior improvements are being made in the dwellings on North avenue, containing the stores of Oscar Runyon and Smalley Brothers. Considerable floor space will be added to each of the stores, making provision for the increase of business during the past two or three years.

Painting contractors of Dunellen report that they have been kept fairly busy this spring, much repainting and decorating having been done in the borough during this season. The painters have possibly been the busiest of the building trades this year. The latest contracts announced in this line is the one awarded to J. F. G. Kinney for the house of Fowler Vail, on North avenue.

Edward J. Herlich has been awarded the contract for the electrical work on Michael A. Gallagher's new two-story building at North and Washington avenues.

Contractor C. D. Nonemaker has incorporated his business under the name of the Nonemaker Fireproof Floor Engineering Company. The company is incorporated under the laws of the State of New York and is capitalized at $40,000. The incorporators besides Mr. Nonemaker are Gurnsey Price and Franklin Sayre, both of 31 Nassau street, New York city. The company secured its New Jersey certificate on Monday. It has work on the new Second National Bank building at Somerville.

FIRST SIX MONTHS SHOW DECREASE

In reviewing the record of building activities the past month, it is noted that twenty-three permits have been issued by Inspector T. O. Doane, four of which have been for alterations on already existing buildings, the remaining permits calling for new structures. The estimated cost of the new buildings called for by these permits is slightly in excess of the amount estimated for use in the new buildings for which permits were issued during June of 1913. Alterations of last year, however, keeps the total expenditurs of June 1913, ahead of the same month of this year. The comparative statement showing June of 1914 and 1913, with the amounts called for in each ward appears below:

	New Bldgs	Alterations	Totals
2d Wd.	18,100	——	18,100
3d Wd.	17,360	——	17,360
4th Wd.	43,326	1,150	44,476
Totals	$ 98,086	$ 4,150	$102,236

	New Bldgs	Alterations	Totals
2d Wd.	25,415	892	26,307
4th Wd.	33,900	——	33,900
Totals	$ 96,456	$16,792	$113,338

In compiling the records for the first half of the present year, it is found that the building operations in this city have fallen off approximately half during the first six months of this year over the same period of time during 1913. All wards have suffered alike, altnough the greatest drop was experienced in the Third ward, which led the wards last year with $153,581 for the first six months, while up to July 1 this year, only $38,041 worth of permits have been issued for the ward, bringing it up in the rear.

The records for the first six months of 1914 and 1913, showing the amounts expended in each ward for new buildings, as well as for alterations, appear below:

	New Bldgs	Alterations	Totals
3d Wd.	32,391	5,650	38,041
Totals	$225,839	$31,175	$257,014

	New Bldgs	Alterations	Totals
3d Wd.	138,831	14,750	153,581
Totals	$453,392	$64,112	$517,504

The great drop, as indicated by these figures, is due to the late start that the building trades had this spring, the activities taking a turn for the better late in May. Contractors are agreed that the prospects for a good season are much brighter at present than they have been for some time.

DR. C. B. LUFBURROW TO ERECT NEW STRUCTURE

Among the new buildings to be erected in the business section of the city is the one story brick structure provided for by a permit issued this week to Dr. Charles B. Lufburrow, of West Front. The building is to be located at West Front street and Central avenue, replacing the old frame structure at present in the rear of the doctor's stores. The improvements will add to the attractiveness of this corner, which is a part of the estate of the late Frank Neal.

The new building when complete, will have a floor space greatly in excess to the stores now on the property. The store will have a frontage of 46 feet 6 inches, a depth of 54 feet, and will be 60 feet wide in the rear. The foundations will be of concrete, with brick piers for interior piers, and a brick superstructure. The estimated cost of the improvements has been set at $4,800. E. V. French, of North avenue is the architect, William Dennick, the mason contractor, while Robert W. Wright will handle the carpentry work. Work on the removal of the old frame building has already been started.

SO. PLAINFIELD TO BUILD NEW SCHOOL

Rumors That Spicer Plant Will Be Removed From This City.

Bids on bonds of the Piscataway Township Board of Education made necessary by the anticipation of an addition to the South Plainfield School, were recived at the meeting of the Board of Education Tuesday evening. The bonds were awarded to Charles Scruman, of Perth Amboy. After this action, Chairman TenEyck, of the repairs committee was authorized to proceed with the work of the addition. Architect Van Nuis, of Somerville, was present and submitted plans for the improvements, but it was decided to advertise for competitive plans.

The addition of the South Plainfield School has been made necessary by the great increase in population of the village during the course of the last five years, by the immediate prospects of a steady growth owing to extensive building and realty transfers. Should the town continue its present stride of growth, it will only be a short time before another new building will be necessary for South Plainfield.

Rumors have been current around the village for the past week that the Plainfield plant of the Spicer Manufacturing Company would be transferred to South Plainfield within the near future regardless of what was accomplished in securing the Public Service Corporation to run a trolley line to the village. This fact, however, could not be verified. Should this action be taken, South Plainfield will experience one of the greatest building booms known to any of the smaller towns in this vicinity.

Plant No. 2 of the Spicer concern now located at South Plainfield employs about 250 men, the majority of whom go back and forth from this city by auto-bus. It has been suggested that a lower tax rate is the reason for the change of the location of Plant No. 1. Whether the trolley line becomes a realized fact or not, a movement of this kind on the part of the Spicer Company would materially hasten a building and real estate boom.

Copyright, 1913, by the Bobbs-Merrill Co.

CHAPTER IX.

Blackie Falls.

THAT night Wallingford pored over his accounts and did some close figuring. He had disposed of 350 of his 525 portable houses, over a hundred of them for cash, which cash was safely deposited in his New York bank; the balance he had sold on payments; he had issued 350 shares of stock in the Kimbely Mine Operating company. Once more he took out the charter and read anew the peculiar constitution and bylaws of that corporation.

A stockholders' meeting was set for only a few days away, and even if everybody in the town voted with him he could control the voting of only 499 out of 1,000 shares of stock. This was the dilemma that confronted Wallingford and put creases in his brow for many days, but now he only chuckled at it.

The next morning he began looking after his personal popularity. He sent to the city for $100 worth of books, all in the 15 cent, cloth bound editions; he gave the butcher an order for a cow and two hogs; he gave the baker an order for unlimited bread and cakes; he gave the grocer an order for butter, crackers, cheese and pickles ad libitum; then he invited the entire town to the grand barbecue and free public library opening, which library he was about to present to his beloved fellow townsmen in the until now vacant portable house at 54 South Main street.

"I suppose you've seen the almost daily reports of the wonderful output of the Kimbely mine," he suggested.

"Haven't you cleaned up on that yet?" inquired Blackie in surprise.

Mr. Dougalbobber was so shocked and pained that he was nervous. "Look at this article," he begged, pointing to a column and a half "story" telling of a wonderful ore shipment, "the largest shipment ever made in the world," he explained.

"I believe it," replied Blackie courteously, passing back the paper. "But why be so mournful about it? You don't drink enough, Dougalbobber."

"And here," went on Mr. Dougalbobber, with dignity, "is the weigher's certificate." And he presented a folded paper.

"I believe that, too," admitted Blackie, passing it back still folded. "Say, I wish you'd go away with your Kimbely mine and let me sigh in peace. My wife's out of town."

That grand opening was the apex and crimax of Dougalville's history. It was a grand and gala occasion, wherein Wallingford shone at his brightest and Toad Jessop as master of ceremonies strutted to his heart's content. Old Pop Meeking, who ran the donkey engine for the small ore crusher, owned a beautifully mottled yellow and green cornet; Henry Brooger, who eked out a miserable existence mending shoes while he waited, owned an accordion, and Tom Macnish, whose business was to curse a mule, owned a bass viol. Wallingford hired the entire band. He placed that band where it belonged, right out in the middle of the field back of the Free Public library and in front of the barbecue, and when the time was ripe, which was just when the good smell of well cooked flesh filled the air, he made a speech. It was a rousing, patriotic, fraternal speech, calculated to warm the cockles of the heart, awaken enthusiasm and increase happiness on every hand. He pointed with pride to the fact that he was the sole parent of this thriving little city and felt responsible for its welfare and its prosperity. He loved all of them as brothers, he did, and if any of them had individual or private troubles let them come to him, and their firm and everlasting friend, J. Rufus Wallingford, would see what could be done.

The free library that he was presenting them today was only the modest beginning of an institution of which he knew Dougalville would one day be justly proud. A schoolhouse would be his next gift to the city, and he was already dickering with the ministers of three denominations to come there and establish churches. In the meantime, the body needed food as much as the mind or the soul. That food, he could see by the eye of their expert butcher and chef, was now ready. Let him not keep them from it. Let them all help themselves and enjoy themselves to the full. Would the boys please strike up "Turkey In the Straw?"

As that and one church hymn were the only two tunes upon which the cornet and the accordian and bass viol could agree, the boys cheerfully obliged, and the feast began.

Talk about popularity! Dougalville fairly dripped with it, and it was all for Wallingford—Wallingford, the big, the impressive, the pleasant, the magnanimous! How they did love Wallingford that night! Women almost wept about him, children danced around him without throwing things, and strong men, with their mouths full of beef and pork and cheese and pickles, and their hands full of more, went about swearing his praises, between gulps, until they were fairly speechless with admiration and food, and went home to sleep it off. Only one man failed to show any enthusiasm. He ate more than anybody else, but his eye remained cold and clammy, particularly when it rested upon the founder of the feast. That man was Steven Sagborn.

On the second day after the barbecue, Brother Ralph came to town, as

Talk About Popularity!

Alec and Frank had foretold, to attend the stockholders' meeting on the day following. Except for wearing a derby hat and the more neatly kept clothes of civilization, and except for having potato brown hair, Brother Ralph was a carbon copy of the other Dougalbobbers.

Wallingford walked across, as a matter of course, to be introduced to him, and found him to be scarcely a degree more personally engaging than his brothers, and marveled that the man could have sold stock at all with his handicap of natural repulsion. He did not stop to parley long with the "smooth" one from the east, however, for the brothers seemed to desire to be alone. Moreover, tomorrow was the day of the stockholders' meeting, and Wallingford himself was very busy.

He passed a long day in particular anxiety about the 5:27 train, but he received a tremendous shock when the first man to step upon the platform was Blackie Daw. Toad Jessop, who was homesick, but did not know it, was the first to spy Blackie, and executed an Indian war dance upon the spot, shaking hands with him and clapping him upon the shoulder and calling him "ole pardner" and dashing a real tear out of his eye and thrashing a lumbering big boy who saw it and darting away to bring Wallingford, all within the space of a minute and a half.

Wallingford greeted his old friend and pardner with surprise. "Well, Blackie," he exclaimed, while Toad walked around them both with every manifestation of delight, "what brings you to the end of the world?"

"Business," returned Blackie briskly, "but I didn't expect to find you here. Fannie told me you were out west some place, working a big real estate deal with those portable houses of ours."

"The west was never anything like this," declared Wallingford sadly, "but this is the place. I don't like your having business here, though. You don't mean to tell me you're tangled up with this Kimbely mine?"

"I sure am," asserted Blackie valiantly. "I bought $10,000 worth of the stock. Now giggle."

"Bought it!" ejaculated Wallingford aghast. "Why, you blooming fool, how did you come to fall for it? You used to sell mining stock."

"They say it takes separate educations to be wised up to both ends of any game," responded Blackie dolefully. "I suppose I'm up against it, eh?"

"No, I wouldn't say that," replied Wallingford kindly. "Outside of making a fool investment, I guess your bet's all right."

Blackie took that jolt with scarcely a blink and was able to smile in another minute. "It's like we always said, Jimmy," he philosophically concluded. "There's only two kinds of us—trimmers and lollops—and when you quit being one kind you have to be the other. What have you to drink?"

"Almost whisky and near beer. But wait a minute and see the fun. Watch the appeal for employment of that bunch of laborers headed for the office."

As he spoke he indicated the rough crowd of men, twenty or more, who, alighting from the smoking compartment end of the day coach, had headed straight for the inquisition headquarters of the Kimbely mine.

"You may have my share of their fun," offered Blackie, "and I'll give you something to boot. They flagged the train at a hobo camp about ten miles down the track, and I still have my watch hung to my garter and my money in my shoe. They showed the price to the conductor, though, and he let 'em on; but if you have a police station here I'm willing to be locked up until they leave town.

"Oh, hush," said Wallingford gayly. "This is my party."

If this was the case it was an unusually rough looking party, each man walking with a swagger and nearly every one having upon his countenance some disfiguring scar or mark of recent battle. They were remarkably silent also, though remarkably alert as they hurried, two by two, across to the office, where they found upon the door a brand new sign that read, "No more laborers wanted." The man at the head of the procession, a brawny giant who perpetually showed his gums, knocked heavily upon the door.

"Work," replied the big laborer.

"I want to see Mr. Dougalbobber," insisted Mike Dimple.

"Which one?" demanded McCorkle.

"They're both there, boys," announced the giant, with a happy grin, and then ensued a startling variation upon the usual evening train program.

The score or more of earnest seekers after labor, each of whom had enjoyed the distinction of having been chased away from Dougalville with contumely and rocks, picked that frame office to pieces, plank by plank, and went in to hold an examination of their own. There was a sound as of loud revelry by night—a sound like the splintering of wooden ships, like the dashing and smashing of heavy breakers upon a cliff bound shore, like the voices from the bottomless pit of the damned and double damned, and then the yawning and jagged black orifice, which had once been the front of the building, spewed out Tim McCorkle, with a bloody nose and a piece of plank in each hand. Close behind him came Alec Dougalbobber with a ragged right ear, Ralph Dougalbobber, with his eastern style derby jammed down over his eyes, and Frank Dougalbobber, who was wildly wondering whether he had his four missing teeth inside or out. With these came the six hired wallopers, each one now a wallopee, and the whole office "force" struck for the railroad track and headed due southeast, followed by about all that was left of the rock ballasting of that poverty stricken railroad. Pursued and pursuers alike, the gathering darkness swallowed them up, and Dougalville, quickly apprised of the incident and all of it lying quite close enough to the railroad track to gather and see poetic justice so fully wrought, laughed itself hoarse. It was long since it had been so jolly.

Somebody stopped laughing by and by and began to think, then nudged a neighbor and made him think, and the laugh died down. Was it possible that there was anything the matter with the Kimbely mine? Had anybody poked a finger into the works and made it cease to tick? Couldn't it ever be wound up and started going again?

Wallingford asked and answered the same questions for the benefit of Blackie as they walked up to the portable office.

"They're a set of the coarsest grafters I ever saw," Wallingford concluded as he produced a portable bottle in the shelter of his place of business. "It's their very coarseness, I guess, that let's 'em get across. I'm onto their game, though. I'm ashamed of myself, Blackie, but the very rawness of their play got me at first, the same as it got you. They don't care whether there's pay ore in sight or not. They're playing on the big odds that 95 per cent of all mines are flivvers anyhow. They incorporate, take up all the stock themselves and start digging at the same time they start selling shares. They get out as big a mountain of ore as possible, so that they can point to an immense output, never stopping to find out whether there's enough iron in the ore to pay for the reduction. When the stock's all sold they move on and dig another hole in the ground and send their saucy brother Ralph out east to lift the pocket change of green goods and gold brick men and wise ginks who used to be in the same business. In the meantime, if a man comes into their camp who was ever in another one of theirs, they 'slug his head off to keep him from making foolish remarks.' If ever I get within gunshot of any mine they've started and I find it out before they do I'm going to lose fifteen pounds of embonpoint in the first fifteen miles."

"Fancy and effective," approved Blackie, "but what would they do if they struck a real mine?"

"That's where the brains filter through," replied Wallingford soberly. "They organize two companies, a mine company and an operating company. The operating company is to furnish all the expense of mining. The first 7 per cent of profits, if there are any, goes to the mine company—that's the one you bought stock in, you gink!—the second 7 per cent goes to the operating company; profits above that are divided equally between the two companies, but you can gamble upon it there never would be above 14 per cent, if they cleaned up a million a minute, because the balance would be eaten up in fancy salaries. They sold me some of the stock in the operating company. I control 499 shares out of 1,000. I found out something they didn't know. I had quiet assays made by three different chemists, and the field is rich. It's worth millions, I think. I thought I was in good with my own stock until I saw a clause in the contract between the two companies that set me guessing. The Kimbely Operating company can sublet its contract at any price it chooses to whomsoever it chooses. Tomorrow is a stockholders' meeting. Any time between now and that meeting they might have received a wire from the smelting company telling them how good a thing they had. In that case their first action in that meeting, with their 501 shares, would have been to sublet the contract to themselves at $1,000 a year; so I arranged for them to be out of town."

"It was the best arranged exit I ever saw," admitted Blackie. "The Hippodrome could do it no better. But what can you do in that meeting? If they have one half the stock they'll have over half the profits even if they never come back. They can send a messenger boy for the money."

"They'll get $501 every Fourth of July," stated Wallingford savagely, "for in the meeting tomorrow I intend to sublet that contract at $1,000 a year to J. Rufus Wallingford & Co., the company consisting of all the stockholders who are present. I'm glad you're here, Blackie. I shall need you for one of the officers. I'll give you a couple of shares of stock tonight, and"—

By Alice Gibson

This design, No. 8218, is a dress which may be made with a train or in round length; it may also be made to serve for afternoon or evening by adding or removing the chemisette. The dress is cut with a surplice waist in kimono style, has a three-quarter length sleeve and a three-piece, peg-top skirt. Although there are many forms of drapery this spring, pannier, tunic, etc., as well as various straight-lined models, the peg-top is still used on many dressy frocks.

If this dress were intended for afternoon wear alone, one of the flower-strewn crêpes or voiles, or any of the sheer new fabrics would be practical. It is quite a fad now to trim summer dresses with organdy, embroidered and plain. There are organdy flounces which may be added to a plain skirt, making effective trimming; it has a crisp, fresh appearance, which is most becoming. In this instance, an embroidered organdy flouncing might be used for the fichu and for trimming the sleeves.

For copying this design in size 36, 7 yards of 36-inch material is needed. Pattern is cut in six sizes, 34 to 44.

This is a Perfect Pattern.

Be sure to give right size, measuring over the fullest part of the bust for dimensions. It may be obtained by filling out the coupon and enclosing 15 cents in stamps or coin to the Pattern Department of this paper.

DEMAND CONTINUES FOR EMBROIDERY OUTFITS

It would appear that the American woman, to be happy, must be doing something, which also must be along the lines of utility or ornament. The women of the Orient find their greatest enjoyment in supreme indolence that knows no effort beyond the voluptuous pleasure of doing nothing at all. It is no doubt the Anglo-Saxon leaven and an invigorating climate that sustain our women in their ceaseless activity, otherwise their energies would surely be modified in the hot Summer months. This apparently is not the case, as even those who go off on Summer holidays usually take with them as much material to keep them busy as if they stayed at home. It is very gratifying, therefore, to note with what eagerness the women of this section grasp the opportunity to secure the wonderful and complete outfit of new patterns being distributed by the Daily Press. This embroidery packet contains 160 different designs, an all-metal hoop to work with, and a booklet of instructions to teach the various stitches, therefore when hundreds of them are going out it follows that the result of each purchase will mean much application, patience and needlework. Of course, a main reason for the extraordinary sale of Imperial Pattern Outfits by the Press is that they cost but 48 cents each and one coupon, whereas if bought in the ordinary way a similar lot could scarcely be obtained under an expenditure of at least ten dollars.

NO PAPER SATURDAY.

Following its invariable custom the Daily Press will not be published on Saturday next, July 4. The business office will close all day. 7 1 3

By MARGARET LAWRENCE

A SIMPLE DESIGN FOR EMBROIDERING A MEDICI COLLAR.

A collar is a very important feature in one's dress as it often makes or mars a gown. These of course should always be kept fresh and to do this one needs a large supply, especially in the summer when the heat so quickly wilts the delicate fabrics.

A daintiness that makes it no less practical may be displayed in this collar with revers. This pattern, 14658, consists of the standing Medici which is very becoming to most people, and a flat collar with revers. These parts may be used separately or combined to form a stylish neckpiece. The Medici collar should be wired with invisible collar stays or fine milliner's wire. Dainty, sheer materials, such as organdie, fine lawn, net and handkerchief linen, are used for making this style of collar, the design of which may be developed in solid work alone or combined with eyelets. The scalloped edge should be firmly padded and then worked in buttonhole-stitch. White or colored mercerized cotton No. 25 or 30 should be used in developing this design.

When using net, do not try to stamp the design on the material but baste the pattern to the net and work over the paper and net. This gives a firm foundation on which to work, and it may be easily torn away when finished. If desired a lace edge may be added.

Guaranteed, hot-iron transfer pattern will be supplied to readers upon receipt of 10 cents.

Some Cookery Suggestions

CUCUMBER SALADS.

LUNCH.
Molded Salmon, German Dressing.
Cucumber Salad. Rolls.
Iced Tea. Cup Cakes.

CUCUMBERS combined with other vegetables make dainty and cooling summer salads. Some ways of preparing these are suggested here:

With Mint Sauce.

Plain Cucumber Salad.—Peel the cucumber thinly and cut it into very thin slices. Dust these with pepper and salt and add to them a very little finely minced onion. Then add two large tablespoonfuls of salad oil and half a gill of freshly made mint sauce. Mix all well together. Stand in a cool place for twenty minutes or half an hour and then serve.

Cucumbers, French Style.—Slice a green cucumber very thin, put it in a basin with half an ounce of salt and pickle for four hours. Drain well and arrange the slices on a dish with pepper, oil, vinegar and a tablespoonful of chopped herbs, such as parsley, chevril and tarragon put over the slices.

Quite a Mixture.

Cucumber and Chicken Salad.—It is by no means necessary to have celery for chicken salad, as other vegetables more available in summer give it an excellent and novel flavor. Crisp, fresh cucumbers, for instance, combine well with the chicken, and French peas added make it very tempting. Use two large cucumbers and one can of peas to every quart of chicken.

Appreciated by Picnickers.

Cucumber Sandwich Salad.—Pare a slender cucumber with a knife that will scallop the edges of the slices. Make a rich paste of cream cheese, chopped olives, a few nuts, the juice of a small onion and some finely chopped celery. Mix well and season with salt and paprika or cayenne. Spread this paste between two slices of the cucumber and lay the tiny sandwiches on lettuce leaves. Cover with mayonnaise, garnishing the salad with small strips of green pepper and olives.

A Rich Food.

Cucumber Rings.—Take one cucumber, a little oil, vinegar, pepper and salt, a little minced meat, one hard boiled egg, parsley, two tablespoonfuls of cream. Cut cucumber into pieces one inch long, leaving the outsides in alternate strips of green by removing some of the rind in strips. Let these soak for a short time in a mixture of oil, vinegar, pepper and salt. Remove the centers and fill with savory mixture of minced meat, chopped yolk of eggs, parsley and cream, all delicately seasoned. Garnish with the chopped whites of eggs and beetroot cut into small dice.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

The Young Garfish's Odd Birthday Party.

The Fishes Had a Dance.

THE children had a great fondness for any kind of a story about the water, so daddy suggested that he would tell them a story about the giant garfishes.

"What is a giant garfish?" Evelyn, of course, immediately asked.

"They are enormous fishes. They are as large as alligators and are sometimes mistaken for them. They are as big around as the trunks of huge trees. And they are very proud of their size.

"One day one of the younger members of the family had a birthday and great preparations were made for it, as the garfishes are very fond of one another. They always make a great point of celebrating birthdays, and everybody in the family brings a present to the honored one.

"The lucky garfish, whose birthday it was, received a great many presents. He was given principally good things to eat.

"But what would have amused you more than anything else would have been to have heard the fond aunties and uncles and cousins all telling the garfish how much he'd grown, and that he surely was going to be a perfectly beautiful big fish. For you would have thought that they would not want to see him any bigger, for he was perfectly enormous as it was.

"They amused themselves at the party by dancing. Their dancing was the strangest you can imagine, for they were so big and took up so much room and splashed so that there was nothing in the slightest degree graceful about them. Of course they thought they were very good dancers.

"They had a dancing competition. The queerest thing possible! For all the fishes seemed to have thought up new and weird dances. They flopped about in most awkward positions and applauded one another madly. They knocked their fins together and said 'Bravo, bravo!'

"The dancing competition was won by the fish whose birthday it was. That pleased the other fishes, too, for they thought it was only right that he should have all the attention that day.

"And, really, he was quite as deserving of the prize as any of the others."

"What was the prize?" asked Evelyn.

"You ought to try and guess," said daddy.

"Why, Jack, you're right," said daddy. "The fishes knew that they would award the prize to the birthday fish, and so they all took a great interest in the preparation of the cake, which was made out of rich sea foam, green and yellow seaweed, chopped up fine together and flavored with sea water juice."

MEAT CAUSE OF KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys if Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers.

If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

FINE FOURTH OF JULY CELEBRATION

Public Recreation Committee Provide An Attractive Program at Theatres.

WAS ENJOYED BY MANY

Netherwood Residents' Association, Park Club and Plainfield Country Club Arrange Festivities For the Day.

The special entertainment under the auspices of the Public Recreation Committee which was held at The Plainfield theatre, Saturday morning, as a part of the "safe and sane" Fourth, was a great success and enjoyed by a capacity audience. The affair was the most pretentious and best yet given by the committee and judging by the large audience and hearty applause was fully appreciated.

The musical numbers were furnished by the Municipal Orchestra under the direction of Martin A. Korff, and was most creditable. Champlain L. Riley presided in the absence of Mayor Percy H. Stewart. After an opening number by the orchestra, Harry Isaacson, representing the Civic Club, gave an original reading bearing on The Declaration of Independence. The orator of the day was S. S. Swackhamer, who spoke briefly and to the point on the subject of "The Good Citizen," in which he emphasized those qualities which combine to make the good citizen.

Another selection by the orchestra preceded what by many was considered the feature of the program. It was a two act play entitled "Soldiers Brave and Maidens Fair," presented by members of the Washington Dramatic Club. Under the most excellent coaching and training of Henry Crofut White, the young folks gave an admirable interpretation of the colonial play. The settings were true in every particular to colonial times, adding much to the pleasure and effectiveness of the production.

The cast of characters were as follows:

John Tallmage, Captain Washington's body-guard, Harry Shirley; Captain Armstrong, a British officer, Walter Glaentzer; Reuben Adamson, a staunch Loyalist, Henry Donnelly; Tarpo, a negro servant, Peter Walsh; Marshall, a negro servant, Raymond Wilson; Patience Powell, Ruth's friend, not determined in her allegiance, Miss Anna Pierson; Ruth Adamson, daughter of a Loyalist, but herself a Colonist, Miss Edith Allen. The scene of the play was in Reuben Adamson's parlor.

Following the play a pleasing folk dance was given by the Misses Mary Messmer, Madeline Minor and Mary Gondra and Carl Messmer, Edward Jones and Edmund Walters.

The theatre as well as Proctor's theatre, where free moving pictures were shown during the morning, were kindly donated for the celebration by the proprietor, Harry S. Sanderson, of Proctor & Sanderson, and the recreation committee and the public is indebted to him for making possible such an excellent entertainment.

The elaborate Independence Day celebration arranged by the Netherwood Residents' Association, was concluded in the evening with a dance at Truell Hall at which there were about one hundred and fifty guests. An excellent orchestra provided a popular program and the festivities were continued until a late hour. Refreshments were served during the evening. The decorations were a feature. The large hall was elaborately decorated with flags and bunting, while Japanese lanterns were used about the porch and the grounds in front of the hotel. It was a gala night for the residents of the Netherwood section and everyone present seemed to enjoy themselves to the fullest extent. The dance proved a fitting conclusion to the fine celebration arranged by the association.

The Park Club, of North Plainfield, furnished delightful entertainment for its members and friends Saturday evening, the annual display of fireworks being one of the best in the club's history. This was given on the club's spacious lawn in the rear of the house. There were many large set pieces and also novelties which were enjoyed by the large number of people present. After the fireworks, all adjourned to the clubhouse, where dancing was a feature until a late hour. Music was furnished by Müller, of Brooklyn, and this proved a feature. The program comprised all the latest dance numbers with which the guests are now so familiar. During the evening refreshments were served.

Perhaps, one of the most enjoyable dinner-dances of the season was given at the Plainfield Country Club, Saturday night, following an ideal day on the golf course and tennis courts. The popular amusement cen-

NEWLY-WEDS GET GREAT SEND-OFF

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Bebout Married at St. Mary's Church This Morning.

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Bebout, "just married," as announced by a large placard suspended on an automobile, hurried through Park avenue, enroute for the North Avenue station this afternoon, where they took the 12:58 train for a honeymoon trip. The couple was accompanied by a number of friends who had decorated the machine with white ribbon. A large cowbell hanging from the rear axle only served to further announce the marriage and the bride and groom's departure.

The bride was Miss Angela MacAlvanagh, daughter of Mrs. Agnes MacAlvanah, of Arlington avenue, and the bridegroom the son of Eldridge Bebout, of this city. The marriage was performed at 8 o'clock this morning at St. Mary's church by Father B. M. Bogan. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Elizabeth MacAlvanah, and the best man was Joseph Bebout, brother of the groom. A wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents. After the honeymoon the couple will reside at Englewood.

NOTHING OF VALUE TAKEN BY THIEVES

Shortly after 8 o'clock last night Private Patrolman Jeremiah Cash reported to the police that someone had entered the home of J. W. Jackson, on Crescent avenue, the house being closed for the summer. Investigation proved that the place had been ransacked from cellar to garret by the intruders.

Chief Kiely and Sergeant Higgins went to the house, but owing to the absence of the family could not ascertain the exact amount of articles taken. Mrs. L. M. French, a relative of the family, occupying the Crescent avenue house, was notified and after visiting the place, she was of the opinion that nothing had been taken. The Jackson family is in the habit of placing its valuables in a safe deposit vault during the summer months and consequently there was little of value to be taken from the place.

SALVATION ARMY OUTING A SUCCESS

More Than Two Hundred Entertained At Wayside Park, Dunellen.

The outing given under the direction of the Salvation Army on July 4 proved to be a successful and happy event. Adjutant and Mrs. Wall were generously assisted in making the affair a success by a number of friends, including W. L. Smalley, Noble H. Briggs, C. W. McCutchen, W. S. Maltby, who furnished automobiles for the party. This feature was especially enjoyable for the fact that many of the children had never been in an automobile before.

More than two hundred people were furnished with lunch, consisting of sandwiches, cake, fruit, lemonade and ice cream. Afterward the children sang patriotic songs and engaged in various games and races. Prizes were awarded to the successful competitors as follows:

Emma Pond, doll; Lillian Carelle, bar cameo. Other prizes were pearl stick pins, baseball and bat. Walter Sisty, proprietor of Wayside Park, where the outing was held, spared no pains nor trouble in seeing that the children had a good time.

BOROUGH COURT CASES.

Peter Gedich and Patrick Kellegher, both residents of Grove street, the borough, engaged in a fistic encounter on Somerset street, Saturday night. Th former was arraigned before Record Fred Hand this morning and a fine of $10 was imposed. Mr. Kellegher will be arraigned at 5:30 o'clock this afternoon. Paul Lahockic, a relative of Gedic, being indignant over the latter's arrest, struck the officer in the face and for his part in the scrap he was obliged to pay $20.

—Neuman Bros. will have for tomorrow's trade a choice assortment of currants for jelly, raspberries, gooseberries, blackberries, huckleberries; also plums, peaches, oranges and grape fruit.—Adv. ***

GLORIOUS DAY FOR NETHERWOOD

Residents' Association Arrange Program of Sports, Music and Oratory.

DANCE IN THE EVENING

Mayor P. H. Stewart, H. W. Herrman and W. N. Runyon Make Patriotic Addresses—H. P. Stevens Presides at Public Exercises.

The Netherwood Residents' Association held an all-day patriotic celebration and fete in that section on July 4th that far surpassed in completeness and interest the greatest anticipations of those who were present.

It was a glorious day of sports, music, oratory and other intertainment that will not soon be forgotten by the residents and their friends, to the number of about 500 who were in attendance.

The opening ceremonies were begun by a suitable speech of introduction by the president of the association, Henry P. Stevens, who then, in well chosen words presented in turn as orators of the day, Mayor Percy H. Stewart, H. W. Herrman and former Judge Wm. N. Runyon, each of whom in a masterly way held their audience throughout, at periods receiving hearty and well-earned applause.

Through the kindness of Mayor Stewart, permission was given to close off East Seventh street from Belvidere to Leland avenues, which gave an excellent and level track for the athletic meet, and a stand was erected on this street in front of a vacant residence where the speakers held forth, and where the Dutch Arms Band rendered beautiful and suitable music. The whole block was elaborately decorated on both sides.

ACTION IS URGED BY STATE BOARD

Borough Council Requested to Hasten Completion of Sewer System.

Henry Crofut White, head of the North Plainfield Shade Tree Commission, issued his annual report to the Borough Council at its July meeting held Friday night. Statistics showed that the total receipts for the year were $433.49, and the disbursements $338,70, leaving a balance on hand of $94.79. During the year 718 trees have been trimmed and seventy have been sprayed. A request was made for a larger appropriation for the coming year but nothing definite was done in the matter at this session.

In a letter to the Council, the State Board of Health urged the hasty completion of the joint sewerage disposal system. The letter set forth that an investigation conducted by the State Board had revealed the fact that the disposal plant now being used was in a neglected and polluted condition and something should be done to remedy the same immediately.

The treasurer's report showed disbursements of $2,960.45 and receipts of $4,063.42, leaving a balance on hand of $1,102.97. During the month thirty-eight arrests were made in North Plainfield and $145 collected in fines. The half-year payments of borough debts including callmen's salaries were authorized. The strett committee reported expenditures of $1,500.05 and that the fire and water committee expended $540.20 during the past month.

Owing to the fact that only three councilmen were present at the monthly meeting a number of resolutions were tabled until next month when a full representation will probably act on the propositions.

ARRESTED AS AN ALLEGED WIFE BEATER HE IS HELD

Angelo Amore, of 314 Plainfield avenue was arrested by Detective-Sergeant Flynn last night charged with beating his wife. He is alleged to have kicked her in the shins and beat her about the head.

Arraigned in court this morning the defendant was held for trial tomorrow morning in bonds of $50 when his wife will appear against him.

WOMEN'S LEAGUE MEETING.

The regular meeting of th Women's League of the St. Joseph's church, will be held in Debele Auditorium tonight. There will be much business of importance and all are urged to be present.

MAY NAME POLICE CAPTAIN TONIGHT

Detective-Sergeant Flynn, It Is Said, Will Be Appointed by Mayor.

DetectiveSergeant John J. Flynn, it is expected, will be named police captain by Mayor Percy H. Stewart, at tonight's meeting of the Common Council, to succeed Christian Frederickson, who retired June 1. It is understood that if the appointment is made the Council will promptly confirm the same.

Who will be named to succeed Mr. Flynn is not known, but it is said that Sergeant Maurice Higgins is likely to be promoted to that position. With these appointments there are likely to be other changes which will be taken care of by the police board.

'BROTHERLY' QUARREL RESULTED SERIOUSLY

One Hit the Other in the Head With Axe and Both Go to Jail.

The peace and quiet of Cottage place was treated to a cruel blow Saturday morning, when Harrison Randolph exhausted his vocabulary and sought other means of settling a fracas with his brother, Alonzo Randolph. Harrison wielded an axe with telling effect on the cranium of his relative and both were brought to police headquarters and arraigned this morning on a charge of disorderly conduct. Alonzo's cut head brought no pity from the court and he was sentenced to spend sixty days in the county jail and Harrison got $20 or sixty days.

The brothers started shortly after breakfast and both men are said to have been under the influence of liquor. The trouble grew out of a family quarrel and the real action was preceded by loud talking that stirred up the neighborhood. Both men were landed in a cell Saturday morning and held for trial this morning. Alonzo had a bad gash in the forehead inflicted by the sharp edge of the axe and he required medical attendance after being apprehended.

LOCAL PLAYGROUNDS OPEN FOR SUMMER

Instructors In Charge of the Work Reported For Duty Today.

Four playgrounds were opened to the youngsters of Plainfield here this morning, and will be in use daily until the opening of the September term of the public schools. In each case a large enrollment was recorded and the summer schedule of work was started at once.

The recreation centers were in charge of competent women directors and will come under the supervision of the local Board of Playground Commissioners. The centers and the women in charge are as follows: Bryant School, Miss Harriet E. Moe; Franklin School, Mrs. W. H. Nischwiz, Miss Mildred Bowlby, assistant; St. Mary's School, Miss Helen George; Irving School, Miss Ruth Wean, Miss Marion Wean, assistant.

Miss Moe has been here for four years or since the movement was launched in this city. Mrs. W. H. Nischwitz was in charge of the Franklin School playground last year and Miss Ruth Wean was the assistant at the Washington School yard. Miss Helen George, one of the new assistants, has had experience in this line of work having been instructor at the Scotch Plains Parish House last winter.

CONDITIONS QUIET.

Pittsburg, July 6.—Strike conditions were quiet around the Westinghouse plants today. Many men have been engaged by the employment offices of the companies in this city, but they have not ben sent to the plants up to this time. An effort is being made to have the Westinghouse clerical force go out on strike.

ATHLETIC MEET GREAT SUCCESS

A LARGE ENTRY LIST

Many Metropolitan Clubs Represented and Well Known Athletes Participate—Five Mile Run a Feature.

Two hundred and eighty-five athletes, many from New York, Newark and Brooklyn, competed in the first annual field and track meet of the Plainfield Playground Commission on Parker Field, Saturday afternoon. The meet, held under the auspices of the Amateur Athletic Union, was one of the most successful ever contested in this section of the State. All of the larger athletic clubs of the Metropolitan district were represented and a number of the handsome prizes donated by the merchants of this city were carried off by the visitors.

A five-mile handicap road race, the feature event of the program, was won by Robert Singerling, of Jersey City T. A. B. S. team, running with a handicap of two minutes and forty-five seconds. The first man to break the tape set a record of 28 minutes and 41 seconds for the route, which led through the business streets of Plainfield and ended at the field. For his performance the long distance man was awarded a $50 silver loving cup, donated by the Board of Trade. The runners all finished in a pack, and the gruelling pace and the hot weather caused several to collapse at the finish.

DESIGN APPROVED BY CONGREGATION

Netherwood Reformed Church Decides to Erect Handsome New Edifice.

The design for the new church building was submitted to the congregation of the Netherwood Reformed church, yesterday morning, and approved by the vote of the people. The plans will be drawn up at once by the architects, Charles W. Bolton & Son, of Philadelphia. The building will be consructed either of stone or brick with terra-cotta trimmings and will be moderate in cost but beautiful in design, and in harmony with the cottage neighborhood.

The Netherwood Reformed church was organized about four years ago. The Classis of Newark provided for its use a portable building, which is still in use, but is now outgrown. The membership of the church is nearly one hundred, the Sunday-school has an enrollment of about two hundred and an average attendance during the past year of one hundred and four. This section of the city is growing rapidly so that the need for enlarged and improved accommodations for church and public purposes is imperative.

The present intention of the church is to begin the erection of the chapel part of the new building as soon as possible, and have this ready for use before winter.

FOUND CARRYING HEAVILY LOADED GUNS

Fritz Seamansen and Valentine Schmidt were araigned before Recorder Charles Sheelen at Fanwood, Saturday afternoon charged with carrying concealed weapons. They were held in $500 bail each for the Grand Jury. Recorder Sheelen and Marshal Logan were standing on the platform at the Fanwood Station of the New Jersey Central, when they noticed the two men walking along the tracks and acting somewhat suspiciously.

Marshal Logan decided to question the hoboes and upon searching them found Schmidt carried a Colt 45-calibre and many rounds of ammunition Seamansen also carried a loaded revolver. The pair said they were from Philadelphia and were on their way to New York to take a steamer for Russia. They gave two Brooklyn addresses where they said they had lived. The prisoners were taken to the county jail.

—Among the offerings tomorrow at Neuman Bros. will be currants for jelly, raspberries, gooseberries, blackberries, huckleberries, plums, peaches, oranges and grape fruit.—Adv. ***

LIGHTED PIPE SET FIRE TO HIS BED

Smoking a pipe in bed almost proved serious to a boarder in the home of William Nelson, of 125 West Fourth street, Saturday. The boarder went to bed with a lighted pipe in his mouth and when he dozed off the ashes fell on the bed clothing causing a fire.

Awakened by the smoke and flames the victim leaped from the bed and fled from the house. The fire department was notified and arriving at the scene, soon extinguished the flames. The bedding was thrown out of the window and damage was done to the extent of $75.

When the source of the blaze was revealed a search was started for the boarder who had suddenly made himself scarce. Various rumors went out concerning his condition following his mishap, but all these were allayed when he was located later none the worse for the incident. Captain Townley was severely burned about the hands and was treated by Dr. Albert Pitts.

STOLEN WIRE FOUND BURIED IN A YARD

Railroad Detectives Rounded Up a Gang of Four Thieves.

Central Railroad Detectives Laverett and Hiney and Chief of Police O'Neill, of Westfield, rounded up a gang of wires thieves Friday night that have been operating with great success on the tracks from Fanwood to Westfield. Those apprehended are Charles Ricardo, of Westfield; Frank Keyes, of Westfield; Stephano Farino, a Fanwood junkman ;and John Hann, of Westfield. Arraigned in Westfield Farino was held in $200 bail for the Grand Jury and the other three were held in $100 bonds each.

The Fanwood man is alleged to have received over $1,000 feet of signal wire as stolen goods, the metal being owned by the Western Union. The detectives "shadowed" the place of Farino and apprehended Keyes coming out. He had some of the wire on his person and his arrest resulted in the apprehension of the other three.

After being put through a gruelling "third degree" by the detectives Keyes, who is an old hand at the game, admitted that he had some other wire hidden at his home. Guided by the man's confession the officers went to the Westfield house and found three reels of wire buried in yard behind a clump of bushes. This gang has been wanted for sometime past by the railroad authorities and the catch is considered an important one.

FIRST OF UNION SERVICES ARE HELD

Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring Preaches Practical Sermon at First Baptist Church.

The first of the union services under the auspices of the First Baptist, First M. E., First Presbyterian and Trinity Reformed churches was held at the First Baptist church, last night, there being a very large congregation. Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring preached the sermon. Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong was in charge of the service, and was assisted by Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson and Rev. J. Y. Broek. The chorus choir of the church sang two anthems, and in addition there were pleasing solos by Mrs. Frank, soprano, and William Holmes, baritone.

Dr. Herring's theme touched upon the importance of getting nonchurchgoers into the church and urged Christians to engage in more personal work. He emphasized the fact that the church needs loyal Christian workers and the only way that people can be won for Christ is through personal endeavor, referring to the excellent work that is being done by the "Win-One-More-Fellowship," which is growing into a larger membership.

PULPIT SUPPILES.

The pulpit supplies of the First M. E. church for the month of August have been announced as follows: August 2, Rev. Dr. Charles R. Barnes, of Hoboken; August 9, Rev. Dr. S. J. Herbern, of Orange; August 1, Rev. Dr. R. K. Boyd, of Jersey City; August 23, Rev. Dr. George C. Wilding, of East Orange; August 30, Rev. S. J. Herbern, of Orange.

MANY ACCIDENTS ON THE FOURTH

Dorothy Drake, Aged Six Years, Has Narrow Escape From Fatal Burning.

SAVED BY HER FATHER

James Galligan Burned About Face May Lose Eyesight—John Brown Shot In Hand—Mrs. William Swick Injured at Parker Field.

Despite the efforts on the part of the authorities to have a "safe and sane" Fourth of July, the officials at Muhlenberg Hospital report an unusual number of accidents for that day and throughout the afternoon and evening the staff and nurses were kept very busy attending to the half dozen or more accident cases taken there.

One of the more serious accidents occurred at 1502 East Second street, where Dorothy Drake, the six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Drake, was badly burned. She was holding a torch in her hand and in some way her dress caught fire. In an instant she was ablaze and her father, who stood near by, in attempting to save his child had both of his hands badly burned. Before the flames could be extinguished the girl's right side and arm were severely burned and both she and her father were taken to Muhlenberg Hospital for treatment. While the burns of the child are quite severe it is the opinion of the physicians that they will not prove fatal. Mr. Drake was able to return home later.

Another serious accident occurred at South Plainfield, where James Galligan, aged seven years, was terribly burned about the face and eyes and it is possible that he may lose the sight of both eyes. The lad was stooping over to set off a flower pot and the piece of fireworks went off sooner than he expected. The result was that he got the first charge of the powder and flames directly in his face and eyes. Dr. P. B. Cregar gave "first aid" treatment.

The child's screams attracted other members of the family who found the lad frantic with intense suffering. As quickly as possible he was brought to Muhlenberg Hospital where prompt medical aid was given. The face and eyes are swathed in bandages and the physicians say that it will be several days before it can be determined whether it is possible to save the sight of the eyes.

John Burns, aged ten years, of Brooklyn, who is boarding for the summer at Hollywood Farm, South Plainfield, was brought to the hospital Saturday night, suffering from a severe pistol shot wound in the hand, the result of using a toy pistol which was bought in Brooklyn. The physicians used an application of tetanus serum and no serious consequences are anticipated.

Joseph D'Amelio, aged twenty-five years, of Elizabeth, was removed to the hospital late Saturday afternoon, suffering with a badly lacerated knee the result of being thrown off his bicycle while riding on lower Park avenue. The injury while not a serious one, will detain the man at the hospital for some days.

Mrs. William Swick, of 257 East Third street, after enjoying the fireworks at Parker Field, Saturday night, met with an accident while leaving the grandstand. In someway she made a misstep in descending from the stand and fell backward striking her head. She was removed to the hospital, where she was found to be suffering from contused wounds of the head. After being given treatment she was taken to her home. Her injuries are not considered serious.

Among the small fires not reported at headquarters, was one at the residence of W. L. Hetfield, Jr., of East Second street. Mr. Hetfield's children, Walter and George, who had been playing in the rear yard with crackers and other small fireworks, accidentally dropped a piece of "punk" into a small basket containing the crackers on the porch. Crackers flew in all directions for a few moments, the basket and porch catching fire. The flames were extinguished before any great damage was accomplished.

Harry Sendall, aged ten years, who lives at the corner of Maple avenue and Greenbrook road, the borough, was taken to Muhlenberg Hospital, Saturday, as the result of a gunshot wound in his hand. The gun was loaded with gravel, several pieces lodging in the hand. After having the wound dressed young Sendall was able to return to his home.

PREACHED FIRST SERMON.

Rev. J. Madison Hare, formerly of the Parmeley Memorial church, of Jersey City, preached his first sermon as pastor of the Scotch Plains Baptist church yesterday morning. The right hand of fellowship was extended to the new pastor by the board of deacons. A large congregation was present to greet Rev. Mr. Hare, who will be formerly installed later.

STYLISH RELIABLE

For over 8 years our forefathers struggled to throw off the yoke that held them to the grind-stone.

They were the sort of men who never knew when they had failed, and they made a success out of an impossibility.

Men of Plainfield, we ask you to throw off the yoke of custom. There is no reason why you should continue to overpay on your clothes because you have done so before.

We save you $3 to $5 on every suit, because of cash buying and cash selling—and the saving on other expenses. Won't you come in today?

Watchung.

The members of the younger set gave a very enjoyable dance in the Improvement Society Hall, Saturday evening. The hall was prettily decorted in holiday colors. The dance served as a climax to a very jolly day.

Two very exciting baseball games gave the residents of Watchung a very entertaining time on the morning and afternoon of July 4. In the morning the Watchung Athletic Association played and defeated the Plainfield Highland A. C., with a score of 9 to 3. In the afternoon the Watchung A. C. again was a victorious team when it defeated the local firemen by the close score of 3-2.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter B. Rendell and family, of Jersey City, spent the week-end on their bungalow at Burnhead Lake.

Miss Edna L. Titus was pleasantly surprised by a number of her friends at her home on Hillcrest road, Saturday night. The lawns and verandas were brilliantly lighted with Japanese lanterns. The evening was pleasantly spent in playing games, after which a dainty collation was served. The party ended with display of fireworks. Among those present were the Misses Agnes Griffiths, Catherine Bartels, Yvonne Scott, Agusta Probst, May Titus, Travis Nash, Olive Titus, Gertrude Davidson, Mildred Harden, Grace Conover, Grace Titus, and the Masters Norman Conover, Kenneth Bennett, Clifford Causbrook, Stanley Burner, Charles Eaton, James Javin, Clement Texier, Max Underhill, George Fish, Charles Snoden, Elston Wakefield and Richard Schmidt.

Miss Margaret H. Schick, of Silver Lake, N. Y., has been the guest of her sister, Mrs. George A. Schmidt, of Sterling road, over the week-end.

The Misses Koch, of Valley road, have been entertaining Miss Grace Payne, of Bayonne, over the week-end.

The Watchung Chemical Engine Company will hold their regular monthly meeting at headquarters this evening.

Services were largely attended in the Mary E. Wilson Memorial church yesterday. Rev. Harold W. Schenck conducted the services. In the morning the Rev. Edwin S. Miles, of New York city, gave a very interesting outline of the work done in the Five Points Mission.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Wheeler, of Woodledge road, are entertaining Mr. Wheeler's parents from Bayonne.

'Plains & Fanwood.

Louis Corrono, of Stanbery avenue, is suffering with a broken wrist, sustained by a fall from a cherry tree on Friday. The injured arm was set by Dr. Munger.

Both the borough and Scotch Plains were very quiet on Saturday. Outside of a few minor burns, there was no accidents from fireworks. The members of the Lincoln Social Club enjoyed fireworks in the evening and many other residents witnessed those in Plainfield.

Impressive services marked the installation of Rev. J. Madison Hare as pastor of the Baptist church at the morning services yesterday.

Dr. H. K. Carroll conducted both the morning and evening services in the Methodist church yesterday. After the evening service the sacrament of the Lord's Supper was observed.

Rev. George H. Houghton Butler celebrated holy communion in All Saints' Episcopal church twice yesterday, at 7:30 a. m. and again at the 11 o'clock service, followed by the sermon. The Sunday-school met at 10 o'clock.

The Borough Board of Health will meet in the Fanwood firehouse this evening at 8 o'clock. The matter of the new plumbing ordinance will come up for discussion.

Miss Elizabeth Babcock, Miss Marie Boise and Miss Rose Thomae are attending the Junior League convention at Northfield, Mass., as representatives of the local league. The Misses Matilda Kuehn, Emma Elliot, Mamie Clark and several others are also attending the convention.

Recorder Charles Sheslen, of the borough, is rounding out ten years in that office. During that time he has had 159 cases. The two steel cells have been in the borough hall for three years and have held fifty-nine lawbreakers in that time.

A number of school children from this place are attending summer school in Plainfield today, in an effort to make up back work.

The Misses Gertrude and Beatrice Head, of Scotch Plains, are visiting their grandparents, Mr and Mrs. William Joule, of Newark.

Most of the societies and clubs in this place have discontinued their meetings until September. Among them are the Ladies' Aid Society and Saints' Guild of the Episcopal church, the Tuesday Afternoon Literary Club, the Bridge Club and Afternoon Card Club. At the meeting of the Saturday Night Club to be held in the Fanwood firehouse on Saturday night it will be decided whether or not the meetings shall continue. The Lend-a-Hand Society of the Baptist church and the Women's Auxiliary and Council of the Parish House will hold their monthly meetings all through the summer.

Mrs. I. C. Hall and children, Maurice and Claire, of South avenue, are spending a few weeks at Atlantic City.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hunter and daughter, Marion, have returned from spending the Fourth with friends in Trenton.

Dunellen & Vicinity

Captain and Mrs. B. A. Cole, entertained George H. Firstbrook, of Newark, and the Misses Bessie McLaughlin and Ruth Speer, of Paterson, over the week-end.

Richard Pennock, son of Dr. and Mrs. Edward Pennock, has been appointed one of the life guards at Sanderson's pier, Belmar. The term of Mr. Pennock's appointment is from June 15th until Labor Day.

Mrs. Margaret Dealaman, of Washington avenue, had as her guests on the Fourth, Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Teel and son, of Plainfield, and Mrs. Marshall Pettinger, of Hackettstown.

Contractor J. Newton Apgar has been awarded the conetract of the house that Harry Boice is to erect on Culhane place.

George Cameron, of New Market road, has been taking a few days leave of absence from his duties on the Central Railroad, as the result of a slight indisposition with an old ailment.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence O'Leary, of Whittier avenue, had as their guests over the Fourth and week-end the Misses Maud Mortimer and Anna Carberry, of Greenpoint, L. I.

Assessor and Mrs. J. H. L. Peters entertained Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Karch, of Corona, L. I., over the holiday.

The monthly meeting of the Board of Education will be held in the Whittier School, tomorrow evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred N. Whitney, who returned on Thursday from a short wedding trip, left after witnessing the forenoon Fourth of July celebrations, for Chicago, where Mr. Whitney is employed as the western representative of the Wadsworth Watch Case Company. After Mr. Whitney has attended to some important business matters there, the couple will leave on a month's trip to California.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Armstrong, of Mountrinview Terrace, left on Friday, for Orient, L. I., where it is hoped that the change will aid Mr. Armstrong in recovering entirely from the effects of his recent slight stroke of paralysis.

Some excitement was caused as a result of Mrs. Margaret Dealaman's white bull terrier getting out of Mrs. Dealaman's home on Fourth of July night without her knowledge. Mrs. Dealaman was first made aware that her dog was out by hearing its familiar growl followed almost instantaneously by the yelping of another dog. Rushing out Mrs. Dealaman perceived that her dog had a hold of a dog, that later proved to be Mrs. Antone Barton's black and tan "Gyp," by the throat. For a full five minutes Mrs. Dealaman with the assistance of her daughter and some others, who did not want to see the victim killed, tried unavailingly to break the bull dog's hold. The struggle started on the front porch of the Dealaman home and wound up in the gutter in front of the house where after all other measures had failed the bull dog's grip was broken by partially choking it with a rope.

A party in a large Hudson touring car had a narrow escape from serious injury if not death about nine o'clock Fourth of July morning when in order to avoid striking J. M. Dayton's stage the machine was steered at a sharp angle to the side of the road hitting a tree. Mr. Dayton's stage, which was hied and decoated in white by the W. C. T. U. for the Fourth of July parade, was coming from New Market along New Market road and the Hudson was behind it. Just as the machine was about to pass Mr. Dayton turned his team into the stage on its left, the proper side, the driveway of George K. Post's residence, where the W. C. T. U. delegation was going to board his stage, directly in the path of the car. The driver had no alternative but to steer his car towards the opposite side of the street. Fortunately for the occupants of the car the mud-guard of the machine and not its main part hit the tree. As the machine struck a little girl was caught by her mother as she was being thrown over the side of the car by the force of the collision. After straightening the mud-guard and removing a broken headlight the machine was pushed down off of the embankment with the aid of the New Market fire department. The steering gear was then found to be injured and the car had to be abandoned. The party who said they were on their way from Perth Amboy to Delaware Water Gap, refused to devulge their names. The number of the car was "4145 N J."

Mr. and Mrs. Bertram Brandon and family, of Elizabeth, were entertained by Mrs. Brandon's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Craig, of Jackson avenue, over the Fourth and week-end.

For the first time in the annals of Dunellen history the Central Railroad station, through the courtesy of Frederick T. Dickerson, a former resident who is now the assistant to the president of that road was elaborately and artistically decorated with festoons of red, white and blue bunting and American flags, on the Fourth.

Contractor Edward Ayers is decorating the interior of the remodelled and added to hardware store of Smalley Brothers.

Announcement has been made of the marriage on Thursday evening of Miss Mamie Margentino, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Margentino, of North avenue, to Frank Mohan, of Dunellen avenue. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. B. M. Bogan, at St. Mary's church, Plainfield. The couple were attended by Patrick Mohan, a brother of the groom and Mrs. Mary Wyckoff, of Front street. They will reside with the bride's parents until their home, which is to be erected on First street, has been completed.

While going down the cellar steps of her home on Front street yesterday morning, Mrs. William Ranken tripped, falling to the cellar bottom and breaking her collar bone and two ribs.

Mr. and Mrs. William K. Hartpence of New Market road, entertained Mr. and Mrs. Robert Anderson and daughter, Miss Sharlee, of Newark, over the Fourth.

The Mayor and Council meet in the borough hall this evening.

Dunellen had a "safe, sane and orderly" Fourth, no arrests being made by the local police and only three minor accidents being registered. Those who were injured were Samuel Latham, the young son of Mayor and Mrs. E. B. Latham and Joseph Gaff the young brother of Mrs. Weimer Snyder, of Front street; both of whom had the middle finger of their right hands burnt by the accidental discharge of blank pistols. The other injury was sustained by Raymond Apgar, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Apgar, of Front street, who was burnt about the face while setting off some fireworks for the kids of the neighborhood.

Week-end arrivals for the summer at the Elisworth on Grove street, run by Mr. and Mrs. G. Sumner Smith were: Mrs. P. N. Reilly and daughter, the Misses Grace and Julia, of Richmond Hill, Brooklyn; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Reimer and daughter, of Brooklyn; Mr. and Mrs. William Gray, of Brooklyn; Charles Snyder and son, Peter, of the Bronx; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lynch and family, of Jersey City; Mr. and Mrs. William Morrell and family, of Bayonne; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cowans and son, of New York; the Misses Anna and Gilbert Stone, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Dice, of Cuba; Mrs. Wohlers and daughter, Miss Margery, of Brooklyn; Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Wardle, of Brooklyn; R. W. Cleveland, of Buffalo and William Ford, of New York. The regular weekly dance under the tutorship of Kenneth Dealaman will be held at the Ellsworth this evening.

Somerville

Miss Gertrude Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Brown, Jr., and Warren Benson Dygert, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Dygert, of Bellevue, Pa., were married at the home of the bride's parents, on East High street, at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Roy Ewing Vale, pastor of the Second Reformed church. It was a very quiet wedding, only a few guests being present, these being confined to members of the immediate families. Miss Jennie Brown, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and Voorhees Kline, of Somerville, was best man. The bride's gown was a white voile dress, trimmed with fillet lace, and she carried white sweet peas. The maid of honor wore a white lingerie dress over pink, and carried pink rambler roses. The bridegroom went to Rutgers two years, then to the University of Pittsburgh, graduating in 1910, and is connected with the Pittsburgh Steel Car Company. The bride is a graduate of the Somerville High School, class of 1910, and has been employed in the office of Justice James J. Bergen. After a wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Dygert will reside in Bellevue, Pa.

The celebration of the Fourth at Duke's Park, under the auspices of the Somerset County Anti-Tuberculosis Association, was even a bigger success than that of last year. The grandstand was considerably larger than that of the year before, but this proved entirely too small for the gathering, and the crowd spread itself all around the field where the special exercises were held. It is estimated that fully 5,000 people were in attendance. The ball game in the morning was won by Company M over the Somerville Athletic Association, by the score of 3 to 2. The concert by Winkler's Band, of Trenton, drew a large crowd in the morning, but the largest attendance was in the afternoon, when two dramatic performances, "The Pied Piper" and "Rip VanWinkle" were given. Over two hundred persons took part in the program, and it was highly interesting throughout. The many attractions on the grounds were liberally patronized, and the treasury of the society will be greatly augmented as a result of the celebration.

The members of the West End Hose Company held a very successful two-night carnival on the school grounds on Friday and Saturday night, the attendance on the night of the Fourth being particularly large. Dancing and games of all kinds were in evidence, and all were liberally patronized.

A meeting of the Borough Council will be held at the engine house on Maple street, this evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Cassidy, who have been making their home for some time with a daughter at Bayonne, celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary here on July 4, at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Edward Kelley. The event was only attended by members of the family. Mr. Cassidy was employed in the mills here for a number of years, retiring from active work only a few years ago, since which time he has made his home in Bayonne, but often visiting at this place.

John McCarron has returned home from Somerset Hospital, where he was taken at the time of the accident when one of his limbs was broken.

The Board of Commissioners will meet in the rooms on Anderson street this evening.

Chicken thieves have been operating in this vicinity, and on Friday evening stole nine from the premises of John McCarron, leaving only the heads behind to tell the tale.

Mrs. Walter Carson is able to be around again after being laid up for some time with a sprained ankle.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Hurley have returned from their wedding trip and are making their home temporarily with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Purcell.

RATE DECISION IS EXPECTED THIS WEEK

Washington, July 6.—Members of the Interstate Commerce Commission are expected to reach some conclusion this week regarding the announcement of an opinion in the so-called five per cent. rate advance case. This was the confident expectation this morning of the officials of the Commission when the members began coming back to their offices from a week-end holiday.

No official information was to be obtained, but inquirers were told that just as soon as something definite has been agreed upon they would be informed. It is expected that the Commission will make known in advance the hour when the decision is to be made public.

TO PUSH TRUST BILL.

Democratic Leaders Will Move Rapidly on Measure This Week.

Washington, July 6.—Democratic leaders in the senate expect to get up steam and move along more rapidly on the trust legislative program this week. Two bills are still in committee, the Clayton bill and the railroad securities, or Rayburn bill. The federal trade commission bill is in the senate and has been debated in a desultory way the past week. But much opposition to it has developed among the Democrats. Efforts by Senator Newlands to get a day fixed for a vote on the bill failed.

He gave notice that he would call the bill up early this week and ask that it be kept constantly before the senate until disposed of. But in this he will meet with obstruction. Many senators object to acting upon the federal trade commission bill until the other trust bills come into the senate. Chairman Newlands told his colleagues that the railroad securities bill would be ready to be reported before the close of this week, but declined to hazard a guess as to when the Clayton bill would be reported.

HUERTA ENVOY IN NEW YORK

Senor Rabasa Says He Hopes to Hear From Rebels.

New York, July 6.—Emilio Rabasa, one of the Mexican delegates to the mediation conference at Niagara Falls, arrived here with his four daughters and two sons, and went to the Hotel Collingwood. He had little to say, except that he was still hopeful of hearing from the rebels. He said as yet he has no news of the Mexican elections.

Luis Elguero, another of the delegates, will arrive here today. He went to Montreal from Niagara Falls before starting for this city.

PETERS MAY BE NAMED.

Washington, July 6—Representative Andrew J. Peters, of Massachusetts, probably will be the next Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, succeeding Charles S. Hamlin, whose appointment to the Federal Reserve Board recently was confirmed by the Senate. It developed today that Mr. Peters, who is a member of the House ways and means committee, has had the offer under consideration for some days and has been urged by his friends to accept.

TO REFUSE SUPPORT.

Washington, July 6.—Ambassador Riano, of Spain, and Secretary Bryan concluded the details of an agreement today, whereby both countries will refuse to lend their diplomatic support to such of their nationals as attempt to gain possession of mining claims in Mexico vacated temporarily by their rightful owners and lessees on account of the disturbed condition there.

COMPLETES INVESTIGATION.

El Paso, Tex., July 6.—Richard H. Cole, of Pasadena, Cal., left today for Washington, after completing an investigation into Mexican affairs, the result of which will be reported to Secretary Bryan. It is understood he will present to Mr. Bryan an entirely new phase of the Carranza-Villa estrangement.

$20,000 OFFER TO FIGHT.

Sydney, N. S. W., July 6—Georges Carpentier, middleweight champion of France, was cabled today an offer of $20,000 to meet Jimmy Clabby, of Hammond, Ind., a claimant of the middleweight championship. The offer was made by promoters of the stadium here.

ON CAMPING TRIP.

Four girls of this city left today for Spring Lake where they will spend a month camping. They are the Misses Kathleen Philips, Ethel Van Zandt, Lillian Whitall and Mary Chick. They were accompanied by Miss Rittie Brokaw, of Dunellen.

PLUMLEY ELECTED.

Washington, July 6.—Representative Plumley, of Vermont, was today elected by the House to the place on the judiciary committee made vacant by the ousting of Representative Dyer of Montana, from his seat in the House.

REFUSES AID TO SUFFERERS.

Washington, July 6.—The House Committee on Appropriations, refused today to recommend an appropriation of $200,000 to relieve the fire sufferers at Salem.

15,900 of These Shirts in a Special Sale at 95c

The Shirt Store and Subway Entrance will open at 7:30 tomorrow (Tuesday) to accommodate business men on their way to work. Last year in this sort of a sale we sold 2,000 shirts between 7:30 and 8:30.

The three pictures above are actual reproductions of the price-cards placed on "Loom-to-wearer" shirts wherever they are sold—and they are sold in good stores all over the country. Of each of the three grades we have in the sale the following quantities:

1,080 of the $2.50 Shirts
4,800 of the $2.00 Shirts
10,020 of the $1.50 Shirts

Sizes 14 to 18.
500 Patterns.

15,900 Shirts in all to sell for 95c Each

The maker writes:

"We are sending you the clean-up of our whole summer stock for 1914."

"We consider ourselves particularly fortunate that we have but 1,325 dozens left out of a production of 55,000 dozens. When you consider that this represents 2 2-5 per cent. of our output you can see that good honest merchandise is still appreciated. This in spite of the flood of cheap, low-grade, no-pedigree shirts continually foisted on the buying public."

Half are Soft Shirts
Half are Laundered

All in Fancy Patterns, including a Host of Black and White.

Soft shirts with soft cuffs attached, negligee and pleated with stiff cuffs attached.

Three Selling Places { Burlington Arcade Floor, New Building. Subway Entrance, New Building. Main Aisle, Old Building.

The Shirts Filled One Entire Car

Freight was paid on 15,330 pounds.

They came three shirts in a box. If the boxes were piled one on top of another they would reach 1,735 feet in the air—almost twice as high as the Woolworth Building.

In dollars and cents they amount to $27,510, which we are offering for $15,219.

August 1, 1912, we offered 6,240 of these shirts.

July 9, 1913, we offered 11,196.

Tomorrow, July 7, 1914, we offer 15,900.

FINE 4TH OF JULY CELEBRATION

tre was thronged with members and their families, and after a fine dinner served under the direction of Superintendent Eke, dancing was indulged in until a late hour. Van Eps Brothers furnished the music and they gave one of their most popular programs, which included a number of encores. The clubhouse was decorated appropriate to Independence Day.

FOR SAFETY OF THE CZAR.

St. Petersburg, July 6—The assassination of the Archduke Francis Ferdinand and his wife has naturally resulted in increased fears for the safety of the Czar, upon whose life no fewer than six attempts already have been made. Not in the history of the Russian railways have such elaborate precautions ever been observed to protect the imperial train than those which are now being perfected for the return journey of the imperial family from their trip in Southern Russia. Every foot of the route and every particle of the apparatus of the train and track is to be subjected to the most careful inspection. As a further precaution against any attempted outrage on the part of the Terrorists the entire line will be guarded by troops.

GET DOWN TO BUSINESS.

St. Paul, Minn., July 6—After two days of preliminaries the annual convention of the National Educational Association, which has attracted thousands of teachers to this city from every part of the country, got under way in earnest today with two general sessions and a score of departmental conferences. Meeting in conjunction with the main body are the National League of Teachers' Association and a number of other organizations devoted to the promotion and development of various branches of educational work.

ENTERTAINS REAL ESTATE MEN.

Chicago, Ill., July 6—The Chicago Real Estate Board today played host to six hundred real estate men hailing from forty cities in the western part of the United States and Canada. The Westerners are on their way to Pittsburgh to attend the convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

JERRY PAOLI IS FOUND GUILTY BY A JURY

Following a deliberation of six minutes, the jury in the case of the city against Jerry Paoli, charged with a serious offense, returned a verdict of guilty, the decision being reached on the first ballot. City Judge W. G. DeMeza ordered the defendant to furnish bonds in $500. Two hours and a half were required to hear the testimony in the case which was tried in the District Court, Friday afternoon.

This is the first time since 1911 that a defendant charged with a criminal offense, has been tried by a jury here. W. L. Hetfield, Jr., prosecuted the case and John P. Owens represented the defendant. Six witnesses were examined. The jury comprised Edward C. Hardingham, foreman; Samuel Rothberg, Henry Liefke, B. Frank Coriell, Lamar Van Syckel, Christine Gloekner, Henry R. Palmer, Joseph Harrigan, Hyman Adelberg, J. C. Hansen, Charles Stanley and William H. Williamson.

ROYAL WEDDING ANNIVERSARY.

London, July 6—The twenty-first anniversary of the marriage of the King and Queen was celebrated today at Windsor, when the bells of St. George's chapel and of Windsor Parish church were rung, and at midday a salute of twenty-one guns was fired in the Long Walk. An hour later a second salute was fired in honor of the birthday anniversary of Princess Victoria, second daughter of the late King Edward VII., who was born July 6, 1868.

AUTOS IN TRADE EXTENSION.

A new use for automobiles has been discovered. Chicago business men last week pressed them into service for trade extension, using them upon a successful tour of neighboring cities to aid trade and bring about a closer relationship and greater co-operation between adjacent communities. The tour, which covered five days, was held under the auspices of the Chicago Association of Commerce. A pilot car sent out a week in advance arranged for the reception of the trade extensionists at the various stop-overs.

Heretofore, trade extension tourists have not been content with anything short of a special train on the railroad, which whisks the boomers over a half dozen States in a comet-like sort of way. Occasionally, the trolleys have been pressed into service. Neither of these methods of travel, unless it be the tour by interurban, serves to boost trade in the immediate vicinty of town or city and the steam line route has not been serviceable except for the largest cities.

Chicago has shown a way which is open to business men of any size community for a trade extension tour. The auto provides the means for boost circuiting in a way which commends it for many reasons. In the first place, it is possible for extensionists to cover the immediate vicinity thoroughly. Every town and city may be visited while the tourists traveling the country highways create a favorable impression in the rural districts. These are the localities which trade most with a city and upon which the community is dependent for a great share of its business.

The auto offers an opportunity for trade extension in the places where the greatest good may be done. It provides an informal method of travel to the different customers. Such a cavalcade as that from Chicago last week has a better influence and more lasting than the trip by railroad to far-off points. The auto trip creates a friendlier and more congenial feeling between the various communities, large and small. It starts co-operation and a spirit of unity is up-builded. A desire for mutual welfare grows up and this not only makes the city of the tourists a greater centre but it also helps each smaller community. The auto has opened the way for trade extension tours by business men of Plainfield as well as for those of greater cities.

CRIME PREVENTION.

From a repairer and doctor of crime, the Michigan State prison at Jackson has become an agency for the prevention of criminality. From a worker among convicts within its prison walls, this institution which four years ago had the reputation of being the worst managed penal institution in the United States, has gone beyond its stone walls to work among humanity to keep people out of jail. In other words, Michigan has decided to meet crime on its own ground in the midst of society.

This latest step in many prison reforms made at Jackson, places the Michigan institution in advance of the prisons of other States. The plan will follow very closely the university extension work of the colleges for it will go out among the people of the State, instructing them and arousing them to a sense of social responsibility.

When they began reforming the Jackson prison, they found that the average age of prisoners is becoming steadily less and less. Ten years ago this average was 28 years; today it is 23, tending to show increasingly lax parental and social influences. Moreover, it was discovered that society so treats the ex-prisoner that he is almost compelled to find his associates among criminals, leaving little opportunity for the paroled prisoner and the man who has finished his term.

These things are wrong; something is wrong with society and the prisons will be filled so long as conditions are unchanged. Jackson's warden realized all this. In the belief that society must be brought quickly to a sense of its own responsibility, the extension work department has been launched for the purpose of organizing each community in the State to care for its wayward youth and to receive back its paroled and discharged men and give them a chance to make good. The prison chaplain and other officials will be sent into the communities to lecture on the causes of crime and to effect local organizations auxiliary to the extension department.

Each locality will be induced to study its local conditions, "to prevent childhood from coming in contact with such influences as lead to wrong-doing, to save wayward youth from ever coming to prison, and to provide real friends for the man who has learned the lesson of prison life and is anxious to begin life anews." Here then is the three-fold idea inspiring the extension work—to keep young men out of prison, to aid paroled prisoners to meet the terms of their paroles and to prevent discharged prisoners from coming back.

MISS EVELINA D. SOUTHARD BRIDE OF WILLIAM F. MOTT

Miss Evelina Derry Southard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elias M. Southard, of Cook avenue, Scotch Plains, was married to William Floyd Mott, of Southampton, L. I., yesterday afternoon, at the home of the bride's parents in the presence of relatives and friends. The ceremoney was performed by Rev. Dr. Charles M. Anderson, pastor of the First Methodist church, of this city.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Helen Southard, and Anthony Fisher, of Detroit, Mich., was the best man. After the ceremony supper was served by Mrs. D. A. Gordon, of Clinton avenue, sister of the bride. The young couple left last night for a short honymoon through Maine, and upon their return will reside in Leonia, where Mr. Mott is employed.

MRS. M. A. GIDDIS.

Mrs. M Anna Giddis, aged 35, wife of the late Benjamin Giddis, died yesterday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Nuse, of Mt. Horeb, after a short illness. Besides her parents, Mrs. Giddis is survived by one son, Irving, and one daughter, Jennie, both young children. The funeral services will be held at the residence of her parents Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, and from the Mt. Horeb M. E. church at 2:30. Interment will be made at the Mt. Horeb cemetery.

W. H. MURPHY'S FUNERAL.

The funeral of William H. Murphy, who died at his home in Scotch Plains on last Thursday in the sixty-second year of his age, was held yesterday from the undertaking parlors of J. J. and C. A. Higgins, and later at the Scotch Plains Methodist church. The services were in charge of the Dr. H. K. Carroll, pastor of the church. Interment was in the cemetery at that place. He is survived by one daughter, Miss Violet Murphy, living at home and two sons, Charles P. and James B. Murphy, of this city.

MISS M. E. SHELDON.

Miss Mary Elizabeth Sheldon, aged 30 years, daughter of Mrs. Margaret Sheldon, of West Second street, died Thursday afternoon, at Morristown, after a lingering illness. Miss Sheldon leaves no immediate relatives aside from her mother. The funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at the home of her mother at 3 o'clock. Rev. J. O. McNeivey, pastor of Warren chapel, will officiate. Interment will be made at the family plot in the North Plainfield cemetery.

DUNELLEN HAD BIG CELEBRATION

Thousands of People Attracted to the Borough On Independence Day.

PARADE AND SPEECHES

Followed by Fine Display of Fireworks—Elaborate Observance Arranged By the Board of Trade.

Under the auspices of the Board of Trade of Dunellen, that municipality enjoyed a delightful celebration of the Fourth, considered one of the best in its history. It was the second annual celebration and was not only "Safe and Sane" but very orderly. The place was thronged with thousands of visitors throughout the day and evening. The festivities began at 9 o'clock with a parade, the line of march including all of the principal streets, beginning in Washington Park, with Grand Marshal Hamley in charge.

Then followed a platoon of police, the Dutch Arms Band and represtatives of the various political, civic and fraternal bodies of the borough. The Dunellen and New Market fire laddies appeared in their gray and red shirts, while the P. O. S. of A guard attracted favorable comment. A feature of the parade was the appearance of a large number of school children. Then came the floats and they were all elaborately decorated and typical of the trades and societies they represented.

The New Market Grange float comprised a load of hay. The Junior O. U. A. M. driven by Uncle Sam in the person of Charles Tinsman, was symbolical of the patriotic objects of the order and the W. C. T. U. likewise portrayed the virtues of the temperance movement. Other floats were entered by the Levgar Iron Works, Smalley Brothers, H. G. Morse. Scotia on a miniature throne was represented by Annette Reimer, as the Goddess of Liberty and by Mr. Morse's son as the "Spirit of the Fourth."

After the parade all assembled at the park to enjoy the public exercises, which were opened with prayer by Rev. Mr. Ramsey, pastor of the M. E. church. This was followed with a short address by E. J. Dusel, president of the Board of Trade. Mayor E. B. Latham in an interesting address extended a cordial welcome to everyone. Schuyler Vander Veer read the Declaration of Independence. Congressman Thomas J. Sculley, who was expected to speak, was unable to be present. The speech of the day was made by Assemblyman Arthur A. Quinn, in which he made an urgent plea for industrial freedom.

The program was interspersed with selections by the Dutch Arms Band and concluded with the benediction by Rev. E. R. Brown. At the suggestion of Mr. Brown a vote of thanks was extended to the Board of Trade for the fine celebration arranged by that body.

The exercises of the afternoon consisted of a band concert in Washington Park by the Dutch Arms Band from 2 to 4 o'clock, a baseball game between Plainfield and Dunellen and in the evening there was a fine display of fireworks at Maurer Oval.

The Library Board with the hearty endorsement of the Board of Trade and the assistance of a bevy of young women realized $140 from the sale of tags for the benefit of the library.

MISS KATHERINE ROSE DIES IN 37TH YEAR

Miss Katherine Rose, aged thirty-seven years, died at her home in the borough yesterday afternoon. She had been a resident here for a number of years and was widely known. Besides a mother, Mrs. Katherine Rose, of Springdale, she is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Henry Albert, of Warrenville, and Miss Mitta Rose, of this city, and three brothers, Peter, August and Fred Rose, all of this city.

The funeral will be held Wednesday from the residence of her brother, Peter, 101 Belmont avenue, and will be in charge of Rev. George Bowers, of Warrenville. Interment will be in the North Plainfield cemetery.

PLAINFIELDERS ATTEND ROCKY HILL CELEBRATION

Many Plainfield people attended the fifth annual Independence Day celebration held Saturday at Rocky Hill, the affair being an elaborate one in which the borough officials and town improvement society had a part. There was a fine display of fireworks in the evening with many large set pieces. The music for the day was furnished by Ingvard M. eNlson's band.

The success of the affair was in a large part to the efforts of Frank Mitchell, a well-known theatrical manager, who has been living at Rocky Hill. He arranged the day's events. Nearly three thousand people witnessed the fireworks' display. There were two ball games between the Rocky Hill and Trenton teams. Trenton taking one by a score of 4 to 3, and Rocky Hill the other by a score of 13 to 3.

ATHLETIC MEET BIG SUCCESS

tured first place in the pole vault, competing from scratch. Runyon was second in the Metropolitan Junior Championship at Travers Island and had little trouble in overcoming his opponents' twelve-inch handicaps. He competed under the colors of the Pastime A. C. His height was 10 feet 4 inches.

Randolph Granger, the Dartmouth College flyer, of Newark, running for the I. A. A. C., captured the cup for the first place in the half mile. Granger ran a pretty race from start to finish, keeping in the lead and setting a fast pace throughout the two laps covered. He finished several yards ahead of his nearest opponent.

Henry Berg, of Newark Academy, took first honors in the 100-yard handicap race, with Bert Holden, the popular Elizabeth Y. M. C. A. sprinter, coming in third.

The numerous entries made the running of several heats necessary in all of the sprints, and consequently the meet was not completed until long after supper time. The first three men in each event received silver cups and numerous special prizes were awarded. Officials from the Metropolitan district conducted the events, and the affair was void of all protests.

Many local athletes entered the meet but few succeded in placing for the prizes. Several men were in the finals of the short dashes, but ran slow and failed to finish with the one, two, three men. The meet was run off in good order, which reflects with much credit upon the officials in charge. The complete list of officials and summaries follows:

Will you kindly give me some space in your paper, that I may present to the merchants and the public the situation in the matter of giving the clerks in the stores a weekly holiday during August. The merchants, with few exceptions, have signified a willingness to grant a holiday; a few prefer Thursdays all day; a larger number Saturdays half day. Just now we are confused. We don't know where we are at, or what we are expected to do.

The civic committee of the College Club, obtained twenty-five signatures for a Saturday half holiday from dry goods, clothing, furnishings, shoes, millinery and jewelry stores. There are fifteen other stores in these lines.

It seems to me, here is a splendid opportunity for the Merchants' Association to solve the question.—arrange for a day that would be satisfactory to the majority of employers, or use their influence to obtain the consent of part, if not all of the fifteen as stated above. With a little co-operation now on their part the success of the movement would be assured. After all that has been accomplished, don't leave it in this chaotic state. The time may never come when every store-keeper shall agree upon the same proposition.

GREAT DAY FOR NETHERWOOD

Athletic Sports.

The athletic events were hotly contested, each number having ample entries who put forth their best efforts to capture one of the beautiful bronze medals provided through the association.

Interest ran high among the spectators who lined the course on both sides of the street, all feeling impelled to root vigorously for their particular favorite, urging him or her on to breast the tape first.

The special feature events were participated in very heartily by both the women and men. The "Tug of War" proved the most interesting of these numbers, and in contrast to the baseball relay races provided for residents east and west of a center line of Belvidere avenue, each of which were won by those on the west side of Belvidere avenue, went to the brawn and grit of the men east of Belvidere avenue.

25-yard dash, boys under six years, C. D. Wardlaw, Jr.; 25-yard dash, girls under eight years, Francis Guttridge; 50-yard dash, boys under eight years, Jack Wardlaw; 50-yard dash, girls under twelve years, Anna Medbery; 50-yard dash, boys under fifteen years, Eustace Eggie; 50-yard dash, girls over twelve years, Betty Wernig; 100-yard dash, boys over fifteen years, Peltram C. Wilmerding; 25-yard blind-fold race, girls over eight years, Francis Guttridge; 50-yard dash, boys over twelve years, Paul Brousse; 50-yard sack race, boys over twelve years, James Wernig; running broad jump, boys over eight years, Harry Wernig; running broad jump, boys over 12 years, James Wernig; running broad jump, boys over fifteen years, Hamilton Wilmerding; running broad jump, boys over fifteen years, O. X. Horan; throwing baseball for distance, girls over twelve years, Dorothy Y. Smith.

Open Events.

50-Yard dash, boys under thirteen, won by William Kmosko; 100-yard dash, boys over thirteen, won by F. McDonough. Owing to the large number of entries in these events, it was necessary to run them off in two heats.

Special Feature Events.

Baseball relay race, men, (teams picked from residents living east and west of center line of Belvidere avenut), won by west team; baseball relay race, ladies, (teams picked as in like race for men), won by west team; tug of war, men, (teams picked as in baseball relay race), won by east team; orange race, ladies, won by Mrs. W. L. Fleming; throwing baseball for distance, ladies, won by Miss P. Durar.

Baseball Game.

The baseball game between the married men and single men teams of the association was held in the afternoon on the ball field, corner of Leland and South avenues, and there was a good attendance here also, the women proving to be as enthusiastic fans as the men and their gay costumes added color to the scene.

The game was closely contested as will be seen from the final score which gave only a two run margin to the single men who proved to be the winners.

In the second inning the four runs secured by the single men made it look like a walk-a-way for them, but the married men's experience seemed to have taught them not to become easily discouraged, and from that time on they showed the youngsters fast work. We will not attempt to single out any particular players for the excellent work done, as it would be necessary to mention practically the complete line-up.

There were some errors, also some brilliant plays, among which were included a fast double play, by the benedicts.

Much excitement was aroused especially among the younger folk by the cutting of numerous water melons upon the field and the distribution of the same.

Dance and Reception.

The conclusion of the day's festivities consisted of an informal dance and reception in the large ball room of Truell Hall on Belvidere avenue. The building was handsomely decorated with flags and bunting and brilliantly illuminated with hundreds of varigated colored electric lights. Dancing began at 8:30 p. m., and was participated in by a large gathering of happy people who remained until midnight

Paroubek's orchestra furnished a program of popular and appropriate dance music. The dancing was greatly enjoyed by all present, the latest dances showing their popularity by the large number of graceful dancers participating.

The Reception Committee—P. G. Chase, chairman; H. K. Tetsuka, H. P. Stevens, F. B. Martin, W. R. Townsend, George Brisbane, S. E. Gunnison, A. W. Drake.

TROOP 11 NOW RATED AS PATROL

STAG PATROL SECOND

The Fourth of July "hike" of the Plainfield Boy Scout troops on Saturday, placed Troop 11, of Grace Episcopal church, high in the rating of patrols. The patrol under leadership of Scoutmaster A. E. Sprowl and Assistant Scoutmaster Raymond Manley took practically all the honors of the day. About seventy-five scouts participated in the day's events which began at 4 a. m., and closed at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

Stag patrol took 250 points for making the largest number of captures in ambush and for having the largest number of boys in possession of the bridge at New Brunswick avenue after twenty minutes of hard battle.

The ratings made by the other patrols were 170 points for musicians patrol of Troop 5, led by Assistant Scoutmaster W. A. W. Thompsen; 80 for Flying Eagle patrol of Troop 12, the youngest troop in point of service in the city, led by Samuel Rosenthal and Scout Master Livingston; 10 for Wolf patrol of Troop 5, led by John Caustervok and 6 for Lion patrol of Troop 7, led by Arthur Jeter.

In the boat tilting contest Troop 5, represented by Robert Cartwright, Joseph Augerbauer, and Charles A. Eaton, Insignia mounted scout; defeated Troop 11, represented by Irving Manley, Homer Scranton and Walter S. Marder, Jr.

In singles, Assistant Scoutmaster Raymond Manley and Leader Clinton Berrian, both of Troop 11, fought to a draw for ten minutes and grace of 2 without either touching the water.

A free-for-all combat took place between two scrub teams composed of Robert Cartwright, troop 5; Homer Scranton, 11; Henry Hannigan, 5; Clinton Berrian, 11; and Charles A. Eaton, 5, who lost in 12 minutes when the last man went overboard, to Arthur Dixon, 7; E. Goldberg, 12; Walter S. Marder, Jr., 11, and Raymond Manley, 11.

A number of scouts training for first-class scoutship qualified in swimming and cooking. In swimming Harold Zeek, of Troop 5; Howard Willett of Troop 10, and Irving Manley, of Troop 11, passed. Irving Manley and Walter S. Marder, Jr., both of Troop 11, passed in bread-baking over an open fire. Irving Manley, of Troop 11, George Vanderhof, 5; Howard Leek, 10; Henry Hannigan, 5; Saul Rosenthal, 12, and Howard Hall, 9; passed the meat cooking test.

CAMP ENDEAVOR OPENED AT SCOTCH PLAINS TODAY

Camp Endeavor located on the mountain back of Scotch Plains, opened today, with twenty-two women and children from Elizabeth. It will remain open for the months of July and August. During July only people from Elizabeth will be received while in August Plainfield people will have an outing. In order to avoid confusion half of the forty-four people that the camp will accommodate will leave one week while a like number will arrive.

Those in charge of the camp are planning to run it on an entirely different plan than beretofore in order to accommodate the increasing number of people. A dormitory has just been completed which will house four mothers and forty children. A large playground with swings, sandboxes and other toys for the youngsters has been completed. With the increased facilities it is expected that a most successful year will be the result.

TO LAUNCH GREAT NORTHERN.

Philadelphia, Pa., July 6—Arrangements have been completed at the Cramp shipyards here for the launching tomorrow of the steamship Great Northern, which is being built for the Great Northern Railway and Steamship Company. The vessel is one of the largest built here in some years. She is 525 feet long and 65 feet wide and will cost $2,500,000.

SAMUEL GOBAN INJURED.

Samuel Goban, of Watchung avenue, while driving along Somerset street, Friday afternoon, lost control of his horse when someone frightened the animal by throwing a firecracker beneath it, and was thrown out in front of police headquarters, being unable to stop the horse. Goban suffered a few cuts and bruises. The horse was finally caught.

UTICA TO CELEBRATE.

Utica, N. Y., July 6—Preparations on an elaborate scale are being made for Utica's "old home week" celebration early next month Among the features of the week will be the unveiling of a statue of Baron von Steuben, Washington's drillmaster, whose body is buried near here. A mammoth historical pageant will be another feature of the program. Utica was founded as a village in 1798 and as a city in 1832. It is in the center of a historic region in which, in 1777, was fought one of the decisive contests of the Revolution, the battle of Oriskany, in which Gen. Herkimer was the leader of the American forces.

REDUCES WORKING HOURS.

Newark, O., July 6—The local plant of the American Bottle Company today voluntarily put into operation a new schedule reducing the workday of its employes from 10 to 8 hours, without any reduction in pay. The new arrangement will add about $200,000 a year to the company's payroll and probably will result in the employment of 250 additional men.

WILL T. GLENNEY GOLF CHAMPION

WAS A CLOSE MATCH

L. G. Carman Wins 36 Holes Competition, and W. G. Cooke Is Winner of 18 Holes Handicap for Class B Players—The Scores.

Will T. Glenney retains the golf championship of the Plainfield Country Club, which he won last year, when on Saturday he defeated his broher, W. Lester Glenney, in the final round, 4 to 3. The match was one of the best of the day and was watched with unusual interest. The brothers both put up a fine quality of golf, but the younger one showed himself to be a little better than his opponent.

Julius E. Erickson defeated L. G. Carman, 3 and 2 in the final round for the defeated eight of the first sixteen: T. S. Wheeler defeated D. O. Rogers, 5 and 4 in the final round for the second sixteen, while E. A. Lyon defeated A. W. Kleinecke, 4 and 3 in the final round for the third sixteen.

Another attraction for the holiday was a 36 holes, handicap for Class A players. This was won by L. G. Carman with a net score of 152. The scores:

L. G. Carman, 176, 24-152; W. Lester Glenney, 164, 10-154; D. O. Rogers, 175, 20-155; Will T. Glenney, 164, 8-156; Leighton Calkins, 170, 15-156; P. J. McKeon, 184, 26-158; V. B. Morgan, 172, 14-158; D. H. Rowland, 190, 32-158; H. W. Rapalje, 189, 30-159; R. G. Morse, 187, 22-165; H. T. Perrin, 195, 28-167.

There was also an 18 hole handicap for Class B players in which several low scores were made as follows:

W. G. Cooke, 91, 20-71; A. W. Kleinecke, 92, 27-71; S. C. Osborn, 101, 27-74; W. F. Merrill, 102, 27-75; R. C. Blancke, Jr., 102, 25-77; T. S. Wheeler, 93, 17-77; H. A. Robertson, 106, 27-79; W. B. Gresham, 97, 17-80; C. O. Holmes, 106, 21-85.

WESTFIELD HANDICAP.

Westfield, N. J., July 6.—The Westfield Golf Club handicap contest for both gross and net scores was the feature of the club competition Saturday morning. Clement Wilcox won the gross cup with a score of 76. H. Fukin won the net score cup with a 66. Fukin also won the driving competition with a drive of 185 yards. The clock golf competition for the ladies was won by Miss Helen Gardner with a score of 24. Miss Gertrude Noe was second with 25; Miss Katherine Barr and Miss Douglass Smythe tied for third place with a score of 26 each. In the play-off Miss Barr was the winner.

A. W. BLAZIER WINS THE HOLIDAY CUP

The chief event at the Park Golf Club, Saturday, was play for the Holiday cup which attracted a large field of players. The course was in fine condition, permitting low scores as the rule. A. W. Blazier, a new member, won the cup with a net score of 72.

Other events incuded an approaching and putting contest in which these three couples tied with a score of nine: Miss May Shreve and W. P. Taylor, Mrs. A. C. Van Arsdale and Harry DeMeza and Mr. and Mrs. Royle T. Phillips. On the playoff Miss Shreve and Mr. Taylor won with a score of 8. The driving contest was won by J. Allan Wilson, his average score being 185 for three balls. Charles W. McCutchen was second with an average score of 175.

These scores were returned for the Holiday cup:

A. W. Blaizer, 102, 30-72, O. B. Hill, 102, 24-78; C. J. Hand, 98, 18-80; J. Fred Hillman, 105, 25-80; H. E. Blazier, 92, 12-80; J. V. Beekman, 98, 17-81; H. L. Moodey, 98, 15-83; R. V. Carpenter, 98, 14-84; Royle T. Phillips, 97, 12-85; W. P. Taylor, 85, 0-85; Dr. H. K. Carroll, 93, 8-85; C. B. Morse, 101, 12-89; H. G. DeMeza, 110, 20-90; A. C. Van Arsdale, 111, 20-91.

FITZ STILL CLINGS TO THE BELIEF HE IS CHAMPION

"I am still the middleweight and light heavyweight champion of the world," said Bob Fitzsimmons, in discussing his ring affairs the other day. "I won the title from Jack Dempsey, in New Orleans January 14, 1891, and I was never beaten for it. I knocked out Peter Maher in 12 rounds the first time we met at New Orleans, which was in March, 1892. In September of the same year Corbett won the heavyweight championship from John L. Sullivan at New Orleans. In October, 1894, Corbett and I were matched to meet in New York, but the match fell through. Jim presented the title to Peter Maher and in February, 1896, I again defeated Peter Maher in 1 round. I was then the title holder and I was the heavyweight champion when I fought Corbett at Carson City, instead of Corbett, as many still believe. That gave me two titles, the middleweight and the heavyweight. The following year, November 25, I beat George Gardner for the light heavyweight title at San Francisco."

SECOND GAME WAS WON BY PLAINFIELD

Defeat Dunellen In a Ten Inning Contest for the Second Time In One Day.

The Plainfield Pets had an easy time with the Dunellen nine in the morning game of a double header at Parker Field, Saturday winning by the score of 12 to 0. Matty was the master of the occasion at all times and only allowed his opponents two clean hits. In the sixth inning the local team scored eight runs.

Tommy Mullin started the scoring in the initial inning by placing one of his favorites over the left field fence for a trip around the bases and also clouted out two other hits during the game. Dunellen only had a man on third base once during the entire game and then Matty fanned the troublesome batters. Teeling and Rosenson were the only visitors that could touch Matty's delivery safely and they each made a single. Montross was hit hard in the sixth inning and retired in favor of "Don" Sminck, the local High School twirler, and he pitched good ball for three periods. The score:

Summary — Home run, Mullin. Two-base hits, Coyle, Dixon. Earned runs, Plainfield 8. Double play, Lambertson to DeNitzio to Hannon. First base on balls, off Montross, 3. Struck out by Montross, 5; by Sminck, 1; by Mathewson, 7. Stolen bases, Stewart, Nelson, Teeling. Umpire, Dalley.

With two on the bases in the tenth inning of the Plainfield-Dunellen game, at Dunellen last Saturday afternoon, Tommy Mullin, the diminutive shortstop of the locals, pulled one of his long hits into left field and landed on third base after sending two runs across the plate. He scored a second later on a passed ball. The final score was 9 to 6. The game which was the second of a double-header between the Plainfield and Dunellen clubs was played on Independence Day afternoon before a crowd of fully fifteen hundred enthusiasts at Maurer Oval. Opposing Harvey and Teeling, the regular Dunellen battery, were Townley and Stine, two North Plainfield boys, who did the battery work this year for the Springfield Training School. Up to the tenth from the twirling of Harvey and Townley was about on a par both having one bad session apiece.

Harvey's bad inning occurred in the third when Plainfield dented the rubber five times on a single by Townley, an error by Giddes and singles by Dixon and N. Harvey and bases on balls to Nelson and Dorman followed by Stewart's single. Townley's turn to be hammered arrived the next frame. After making a good stop of Albert's lot grounder Mullin threw low past Dixon, Albert going to second on the error. Giddes was hit on the knee cap by one of Townley's curves. Wall singled scoring Albert. Hannon singled scoring Giddes. Montross doubled to left, Hannon going to third. Hannon attempted to score after Nelson had collared Lambertson's short fly to right, but was an easy out at the plate on Nelson's good return to Stine, Montross going to third. Teeling was hit by one of Townley's benders and was sent to first. He stole second at the first ball pitched. Harvey doubled between Dorman and Stewart scoring Montross and Teeling. The game was featured by the all around play of the Plainfield infield and the work of Albert and Wall in the outfield for Dunellen. The score:

JACK MARTIN GOES TO PHILADELPHIA

Jack Martin, the local ball player, now has the chance of his life to make good as a big league ball player. He has been with several teams of the two major leagues since his entrance in the national pastime and has been farmed and traded just like other ball players. He started with the Rochester team of the International League and from there went to the Yankees. Chance thought the local boy needed a little seasoning and farmed him. He has been playing with the Boston Braves this year but has been somewhat of a utility man. He has played all of the positions in the infield except part of the battery and has been used many times in the capacity of pinch hitter.

In the trade that took place the latter part of last week, Jack went to a better team and will have a chance to play a regular position. He was traded to the Philadelphia Nationals for Josh Devore, the former Giant, and was put into the game Saturday at shortstop. He failed to hit safely but played a perfect fielding game and made three putouts and three assists. He also figured in a double play.

TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIP.

Knoxville, Tenn., July 6—The annual lawn tennis tournament for the championship of Tennessee began here today and will continue throughout the week. All indications point to one of the most successful events of its kind ever pulled off here. The entry list includes more than two-score of well known players exclusive of those from the Knoxville Tennis Club, on whose courts and under whose auspices the meet is being held.

WESTFIELD BEAT SAUERS.

Westfield, July 6.—The Westfield A. A. captured two games Saturday, winning its morning contest with the Cranford A. A., 10 to 0, and taking the afternoon game with the Saurer Motor Car team, of Plainfield, 5 to 4, in ten innings. The score:

GARWOOD ON TOP.

Garwood, July 6.—Garwood won a fine fourteen inning victory over the strong Tiger A. C. by a 2 to 1 score here Saturday. The game was remarkably well played on both sides. Fast fielding by the Tigers held the locals on even terms until the fourteenth inning. McIntosh, of the locals, was the star sticker for the winners. The score:

BIG SIX LIKELY TO MAKE GOOD RECORD

Will Probably Finish the Season With Fifty Victories Over Five Clubs.

Christy Mathewson will, unless the unexpected happens, finish the campaign of 1914 with a record of having pitched at least fifty victories over five of the National League clubs. Up to last Sunday McGraw's master mechanic owned 348 triumphs, 61 of these secured against the Reds, 53 against the Braves, 50 against the Pirates, 49 against the Phillies, 47 against the Cardinals, 45 against the Superbas and 43 against the Cubs. His defeats totalled 163, of which 37 were administered by Chicago, 35 by Pittsburg, 21 by Philadelphia 20 by St. Louis, 19 by Boston, 16 by Brooklyn and 15 by Cincinnati. His entire career in the National League has netted him a percentage of .681 and this percentage, it is worthy of note, is higher than that made by twenty teams that have captured championship honors in the senior organization.

Scribes, not having the complete record of Matty at hand, have imagined that he went for the greatest length of time against Cincinnati without losing a combat. This is not so. "Big Six" was beaten by the Reds in 1908, downed them every time he faced them in 1909 and 1910 and 1911 Boston gained no victories over him. His best record of this kind, however, was hung up against St. Louis, he losing one game to the Cardinals in 1904 and then conquering them every time he faced them until five years later.

Only during one championship running—that of 1902—did Bucknell's most famous graduate fail to win games from all seven of his oponents. That year he failed to subdue the Pirates, but the next year he more than got back at the Clarkesonians by conquering them all eight times he operated against them—a record he never has equaled against any other club. The greatest number of reverses Matty has sustained in any one season has been five, the Cubs dealing him this number of defeats in 1906 and again in 1907. On the percentage basis, Matty has been most effective against Cincinnati, least so against Chicago.

Christopher the Crafty will hardly this year equal his wonderful record of 1913 in the line of accuracy, when he winged no one and passed only twenty-one athletes. Matty already has hit one man this season—Johnny Bates of Cincinnati—and has franked thireen players, these being Mage and Cravath of the Phillies, each twice, and Stengel and Smith of Brooklyn, Huggins of St. Louis, Rudolph of Boston, Vlox of Pittsburg and Phelan, Saier, Keating and Leach of Chicago each once. One of the odd things about the 1914 record of Mathewson, who, as usual, has an excellent chance of being picked by the Chalmers jury of newspaper experts as the player most valuable to his team, is that he has been slammed for eight home runs, these having been made by Wingo and Wilson of St. Louis, Connolly of Boston, Saier of Chicago, Luderus of Philadelphia and Daubert and Wheat of Brooklyn. Wingo made two homers off Matty, one, manufactured while acting as a pinchman, causing "Big Six" to go down to defeat. Wheat's four-bagger also meant a reverse for the great New York hurler, whose complete National League record is appended.

ADVICE FOR OWNERS OF TENNIS COURTS

How to Get Rid of the Vegetation Which Proves so Troublesome.

Washington, D. C., July 6—To eradicate vegetation from dirt tennis courts troubled with persistent growths of grass or weeds, oil or salt are the most satisfactory harmless products. Sidewalk crevices, garden paths, gravel roads, and railroad "rights of way" where people pass frequently may also be treated with these remedies. Arsenite of soda is also to be recommended if it is used carefully, as it is poisonous both to men and live stock. Until a rain or sprinkling washes away the application, it might cause trouble, although it would have to be taken internally to do so. Special conditions decide which of these three substances is most desirable.

Fuel oil, when it can be obtained cheaply is highly satisfactory and economical for killing vegetation. It should be applied at the rate of from 100 to 150 gallons per acre. On a tennis court or other small area kerosene, although more expensive, may be used satisfactorily, particularly effective on grass and other vegetation possessing narrow leaves.

The most economical and effective way to use the oil is to make a number of comparatively light applications. One heavy application may affect the roots as well as the tops of the plants but the several light applications kill the foliage each time and eventually the roots die.

A spraying outfit may be used to apply the oil. Petroleum products are very hard on the rubber parts of spraying outfits, but economy of application demands their use. On a small area like a tennis court, however, the oil or kerosene may be applied through a sprinkling can.

Common salt is not so effective as oil on grass and narrow-leafed vegetation, but is better than arsenite of soda. When the vegetation is very rank, salt will be found very desirable and should be used at the rate of from 2 to 3 tons per acre, depending upon the rankness of the growth. The salt should be fine grained, free from lumps, and should be scattered very uniformly. To secure the best results, it should be made into a saturated solution, 1 pound being mixed with a quart and a half of water. The salt brine should be applied by means of a sprinkling can, or sprinkler which applies it faster than a spraying outfit.

Vegetation with broad leaves seems especially susceptible to arsenite of soda. The commercial grade may be obtained at about 25 cents a pound from some of the wholesale chemists.

If large areas are to be treated, it can be made more cheaply by boiling 1 pound of white arsenic and 2 pounds of sal soda in a gallon of water until a stock solution is formed. Twenty pounds of the commercial arsenite of soda, or 14 pounds of the white arsenic in the above formula, either diluted to make 100 gallons of solution, is sufficient to kill most of the foliage on one acre. Naturally great care should be exercised in mixing and handling these preparations not to get them on the hands or near the face as this might result in their being taken internally. If used in accordance with this precaution this poison should not cause injury to any one, although children should be kept off the area treated immediately after the application.

ROD AND REEL

Seabass fishing has started in in earnest. Ever since the first seabass were taken by the big outside boats off the Long Branch shore a few weeks ago the captains of the small boats have been waiting for them to make their way further inshore and camp there for the summer. Some good catches have been made right along for the last ten days, and the fish may now be said to have arrived for the summer.

For deep sea fishing for seabass over wrecks or on the fishing banks, the tackle must be stout. No leaders are required. The best hooks are No. 5-O Limerick, Sproat or Kirby, No. 3 Virginia or No. 5-O O'Shaughnessy. They should have very stout gut snells or snoods of strong twine. The sinker must be from seven to nine ounces, as it is necessary to fish absolutely on bottom. Two or three hooks are used, fastened as near the sinker as possible.

For bay fishing a light outfit can be used, except in the deep, swift channels, where the current makes a four or five-ounce sinker necessary at the top of the tidal rush. In creeks and small channels a two-ounce sinker should hold bottom well. While the smaller bass will bite at hooks without leaders, the best rig is a two-foot leader at the bottom, close to the sinker, and a three-foot leader about three feet above it. Where the fish average about a half to three-quarters of a pound, the best hooks are No. 1 Aberdeen or Sproat.

When the seabass are biting well, they strike the hook sharply and dart away making a run that is much like the dash of a weakfish, but not so violent and lasting only a few yards. When they are shy, they bite much more warily, and patience and skill are needed to hook them. This is especially the case with the big autumn run seabass, which often bites like fresh-water black bass, taking the bait lightly and moving away with it quietly with a steady slow pull. They are especially likely to do this with killie bait.

WEATHER DISAPPOINTS BASEBALL ENTHUSIASTS

The Plainfield Sunday baseball team was unable to play yesterday afternoon because of weather conditions. In the morning the manager of the local team cancelled the game and when it cleared off in the afternoon it was too late to re-arrange the contest. A large crowd was present to witness the game and, although they were disappointed, they expressed satisfaction as to the condition and location of the field. The locals were to have played the St. Peter's nine, of New Brunswick, and another game will probably be scheduled later in the season.

Rudie Unholz, who went to California for his health, has located on a ranch 20 miles from the big boxing pavilion at Vernon.

Jack Britton is planning a trip to Australia where he figures on getting a slice of the big money that is being tossed about in that country.

BASEBALL NOTES

Federal league umpires are now arrayed in nifty linen suits, and the Feds pay the laundry bills.

There is some talk of Albany dropping out of the New York State League. Financial trouble is given as the cause.

Frank Chance says it is easy to size up the calibre of the Feds when they are willing to sign his Yankee performers.

Losing a series to the braves in Boston must have taken the kick out of the Pirates, for the Clarke hirelings have been in the hummer ever since.

Kalamazoo is acting as rear guard in the Southern Michigan League pennant procession. Last place in a ten-club league is some distance back.

In climbing from last to first place in the Federal League standing Bill Phillips' Indianapolis team has put over about the classiest performance of the season.

Recently compiled batting averages in the Northern League show Glass of the Superior team hitting for .417 in 33 games. Sweet walloping for a pitcher and Glass at that.

The Braves have finished practising and have now opened their regular season. As usual, the Braves need a lot of training before they are ready for the "sure enough" pastiming.

Hank O'Day is having trouble in finding a capable shortstop for his Chicago Cubs. "Red" Corriden started like a real shortstopper, but later contracting the habit of aviation in the pinches.

The Cincinnati Reds have purchased Catcher Glockson of the Newport News club in the Virginia League. It is said that the Newport News club purchased Glockson's release from the navy and have now made a tidy sum by disposing of his release to the Reds.

A band concert is an added attraction at the Federal League Saturday games in Chicago. As we now have comedians, clowns and bands, together with numerous "dedications" and "player's days" as added attractions to the old army game, we may yet witness street parades every day, an advertising car going ahead of the team and a ringmaster's whip in the hands of the umpire.

MONROE TOOK GAME.

The Monroe Avenue baseball team took the measure of the Park Avenue Baptists on Crescent Oval Saturday morning by the score of 5 to 2. One inning, the seventh, was enough to defeat the Parks and the Monroe batters bunched their hits. The score by innings:

Batteries: Bowlby and Blume; Brick and Hess.

LIDGATE BUSY SATURDAY.

Eugene Lidgate, the Fanwood ball player, caught two full games for York Saturday, when that team dropped both games to Harrisburg. In the morning game the local boy made one run, one hit, one assist, one error and five putouts. In the afternoon he failed to connect safely and made three assists.

SAURER TROUNCED HOPE CHAPEL NINE

Score a Shut Out In a Poor Exhibition Saturday Morning.

The Saurer baseball team trounced the Hope Chapel nine on the Saurer Oval, Saturday morning, by the score of 10 to 0. The home team was the winner from the start and hit the opposing pitcher hard in the pinches. The game only went for eight rounds, the game being called because of the time. Harriman led the winners at the bat with three hits, two of which were doubles, and Alberts, Wilson and Conshay each were credited with two. For the Hope team Thorn secured a brace of safeties.

ENTRIES CLOSE.

Boston, Mass., July 6—The entry list closed today for the elimination trials of the American boats for the international sonder regatta to be sailed at Kiel. The elimination trials are to be conducted off Marblehead this month under the auspices of the Eastern Yacht Club. The next sonder races will be the sixth in the series of such competitions between the United States and Germany. The United States has four victories to its credit and Germany one. The American boats won at Marblehead in 1906, 1910 and 1913, and also at Kiel in 1911. The Germans' only victory was at Kiel in 1907.

JEFFERSON'S WIN TWO.

The Jefferson Democratic Club baseball team won two games yesterday, defeating the Pastime A. C. nine in the first game by the score of 5 to 4, and the South Plainfielders in the second contest by the score of 10 to 2. The games were featured by heavy hitting by the winners. The scores by innings:

First game:

Pastime A. C.	..0 0 0 2 1 0 1 0 0—4
Jefferson	.....0 0 0 0 1 4 0 0 x—5

Batteries—Mundy and Mosher, Laskoski and Miller.

Second game:

Batteries—Dolan and McDonough, Dixon and Miller.

TWO EXTRA INNING GAMES.

The Y. M. A. team and the St. Joseph's nine, of Bound Brook, fought for thirteen innings, Saturday morning, and the game was called with the score standing 4 to 4. The game was well played and Mathews struck out 26 men. In the afternoon the Plainfield A. A. lost to the Y. M. A. by the score of 3 to 2 in the eleventh inning. The scores by innings:

Y. M. A.	..0 0 0 0 2 0 0 1 1 0 0 0—4

Plainfield A. A.

WINS THIRD PLACE.

William Schooley, formerly of this city, and three teammates, won third place in the one-mile fours canoe race at the Tuscarora Club, Saturday. Schooley's team made a bad start and was unable to catch their opponents. The time for the mile was 9 minutes, 4 3-5 seconds.

DANIEL WINS FINAL.

Edwin Daniel won the championship round of the men's singles tennis championship tournament at the Park Club, Saturday morning, by defeating his opponent, Mr. Stevens. The tournament was a large one and there were many exciting matches during the day's play.

Edmund J. Kenney, of Watchung avenue, has returned home after a three weeks' trip on the Mauritania.

Harold Brock, of Newark, was the guest of E. Franklin Lowe, of Fairview, over the week-end.

FIRST DELEGATION ARRIVES AT CAMP

Netherwood Fresh Air Home Receives Initial Assignment of New Yorkers.

The first company of children and mothers from the East Side, New York, were received at the Netherwood Fresh Air Camp, Saturday, the season opening at that time with Miss Sarah Curry again in charge.

During the summer children will be given systematic recreation under the supervision of Miss Marion Wean and the boys will conduct several hiking trips with Egbert Fountain in charge. The opening service will be held at the Home next Sunday and the Rev. Charles M. Anderson will be the speaker, and the quartet choir of the First M. E. church will sing. Following this service regular meetings will be held on Tuesday and Friday evenings, and Sunday afternoons.

CRANFORD'S CARNIVAL ATTRACTS THOUSANDS

Annual Regatta Most Successful In History of River Pageants.

Cranford's Venetian Carnival, held Saturday evening, proved to be the most beautiful of any in the twenty-two years' history of the river pageants. Thousands of visitors, including many Plainfielders, followed the Japanese lanterns strung along the streets and passing under the arches and pagolas found vantage points of observation along the river banks.

Those who won prizes in the various contests were Richard Mulvey, Miss Anna Sherwood, William Lyon, Miss Beatrice Samuel, William Publicovn, Robert Laboyteaux, William M. Gray, Gladys Mulvey, Waterman Graff, Wells Loveland, Raymond West, Howard Beadle, Kenneth Hopkins, Howard Park, Eldridge Humphrey, Mercedes Lunfardi, David Wyckoff, Katherine Park, Marion Donohue, Carolyn Cruikshank and Thelma H. Wild.

The judges were Mrs. A. O. Buck and Mrs. T. J. Graham, of Elizabeth; Mrs. C. W. MacQuoid, of Roselle; Mrs. R. R. Sinclair, of Westfield; Mrs. R. D. Townsend, Mrs. R. J. Mix and Mrs. J. R. Reay, of Cranford. The committee in charge of the children's carnival and parade comprised Mrs. Bessie Bratton, Mrs. W. N. Gray, Jr., Mrs. J. F. Peniston, Mrs. J. L. Perkins and Mrs. Harry iSsson.

The carnival was conducted by the Cranford Carnival Association, an association of all the clubs and organizations of the town. The parade was managed by the Cranford Canoe Club, with Roderick W. Smith as commodore. The Cranford Carnival Association was organized one year ago by the Cranford Board of Trade for the purpose of promoting the annual Venetian carnival and the improvement of the Rahway river for canoeing. Before the carnival was held the Board of Trade cleaned the river from the Union avenue dam to the town line.

BAPTISTS WILL GO TO THE SHORE THURSDAY

The next excursion from this city to Asbury Park will be that of the First and Temple Baptist churches, of this city, and the South Plainfield Baptist church, on Thursday. The committee of which John G. MacLaughlin is the chairman, has made provision for taking an unusually large crowd to the shore this year and everyone who plans for this day's outing is assured of a good time.

The train will leave Plainfield at the usual time in the morning and the excursionists will be given a full day at the shore where just now there are many attractions to interest everyone. Tickets can be secured from any member of the committee or at the station Thursday morning.

MORRIS IS APPOINTED.

Washington, July 6.—Ira Nelson Morris, of Chicago, was appointed today, by President Wilson to be U. S. Minister to Sweden. His appointment which was sent to the Senate, is not expected to meet with opposition. Mr. Morris is a member of the big Chicago Packing Corporation, and a son of the late Nelson Morris, the multi-millionaire, founder of the business.

PRESIDENT ON A SEA TRIP.

Washington, July 6.—Fagged out by the strain of a protracted session of Congress and the nervous tension incident to the Mexican troubles, President Wilson will take a lengthy sea trip late this month. While the itinerary was not finally determined it is likely that the cruise will be made on some vessel larger than the Presidential Yacht Mayflower.

—It pays to use the advertising columns of The Press.

SITUATION GETTING BEYOND CONTROL

That Is the Belief In Administration Circles Regarding Mexican Trouble.

Washington, July 6.—(Mexico) Confidence that some way out of the Mexican tangle would be found, which abounded up to the time of the recess of the Niagara Falls Mediation conference gave way today to apprehension that the situation rapidly was drifting beyond control. The unofficial report of the re-election of General Huerta to be president of Mexico is accepted as a direct challenge by the dictator to the United States. The first consideration for the employment of the good offices of the United States in restoring order and confidence in the revolution-torn country was the elimination of General Huerta.

On the developments of the next few hours much is admitted to hang. In case of anarchy breaking out in Mexico City, it is believed inevitable that the American forces at Vera Cruz must be thrown forward to protect the lives of Americans and foreigners. This movement would remove the shadow of an excuse that there is no war between the two countries, behind which the Administration has been carefully carrying on its program for a bloodless victory.

Further reports that Zapata might join with Huerta, in throwing back the Constitutionalists forces from the north, likewise increased the anxiety here. It was recognized that Huerta's regulars, reinforced by the trained and seasoned fighting men of the bandit chieftain, might prolong the bloody warfare for months. The reports are not given much credence, however, although matters are shifting so rapidly south of the Rio Grande it is admitted anything might be possible.

The Zapata-Huerta alliance rumor, coupled with increasing indication that the breach betwen General Carranza and General Villa is widening steadily in spite of the greed of officers of friends of the revolutionary cause, adds to the fear that warfare more savage than any heretofore will shortly ensue. Division in the Constitutionalist force, with a simultaneous alliance between Huerta and Zapata, probably would precipitate a three cornered campaign that would end in chaos.

The gravity of the situation is increased by the almost complete failure of the Washington government to keep in touch over the telegraph wires with its agents and representatives in the troubled zones. The various military chiefs control the wires, which already are overburdened with military messages. Suspicion of the State Department's code messages leads to them being held up as soon as they are flashed across the border, while open message are so heavily censored as to be virtually worthless.

PERSONAL.

Harry Lister, formerly of Plainfield, has been visiting relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Force, and family of Mountain avenue, have gone to Asbury Park where they will remain for the summer.

William Taylor, who has been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Taylor, of Fairview avenue, for the past week, has returned to his business in Baltimore, Md.

Miss Helen Roseberry, of West Front street, is visiting at Pottstown, Pa.

LAWN FETE A SUCCESS.

The lawn fete and dance continued at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Newcorn, on West Front street, Saturday, proved a great success, being largely attended by the members and friends of Temple Sholem for whose benefit it was given. Mr. and Mrs. Newcorn entertained their guests in a hospitable manner. Dancing was a feature of the evening, and during the evening exhibitions of the latest steps were given by E. J. LaPorte and Miss Mae Praeger and others.

MARRIED AT DUNELLEN.

Miss Theresa Pekarowich and Stephen Mazva, both of Dunellen, were married in St. John's church that place this morning, Father E. J. Dunphy officiating. The couple was attended by Miss Josephine Spebak and Alexander Dublabich, also of Dunellen. The couple will reside on Prospect avenue, Dunellen.

ATHLETE IN HOSPITAL.

Ralph Smalley, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Smalley, of Greenbrook road, underwent an operation in the Muhlenberg Hospital, this morning. He was reported this afternoon as resting quietly. Dr. George W. Endicott performed the operation. The patient will be in the hospital for about ten days.

DISCLAIM RESPONSIBILITY.

Washington, July 6.—President Wilson has notified the principal European powers that the United States disclaims any responsibility for the stantements regarding Albania attributed to George F. Williams, American Minister to Greece and Montenegro.

By GEORGE RANDOLPH CHESTER

CHAPTER X.

Off on a Freight.

THE back door flew open, and Toad Jessop bounced in with his eyes stretched to the full capacity of their sockets. "Hike!" he shouted in a tragic whisper. "Beat it! Hit 'er up quick or they'll git you!"

"What's all this about?" inquired Wallingford, but with no levity whatever, for Toad was in such deadly earnest that even his freckles were pale.

"Come away from there!" Toad almost screamed as Blackie started curiously toward the front door. "The whole town's comin' up Main street, an' they say they're goana hang both of youse on top o' the big derrick."

"But for what? I don't understand," protested Wallingford, snatching up a small traveling bag and opening his desk.

Toad grabbed him by the coattails and tried to drag him toward the back door. "You start runnin'!" he urged, beginning to cry and falling into a furious anger because he found himself doing so. "If you stop to git anything you're goana stop a long time. Come outside, dang it!"

"Excuse me; I'm going," observed Blackie, slamming on his hat and not waiting to burden himself with his suit case. He opened the back door, but closed it immediately. "Too late, Jimmy," he declared. "They're coming up the back way too. We're caught."

They could hear the mob now. Its advance was like the sullen roar of a distant steamboat whistle, and Wallingford marveled that a mere sound could be so damp and icy.

"Quick, Toad! Tell me what it's all about," begged Wallingford.

"They've found out that these Dougalbobbers 'a fakes an' frauds all the way through. They never get enough iron out o' all their mines to make a nail. They found out that you an' Blackie is grafters, too, an' they think you're in with this whole Kimbely mine swindle. I told 'em it wasn't so, but all that got me was a sprint. Gee! You ought to see me comin'! Say, old man Saghorn made a speech, an' it wasn't any drunken speech like big Bill Slammet made, neither. It was some speech. Say, he called you all the thieves an' robbers an' "—

There came a stern knock upon the door, accompanied by the murmur of many voices. Wallingford turned pallid. The knock was repeated, and there were shouts for him to come out.

It was Blackie who sprang to the door and opened it. Finding a man there who had it in his eye to lead the throng immediately inside, Blackie promptly confused the fellow's purpose by knocking him off the step. He grinned as the man fell, and one member of the mob was kind enough to laugh.

"Hello, boys!" hailed Blackie cheerfully. "Who's the party on?"

"It's on you, I guess," came from the man who had laughed.

"We're a-goana hang you, that's what!" was the determined announcement of a man in the very first row.

"Happy thought," returned Blackie. "But you want your money first, don't you? Every man who wants to sell his share of stock in the Kimbely Operating company hold up his hand."

A hundred hands went up.

"Some of you are sensible anyhow," commented Blackie. "I refer to the gentlemen who have not yet decided that they want to sell. You've made the biggest mistake of your lives, boys. Mr. Wallingford will explain the situation to you."

"I'll buy every share of stock."

Wallingford, emboldened by the fact that they were listening, stepped out upon the porch and confronted an acre of eyeballs.

"I'll buy every share of stock that is offered to me, and for spot cash," he announced.

"Will you buy our houses?" demanded Saghorn.

"I'll be cheating you if I buy even your stock," returned Wallingford. "Gentlemen, I have glorious news for you. The Kimbely iron mine is one of the richest in the country."

"It's a lie!" called a voice from the crowd.

"It was Beef Higgins called you that lie, Mr. Wallingford!" shrilled Toad. "I'll point him out tomorrow so you or Blackie k'n lick 'im!"

There was more than one snicker from the crowd upon this, and Wallingford, thankful to Toad for having turned the tide of that crisis, gained full command of himself and of the crowd. Helming the prow of his much strained craft head on against the waves and cutting them smoothly, he took the men, the solid substantial men of Dougalville, right into his confidence. He explained to them exactly how matters stood; how he had known all along that the mine was a good one; how he had thwarted the dishonest Dougalbobbers in their evil intentions and had worked like a Trojan for the benefit of himself and his beloved citizens, and how tomorrow he wanted them to join with him in forming a new company, in which he would give them share for share in exchange for the stock they now held, and they would turn the magnificently rich Kimbely mine into the foundation of a fortune for every dweller in Dougalville!

The magic of him got upon them. His voice soothed them like the odor of poppies. His presence, big, sleek, richly clad and prosperous, held and satisfied their eyes. His words, rounded, well chosen, aptly and cleverly strung together, stole their reason. They answered his smile, they responded to his enthusiasm, they cheered him when he finished, and they gave him until tomorrow to prove what he said!

Flushed and triumphant, Wallingford, having cheerfully waved upon his way the last handshaking straggler of his friends and fellow citizens, came in the house, sat down in his chair and trembled like a leaf.

"Do you know, for just three pins I'd take the first train out of here and let those happy stockholders run their own meeting tomorrow," he declared. "There may be a fortune in that mine across the track, but it's rather lost its charm for me. I don't think I'll ever be able to look up at the big derrick without feeling my spine turning into an icicle."

"I don't intend to go over and look at it at all," returned Blackie. "I'm glad I didn't see it when I got off the train. How did you come out with the houses, Jim?"

"Not so badly," said Wallingford, brightening. "I've collected nearly $100,000 on the houses and lots. I imagine I must have cleared some $40,000 or $50,000 on the houses alone, but my share is invested in the installment plan mining stock I'm carrying for the mob that just wanted to hang me."

"Let's talk about our families," invited Blackie wearily. "Seems like I don't want to hear about mines any more at all."

They were in quiet discussion of their respective domestic affairs when once more Toad Jessop burst in upon them.

"Now we do git!" he cried, his fists doubled and his nostrils distended. "There's a fright train just pullin' in at the depot, an' if we run like Texas down the back way, in the shadow of the houses, we k'n climb her. There ain't a second. Start runnin', I tell you!"

Both men were upon their feet and had grabbed their hats.

"Now, what's the matter?" demanded Wallingford.

"Don't ask me no questions," pleaded Toad. "Ole Saghorn is just finishin' a speech up on Redeye square, an' he's got 'em all to believin' that you two jes' gave 'em a slick talk to gain time so's youse could sneak out of town. They'll be down here a-sizzlin' in about three minutes, by the way they was howlin', an' this time there won't be no speeches made. Saghorn, he says"—

"I don't care what he says," interrupted Blackie. "I have an important engagement, and if you two gentlemen will excuse me I shall just jog upon my way."

Wallingford marveled at how slowly he ran for so swift a movement of his legs. He noticed that Blackie was several houses in advance of him, and he believed that Toad was darting along somewhere in his neighborhood, but he took no accurate observations. He was paying very strict attention to the stationary headlight of that freight engine and to the rough ground that he was traversing. It seemed constantly rising up toward him, and if he ever let it come up near enough to hit him in the place which most affected his breathing—well, there was enough money in the bank to make Fannie and little Jimmie comfortable. But he felt that they needed him.

Just before he reached the track the train began to move. He saw Blackie run down to meet it and clamber upon the first car and leap over its edge with the jerky motion of a jumping jack. With a desperate spurt Wallingford reached the track as that same car came up to him. He made a wild clutch at it and marveled to find his hand gripped tightly upon the hand bar and his foot resting firmly in the iron stirrup. For a couple of minutes, which seemed as many ages, he hung there trying to regain his breath; then, summoning all his strength, he brought up his other foot, stepped to the buffer, crawled upon the edge of the car and fell in. A groan told him that he had fallen upon Blackie, but neither one of them had the energy or the breath to move for some minutes. Blackie was the first to recover, and, the car being full of slack coal that pyramided down into the corners, he managed to wriggle himself out from under the heavy body that lay partly upon him, although the effort brought down a rush of the black pebbly powder that enveloped them both in the stifling inky dust.

The thought that had made Blackie release himself so energetically was with him yet, however, for as soon as he could free his tongue from its thick coating he gasped:

"Where's Toad?"

Where was Toad? A quick search around the edges of the car revealed the fact that he was not with them nor could they see him hanging to the train upon either side. In that heartsick moment they knew how genuinely fond of the boy they were, and at that moment also the train gave a forward lurch as it left the top of the upward pull and started upon the down grade, and the water tank that had just been filled slopped part of its contents back upon them, wetting them to the skin. It was a refreshing bath, and it washed off some of the coal dust in streaks, though it made the dust that they acquired in the balance of the ride stick to them better.

It was so that Wallingford left Dougalville, and he gladly saw its lights fading behind him as they jolted away, due southeast, toward the blessed land of taxis and push buttons and bathtubs.

"And I tried to save the burg!" wailed Wallingford, wiping the inky paste out of his eye. "I wish I hadn't played on the level with the citizens of Dougalville. They'd have respected me more."

"Aren't you going back?" demanded Blackie, surprised.

"Back!" howled Wallingford. "Back? Listen to me, Blackie. There isn't a leather chair nor a five languaged waiter nor a bunch of orchids in the place, and there won't be for ten years. Back? When I can have my luggage carried in an elevator to the eleventh floor of the Dougalville hotel I might consent to stop there overnight, but not before. Back? Why should I go back?"

"Am I of a greedy disposition?" demanded Wallingford, digging lumps of wet coal dust from between his collar and his neck. "No, Blackie, I gave them a tip in my speech on how they could handle their stockholders' meeting without the Dougalbobber brothers, and I guess they can do it without me."

"It's tough on them," old man," responded Blackie, peering anxiously over the edge of the car as the train rounded a curve. "Where's Toad, I wonder?"

They firmly expected to see Toad come clambering down to them over the tops of the box cars, but fifteen miles of miserable and melancholy riding brought them no Toad. Instead, it brought them to a real town, where, under the full glare of the electric lights, Toad found them, drenched and black and cold and hungry, just climbing down from their private car.

"You young devil!" gasped Blackie, angry for having wasted so much sorrow over him. "Where have you been?"

"I rode in the caboose," replied Toad cheerfully. "The conductor's a special friend o' mine. I knowed where you was. I seen you jump 'er. Gee, but you two's a sight!" And Toad was inconsiderate enough to laugh.

Wallingford surveyed himself ruefully. Never, even as a boy, had he looked so disreputable.

"And this," he complained, "is what I get for playing a straight game!"

"No, it ain't," declared Toad, who was at the exact age to spend much time in moralizing. "They never would 'a' chased you if you'd always been straight."

Blackie glared at him savagely. "Shut up!" he said. "Lead us to a drink, and some clean clothes and a drink, and something to eat and a drink, and a drink!"

By Alice Gibson

An Oliver Twist or David Copperfield suit is shown in 8376, which will appeal strongly to the little man, being so businesslike in appearance, with its ample pockets, buttons and suspenders. While for more dressy occasions these suits are being developed in mercerized poplin, gingham and various other novelty stuffs for play or general wear, the real boy demands something a little less feminine; for instance, a heavy linen, duck or madras; if intended for play entirely, the regular old-fashioned overall material may be used to advantage in blue or brown; it wears well, is cool and may be laundered very readily. In this design the trousers extend below the knee; the pattern is perforated for shorter length if preferred. The blouse pattern accompanies the trousers. This, of course may be developed in white muslin or madras. For a boy of 4, 1⅞ yards of 36-inch material is required to make this suit. The pattern is cut in four sizes, 2 to 8 years.

This is a Perfect Pattern.

It may be obtained by filling out the coupon and enclosing 15 cents in stamps or coin to the Pattern Department of this paper.

NEEDLEWORK

Of all the household furnishings, nothing appeals more strongly to the eye of the housekeeper than attractive table linen, and a hand embroidered centerpiece adds charm as well as a touch of individuality to the table.

An exceptionally lovely centerpiece may be made of fine round-thread linen or damask and embroidered with the wheat design, 14659. The kernals should be developed in wheat-stitch or eyelets, the leaves in solid work and the dots in eyelets or solid work. White mercerized cotton No. 20 should be used in developing this design as well as the scalloped edge, which should be heavily padded. This design is 36 inches in diameter and may be made larger by adding a Cluny lace edging.

Some Cookery Suggestions

HUCKLEBERRIES IN PASTRY.

HUCKLEBERRIES are a fruit that is very indigestible served raw. Cooked huckleberries are delicious and wholesome. They are exrellent in pies and pastries. Huckleberry turnovers are made the same as apple turnovers, using huckleberries instead of apples and omitting the cinnamon.

Huckleberry Cake.—Cream a cupful of sugar and a tablespoonful of butter, add an unbeaten egg and mix thoroughly. Add a cupful of milk and two and a half cupfuls of flour sifted with three tablespoonfuls of baking powder, then a pinch of nutmeg and stir in lightly three cupfuls of blueberries. Turn into buttered pans and bake for thirty-five minutes in a hot oven.

Served With Milk.

Huckleberry Float.—Take a cupful of huckleberries, three tablespoonfuls of sugar, a cupful of flour, a teaspoonful of baking powder, a teaspoonful of shortening, a quarter teaspoonful of salt and half a cupful of milk. Pick and wash the berries, put in small saucepan with half a cupful of water, bring to boil quickly, add the sugar and boil five minutes. Sift the flour, baking powder and salt into bowl, add the shortening and rub in very lightly, adding milk slowly. Take up a spoonful and form into round balls, place on floured pie tin, brush with cold milk and bake twelve minutes in hot oven. While warm break in half, put in glass bowl and pour over the huckleberries. Serve at once. You can put a little butter on each biscuit if you like. This makes enough for four persons.

Hints For Pie.

Huckleberry Pie.—Add a spoonful of vinegar to the fruit when making pie—a tablespoonful may be needed, but no more. This amount will not be enough to modify the extreme saccharine quality. A few currants, if conveniently at hand, may be put in to impart "tang" to the pie. In this case the vinegar should be left out. Brush the lower crust before covering it with the fruit with a small quantity of egg white. Sprinkle the berries lightly with flour. Too much will make the filling pasty. Only enough to prevent the juice from running should be used. When the pie is taken from the oven sprinkle the top with powdered sugar.

The Butterflies Flow to the Mossy Ground.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

The Fairies' Sunset Party For The Butterflies.

JACK and Evelyn reminded daddy that it had been just ever and ever so long since they had had a fairy story.

"They must have been doing lots of things that we haven't heard about and having any number of parties on these lovely, warm summer nights, haven't they, daddy?" asked Evelyn.

"Yes," said daddy, "they had an especially nice party just the other night or, perhaps I should say, at sunset. Would you like to hear about it?"

"Now, daddy," laughed Jack, "you know just how much we want to hear that story." Daddy began at once.

"The party was to be given just at sunset, as I have already told you, but its chief feature was that it was given entirely for the butterflies.

"The fairies, as you know, love beautiful things and beautiful creatures. So they are the greatest admirers of the butterflies.

"They sent their invitations in a very unusual way. Hidden in the honeysuckles were little heart shaped buds which said:

"'The fairies invite the butterflies to come to a sunset party just at sunset tomorrow.'

"The butterflies were pleased to receive their invitations. Of course they all got them very promptly, for the butterflies hurry to the honeysuckles just as many people hurry to the postoffice to get mail. You see, they were not disappointed, for an invitation to a party of the fairies is a great honor.

"The butterflies talked about the party all day long and bathed in the sun so their colors would look bright. They naturally wanted to look their best, for, after all, every child, every fairy wants to look as well as possible for a party. The fairies also bathed in the crystal spring and basked in the sun.

"Just at sunset the butterflies flew to the mossy ground that had been arranged for the party. They flew in order. First came a group of the yellow ones, which were supposed to look like the sun. Next came the bright colored ones, which represented the different colors of the sunset. Then came the ons which looked like the early evening, the pale blue ones, and lastly came the black ones to look like dark night.

"The fairies clapped their hands when they saw the butterflies arriving, for they thought it was just the loveliest idea of the butterflies to come in order and to make such a beautiful butterfly picture of the different hours of the day. It was a compliment to the fairies, who love the different hours of the day and had arranged a party because they wanted to show their appreciation of the beauty of the evening sunset."

MISSING CHILD IS FOUND IN WOODS

Child Suffers From Exposure and Mosquito Bites.

PARENTS LEAD IN SEARCH

Nearly 200 People Carrying Torches Searched Forests All Night For Mays Landing Child—Mother at Sight of Her Boy Nearly Swoons—Feared Drowning or Kidnaping.

Mays Landing, N. J., July 6.—Frantic with fear that their three-year-old child Valentine Dobbs, son of Mr. and Mrs. V. Dobbs of this place, had been either drowned or kidnaped, their sorrow was turned to joy after an all night search through the forests, participated in by nearly 200 people carrying torches and calling aloud for the boy, when the little fellow was found by his father standing under a large pine tree in the woods about two miles from Lonape park, where the family had gone to spend the afternoon and evening. The child was wet to the skin and shivering from exposure and fighting mosquitoes right and left.

Toward evening the family had seated themselves at a table and ordered ice cream. At that moment the park proprietor was sending off large balloons, and it is believed that the child, not noticed by the parents, followed one of the balloons as it shot upward over the trees. Shortly the baby boy was missed and search through the park failed to find him or his whereabouts. News spread and some advanced the theory that he was kidnaped, while others thought he was drowned. The lake shores were dragged without any results, and finally the festivities at the park ceased and about 200 people, including his frantic mother, started out in all directions scouring the woods.

Several miles were covered by the searching party, but no trace of the child could be found. While nearly two miles from the park the father began to call for his boy. He heard a faint cry and followed the sound, soon coming upon the little tot, standing shivering with cold, alongside of the pine tree. His father grabbed him up in his arms and came running through the woods until the mother was reached, when she nearly swooned away at the sight of her boy. The child was thinly clothed, and it is a miracle that he did not die from cold and exposure. Dr. H. C. James was summoned and administered restoratives and soon the little fellow was laughing, but wanted to go to bed.

BLEACHERS FALL; SCORE HURT

Four Suffer Broken Bones at Fourth Celebration at Kingsland, N. J.

Rutherford, N. J., July 6.—The score or more persons who were injured at Kingsland when the bleachers at the baseball park collapsed during the fire works display are doing well.

There were about a hundred in the bleachers when the structure collapsed. Several were buried in a mass of debris, but only four had broken bones.

LETTER CARRIERS ELECT.

State Postmen Chose C. C. Hammill of Westville as President.

Trenton, N. J., July 6.—Officers of the New Jersey Rural Letter Carriers' association were elected at the close of the eleventh annual meeting of the association here. C. C. Hammill of Westville was elected president; A. W. Nichols of Vineland, vice president; A. B. Simerson of Ringoes, secretary and treasurer.

Messrs. Nichols, Simerson and C. J. Perry of Westwood, were elected delegates to the national association convention, to be held in Washington next August.

STATE NOTES.

A boom has been launched in East Orange for the nomination for congress on the Republican ticket of City Clerk Lincoln E. Rowley.

An extension of the present Orange crosstown line in Bloomfield from the Bay avenue terminal west to Myrtle avenue and thence to Nutley is now being considered by the Public Service corporation.

Professor Sabin of Harvard university has been engaged by the building committee of the First Congregational church of Montclair to supervise the construction of the interior vaulting of the new $75,000 church.

With a broken back and injured spine and paralyzed from his waist down, Louis Sangebrush, a contractor, of Franklin avenue is dying in the Mountainside hospital as the result of a cave-in at a sandpit in Bloomfield.

Undersheriff James Hyland of Essex county will appear before Judge Hahn to answer to a charge of loitering made against him by a Newark policeman who arrested him for getting into an argument in front of the city hall.

—You may have an immediate task for a want ad—and yet not act wisely in failing to read them day by day.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The Union Service of next Sunday evening will be held at the First M. E. church, with Rev. John Y. Brock, of the Trinity Reformed church, preaching.

Rev. John Y. Broek, pastor of the Trinity Reformed Church, will speak at the mid-week prayer service on "The Help Psalm," using Psalm 121 as the basis of his address.

The Sunday morning service of the Grace Episcopal church which has heretofore been held at 11 o'clock will hereafter be held at 10:30.

The quarterly business meeting of the First Baptist church will be held Wednesday evening, at which time the budget statement of receipts for the past three months will be presented.

The official board of the First M. E. church will meet Wednesday evening after the mid-week prayer service.

Arrangements are being made to have the choir boys of the Grace Episcopal church spend their vacation at a camp located on Barnegat bay, which is being conducted under the direction of Rev. Elliot White, of Philadelphia.

MANY KILLED IN AUTO MISHAPS

Over Score Dead as Result of Accidents.

FIFTEEN DROWN IN LAKE

Two Dead, Six Injured When Machine Rolls Down an Embankment Near Somerset, Pa—Auto Hits Train, Two Dead, One Dying.

Tacoma, Wash., July 6.—Fifteen people were drowned when the launch Superb, with twenty-three people on board, turned turtle in Lynn canal two miles from Skagway. A boatload had started for Juneau after celebrating the Fourth of July. Fifteen miles south of Haines Mission a violent storm came up with increasing fury. The launch was headed for Skagway. Its occupants were terrorized by the waves dashing over it. Finally a great sea struck the launch's stern, throwing her into the trough of the sea. Captain Black was unable to regain control. All of the passengers rushed to the other side. The boat listed, and another wave struck the Superb broadside, capsizing her. Running and Peterson, survivors, swam 400 yards to shore and ran two miles to Skagway, giving the alarm. Boats found but six passengers clinging to the bottom of the overturned launch. All the rest perished.

Train Hits Auto.

New York, July 6.—One man and a woman were killed and another woman was probably mortally injured in a crossing accident on the Long Island railroad where it crosses the Hempstead turnpike, a few blocks from the station of Queens. Those killed were the occupants of an auto runabout, which ran west along the turnpike and crashed through the gates into the second car of the train.

Witnesses said the runabout was racing down the turnpike with a large auto, the occupants of which, when they saw the accident, turned about as quickly as they could and speeded back along the path they had traveled.

The dead are Samuel Molostowsky, thirty-two, and Bessie Zatulode, twenty years old; dying, Irene Zatulode.

Governor's Daughter In Peril.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 6.—Miss Mona Dunne, daughter of the governor of Illinois, narrowly escaped death near Delavan, Wis., in an automobile accident in which Frank Nelson Gifford of Chicago was killed, Paul Armstrong of Chicago was badly hurt and all of the others in the party bruised.

There were six Chicagoans in the party. The automobile turned over and fell on Gifford after a rear tire exploded. The machine was running on a road between two deep ditches. Gifford was instantly killed, and Miss Dunne showed her courage by giving first aid to Armstrong. Another girl in the party ran to a farmhouse for assistance.

Two Killed.

Somerset, Pa., July 6.—Two persons were killed and six injured near Stoyestown when the driver of a touring car attempted to pass another automobile. The rear car skidded and rolled over an embankment.

Dollie Price, six years old, a daughter of William Price of Everett, and James Topley, a paving contractor of East McKeesport, were killed outright. Mrs. James Topley, John J. Hildinger of McKeesport, Mrs. Casper Lowry of Everett, Frank Topley, ten years old, and James Topley, Jr., twelve years old, were injured.

Crushed Under Auto.

Boston, July 6.—Mrs. Ephraim Hamel of Lynn was crushed to death and her husband, her daughter Geraldine and Mr. and Mrs. Collins C. Lewis of Lynn were cut and bruised when Mr. Hamel's touring car skidded and went over an embankment in Newbury. The accident was probably due to a slippery spot in the highway.

Except for Mrs. Hamel, the others were thrown clear of the car as it turned over.

Woman Killed.

Saratoga, N. Y., July 6.—In turning aside to pass another car near Corinth, ten miles north of this village, an automobile driven by Lieutenant Commander P. W. Foote, U. S. N., of Schenectady, turned turtle, crushing to death Commander Foote's mother-in-law, Mrs. Mary Ford Clary of No. 1102 Nott street, Schenectady, who with Mrs. Foote and her small child were occupants of the machine.

Train Hits Auto; Three Dead.

Aurora, Ill., July 6.—Three persons were killed and one seriously injured when a Burlington freight train struck an automobile near Shabbona, Ill. The dead are Dr. H. P. Greely and wife of Lee, Ill., and Mrs. C. Richardson of Chicago. C. W. Richardson of Chicago was injured. He was taken to a hospital at Waterman, Ill. There seemed no chance that he could survive.

Injuries Fatal.

Middletown, N. Y., July 6.—Howard John Baust, the eight-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Baust of 44 West Hayes avenue, Corona, N. Y., was injured in an automobile accident at Phillipsport, Sullivan county, and died in Thrall hospital, this city.

Room Sizes, 8x10 ft., $3.95, from $5.75

This big outlet was a tempting occasion to the manufacturers—Owing to the lateness of the season they were glad to clean up the warehouse to receive the new grass, and consequently accepted our offer for every rug on hand.

CREX

Almost an unlimited supply particularly in the 9x12 ft. size.

THE OTHER RUGS consist of about 15 various stenciled patterns in greens, reds, blues and browns.

Every rug is perfect.

We never hope to be able to offer such wonderfully low prices on such dependable and universally known rugs.

Diamond Architecture

Today, however, Art is "creeping Out from Under," and everywhere we see efforts toward the Beautiful in Diamond Jewelry.

We have in our Cases and Windows, rarely wonderful pieces, created into La Vallieres, Bar Pins, Breast Pins and what not.

Any time during the business day we will be glad to show this selection.

AN ACCIDENT.

The news flashes along the road. There is a hurrying to the scene. "Is anybody hurt?" is likely to be the first inquiry. Maybe the answer is, "Yes, badly. Send for the doctor, quick." Then it is that you will remember being advised to insure if you are the cause of the accident, driving your car, or it maybe an employe. In either case you will be asked to pay. You had better see us and get proper insurance coverage, now.

CO-OPERATION OF CITY IS SOUGHT

Building Trades Ask Common Council to Aid Labor Day Demonstration.

CALL MAN RESIGNS

Patrolmen Brower and Martin Are Made "Regulars"—Supplement to Tax Budget Adopted—Routine Matters.

The Building Trades of Plainfield, in a communication to the Common Council, at its July meeting, last night, urged the co-operation of the city officials in furthering its plans for a Labor Day parade and demonstration in this city, inviting Mayor Percy H. Stewart and the Council to review the parade. The matter was referred to the public affairs committee to be considered later.

W. S. Tyler on behalf of the Anti-Tuberculosis League, of Plainfield, took occasion to thank the Council for its appropriation of $500 for the tuberculosis clinic, expressing the league's appreciation.

The Union County Mosquito Extermination Commission, through Harold W. Schenck, district inspector, made a request that certain mosquito-breeding places in the city be filled up and that part of the work be left to the commission and that $150 be appropriated for that purpose. This request was granted in accordance with a resolution by Councilman R. A. Claybrook.

Attention of the Council was called by Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, vice-president of the S. P. C. A., to the method of destroying dogs that are permitted to run at large. He condemned the present method of shooting unless the police chief designates some competent policeman to do the work. He also referred to the fact that canines can now be put out of the way in a humane manner at the Rushmore Dynamo Works and urged co-operation on the part of the city with the society.

J. H. Carson in a communication offered the Boice property on East Front street for park purposes, explaining that while the price of the property is $25,000, he believed it could be secured for a park for $20,000. This was referred to the finance committee.

Jeremiah Griffin resigned as a call man in the fire department and the resignation was accepted. The Public Service Corporation reported the installation of one light on Geneva place.

Mayor Percy H. Stewart appointed Patrolmen H. J. Brower and Roy Martin regular policemen, they having completed the probationary period. The appointments were confirmed.

Horace Adams, clerk of the District Court, reported that during the past month the receipts were $177.37 and the balance, $126.50, after expenses were met, was turned over to the city treasurer. Street Commissioner A. J. Gavett reported the granting of twelve sewer permits during June and Building Inspector T. O. Doane reported the granting of twenty-two building permits.

Upon the recommendation of Councilman Leighton Calkins, the matter of raising $100,000 for a new grammar school building was referred to Corporation Counsel Charles A. Reed for advice as to the method of raising the money.

The sum of $4,000 was transferred from the general fund to the fire fund and $1,000 from the general fund to the poor fund. Mr. Calkins reported on the request of the Board of Health for the retention of all fees this year to meet extra expenses. He recommended that the request be not granted, believing it would establish a bad precedent, but suggested that in the fall an extra appropriation be made for the Board from the contingent fund. This was agreed to by the Council.

Mr. Calkins offered a supplement to the tax ordinance providing for the raising of $109,130.00 for the public schools for the coming year. This ordinance was adopted on two readings and ordered advertised. It takes the place of the previous ordinance which was withdrawn recently owing to some technicality.

In accordance with a resolution by Councilman C. C. Graves one hydrant was authorized at West Third street and Prescott place and another at Woodland avenue and Ravine road and a third at Giraud avenue and Sachar place, all of which were petitioned for by residents.

William C. Smith's bid, $1,170, to make extensive improvements to fire headquarters, which will include a new floor, was accepted and the Mayor and city clerk were authorized to execute a contract for the same.

A resolution offered by Councilman Graves and adopted authorized the advertising for bids for furnishing 200 or more tons of coal for the city departments. The Council adjourned to meet on Monday night, June 13.

FELL FROM FREIGHT, WILL BE ARRESTED

Victim in Muhlenberg Hospital Recovering From His Injuries.

Falling from a freight train near Westfield shortly after 8 o'clock last night, Charles Weidele, of 535 Fifteenth avenue, Newark, sustained painful cuts and bruises about the head and body which necessitated his removal to Muhlenberg Hospital for treatment. He was found on the tracks by Chief O'Neill, of the Westfield police, and was rushed in an automobile to the hospital.

Searched by the police the victim was found to have a 38 calibre revolver in his pocket and the supposition of the authorities is that he was traveling to Plainfield or vicinity. His main concern since recovering consciousness has been as to whether or not he will be arrested when discharged from the hospital.

Chief O'Neill stated this morning that he would conduct an investigation into the case and he will probably hold a conference with the man this afternoon. A charge of carrying concealed weapons will be preferred against him by the authorities. Information received from Newark stated that he was a hobo.

BIDS ARE RECEIVED FOR SEWER WORK

Nine bids were received at the July meeting of the Common Council, last night, for the contract for the construction of the new main sanitary sewer to run from Grant avenue and West Third street through West Third street to Clinton avenue to Myrtle avenue to the disposal works, as advertised. The bidding was pretty close and included three Plainfield firms.

The DiNapoli & Toriello Construction Company, of Hackensack, was the lowest bidder for the work, the concern's figures being about $30,000. It is a question, it is said, as to whether the figures are not too low, and the street committee will have a meeting this week to go over the matter. There will be an adjourned meeting of the Council, Monday night, July 13, when it is expected that the contract will be awarded. D. Foster Callahan, of Elizabeth, appeared to be the second lowest bidder.

The bids were received from the following:

D. Foster Callahan, of Elizabeth; Samuel Sabocher, Milton Meeker and Frank Mobus, of Plainfield; Keeley McFeeley, of Camden; James J. Fusco, of Newark; Charles A. Peterson, of Plainfield; Joseph Burke, Raymond Bonham, of Plainfield; L. S. Fulton Co., Elmhurst, L. I.; DiNapoli & Toriello Construction Company, Hackensack; J. W. Heller, of Newark.

The bids were all referred to the street committee for further consideration. Under a further suspension of the order of business, public hearings were held on ordinances to open certain streets, in the Netherwood section, to establish grades on certain streets and providing for permanent pavement of certain streets. Later these ordinances were adopted on third reading as were also ordinances providing for the opening of East Fourth street, between Washington and Richmond streets, and the establishment of the side line on Park avenue, between Depot Park Fifth street.

HE'S MOVING OUT OF TOWN.

Woe be unto one Henry Palmer if he ever gets tangled up in the dragnet of the local police again. The bluecoats have been the nemesis of the colored man on twelve different occasions when he had been arrested for drunkenness and disorderly conduct. Arraigned before Judge DeMeza this morning on a disorderly complaint he was let go with the understanding that his next entrance into the headquarters on Sycamore street would mean a fine of $100 and 59 days in the county jail. Palmer says he is going to make a change in his address as soon as possible.

HOPE EXCURSION DATE.

The date for the Hope chapel excursion has been set for Saturday, August 8. This is the only excursion leaving this city on a Saturday, with Asbury Park and Ocean Grove as the destination.

MAYOR FAILS TO MAKE APPOINTMENT

Common Council Surprised That Police Captain is not Named by Executive.

Mayor Percy H. Stewart's failure to appoint a police captain at the July meeting of the Common Council, last night, came as a surprise to many who confidently believed that a name would be sent in for confirmation. It was generally supposed that Detective-Sergeant John J. Flynn would be chosen for the vacancy in the department, and when the Mayor did not make an appointment the question was raised in the minds of not only the Councilmen, but others as well, why the matter was delayed.

Various members of the Council were questioned on the subject, but not one could offer any reason. It was openly stated that an appointment was confidently expected. It is known that up to very recently the police board was not a unit as to who should have the appointment, but it was understood that the members had finally agreed on the man to be chosen. No explanations were offered, last night, for the action of the Mayor, neither was any member willing to state when the appointment would be made.

That members of the Council are disturbed over the matter is plainly apparent. They feel that the vacancy in the police department should be filled, that too much time already has been wasted in picking a successor to Christian Frederickson, who retired June 1. One prominent city official in discussing the matter today said that the police board knowing as it did that Mr. Frederickson was to retire on June 1, should have arranged to fill the position at the next regular meeting of the Common Council, having had plenty of time to consider the question.

$10 CONTRIBUTION FOR SUMMER FUND

Total Increased Considerably by a Check for King's Daughters' Work.

Ten dollars was added to the King's Daughters' summer fund today, the amount being contributed by Isaac W. Rushmore, of this city. This makes the total amount received by the Daily Press for this work $64.50. The playground that has been opened in the rear of The Day Nursery on West Front street, has entertained many little children so for this summer and money is needed to carry on the work successfully, as well as the diet kitchen at The Day Nursery.

The people of the city and borough are urged to support this work. The money goes for the amusement and care of those children who attend the playground and the nursery.

The contributions received to date are as follows:

"Wellwisher"	$20.00
Mrs. Louisa L. Riley	$10.00
Mrs. E. E. Parvin	$10.00
Isaac W. Rushmore	$10.00
"A Friend"	$ 5.00
Mrs. G. S. Simons	$ 5.00

WOMAN FORGER ADMITS GUILT WHEN ARRESTED

Charged with forging two checks, one for $25 and the other for $45, Ada Anthony, colored, was apprehended by the police of Westfield, in one of the banks in that town yesterday. She is alleged to have affixed the signature of her employer, Arthur Rule, to the bogus checks.

Arraigned in court she admitted her guilt and will be held to await the action of the Grand Jury. The woman has a record as a forger, having served two terms in New York State and having once been an inmate of the House of the Good Shepherd, Trenton.

CLEAR WEATHER PROMISED.

Bright skies and warm weather are promised for Thursday, the day that the First, Temple and South Plainfield Baptist churches go on their annual outing to Asbury Park. Reports from the shore indicate that the bathing is the best in the history of the popular resort and that there are many new attractions to amuse excursionists. There will be plenty of room on the train for all who plan to go and the large committee will personally look after the comfort and convenience of excursionists.

SOMERSET JURY IS RECONVENED

Two Murderers Indicted in Session Extraordinary at Somerville Yesterday.

CRIMES SET PRECEENT

Two Others Will be Tried for Atrocious Assault—History of Murders—Offenses Are Among Worst Ever Committed in the County.

Meeting in extraordinary session in Somerville yesterday the Somerset County Grand Jury returned two indictments for murder in the first degree and two for atrocious assault and battery.

The indicted men are Raffaelle Carrodo, who on May 23 shot and killed Isidore Marsini, after eloping with his wife to Bernardsville, and Stefano Ruggieri, who on May 17 shot and killed Patrick Salzaranno, near Millington, and seriously injured Geocome Vitagliani and Luigi Dagostini. Both intered pleas of not guilty. Carrado is being held for trial on July 15 and Ruggieri on July 20.

Heretofore it has been the custom to dismiss Grand Juries upon the completion of the work for which they were impanneled but both cases for which this body was called into special session were committed after the jury had retired for the April term. The jury was reconvened by Judge Parker to meet yesterday.

The crime for which Carrado and Ruggieri have been indicted were of the cruelest and most deliberate nature ever committed in the country. Ruggieri had been discharged from the Morris County Stone Crusher Works, near Millington, and blamed four associates, Giacomo Vitagliano, Pasquale Folzarrano, Luigi Dagnostini and a cousin, Gustele Ruggieri, for the dismissal.

Following their custom, Dagostini, Vitagliano, Folzarrano and Gustele Ruggieri played cards on the Sunday of the shooting under a tree near the stone crushing plant which is between Millington and Lyons. Ruggieri, it is said got out his shotgun, went down the road toward the tree under which the men were playing, and unnoticed by them, stood in the middle of the road, a distance of about 15 feet from the tree. Then deliberately taking aim, it is said he blazed away twice into the little knot of card players. Folzarrano died and Vitagliano and Dagnostini were seriously injured.

Carrado is indicted for the murder of Isidore Marsini, at Bernardsville. Both Marsini and Carrado were from Brooklyn. Carrado arrived on the Saturday morning of the murder with Marsini's wife and two children and had secured rooms in a building near the Italian section. Marsini followed them to Bernardsville Saturday afternoon and immediately went to their apartments. He had no soner stepped into the room where Carrado and Mrs. Marsini were unpacking household furnishings, than Carrado opened fire upon him. Three shots were fired, one of them penetrating Marsini's heart. Carrado jumped from a window to an adjoining roof and from the roof to the ground, but in doing so, broke a wrist and sprained an ankle. He wandered down town and was taken to the office of a local physician for treatment. A painter, who had been working near the house in which the shooting had taken place, heard the shot and upon investigation learned of the murder. He reported the case to an officer, who arrested Carrado, and turned hime over to the county authorities.

MISS CONSTANCE MORRIS RECREATION SUPERVISOR

Miss Constance Morris, who has had considerable experience in public recreation work in Pittsburg and Los Angeles, has been appointed as acting supervisor of recreation work in Plainfield for July and August by the Public Recreation Committee, and has taken up her duties. The committee expects to have the new gymnasium and swimming pool in the High School ready for use by August 1.

The dramatic club will meet tonight and the folk dancing class will have a rehearsal tomorrow night in the Bryant School instead of the Washington School because of repairs being made to the latter building.

TEMPERATURE REPORT.

The temperature report from The State Trust Company today is as follows: 9 a. m., 61 degrees; 11 a. m., 64 degrees; 1 p. m., 65 degrees.

REMOVAL OF CITY FOUNTAIN URGED

Councilman Claybrook Says That Its Condition Might Cause Trouble.

An effort on the part of Councilman Richard A. Claybrook at the meeting of the Common Council, last night, to bring about the abandonment of the public drinking fountain on Muhlenberg place, resulted in a protest on the part of Councilmen John H. Cose and Charles C. Graves, who said that they found it was very much needed and should be permitted to remain. Mr. Graves also thought that if the present fountain was removed, and another one located there later, the water company might attach a meter and charge for the water used.

Mr. Claybrook explained that the fountain is now out of commission and the city might be liable for damages if it was allowed to remain as at present. He had no desire to abandon a public necessity, but the public affairs committee was not in a position at present to spend a hundred dollars or more in repairs to the fountain. Other city fountains, Mr. Claybrook said, also need attention. It was finally decided to refer the matter to the street committee and if it thought best it could cause the removal of the Muhlenberg place fountain. Councilmen Cose, Graves and Martin voted against referring the matter to the street committee.

INTRUDERS SHIED AT SIGHT OF REVOLVER

Mrs. Grace Ising and family, of Dunellen avenue, Dunellen, were wakened at 1:30 o'clock this morning by shouting on the porch of their home. In response to demands for admittance and threats to break down the front door if it was not opened, Earl Ising, a son, crawled out on the porch roof with a loaded revolver in an effort to establish the identity of the early morning intruders.

He was greeted by renewed threats on the part of two men who appeared to be in a drunken condition. Finding that warnings proved to be of no avail Ising finally exhibited the weapon to the miscreants and at the sight of the business end of the pistol and hearing his threats to fill "them full of lead," they made a break for the street. One leaped over the railing and Ising took a shot at him but missed the mark. Edward Strickland found one of the men hiding behind a tree a few minutes later and turned him over to Marshal Tarpey. Three hours were spent in searching the neighborhood for the second intruder but he could not be located, neither could his partner be made to disclose his identity.

Arraigned in the Dunellen court, this morning, charged with drunkenness and disorderly conduct, the captive gave his name as Edward Potter and said he lived in Somerville. He was fined $5.

ARTHUR N. PIERSON A CANDIDATE FOR ASSEMBLY

Arthur N. Pierson, of Westfield, has announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for Assembly this fall. The announcement was made after the friends of Mr. Pierson had urged him to seek the nomination for Congress, but this he declined to do. Mr Pierson has been active in Republican politics for over thirty years, and has been actively engaged in many campaigns.

Mr. Pierson is president of the Westfield Board of Trade, the Town Plan and Art Commission, and a member of the Playground Commission, of Westfield. His candidacy is the third to be announced, the others being Charles L. Morgan, an Elizabeth lawyer, and Arthur E. Warner, a former newspaper man, also of Elizabeth. No doubt, the leaders in the G. O. P. will endeavor to secure a strong man from this city to make a run for the ticket in order to keep the Assembly ticket balanced.

FUNERAL OF MRS. MAST.

The funeral services of the late Mrs. Sophie Caroline Mast, who died last Friday, were held yesterday afternoon at her residence on Craig place, the borough. Rev. Charles L. Kues, rector of the Church of the Holy Cross, officiated. The brief service at the Basking Ridge cemetery, where the interment was made, was in charge of Rev. Thomas Conover, rector of St. Bernard's Episcopal church.

PROBABLE CANDIDATES WILL BE DISCUSSED

Local Democrats have arranged to hold a meeting tonight in the Depew building at Park and North avenues, which will mark the formal opening of the campaign here. The meeting has been called for the purpose of discussing probable candidates for county offices, and it is also expected that plans will be considered for grooming local prospective candidates for county and State offices.

While no official announcement has been made, it seems to be the opinion that Mayor Percy H. Stewart will seek the State Senatorial nomination, while former Councilman Fred Endress is being urged to run for the office of sheriff. Both men are sure to have opposition. Assemblymen Frank Dobbins, of Rahway and William A. Leonard of Elizabeth, have declared themselves in the race for the Senatorial nomination. Thus far there is one Union county man who wants to succeed Congressman W. E. Tuttle on the Democratic ticket and that is Louis Pierson, of Rahway.

CONSIDER PLANS TO WIDEN SECOND ST.

Councilman F. J. Blatz Introduces Ordinance Providing for Improvement.

Following a petition from residents of East Second street, Councilman Francis J. Blatz, at the July meeting of the Common Council, last night, presented an ordinance providing for the widening of East Second street from Watchung avenue to Washington street. The ordinance was placed on first reading and will be considered later.

Mr. Blatz stated that in view of the fact that the Government is to erect a Federal building at Watchung avenue and East Second street, there appeared to be excellent reasons for widening the street and if it is decided to do this the Government can be notified accordingly.

The ordinance calls for widening the thoroughfare twenty-five feet each side of the centre line which would give ample room and add to the attractiveness of that section, especially after the Federal building is erected.

DRUGGIST SAID TO HAVE ATTEMPTED "SPITE WORK"

John Rubin, proprietor of the Red Cross drug store, was arraigned in court this morning on a complaint sworn out by Donald McInnes, collector for the owner of the building in which the defendant conducts his business. According to the complaint Rubin is an "undesirable citizen" and although he holds a lease which does not expire until August 15 the owner of the building is already making efforts to secure another tenant.

This Rubin is said to have known and was accused of using underhanded methods of "evening up" the score with the owner. He was charged with letting the water run, flooding the cellar and doing other pieces of "spite work." After a reprimand by the court had been administered the prisoner was allowed to go on a suspended sentence.

WOMEN'S LEAGUE ENJOY A SOCIAL AND ENTERTAINMENT

The regular business meeting of the Women's League of St. Joseph's church, was held in Debele's Auditorium last night. A large number attended the meeting which was the last one for the summer, and after the business had been disposed of a general social time was held.

Mrs. Andrew E. Kenney gave a reading on "Character" and Mrs. James Bailey and Miss Virginia La Porte also read selections. Several of the members entertained with piano selections. The next meeting will be held on September 14.

WOULD NOT PROSECUTE.

Angelo Amore, of 314 Plainfield avenue, was released from custody this morning by the local police when his wife refused to press the charge of beating her against him. The woman, when she appeared in court today, was considerably unnerved and apparently afraid to say anything against her husband fearing that he would do her some harm if released.

WOULD CHANGE TYLER ORDINANCE

Councilman C. C. Graves Wants to Insure Saloons for West End.

OPPOSITION IS RAISED

Councilman Leighton Calkins Questions Policy of Action in Mid-summer—Amendment Finally Laid on the Table.

Entirely unexpected and without any previous announcement of his intention, Councilman Charles C. Graves, at the July meeting of the Common Council, last night, proposed an amendment to the ordinance to license inns and taverns, especially that section establishing what is known as the "Tyler Zone," which it adopted would insure the continuance of the Clark saloon on West Third street, and also the Watson saloon on Grant avenue if there should ever be a change in ownership there.

The amendment proposed by Mr. Graves does not alter the "Tyler Zone" in any other respect, except to change the reading from name to place and this would permit the Council to license either one of the two saloons in the future.

The action of Mr. Graves was somewhat of a surprise and immediately it raised comment. The wisdom of bringing the matter up at this time of the year was seriously questioned by Councilman Leighton Calkins, who referred to the fact that so many people are now and will be away during the summer and it would not be good policy or fair to the people to decide so important a matter at this season of the year.

Mr. Graves at first took exception to the suggested delay in disposing of the question, declaring that he thought it should be settled now instead of waiting until fall. "Let's decide the matter now," asserted Mr. Graves, "and get it over with. The people who are affected by this change are not away, neither can they get away. They haven't money enough for that. We need the two saloons in the West End and the people there have a right to expect fair treatment. Those saloons should not be taken away and we want them continued."

Replying to Mr. Graves, Mr. Calkins said:

"I think it is a mistake to introduce any amendment to our liquor ordinance in midsummer, quite regardless of the merits of the question involved. I am not now speaking on the merits of the question. This bill proposes to so amend the "Tyler Zone" ordinance, as to permit the licensing of the Watson and Clark saloons in the future as in the past, even after the death of the owners. This does not mean more saloons than we now have, and it does not mean any further extension of the limits of the zone. It simply means that all eight existing saloons, so long as well behaved, shall remain unmolested. I confess to a feeling of sympathy with Mr. Graves' purpose, and I think he is sincere in his belief, that the passage of this amendment will so satisfy a certain element in town, that they will be content with eight retailers for many years to come, even if one or two more will be made possible by the census of 1915. On the other hand, I am unalterably opposed, as a matter of public policy, to bringing up so important a question at this time. If the amendment is put on first reading tonight, it can be put on second reading at our August meeting, and it would be unfair to the people of this city to be advertising a proposed amendment to the "Tyler Zone" ordinance in August. It is not carrying out the intent and spirit of the law, to give notice of a proposed change of policy at a time when so many people are away and cannot organize for the purpose of giving expression to their views. This ordinance should not be put on first reading until September, nor come for final passage until October. Mr. Graves says that the people most concerned are not away on their vacations, because they cannot afford to take vacations. But this is not an ordinance regulating one ward or section of the city. It is a question of general policy in which the whole city is interested. I appeal to the sense of fair play of this Council, not to take a step which it will surely have cause to regret later on. Regardless of the merits of the question, there will be just cause for severe criticism if this amendment is put on second reading and advertised for public hearing before September at the earliest."

President Clay suggested to Mr. Graves that the ordinance be allowed to remain on the table for the present, being understood as having been read for information. It could then be taken up at a later time. No one seemed prepared to vote on the

For over 8 years our forefathers struggled to throw off the yoke that held them to the grind-stone.

They were the sort of men who never knew when they had failed, and they made a success out of an impossibility.

Men of Plainfield, we ask you to throw off the yoke of custom. There is no reason why you should continue to overpay on your clothes because you have done so before.

We save you $3 to $5 on every suit, because of cash buying and cash selling—and the saving on other expenses. Won't you come in today?

Plainfield, N. J., July 7, 1914.

THE PROGRESSIVES.

Colonel Roosevelt took a position in public affairs in his Pittsburg speech, which may be assumed to be the position of the Progressive party. It was evident that it was not an attack upon the rank and file of the Republican party. It was an attack upon the fraud perpetrated at Chicago in 1912, and upon the men who were the leaders in that fraud, and demonstrated that the Colonel believes that the rank and file of the Republican party will never forgive those who were guilty of the crime of 1912.

It is apparent, from the Colonel's speech, that he believes—as undoubtedly a vast majority of the Progressives believe—that when he and they left the Republican party they did not forget that they were still believers in that party. His opposition is to men like Penrose and Barnes, and the others of their kind, who controlled the National Republican Committee in 1912, and, by virtue of their power, also controlled the National Convention. It is quite evident that if the rank and file of the Republican party repudiate these men, there will be no difficulty in bringing about a union with the Progressives. All that the Progressives want is honest primaries, honest national committees and honest conventions; in fact, that all nominations shall be made in an open, honest way by all the members of the party; without domination, and without dictation.

Mr. Roosevelt fiercely attacks Democratic administration, Democratic measures, and the remedies proposed by the Democratic party. In this the people are in sympathy with him. Everybody believes that President Wilson is sincere. He asserts, and believes undoubtedly, that the present business conditions will be speedily remedied and that his foreign policy will ultimately prove to be right. We trust that it may.

One thing is quite evident—Colonel Roosevelt has the public ear and millions of the people still believe in and follow him. In this situation, it is evident that he will be potential in moulding public sentiment, and from this time forth he is going to be the most potential force that the administration will have to overcome. He will draw around him not only the Progressives, but the rank and file of the honest men of the Republican party, who believe in him just as thoroughly as do those who followed him into the Progressive movement in 1912.

THE CITY PLAYGROUNDS.

The opening of the four local playgrounds was welcomed by a host of juvenile recreation seekers in all sections of the city. Each one of the supervisors in the public school yards was greeted by a gathering of urchins anxiously awaiting the opening of the gates, and once inside of the modernly equipped centres the youngsters gave vent to the stored up enthusiasm which has been held in submission since the closing of the school term.

During the summer months the yards serve as a means to keep boys and girls off the city streets and hundreds of youngsters are beneficiaries. Amusement of every variety is supplied by the instructors and it teaches the youngsters how to enjoy play, free from blemish, impartiality, prejudice and favoritism, all standing squarely on two feet and resorting to nothing low, small or mean. The beneficiaries are placed on their honor to do what is right, and few rules are laid down for them to adhere to.

That is the proper atmosphere. Countless parents profit indirectly with the playgrounds operating under a system that aims for "juvenile honor." With its limited means the Playground Commission in the past has worked wonders. It has been seriously handicapped. Some of the handicaps have been removed by a larger appropriation by the city and the increased interest displayed by citizens. This year the system attempts a broadder scope than ever before. The results will consequently be better. Play is the heritage of all children, but there are causes that deprive many of the right to enjoy it. Systematized it is a relaxation and an education. Intelligent direction promotes it and makes keener its enjoyment. The truth of this can be witnessed by a visit to anyone of our four local playgrounds. They are developing clean, healty, vigorous and honest little men and women.

Competent supervisors are in charge of the good work, with several splendid additions to the corps since last year. New features have been added to make the places attractive and self-government is a predominant factor in each yard. Pleasure is provided on a scientific basis and while having a good time the youngsters are constantly being taught something in the educational line. Work is made a pleasure by the introduction of novel teaching methods and the same faces may be seen daily at all of the centres. It is a splendid municipal work.

QUESTION OF POLICY.

The attempt on the part of Councilman Charles C. Graves to amend the Tyler "zone ordinance," so as to insure for the future at least one or two saloons in the West End of the city, will not we are sure, meet with general favor, particularly at this time of the year. It is not a question of merit, but one of policy, and as Councilman Leighton Calkins stated last night, it is very unwise to bring up such a question at the time of the year when so many people will be out of the city. The people of Plainfield have been willing to trust the Common Council to do the right thing in regulating the liquor traffic, but it is extremely doubtful whether they would approve the proposed amendment. If Councilman Graves insists on pushing his amendment there is no doubt but that the liquor question will be a live one at the election next fall.

NO EXCUSE FOR DELAY.

The failure of Mayor Percy H. Stewart to appoint a police captain at last night's session of the Common Council has occasioned as much surprise among the people of the city as it did among the councilmen when a name was not sent in for confirmation at the July session. As has been stated in these columns before, there can be no possible excuse for such delay, especially as the Mayor and other members of the police board have had ample time to consider the question. The city executive's course in the matter is plain and we fear that further delay will only tend to disturb the heretofore harmonious relations which have existed between the Mayor and Council.

SIX MORE PROMISE TO TAKE OUT DOG LICENSES

Six dog tax delinquents were lined up in the Borough Police Court this morning and a half dozen suspended sentences were dealt out by Recorder Hand with the proviso that they take immediate steps to get the necessary tags.

Those caught with unregistered canines were John Poland, of Linden avenue; Augustus Baldwin, of Duer street; Miss Berthe Dubur, of Chatham street; John Angleman, of Greenbrook road; Randolph Giddes, of Watchung avenue, and Edward Ammon.

SOMERVILLE WANTS TRACKS LAID IN MIDDLE OF STREET

Following a request made to the Public Service Corporation by the Somerville Council some time ago, to have the tracks on East Main street put in the middle of the street, a representative of that concern appeared before the municipal body last night, and explained that it would be impossible to do anything for a year at least. According to the representative the improvement would entail an expense of between $8,000 and $10,000. J. A. Frech appeared and presented a petition on behalf of Edward Newland to have the latter reimbursed for expenses incurred as the result of a mad dog bite sustained by his daughter while she was walking in the main street of the town. The amount said to have been expended by him for special treatment was $75 and the matter was turned over to the borough attorney.

Several complaints were made against the condition of the streets in Somerville and requests for storm sewers on Main street were also received. An ordinance was passed last night to compel the owners of property on VanDeveer street to lay cement sidewalks. Bills for the month amounting to $5,000 were ordered paid at once.

GOING ABROAD.

Among those leaving on the S. S. Potsdam, of the Holland-American Line, is Miss Kate Brush, of Duer street, the borough. Miss Brush will spend the summer touring Europe, returning to this country in October. Mrs. Marsh, of Manson place, and Miss Ellen Box are among the passengers of the Mauritania, of the Cunard line, sailing today for England, where they will spend the summer visiting Europe. Passage was booked through Estil's agency.

ENTERS CULVER ACADEMY.

Godfried Clay, son of Councilman George S. Clay, of East Seventh street, has gone to Culver, Indiana, where he will attend the Culver Military Academy for two months. The school is one of the best known in the country and has a summer course of two months covering four years. It includes training in cavalry and horsemanship. Clay is a sophomore of the Plainfield High School.

KAIN-DILLON.

Miss Margaret Kain, of Sterling, and Daniel Dillon, of this city, were married yesterday in St. Mary's church by Father B. M. Bogan. The brother and sister of the groom attended the couple. They will go to housekeeping on Wilson avenue, in the borough. Mr. Dillon is employed by the Eastern Bottling Works, of this city.

RATE DECISION SATURDAY?

Washington, July 7—If a decision in the five per cent. rate advance case can be handed down by Saturday the members of the Interstate Commerce Commission will be highly satisfied. Information here is that Saturday would be the earliest possible date for the announcement of the decision.

FIGHTER LET GO.

Patrick Kelleghar, of Jackson avenue, was given a suspended sentence when arraigned before Recorder Hand in the Borough Court yesterday afternoon, charged with fighting and acting disorderly on the streets of North Plainfield, Saturday afternoon.

STATE BOARD URGES HASTE IN DUNELLEN

Suggests That Joint Sewerage Work Be Rushed as Soon as Possible.

A communication from the State Board of Health was received by the Dunellen Council at its monthly meeting, last night, making a request that the joint sewerage disposal system be constructed as soon as possible on account of the present condition of the sewer beds in this city. The Joint Sewerage Commission's legal advisers, Lindabury, Depue and Faulks, in a letter to the Council, last night, instructed the clerk to notify the State authorities of the progress that had been made in the matter to date.

The Council ratified the contract entered into with George W. Fuller, as supervising engineer of the joint sewerage enterprise at a salary of $19,500. Mayor Latham appointed an engineering committee to work in connection with the joint sewerage proposition composed of E. M. Jones, chairman; Richard M. Ryan and John J. Bolard.

A communication was received from George W. Day, proprietor of the Dunellen Weekly Call, calling the attention of the Council that the borough, unlike other municipalities, has no official paper, and following a short discussion the Call was accepted. H. C. Smith's resignation as dog catcher and special marshal was accepted by the Council last night. The public affairs committee was instructed to have the Public Service Corporation remedy certain defects in the lighting system in the borough. The offer of the Watchung Company agreeing to build at least three houses on Second street between Washington and Jackson avenues, providing the borough would fix up that portion of the thoroughfare, was brought up again and evoked considerable discussion. There was some question as to whether or not the municipality should share in such expense and it was agreed to turn the proposition over to the borough attorney for settlement at the next meeting.

Complaints were registered against the condition of the sidewalks in front of the Linke and Gretcham Vinges properties on North avenue and the street committee was instructed to see that the conditions were remedied. The treasurer's report showed a balance on hand of $895.54 against $372 last month.

The street committee was ordered to take up with the Central Railroad the matter of filling in the space at its prospect avenue crossing between the roadway and the walk which is at present in a dangerous condition.

WALLACE PIERCE GETS A GOVERNMENT JOB

Certified Pure Natural Ice

DON'T WORRY ABOUT ICE

To the list of summer "DON'TS" promulgated during the hot weather as aids in keeping cool and in good physical condition, might well be added one more:

"Don't worry about the possibility of contagion from the use of NATURAL ICE."

This admonition is the more necessary because some years ago there was given the public an impression that the greatest care is necessary in the use of Natural Ice in order to avoid disease.

Scientific research has absolutely removed ice from the category of foodstuffs which communicate disease.

TWENTY-SIG PLAINFIELDERS IN "WHO'S WHO IN AMERICA"

"Who's Who in America," volume 8, covering 1914-1915, has made its appearance, and contains the names of twenty-six Plainfielders. It is the most valuable book for reference use published in America today, containing thousands of short biographies of well known men and women.

The Plainfielders are Frank H. Ball, Geraldine Brooks, Henry K. Carroll, George Herbert Condict, Brigadier General Charles E. L. B. Davis, Rev. William H. DeHart, George H. Frost, Alexander Gilbert, Dr. Maximilian P. E. Grossmann, Edward J. Hamilton, Otis E. Hovey, James R. Joy, Tilghman B. Koons, Senator James E. Martine, William F. Merrill, Leon Moran, Rev. Robert F. Y. Pierce; L. V. F. Randolph, Harry G. Runkle, Dr. Edward Rushmore, William L. Saunders, Judd Stewart, Evarts Tracy, Leonard Waldo, William H. Williams and Rev. John Sheriden Zelie.

The book aims to give a brief, crisp, personal sketch of the notable living Americans in all parts of the world—men and women whose position or achievements make them of general interest. It tells just the things every intelligent person wants to know about those who are most conspicuous in every reputable walk of life—birthplace, age, parentage, education, degrees, position and achievements, politics, societies, clubs, business, profession or occupation, marriage; and in fact, the chief features of each career without puffery of eulogy, praise or criticism.

Completeness and reliability make the book almost indispensable to every man or woman who aims to keep abreast of the times. It is everywhere recognized as an authority and is in general use in homes, offices, libraries, editorial rooms, schools and colleges, and every place where up-to-date, authentic information is wanted about people in whom almost everyone is interested. The publishers are A. N. Marquis & Company, of Chicago.

PLAINFIELD LYCEUM GIVES ENTERTAINMENT AND ELECTS

The Plainfield Lyceum, an organization composed of members of the local colored churches, held an entertainment at the Shiloh Baptist church last Friday evening, when a musical program was presented. Those taking part were as follows: The Misses Gertrude Randolph, Helen Lillys, William Dempsey, Joseph Garner, Henry Van Blake, Nathan Pollard, Mrs. Liggens, Mrs. Ross, Miss Pearl Jones. Arthur Venable, organist of the Shiloh church, presided at the piano.

At the close of the concert, the following officers were elected: President, Charles E. Van Horn; vice president, Ralph Green; secretary, Miss Ada Cobbs; assistant secretary, Leslie Kingslow; treasurer, W. G. Wright. The following were selected as a Board of Managers: E. E. Wilson, Miss Anna Davidson; William Baily, Miss Dawe Reed, J. H. Williams and Samuel Read.

HUERTA IS READY TO FLEE COUNTRY

Sure Dictator Is on Point of Leaving.

EXPECT CARRANZA'S "YES"

It is Intimated in Washington That He Will Send Delegates—Rebel Conference at Torreon Now Planning Campaign on Mexico City.

Washington, July 7.—Advices have been received at the state department confirming the reports from Mexico City that General Huerta is preparing for flight. After all the false alarms in regard to Huerta's intentions, officials are now convinced that he is actually on the point of leaving the capital and seeking refuge in a foreign country.

The understanding here is that General Huerta has accumulated a fortune which has been estimated at $3,000,000 and has deposited it in a Paris bank. How he will leave Mexico is still a matter for conjecture. At one time it was believed that he had arranged to go to Japan. Present indications are, however, that he contemplates making his way to Puerto Mexico, at the Atlantic coast end of the Tehuantepec railroad. Thence he would be able to sail for Havana or Vera Cruz, where he could obtain passage to the United States or Europe.

The apparently authentic reports that General Huerta is about to retire from office have given great encouragement to officials of the Washington administration and others who are interested in the success of the effort to adjust Mexico's troubles through mediation. Opinion is strong here that with Huerta no longer a factor in the Mexican situation the Constitutionalists will be ready to enter into negotiations with the government in Mexico City for a peaceable settlement of the domestic problems of the republic.

Expect Favorable Reply.

Washington, July 7.—There were frequent intimations in the Constitutionalist circles here that Carranza's reply to the mediators' invitation to send delegates to join with the Huerta delegates in arranging for a provisional government in Mexico would be received within two days.

Those most strongly in favor of Huerta accepting the invitations assert that they have good reason to believe that his answer will be favorable. It has been demonstrated by Carranza, through friendly channels, that either the Constitutionalists must meet the Huerta delegates in the proposed conference or else face the alternative of probable intervention in Mexico by the United States. They will be held strictly responsible, the Constitutionalist leaders have been told, if they refuse to meet the Huerta delegates and insist on taking Mexico City by force. In quarters which have never been so hopeful regarding mediation, however, the belief was expressed that Carranza will refuse to appoint any delegates to meet the Huerta delegates.

Most positive assertions were made that the differences between Villa and Carranza are in a fair way to be adjusted. In all quarters of the revolutionary camps it was said that information received indicated that the conferences at Torreon are proceeding even more satisfactorily than had been hoped for. There were no further indications that Carranza has agreed to dismiss Rafael Zubaran, as reported from the border. The revolutionist agents seemed concerned most over the loss of the first money printed for Carranza, but delivered to Villa's people in northern Mexico.

PORTE WILL FLY OCEAN SOON

Seaplane America Shows Ample Reserve Power In Trials.

Hammondsport, N. Y., July 7.—Lieutenant John Cyril Porte arrived here from New York with Captain Craig Osborn, compass expert of the British navy. Lieutenant Porte said he hoped to start on his transatlantic flight in the America sooner than was first expected and will leave for Newfoundland by July 18.

Glenn H. Curtiss demonstrated the balancing power of the America when he flew several miles down Lake Keuka on one motor. The flight with one motor supports the theory that the America has a large surplus of power when in flight. During her trials the America carried 800 pounds of gasoline and five passengers.

THERE IS A BIG DIFFERENCE BETWEEN A BUG AND A MAD DOG

"SPORTDOM TIPS"

Tommy Mullin's hitting was the feature of both of the Plainfield-Dunellen games last Saturday. In the morning he hit over the left field fence for his weekly home run and in the afternoon won the game in the tenth with a triple with two on the bases. Tommy certainly does hit them "where they ain't." He also shows big league stuff in the short field. Nothing ever gets by him, no matter how high or how low they come.

After sitting on the bench all morning and watching his teammates trounce Dunellen to the tune of 12 to 0, George Townley led the Pets to victory in the afternoon. He was on the mound and when he was in a hole he pitched his best. The Dunellen sluggers did not hit his curves very far and he stood the test for ten long innings. In the tenth he started a batting rally with a single. "Hub" Stine, who caught him, also played a nice game.

The feature event, the five-mile road race, of the Parker Field meet Saturday, ended in a dispute as to who was the second man to cross the tape. The East End Club, of this city, officials claim that their man, Fiore, was the winner of second prize while the judges at the finish gave the decision to an outsider. The dispute that followed was the only thing that marred the meet. Whenever an official was seen someone started an argument which led to bad feeling on the part of the athletes.

The real feature of the local meet was the 880 yards handicap run which was won by W. R. Granger, the famous Dartmouth runner, from scratch. He gave the spectators as pretty a race as could be looked for. With good men fifty yards ahead of him at the start, Granger timed the distance perfectly and nosed out the leader in the last fifteen yards of the run. Never once during the entire two laps did he break his stride.

Ralph Runyon did not have to exert himself in the pole vault event Saturday, even though he was the only one to start from scratch. Ten feet, four inches was enough to defeat his nearest rival who had a twelve-inch handicap. Runyon could have leaped ten inches more had he been pushed a little harder.

For some unknown reason no extra fast time was made in the runs Saturday. The track was in the finest condition and the runners appeared to be well conditioned. It took Granger just 2 minutes and 55 3-5 seconds to go over the course twice. That's a little over five minutes for the mile.

Some of the men of the borough are seriously thinking about organizing a baseball team to represent "Canada." Hyde Oval is unoccupied and all they need is a few players. If the boroughites could once get this club under way they would put out a fine team.

Now that Jack Martin is playing shortstop regularly he may get into the hitting atmosphere. This is one of Jack's weak points but he will find the ball one of these days and then give it a few cracks. Hhe played shortstop last Saturday and made good, although he did not hit safely.

DAVIS CUP TRIALS.

London, July 7—The team selected by the English Lawn Tennis Association faced the Belgian players at Folestone today in the first of the preliminary matches for the Davis Cup. If England is successful over Belgium her team will meet the Frenchmen at Wimbledon next week. The winner of the second preliminary will go to America to play the victors of the Australian-United States series in the final matches for the trophy.

$20,000 FOR FIGHT.

Sydney, July 7.—The Stadium Club, of New South Wales, yesterday cabled George Carpenter, the French light heavyweight champion, an offer of $20,000 to meet Jimmy Clabby, the Indiana middleweight.

CHASE CASE POSTPONED.

Buffalo N. Y., July 7.—Arguments on the Federal League's application for dissolution of the temporary injunction granted the Chicago American League Club against Hal Chase, its former first baseman, were postponed in Supreme Court yesterday until Thursday.

COPS TO PLAY.

The local policemen and the Perth Amboy bluecoats will meet on Parker Field for the second time this season next Thursday afternoon. The visitors are asking for a chance to get back at Kiely's ball players for the 19 to 8 licking that they received early in the year.

PLAINFIELDERS SEE MARTIN BAT 1,000

Local Boy Shakes Boston Uniform and the Season's Jinx.

Even the fast shoots of the Giants pitchers could not phase Jack Martin, the local ball player, at the Polo Grounds yesterday afternoon, when in the two games betwen the Phillies and the Giants, he pounded out four hits and also played a great all-around game. Jack has only been with the Quakers since last Friday and has played shortstop in four games. He was traded by Boston for John Devore, the former Giant player.

In the first game yesterday Jack approached the plate four times to look at Fromme who was pitching for the Giants. He drew a pass once and the other three times hit safely for singles. His team made only four runs and his three hits were responsible for three of the runs. The local boy also made three putouts and three assists without a single misplay. He also figured in two double plays. The Phillies lost the first game in the ninth when Doyle hit a home run clout with two on, putting the Giants one run ahead. The score was 5 to 4.

Jack cracked out one hit in the second contest off Tesreau's delivery, out of four trips to the plate. He had one putout and one assist to his credit as well as a stolen base. The Phillies won easily by the score of 7 to 2. A large number of local fans witnessed the games yesterday and gave Jack due credit for his performances.

PLAYGROUND BALL LEAGUE OPENS WITH NO-HIT GAME

The invincible Laurel team, winners of the Parker Field Junior Baseball League race last year, took the opening game of the season's schedule yesterday by defeating the Red Stars by the score of 4 to 3. The game was well played but the lead that the Laurels obtained in the first inning was too much for the Stars.

The credit for the victory goes to Butler, the Laurel twirler, who held his opponents in hand at all times and held them hitless for the entire game. In the first inning the Laurels hit the opposing pitcher hard and scored three runs by clean swatting. The winning tally came in the sixth. The Stars scored one run in the first, sixth and seventh frames. The score:

WILL LIDDY STICK WITH THE YORKERS?

Tri-State Club Goes Broke and Lancaster Takes the the Franchise.

At a meeting of the business men and baseball fans, of York, Pa., last night, it was definitely decided to transfer the baseball franchise from that city to Lancaster. Many of the prominent men of the city have worked to raise money to keep the team in York, but all efforts have proved futile.

The president of the club and several other men are trying to raise a fund to pay off the players before the trade is made.

The club is on the circuit of the Tri-State League and has been playing to poor crowds all season which has been largely responsible for us failure. Eugene Lidgate, of Fawwood, is a member of this team and does the majority of the catching. Whether he will stay with the club or not is not known. The York team now has a fine hold on the cellar position of the league.

MORE TEAMS WANTED.

Two more teams are wanted to complete the Parker Field Junior Baseball League that is now under way. The teams that are now enlisted in the schedule are the Laurels, Red Stars, Plainfield Juniors, Laramie A. C. and the B. A. C. Another club of like strength would like to be heard from by Supervisor George W. Wriston, at Parker Field.

SAY WRONG MAN GOT SECOND PRIZE

East End Club Claim That Their Man, Fiore, Was the Winner.

The East End Athletic Club, of this city, has decided to enter a protest with the Playground Commission regarding the five-mile road race that was held in connection with the athletic meet at Parker Field last Saturday afternoon. The members and officers of that club claim that their man Fiore, crossed the line second to Ralph Singerling, of the T. A. B. S. Club, who was the winner. The judges at the finish awarded second place to V.Douis, of the Ozanam A.A.

The local club banks its protest on the fact that it has witnesses who saw Fiore go around the course three times after entering the field from Randolph road. They admit that he went through the gate into the field in fifth place, but claim that he passed all the leaders except Singerling, the winner, before the judges were passed for the second time at the finish. As it stands now, Fiore will receive one loving cup, but should the club win its protest he would come into possession of two more.

Many critics claim that it was bad judgment to have the runners lap the course twice before finishing and this would have been unwise under some circumstances, but the officials could not arrange the course any other way and have the runners cover territory with such good running roads as the runners in this race encountered. Whether the Playground Commission will uphold the protest or not remains to be seen, but this would be a hard thing to do as the proclaimed winner of this place is already the possessor of the trophy.

THESE KIDS ARE NOT AFRAID OF COPPERS

Youngsters Defy the Minions of the Law to Chase Them Around a Ball Field.

The following challenge was received at this office this morning from the manager of the Laurel A. C.:

"The fast and famous Laurel A. C., winners of last year's Parker Field Junior League race, desire, through their manager, Maurice A. Roddy, to challenge the representatives of the local police force to a game of baseball to be played when and where the officers shall decide

"A game of this sort would, doubtless, be a stellar attraction, not only because of its oddity, but because of the local league enthusiasm it would arouse.

"Now, officers, hasten to communicate with the Laurel manager, M. Roddy, of 963 Arlington avenue, this city.

"Signed,
"M. A. RODDY."

DAILY PRESS TO BULLETIN RESULTS OF BOUT TONIGHT

Freddie Welsh and Willie Richie will fight in London tonight for the lightweight championship of the world. This is the first title fight that the Londoners have had in eighteen years and it is surprising the small amount of interest that is being taken over this event.

The farcical bout of last week put the ban on this sport to the Britishers. The odds are 6 to 4 on Welsh.

LIDGATE BATS WELL IN SWATFEST GAME

Eugene Lidgate, Fanwood's ball player who is with the York team of the Tri-State League, increased his batting average against Wilmington yesterday when he pounded out two hits and scored one run when his team took their opponents into camp by the score of 15 to 0.

This is the high score for the league this year. "Liddy" also had one putout to his credit. Every member of the team except one man hit safely and all but one of those made at least two safeties. The team made twenty hits altogether.

SWIMMERS' CORNER

Recognition of the National Women's Life Saving League as the proper body to control water sports for the sex seems to be coming. The management of the Brighton Beach baths has asked and secured sanction from the league authorities to hold the Metropolitan five-mile championship for women, and it will be staged on July 16 on the Rockaway Inlet to Brighton Beach course. Among the fair natators who will bid for the title will be Mrs. Lillian Howard, the present holder, and the Misses Edna Cole, Martha Hogstadt and Millie Bartildes, who figured in last year's championship event. The race will be confined to members of the league, but this in no way means that any one wishing to compete will be excluded. Those anxious to bid for honors may do so by securing membership, just as any man wanting to take part in A. A. U. races registers with the association. All new recruits will be made welcome provided they are bona fide amateurs, but it is the intention of the committee in charge to standardize aquatics for women by eliminating the professional element and holding all important events under the auspices of the league.

Jim Sterret, the dean of American swimming enthusiasts, has accepted the post of amateur coach to the Philadelphia Y. M. C. A., western branch, and believes he will be able to turn out a strong racing squad.

Another of Pittsburgh's clubs, the Iroquois A. A., has put a swimming team in the water and counts upon soon figuring in the competitive field.

Gordon Davidson, water polo coach at California University, was among those saved from the wreck of the Empress of Ireland. He jumped when the collision occurred, but it was some time before he was picked up, and in speaking of his rescue he laid stress on the fact that only ability in swimming enabled him to stay afloat until found, pointing out that very few of those who were not expert swimmers were saved.

Girl swimmers of California University will have a pool of their own in which to practice and compete within a few weeks. It is a pretentions natatorium, with glass roof, a tank measuring 45x85 feet, and every modern convenience in the way of showers, steam and hot rooms, massage and resting accommodations, etc.

The fair sex is becoming quite keen about water sports. One hears from everywhere of interest growing. Recently George Corsan, the great advocate of the crawl, was invited to give a week's course at the Y. W. C. A. in Kansas City, and several hundred women reported to be taught the latest methods, although a number of them could already swim.

Henry F. Sullivan, of Lowell, Mass., is making plans to attempt once more the crossing of the English Channel this summer, and, judging from the great showing he made last August over the classic course, he should have an excellent chance to accomplish the feat. In the trial he was handicapped by a severe storm, which made the water so rough that the captain of the piloting craft eventually refused to go any further and forced Sullivan to abandon the test. At that time he had been swimming for more than ten hours and was within about five miles of the French coast, having covered over thirty miles by the route the tides obliged him to follow. It is interesting o learn that Harry Gibson, a writer for the Graphic, who accompanied the Easterner, thinks Sullivan has every qualification to succeed. He says of him: "Although I have been with most of the channel swimmers in their attempts I have never seen a more promising candidate. After witnessing the splendid fight against the angry channel, and it certainly was angry on the day of his great swim, I do not hesitate to state that he did better than any one I ever saw, and that I believe he will knock hours off Burgess' time if he finds anything like favorable conditions in his next trial. I feel confident that he is fully equal to the task before him."

Despite the loss of its clubhouse by fire, the Missouri A. C., of St. Louis, will have its swimming team in competition during the present outdoor season. Tom Whitaker is back in St. Louis to coach them, and they will train under him in the open air municipal pool, claimed to be the largest in the world.

The Women's Life Saving League is making arrangements to hold a marathon swim which promises to be one of the best events of the outdoor season. Distance swimming has become very popular with local mermaids, and they have acquired remarkable ability. A large field and keen competition are anticipated.

Bud Goodwin, the giant Mercury Foot swimmer, who holds the American one-mile record, has started work in the open and intends to defend his championship title. As usual it is being predicted that he will meet his waterloo at the hands of the young newcomers, but the same old prophecy has been heard yearly for a decade and not been fulfilled. Of course, the perpetual champion is bound evenually to find his peer, but he is still in the ring better than ever, and he may be counted upon to put up a great battle when his laurels are at stake. Bud has now worn the national championship crown for fourteen years.

Charles Durborow, of Philadelphia, who established a new record wo weeks ago for the seventeen-mile stretch between Chester and Philadelphia, covering the distance in five hours and 35 minutes, equalled the figures last week in attempting to lower them. Strong winds and choppy water obtained throughout the swim.

Paul Roberts, of Yale, the intercollegiate champion at 50 and 100 yards, will train in New York during the summer months and take part in all of the important meets. He proposes to bid for both the 440 and 880-yard Metropolitan and national titles.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

William D. Murray, of West Ninth street, will conduct the prayer service at Hope chapel tomorrow evening. Rev. T. M. Ironsides, of Morristown, will occupy the pulpit at both services next Sunday.

Rev. Dr. John S. Zelie, pastor of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, will preach for the last time prior to his vacation on next Sunday morning.

Rev. C. W. F. Attlee, of Sherman avenue, will occupy the pulpit of the Park Avenue Baptist church next Sunday.

PROHIBITION CONVENTION.

Springfield, Ill. July 7.— Arrangements have been completed for the State convention of the Prohibition party of Illinois, which will meet here tomorrow for a two-day session. The convention will nominate full State, Congressional, Senatorial and couny tickets, and make arrangements to have the tickets placed on the November ballots by petition. The fact that at the last election the Prohibitionists did not poll a sufficient number of votes to entitle it to operate under the primary election law makes it necessary for the party candidates to get on the ballot by petition.

DEMOCRATS TO CONFER.

Harrisburg, Pa., July 7.—Leaders of the Democratic party in Pennsylvania are rounding up here for the meeting and conference to be held tomorrow in response to the call issued by Chairman Morris of the State Central Committee. A proposal for fusion with the Washington party on the State ticket and plans to increase the Democratic representation in Pennsylvania's congressional delegation are leading subjects slated for consideration at the meeting.

BIG VESSEL LAUNCHED.

Philadelphia, Pa., July 7.—In the presence of a large gathering of spectators the steamship Great Northern, was successfully launched today, at the yards of the Cramp Shipbuilding Company. The steamship is being built for the Great Northern Railway and Steamship Company, and will be one of the largest as well as the finest vessels in the service of that company. She is 525 feet long and 65 feet wide and will cost $2,500,000.

WHITMAN ADDRESSES LAWYERS

Cape Point, O., Juy 7.—Juvenile courts, the workmen's compensation laws and a variety of other topics of live public interest are to be discussed at the annual meeting of the Ohio Star Bar Association, which met here today and began a three days' session. The annual address before the association is to be delivered by District Attorney Charles S. Whitman, of New York.

NEGRO EDUCATIONAL CONGRESS

Oklahoma City, Okla., July 7.—Delegates from many States answered the roll call here today at the opening of the fifth annual meeting of the Negro National Education Congress. The proceedings of the congress will continue four days and will include addresses by a number of educators of wide prominence.

POSTPONE MEETING.

The Plainfield Branch of the New Jersey Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage has postponed its meting announced for this afternoon, owing to the fact that so many of the members have gone away for the summer.

—If you have a really desirable house or apartment to rent, your "ad" will constitute GOOD NEWS to some anxious people in this city.

MARIE GANZ.

Sweet Marie Ganz was not one of the pilgrims that went to Tarrytown in the interest of those who were to be tried there for recent disturbances. She dropped out in a fit of pique. She complained that her friends neglected her while she languished in the Queens county jail for the sake of the cause. "I am through with the whole bunch," said Marie. "I am going to the country for a rest."

WARBURG IS TO QUIT RESERVE BOARD RACE

Refuses to Tolerate Badgering by Senators.

Washington, July 7.—The difficulties encountered by President Wilson in his efforts to make the new federal reserve banking and currency system a going concern were emphasized in two different ways. There is reason to believe that the president received a letter from Paul M. Warburg of New York asking that his nomination for membership on the federal reserve board be withdrawn from the senate, and testimony given today before the senate banking and currency committee by Thomas D. Jones of Chicago, another of the president's nominees, in regard to his connection with the International Harvester company and the so called zinc trust is certain to bring opposition that may cause the rejection of Mr. Jones' name.

It is understood that Mr. Warburg wrote to President Wilson that he did not care to undergo the humiliation of a prospective attack on account of his business affiliations when his nomination came to be considered by the banking and currency committee and the senate and that he therefore felt obliged to request that the president withdraw his name. At the White House officials said that they had no denial to make of the report. They declined to say anything further on the subject.

The understanding in official circles is that President Wilson will endeavor to persuade Mr. Warburg not to insist that his name be withdrawn from the senate. The president, it is said, has asked Mr. Warburg to come to Washington for consultation, and he intends to invite members of the banking and currency committee to a conference to discuss the cases of Mr. Warburg and Mr. Jones. He seems to be determined to make a vigorous effort to have both nominations confirmed.

BREAK BETWEEN MEXICAN GENERALS

Washington Hears That Carranza Offered Affront to Villa.

Washington, July 7.—Over night the Mexican situation seems to have shifted again. The administration went to bed last night with the belief that Generals Villa and Carranza had patched up their differences at their conference at Torreon. Today unofficial advices are to the effect that the Constitutionalist leaders, not only are further apart than ever, but that Gen. Carranza had offered a direct affront to Villa in dismissing General Felipe Angeles from the army. General Angeles was understood to be General Villa's choice for the provisional presidency.

Another feature of the so-called "peace parleys" at Torreon between the belligerent generals that is causing uneasiness is the elimination of the Maderos at the instance of General Carranza. It is recognized that the chief inspiration that has spurred General Villa on to his unchecked victories has been to avenge the death of the late President Madero. His closest advisers and friends have been the brothers and relatives of the murdered president.

The State Department fears also that the missing $5,000,000 in Constitutionalist currency that has gone astray somewhere between this city and its destination in Mexico, and which has been the subject of a court restraining order, has fallen into the hands of the Villa faction. It is believed the fighting general is preparing for an open break and that the funds were skillfully deflected from their proper channels and will be used to finance a counter-revolution.

The difficulty of communicating with its agents in Mexico still is worrying the department. The telegraph communication shows no improvement. The wires still are under the control of the various military commanders and the exchange of information between Washington and the government representatives across the border is almost impossible.

POLITICS AND POLITICIANS

The primary election in Missouri will be held August 4.

William F. Robertson has withdrawn from the contest for the Texas governorship.

Geo. H. Ellis, Mayor of Grand Rapids, is a candidate for the Progressive nomination for governor of Michigan.

A call has been issued for the Democratic State convention of Iowa, to assemble in the city of Council Bluffs, on July 23.

The conservative faction of the Republican party in Wisconsin has nominated Levy H. Bancroft as candidate for United States Senator.

The Democrats and Progressives, of Utah, have joined forces in the nomination of candidates for United States Senator and Representatives in Congress.

Mrs. A Caminetti, wife of the Commissioner-General of Immigration, may be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor, of California.

TO VISIT WARRENVILLE.

Dirk de Haas, of Warrenville, received a cablegram this morning from his nephew, John Pronk, of Rotterdam, Holland, stating that the latter would arrive in New York on board the Noordam next week. Mr. Pronk is well known in Warrenville where he lived for nine years with his uncle and is coming here from Holland to attend to some business interests.

Mr. de Haas is a well known horticulturist and makes a specialty of the importation of fancy foreign plants. He has gained wide recognition through his work along this line and is at present looking forward to the arrival of a number of rare specimens from Japan, China and several European and Asiatic countries.

PERSONAL.

Miss Avis Laing, of Fairview avenue, the borough, left today for Scranton, Pa., where she will spend the remainder of the month visiting friends and relatives.

Councilman and Mrs. Leighton Calkins, of Madison avenue, left today on an extended automobile trip which will take them through Massachusetts, Vermont and Maine.

WILL WED THIS EVENING.

Miss Zeta Bruce Voorhees, ward of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Rugg, of Mercer avenue, North Plainfield, and Frederick Van Hoesen, of Fanwood, will be married at 6 o'clock this evening at the home of the bride-elect. Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson will officiate.

By GEORGE RANDOLPH CHESTER

CHAPTER XI.

A Great Scheme.

"I WISH I were broke," declared Wallingford, looking gloomily down sunlit Broadway. "I've got back that house on the avenue for Fannie and laid in a couple of bales of bonds for her and the boy, and I've bought about everything that money will buy for a man who doesn't care to be a senator. The fun's all gone. What can I do with money anyhow?"

"You can buy me a drink," promptly responded Blackie Daw. "After that I'll hunt up somebody with money who feels like you do about it and sick you on to each other."

"I pass!" refused Wallingford emphatically. "You could show me a college professor, a sailor and a crooked bank cashier, all with money to invest, and my tongue wouldn't even moisten."

"Mine never will if you don't buy me that drink pretty soon," insisted Blackie. "They keep it right in here," and taking Wallingford's arm he whirled him about face and conducted him into the bar of the hotel in front of which they had been displaying their premature fall outfits.

They found their favorite corner occupied by a seedy looking, withered fat man and a dapperly dressed pie dyspeptic. Blackie, with a careless nod to the ex-fat man, whose clothing hung on him in festoons, was about to lead Wallingford to another padded corner, when the withered one hailed him.

"Hello, Blackie," he called in a voice that rasped with that huskiness that is bottled in bond. "I haven't seen you in a coon's age. Where have you been?"

"Sober, Dan," replied Blackie cheerfully.

"I've made it a business of a lifetime to cure that," asserted Dan. "Come and have something."

"I knew I'd get a drink some place," Blackie observed, stepping over to the table. "Mr. Sickels, meet my friend Jim Wallingford, better known to the police as J. Rufus."

"Glad to meet you, Mr. Wallingford," husked Mr. Sickels. "Mr. Wallingford, Mr. Dillon. Mr. Daw, Mr. Dillon. Now, gentlemen, what shall it be?" and he looked from one to the other with the exaggerated cheerfulness of a willing but necessarily infrequent spender.

"Vichy," ordered Blackie, who talked about alcohol much more than he indulged in it.

"Is this the Mr. Dillon of the Dillon Department Stores company?" inquired Wallingford pleasantly, after echoing Blackie's order for refreshments.

Mr. Dillon, having also ordered vichy, to the keen regret of Sickels, who saw that he would be compelled to drink his whisky alone, moved his ash tray to the right of his empty milk glass and his milk glass to the left of his cigarette box, then carefully closed up the gaps among the three articles before he replied.

"I am that Dillon," he admitted.

"I've been greatly interested in your issue of popular stock in the Dillon company," pursued Wallingford. "What success are you having with it?"

Mr. Dillon restored his toys to their original position. "Excellent," he replied, passing his long thin fingers over his brow. "The public is taking to it very kindly."

"It's a great scheme," said Wallingford admiringly. "People who buy five shares or even one share of the stock are bound to remain steady customers of your store."

Mr. Dillon took a cigarette from his box, lighted a match, laid down the cigarette and blew out the match. "They're earning a profit on their own expenses," he asserted, quoting from his latest advertisements. "The shares are guaranteed to yield a minimum of 5 per cent dividends," and he thrummed upon the table with the fingers of both hands. "I'm really very proud of the idea. I don't think I slept a wink for two weeks while I was figuring it out. I don't sleep very well anyhow," and at last Wallingford understood the tensely drawn eyebrows and the compressed drooping lips. "The beauty of it is that it adds so many safe credit customers to our books, and, of course, credit purchasers are much more generous buyers than those who pay cash." And with a nervous little laugh he again shifted and rearranged his playthings.

"I see," returned Wallingford, eyeing the man's nervous movements in fascination. "It is a wonderful scheme. A customer with one share of stock has $100 monthly credit, and if the bills are not paid the stock, and I presume the interest, becomes forfeited. In the meantime you can loan out their money for the 5 per cent you are bound to pay them."

"Or use it in the extension of the business," amended Dillon, now increasing the tempo of his rearrangements to such a degree that Wallingford found himself jerking his own right heel upon the floor in sheer nervous sympathy, while Blackie Daw was tapping his finger nail against his teeth. Dan Sickels alone remained placid. He still had left some of his glass of whisky. "The Dillon stores are to have a new home in the near future, the largest concern of the sort in the United States. Do you suppose, Sickels, that I might interest your friends in some preferred bonds of the increased corporation?"

"Don't let's talk about investments," protested Blackie, glancing over his shoulder in mock fear. "I'm afraid my wife might guess I was thinking about it."

"How about you, Mr. Wallingford?" asked Dillon, with a smile.

"I'm all tied up, Mr. Dillon," replied Wallingford suavely. "Even if I were not I'm tired. I want a vacation. I don't intend to engage in business of any sort for the next six months at least."

"I'll bet a pair of pink suspenders that you do," offered Blackie suddenly.

"I'll take you," agreed Wallingford, laughing. "I'll even give you the odds of a pink silk undershirt if you catch me engaged in any money making occupation during the next six months."

Mr. Dillon looked at his watch and hastily arose. "If you don't mind I think I'll send you a prospectus of the new Dillon company," he remarked, beating a tattoo upon the head of his cane with his fingers.

"Wait just a moment, please," begged Blackie, producing a little red memorandum book and a fountain pen. "I want witnesses to this. I bet Wallingford a pair of pink suspenders against the same and a pink silk undershirt, winner's selection, that he does engage in some money making business within the next six months. You will remember this, gentlemen?"

"I shall," assented Dillon, laughing. "And if you'll come over to the store when the bet is decided I'll be your clerk and let the loser have the goods at cost price."

"Thank you," said Blackie. "I'll just add that to the memorandum of the bet," and he wrote it down.

They all breathed a sigh of relief when Dillon had gone.

"I'd have had the St. Vitus twostep in ten minutes if that man had stayed here," announced Blackie. "He reminds me of one of those quivering frog toys that you hold in your hands to see if your nerves are steady."

"He'll end in a sanatorium," observed Wallingford. "If he ever succeeds in building his solid block retail store he'll make a quicker failure than the full dress cafe or the New theater."

"No! Do you think so?" inquired Sickels eagerly. "He wants to buy my theater. It's the only important building in the block he wants to tear down for the site of his new store."

"Mr. Sickels is the owner of the Avon theater, where Violet Bonnie made her first big hit," explained Blackie.

"The Avon!" returned Wallingford. "I should think you'd be glad to get a good offer for that, Mr. Sickels. It hasn't been doing a paying business for years, has it?"

"I should say not," confessed Sickels. "It was dark all last season. But I don't feel like selling it for $200,000 in the stock of a company that's likely to swell up and burst. Ten years ago I was offered $400,000 cash and wouldn't take it. Now it keeps me so broke that I'm a rich man and take a holiday if I have $7 in my pocket."

"Why didn't you sell?" was Wallingford's natural inquiry.

"I was making more money and scattering it the full length of the Rue de Mazuma."

"You were wishing awhile ago that you were broke, Jim," Blackie reminded him. "You ought to try Dan's stunt. He wouldn't sell his house of hits to either the syndicate or the independents, so they made an object lesson of him with rotten bookings. Would Dan's Irish blood stand for that? No! He leased the house to individual producers and put over eleven straight flivvers. Now it's the hoodooed Avon, and it can't even put a moving picture show across."

A boy came through the bar just then, paging Mr. Daw, and that gentleman, after hurrying to the telephone, came back, laughing. "You're to come out to the house for dinner, Jim," he advised Wallingford. "Fannie's there, and Violet won't let her go home."

"Give my regards to Violet Bonnie, won't you?" begged Sickels. "The hit she made in 'The Pink Canary' was what put the Avon on its feet, and I never had a star in the house that made so little trouble or was such an all around good fellow."

* * * * * * *

"After you get past the age for mash notes the mail brings you nothing but trouble," complained Violet Bonnie as she returned to the library of the new Daw residence, where Mrs. Wallingford wandered idly from case to case inspecting the shining new backs of standard books which never had been opened and which probably never would be. "Why, Fannie, right after I made my first big hit in 'The Pink Canary' they had to give me six pigeonholes in the stage entrance mail box, and I had to hire a secretary to open my mail and send the presents back. Now if I get a letter it's either from a dressmaker or an old time chum who wants me to steer her daughter on to the stage or warn her away from it."

Mrs. Wallingford smiled quietly. "I don't see why either class of letters should annoy you," she observed. "You have good dressmakers, and you don't object to paying the bills, and I should think it would be a pleasant task to encourage budding genius or to warn weak girls away from the stage."

"I don't know why in either case I should nurse and bottle feed and bring up by hand a grouch against the stage," retorted Violet, massaging her trace of an extra chin. "It brought me some perfectly good husbands besides Blackie. Say, I hate my old chums anyhow."

"You're making your nose red, Vi," warned Mrs. Wallingford, with a hilarious laugh.

"Honest, am I?" and Violet hurried to the mirror. "I am too fat to get mad," she confessed, "but it certainly does get my Angora for girls I used to know to write me that they have grown up daughters. It makes me feel so old, and I won't be old!"

"That's it, is it? Who has been reminding you of your only enemy?"

"Martha Tripp," snapped Violet Bonnie. "Martha was my schoolteacher up in Squamosett. She wore corkscrew curls on both sides of her face, but she ought to have worn 'em in front, for she was so ugly that she had to get up in the middle of the night to rest from it. If I remember her Melissa, she was a gangle shanked brat with freckles and a snub nose. Melissa is now in the flower of youth, this letter says, and all her mother wants me to do is to show her to a manager. Melissa is supposed to do the rest. The balance of the good news is that Melissa is on her way here right now. She will be among us 'probably by the time this humble missive intrudes itself upon me.' Martha means by the time I get the letter. Honest, Fannie, I never did a mean thing to any living creature in my life."

"I think you must be lacing too tightly, Vi," remonstrated Fannie mildly, "or else you've had an awfully bad day of it."

"I can put my whole arm down inside any place," defiantly asserted Violet. "I have had a rotten day, though, and it takes just this to finish it off. Your dropping in was the only lucky thing that has happened to me."

"I'm glad I did come over," returned Mrs. Wallingford. "Possibly I can help you with Melissa Tripp. To begin with, why not show her to the managers?"

"I haven't any too many friends among them now," explained Violet. "Gracious heavens, there she is!"

The ring at the bell, however, proved to be only Mr. Daw and Mr. Wallingford.

"I see you're getting a new maid," observed Blackie as he inspected the contents of a cellaret that had been ingeniously built in among the bookcases. "I'll guess I'll have rye, Jim. How about you? We have so many servants now, Vi, that we don't get any service."

"I don't know anything about a new maid," his wife returned. "Blackie, your scheme of having a cellaret in every room in the house was all right, but you'll have to get combination locks. It's no fun to find three servants half soused in different rooms all on the same day. What about this maid?"

"We just passed her coming up the drive," replied Blackie. "Say when, Jim. She had a paper alligator skin suit case in each hand and was bringing father along to see that the place is strictly moral."

"I'm afraid my machine splashed a little splushing on father and maybe on daughter," confessed Wallingford regretfully. "Father was a real nice little man, and I think he apologized, but daughter has a snub nose, and I could see it work."

"Don't drink that, Blackie!" commanded Violet, taking the glass of rye from his hand. "I need it. I know your maid by the snub nose. She's Melissa."

"She looked it every inch," responded Blackie.

"If that was Melissa, have another. You'll need two. By the way, who is Melissa?"

"Honest, is she that awful?" wailed Violet.

"She's worse, if anything," answered Wallingford with a chuckle. "She has a round flat wafer of rouge on each cheek bone and wears a green hobble skirt trimmed with yellow beads."

Violet brightened. "I guess I get a laugh, anyhow," she decided. "But who's father? Old Man Tripp was awful dead when I knew Martha."

From the rear hall there came a faint buzz, and the four of them waited in silence until a glassy eyed butler appeared, openly grinning, to announce:

"Miss Tripp and Professor Flopsie."

In this design we have a short kimona coat suitable for taffeta, linen, gabardine, or one of the heavy cottons. One of the newest and most attractive fads for summer is to wear a white cloth coat with a black taffeta or moire skirt; it is rather odd and striking, but pleasing and becoming at the same time. Often these white coats are trimmed with a white soutache braid worked out in a pattern on collar, cuffs and girdle.

This design, No. 8203, would be very attractive in cloth and soutache design could be worked on collar, cuffs and belt as illustrated. For size 36, 1¼ yards of 42-inch material is needed for this coat. Pattern comes in five sizes, 34 to 42.

This is a Perfect Pattern.

Be sure to give right size measuring over the fullest part of the bust for dimensions.

It may be obtained by filling out the coupon and enclosing fifteen cents in stamps or coin to the Pattern Department of this paper.

SAGE TEA TURNS GRAY HAIR DARK

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair.

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray, streaked and looks dry, wispy and scraggly, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the tonic; you can get from any drug store a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," ready to use. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color, thickness and lustre of your hair and remove dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy, lustrous and abundant. —Adv.

14555

Durable underwear is not that which is elaborately trimmed with lace, for after a few washings the delicate threads of the lace break and spoil the appearance of the garment. Those, which are trimmed with hand embroidery, last much longer, as this trimming withstands the laundering and often outwears the garment itself.

This attractive scalloped edge is suitable for embroidering underwear, dresses, sheets, pillow-cases, bureau-scarfs, sideboard-covers and table-linen. It is 2½ inches wide and 3 yards and 4 corners are contained in the pattern.

Border 14555, illustrated on drawers 7253, should be heavily padded and covered with buttonhole-stitch. The dots may be developed in solid work and eyelets.

Some Cookery Suggestions

PIQUANT CHICKEN DISHES.

DINNER.
Tomato Soup. Toasted Crackers.
Chicken Goulash.
New Potatoes With Parsley.
Asparagus Salad.
Huckleberry Pie. Coffee.

THE recipes given here are a few novel ways of cooking chicken. These dishes are more or less highly flavored and suitable for luncheon or tea.

May Be Served For Luncheon.

Deviled Chicken Legs.—Singe the legs slightly, put them into a stock pot and boil for ten minutes. Remove them to a dish, cool thoroughly and season with salt, black pepper and a little cayenne, Worcestershire sauce and ground mustard. Now roll them well together, pass one after another into sifted breadcrumbs and broil them over a moderate fire for four minutes on each side. Arrange on a hot dish, pour over them a little chopped parsley and serve at once.

Chicken Goulash.—Boil fowl, then remove bones, put bones back into the liquor and cook them twenty minutes. Remove bones, cut chicken into small bits, all except the giblets, then put the finely cut chicken into the gravy, adding half a can of tomatoes, six small onions or three large ones, salt, pepper, half a teaspoonful of sugar, one spoonful of butter. Cook about thirty-five minutes or until onion is done. Have ready a dozen slices of buttered toast. Pour goulash over toast and serve hot.

Unique Method.

Fricasseed Chicken.—Chop half a pound of fat bacon and fry it with a dozen button onions, a dozen button mushrooms, two carrots diced and two ounces of butter. When lightly colored add a full grown chicken which has been cut up as for fricassee and stewed half an hour in some broth or boiling water. Add a blade of mace, a glass of white wine or sherry and salt and pepper to taste. Cook about forty minutes or until tender and serve hot.

Fried Chicken.—Clean and joint a fat fowl and fry it in two ounces of lard, oil or butter, an ounce of ham and an onion chopped fine. Add a quart of good broth or consomme, a pint of stewed or canned tomatoes, a dozen okra sliced, a cupful of washed rice, a green pepper shredded and seeds removed. Season to taste, cover closely and cook about one and a half hours. Do not add the okra if canned vegetables are used until the stew is nearly done.

The Lilies Grew Tall and Stately.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

The Patriotic Lilies Prepare For The Fourth.

THE lovely tall lilies in the garden had just begun to blossom. Their fragrance filled the house as the soft breeze carried it through the open windows.

"The lilies were having a long talk together last night," said daddy.

"Oh, do tell us what they were talking about," asked Evelyn. "I wondered if they ever talked, as they always seem too stately and too dignified to talk."

"They are stately and dignified even when they are talking," replied daddy. "But it seems to me that you are using pretty big words for a little girl your size."

"But, daddy," chimed in Jack, "you must tell us what the lilies talked about. I would love to hear."

"You see," continued daddy, "there are just six of them out in the garden now. But there are about twenty more to come out. So the six ones which were out talked very, very softly, so as not to awaken the ones still sleeping. And that is why they talked in the evening, for if they had talked during the day time, with the aid of the sun, the others would surely have awakened.

"'I think,' said one of the six lilies, 'that we are very lucky.'

"'Why?' asked a second.

"'Don't you know?' questioned a third. 'It's because we come out just at the Fourth of July season. By tomorrow a great many more of us will be awake, and the next day still more, and then—then—when the wonderful Fourth of July comes we will be wide awake, and oh, so big and straight!'

"'Yes,' said the first. 'And while we can see the stars and stripes flying from the houses our roots are in the soil, which is free!'

"'While the smell of gunpowder is being enjoyed by thousands of little boys and girls, we lilies wave about. Our fragrance reaches them, too, and we are blended with the gunpowder.'

"'Tomorrow we will have to begin and awaken the others,' said a fourth.

"'Yes,' said a fifth, 'that is true.'

"'In the meantime,' said the sixth lily, who had been listening to the others' talk all this time, 'let's sing our patriotic songs.'

"And they all began. They waved about singing very softly, so that people passing could not have heard more than a very faint rustle. But they sang all the songs that belonged to the free earth in which they were proudly rooted.

STATE LAND BANK LAW NOW URGED

Superintendent of New York Banks Addresses Meeting.

PUBLIC NEEDS REAL MEN

Atlantic City, N. J., July 7.—"Never before in our history, in the turmoil between Socialism and frenzied finance," said Eugene Lamb Richards of New York, state superintendent of banks, addressing the thirteenth annual convention of the National Bank Association of Supervisors of State Banks here, "has there ever been a louder call for real men in public life, men who will not act from expediency, but from conviction, unmoved by passing clamor or personal ambition."

Superintendent Richards' subject was "The New Banking Law of New York." He said the law "stands a monument to the patriotism and sincerity of the men who framed it and secured its passage" and advocated that a provision be inserted in it for the organization of a state land bank.

"When I consider the general topic of the afternoon, 'Legislation,' he said, 'it has about as cheerful a sound to the business men of my state as the thought of castor oil to the boy who has been nearly physicked to death. The small business man has had so much regulation that nothing can shock him. He has been tied in so many ways that he is surprised when he can move his little finger.

"Some men are even beginning to fear that at the present rate of legislative progress owners of buildings must be prepared to paint them blue, green or yellow, according to what the statute establishes as the healthiest color for tenants. Many an employer is so thoroughly resigned that if an employee in his factory should get blood poisoning from sharp finger nails he would expect to pay for compulsory manicuring of all his employees."

Superintendent Richards said that this has been the era of publicity, and it should be made the era of sincerity.

FIRST AVIATOR FIREMAN.

Discovers Blaze While Up 500 Feet and Goes Down and Helps.

Kingsland, N. J., July 7.—This place is extending hearty congratulations to a man who, so far as is known, is the first volunteer aviator fireman in the world. At any rate, as far as Kingsland is concerned, he's the first airman who ever discovered a fire from the clouds and went right down and helped out, assisted by the local vamps and regulars.

The volunteer fireman aviator is Fred C. Hild, who has been giving exhibitions in a monoplane over the old Secaucus race track, six miles from here. Hild was up 500 feet or more, having flown about four miles from Secaucus when he glanced down and saw smoke and flames pouring out of P. H. Thomas' two story frame house about two miles distant.

WOMAN SAVED BY WILSON.

Former Servant to Leave Prison and Get New Life Start.

Trenton, N. J., July 7.—Through the efforts of President Wilson a woman who was a servant in his home ten years ago will be released from the Mercer county jail, to which she was committed on a charge of habitual drunkenness. Her name is being withheld at the request of the president, who desires to give her a new start in life.

Her predicament was discovered by a former Princeton schoolteacher, Miss Katharine Welsh, who wrote to the president. Governor Fielder of New Jersey was asked by the president to investigate the case. The governor has ordered the county authorities to release the woman.

BRIEF STATE NOTES.

Richard Cleveland Campbell of Caldwell, who was a schoolmate of President Grover Cleveland when the latter lived there as a boy, celebrated his eightieth birthday.

Prophecy made at the supper table by members of the family that he would be killed unless he was more careful became a fact a few minutes later when Daniel Coggins, thirty, of Orange was struck by a Lackawanna passenger train.

Governor Fielder and Edward B. Grossecup, chairman of the Democratic state committee, are expected to come to an agreement today relative to the appointment of the Democratic members of the Hudson county board of elections.

When Postmaster William P. Ellett arrived at the postoffice at Branchville he found the interior in disorder and the following sign painted on the back of a calendar hung over the safe: "Have a heart! What's this place—a kid's toy bank? Never keep pennies; they weigh too much."

BURNS RE-ENACTS BAILEY MURDER

Famous Detective Trying to Solve Freeport Mystery.

STAGES THE DEATH SCENE

Arrest of Woman Is Expected Shortly. Mrs. Carman's Story Is Contradicted by Women Who Claim She Was Downstairs.

Freeport, N. Y., July 7.—The announcement that William Burns, the famous detective, will try to solve the mysterious killing of Mrs. Louise Bailey created a big sensation here. Mr. Burns started immediately by reenacting the murder with Dr. Edwin Carman, Mrs. Carman and a score of detectives. It was more exciting than a thrilling movie.

The celebrated detective took the part of the assassin, creeping among the hemlocks and crawling, pistol in hand, to the window of Dr. Carman's office through which Mrs. Bailey was shot. A Burns operative personated Mrs. Bailey and stood with Dr. Carman in the doctor's office. Mrs. Carman remained in her bedroom, where she says she was when Mrs. Bailey was murdered, and Burns detectives in the anteroom of the office attempted to see and hear all that George Golder, Hazel Coombes and other patients who waited there last Tuesday night have testified to.

The reproduction of the circumstances of the murder was suddenly planned and carried out by Mr. Burns after he had talked with District Attorney Smith and Sheriff Pettit. It was a surprise to everybody here and caused more excitment in Freeport than has been displayed since the night of the murder. What practical purposes was accomplished hasn't been explained.

The presence here of the detective and eight of his operatives is taken to mean that up to now at least the local authorities had not been able to secure tangible evidence against a woman. They have made every effort to show that it was a woman who killed Mrs. Bailey, but nothing has resulted save a scrap or two of circumstantial evidence. The district attorney and the sheriff are at no pains to conceal their desire to have the case in the hands of the grand jury at Mineola on Thursday.

Among the striking developments that came in the mystery surrounding the death of Mrs. Bailey were the statements made at the inquest by women who saw Mrs. Bailey enter the physician's office. These witnesses were Hazel Coombes and Hannah Kahn, who had gone to consult Dr. Carman.

Contradicts Mrs. Carman.

These two women said that Mrs. Bailey showed a familiarity with her surroundings when she entered the office. Relatives of Mrs. Bailey testified, on the other hand, that they knew of no friendliness between the woman who was slain and the physician in whose company she was at the time.

The women also testified that they saw Mrs. Carman in the doctor's office at the time when she had said she was upstairs in bed.

These other disclosures also stood out prominently:

A box containing cartridges of 38 calibre—the size of the bullet that killed Mrs. Bailey—was found in the attic of the Carman home.

The testimony of Celia Coleman, kitchen girl for the Carmans, showed that Mrs. Carman had a lawyer actively working in her behalf on the morning after the murder.

This same girl signed a statement at the instance of Mrs. Carman's lawyer on the morning after Mrs. Bailey was slain. She did not read this statement, nor was it read to her.

The girl at first denied and then admitted that Mrs. Carman was in the room when she talked with the lawyer.

IF YOU'RE ILL, EAT SAND.

Indiana Politicians Out of Jobs Recommend the Remedy.

Muncie, Ind., July 7.—George W. Cromer, former representative in congress; John N. Fitzgibbon, former assistant state factory inspector, and Harry W. Long, former prosecuting attorney, say that they have been cured completely of their ills by eating sand. They had stomach trouble and tried sand as an experiment.

"The sand is not eaten as food, but as something to aid the digestion of food," explained Fitzgibbon in dilating on his discovery. "Chickens and turkeys and other fowls do the same thing. That gave us the idea."

WILSON WILL TAKE SEA TRIP

President to Have a Good Rest Latter Part of This Month.

Washington, July 7.—Fagged out by the strain of a protracted session of congress and the nervous tension incident to the Mexican troubles, President Wilson probably will take a lengthy sea trip the latter part of this month.

While the extent of the voyage is not finally determined, it is probable the cruise will be made on some vessel larger than the Mayflower.

MISS VOORHEES CHARMING BRIDE

Weds Frederick Van Hoesen at Home of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Rugg.

RECEPTION FOLLOWS

Double Ring Ceremony Performed by Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson—Couple Will Reside in Borough After a Trip.

Miss Zeta Bruce Voorhees, daughter of David Voorhees, of Anita, Iowa, and ward of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin H. Rugg, of Mercer avenue, the borough, and Frederick Van Hoesen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen G. Van Hoesen, of Fanwood, were married at 6 o'clock, last night, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rugg. Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, pastor of the First M. E. church, performed a double ring ceremony in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends.

Miss Voorhees wore a gown of white crepe meteor, with pearl trimmings. She wore a tulle veil and carried a shower bouquet of lilies-of the-valley and white roses. She was attended by Miss Elsie Hille, of this city, whose gown was of white lace over rose satin. She carried a bouquet of pink roses. The best man was Edward Van Hoesen, brother of the bridegroom. Mildred Smith, of Orange, was flower girl. She was dressed in white and carried a basket of daisies.

While the wedding march was being played by Miss Helen Swackhamer of Dunellen, the bridal party descended the stairway and entered the parlor through a reception room, in which there was an aisle formed of white satin ribbon, where they met the officiating clergyman. After the ceremony congratulations were offered and supper was served.

Later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Van Hoesen, while the guests were admiring the handsome gifts received by the bride, slipped away in an automobile before they could be showered with rice. They will take a short trip and upon their return will make their home with Mr. and Mrs. Rugg.

The home was attractively decorated for the affair with roses and Southern smilax, the arrangement in the parlor being much admired. During the reception following the ceremony, Miss Phillips, of Hopewell, entertained the guests with several piano selections. The bride's gifts comprised many useful and pretty articles. One, a $2 bill to which was attached a note reading "for the first bag of flour," caused much amusement.

There were guests present at the wedding from New York, Somerville, Dunellen, Hopewell, the city and borough. The bride is well-known here where she has lived the greater part of her life and both she and Mr. Van-Hoesen have a large acquaintance. The latter is employed in the electric department of the Public Service Corporation.

SECOND OUTING TO SHORE LEAVES HERE TOMORROW

The second excursion of the year to go from this city to Asbury Park and Ocean Grove will leave the North Avenue station at 8:15 o'clock tomorrow morning. The excursion will be in two sections of twelve cars each and there will be plenty of room for all pleasure seekers. The Sunday-schools include the First Baptist, Temple Baptist and South Plainfield Baptist.

Many of those who took advantage of last week's outing brought back such good reports that the crowd tomorrow will probably be a record breaker.

LINKE FOR ASSEMBLY.

F. Otto Linke, of this city, one of the Democratic candidates for the Assembly last fall, is being boomed again, this time in Elizabeth. Mr. Linke made a creditable showing last year, which was his first endeavor for any office. Those Democrats from the other end of the county who favor him are desirous of securing a strong ticket from a geographical viewpoint, they say.

EXPOSITION COINS.

Senator James E. Martine has introduced a bill before the upper house calling for the coinage of certain gold and silver coins in commemoration of the Panama-Pacific International Exposition and for other purposes. The bill was referred to Committee on Industrial Expositions.

Lake Hopatcong $1 Excursion

Every Sunday and holiday until September 7, incl., via New Jersey Central, leaves Plainfield 9:10, Dunellen 9:15, Bound Brook 9:24, Somerville 9:32 a. m.—Adv. 7 8-10

STEIGMAN WITNESS FINED $25 BY COURT

Her failure to appear in the United States District Court in response to a summons issued by the prosecution, cost Miss Bessie Schwartz, of New Brunswick, $25 when she was arraigned for an explanation this morning. Miss Schwartz was considered to have important evidence in her possession that would aid in convicting Louis Steigman, of this city, and David Steigman, of New Brunswick, accused of the concealment of assets and conspiracy by the State.

Miss Schwartz was a clerk in the employ of David Steigman in New Brunswick, and was familiar with the manner in which his business was conducted. She claimed to have been ill at the time her appearance was demanded and presented a doctor's certificate to that effect. Judge Haight reprimanded her for not sending word to the court and levied the fine for her negligence.

David Steigman was sentenced two weeks ago to serve one year and six months in the Caldwell Penetentiary and the local man got a sentence of one year and five days. Both are now out on appeal and the case will come up in the fall. Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., and William Newcorn, of this city, appeared at the trial as counsel for the creditors and evidence that had been gathered prior to the hearing did much to convict the Steigmans, one of whom conducted the Surprise Store on West Front street. They filed a petition in bankruptcy and were alleged to have concealed assets.

William Newcorn was in the United States District Court this morning examining witnesses regarding the "receivers' account." Six were heard today and the proceedings were adjourned until fall. Mr. Newcorn represented the trustee, Francis J. Blatz, of this city.

BUSINESS OF THE COUNTRY HAS NOTHING TO FEAR

Washington, July 8.—Big business of the country conducted along honest lines has nothing to fear from the present administration. In a remakable statement issued fom the White House, Pesident Wilson made this clear. He took for his text "Failue of the Senate thus far to confirm the appointment of Thomas B. Jones of Chicago, and Paul M. Warburg, of New York to the Federal Reserve Board." When asked to comment on Mr. Warburg's desire to withdraw his name, the President said that he earnestly hoped that Mr. Warburg would reconsider his decision and that he was urging him to do so. He expressed confidence that the nomination of Mr. Jones would be confirmed and said it would be particularly unfair to the Democratic party and to the Senate.

SANDFORD FINED $3.

Romel Sanford, colored, of Mountain avenue, the borough, was placed under arrest yesterday, by Marshal Pope, on a warrant sworn out by Chief Marshall Weiss, for failure to appear in the borough court on June 30, after a notice had been served on him. Mr. Sandford, it appears, had failed to take out a license for his dog, and for that reason the original notice to appear in court was served. Mr. Sandford's failure to appear to response to the first notice made the warrant for his arrest necessary. When arraigned before Recorder Hand this morning, a fine of three dollars was imposed.

DESTROYED A WHEEL.

Freeman Strait, of Watchung, was arraigned before Judge DeMeza this morning, charged with running over a boy's wheel on Richmond street, yesterday, and destroying the vehicle. He was arrested by Patrolman Craig who said Strait was intoxicated. Judge DeMeza instructed him to pay for the damages to the wheel and sentence was suspended.

SENTENCE SUSPENDED.

Nicholas Cavaza, colored, was arrested, last night, charged with disorderly conduct and disturbing the meting of the colored mission on the corner of New and Fourth streets. He appeared in court this morning and sentence was suspended.

LEVY INCOME TAX.

Washington, July 7.—The Senate today passed a bill to levy an income tax on railroads in Asaska of 10 per cent. on the gross annual income, in addition to the normal. Reported it read 1 per cent. The bill had already passed the House.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Irving Maxson, of Isle of Pines, West Indies, are visiting Mrs Maxson's brother, Thomas S. Randolph, of Central avenue.

MISS VROOM PASSES AWAY IN NEW YORK

Well Known Plainfield Woman Succumbs to Two Months' Illness.

Miss Wilhelmina Vroom, a well-known resident of this city for more than twenty years, died last night in Bellevue Hospital, New York, where for the last two months she has been seriously ill with complications. She was taken ill while walking along the streets in New York and was removed to the hospital at once. She failed rapidly and within the past few days her death was expected at any minute.

Miss Vroom was born at Pluckemin, being the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Vroom, of that place. More than twenty years ago she removed to Plainfied and continued to reside here to the time of her death. During the past few years she was engaged in selling typewriter supplies, her territory including many towns in this vicinity. She was a faithful and very constant woman and had many friends.

Besides being a member of Trinity Reformed church for many years, Miss Vroom was also actively identified with Lydia Chapter, Order Eastern Star Lodge, the membership of which is comprised of the wives and daughters of Masons. She also took a great deal of interest in the lodge.

The funeral will be held at the home of Miss Vroom's nephew, Ira E. Van Arsdale, 670 Essex street, at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon ;and Lydia Chapter will be in charge. The burial will be at Bedminster.

There survives several nephews and nieces' including George Van Arsdale, of Elizabeth; Ira E. Van Arsdale, of this city; Herbert Vroom, of Maplewood; Harold Vroom, the Misses Eva and Nettie Vroom, of Bayonne, and Mrs. Fred Hendershot, of Newark.

RECEPTION GIVEN TO NEW PASTOR

Rev. Edward S. Ralston Cordially Greeted at Netherwood Reformed Church.

Rev. Edward S. Ralston, the new pastor of the Netherwood Reformed church, was greeted last evening by a large unmber ot people, when a reception was given by the congregation. The edifice was atractively decorated, pink and white being the prevailing colors. An informal musicale and literary program arranged by the Ladies' Aid Society was presented. There were several vocal selections by Horace Adams, Jr., Clifford Cole, Charles Collins, Everett Marsh and Arthur Kingsley, the latter presiding at the piano. Miss Alesci Stewart gave recitations. The women of the society in charge of the arrangements, which also acted as a receiving committee, was composed of Mrs. Amos Andrews, president of the society; Mrs. A. C. Fike, Mrs. S. C. Rush and Mrs. Horace Adams. Dainty refreshments were served at the conclusion of the evening.

Mr. Ralston came to this city from Piermont, N. Y., after having preached for eleven years at the First Reformed church of Poughkeepsie. He preached here for the first time on May 10. The institution is at present in a flourishing condition and is now anticipating the erection of a new edifice.

FAREWELL PARTY GIVEN FOR MRS. CUBBERLEY

Mrs. Catherine Cubberley, of Pearl street, was given a farewell party by her neighbors and friends at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paroubek, of Watchung, last night. About twenty guests were present and the evening was spent in dancing and singing. Several piano solos were also enjoyed.

Mrs. Cubberley will sail on the S. S. George Washington Friday for Baden, Germany. She was the recipient of many gifts as tokens of esteem.

HUNG OUT SHINGLE.

Irving Kunzman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Kunzman, of Plainfield avenue, who recently passed his bar examinations, was sworn in as an attorney-at-law yesterday before the U. S. District Court at Trenton. Mr. Kunzman has hung out his shingle in the Babcock building, where he has opened an office.

—Among the offerings tomorrow at Neuman Bros will be currants for jelly, raspberries, gooseberries, blackberries, huckleberries, plums, peaches, oranges and grape fruit.—Adv. ***

HEALTH BOARD WARNS PUBLIC

Will Placard Houses to Prevent the Spread of Measles.

CO-OPERATION URGED

Persons Having Knowledge of Such Cases Are Requested to Report the Same—Health Statistics for June—170 Dairies Inspected.

In accordance with a recent action of the Board of Health, cases of measles are now being placarded with a view to preventing a spread of the disease so far as possible. Houses are not quarantined, nor is the new order supposed to work a hardship, but it does mean that the patient is not permitted to leave the premises and warns the public that a case of measles exists in the house. In this way the number of persons likely to be infected is lessened.

The houses are placarded as soon as possible after the report is received. There are, however, many cases that do not come to the knowledge of the Board because no physician is called and no report made, and it is from this class of cases that the disease is spread. Anyone having knowledge of any case should report the matter to the health department at once. According to health officials, measles is not the harmless disease formerly considered, but frequently results in serious complications which some times cause death or life-long defects.

During the past month the Board has undertaken the special work of inspecting all places where food is sold with a view to enforcing the State law which requires that food be protected from dust, dirt, flies and other contamination. The Board reported at its monthly meeting, last night, that 144 such inspections were made. Inspection was made of 170 dairies supplying milk in this city and the usual milk analysis was made.

The following cases of communicable disease were reported for the month of June: Scarlet fever, 6; tubecculosis, 2; typhoid fever, 2; malaria, 2; measles 70; diphtheira, 1; chicken-pox, 2; whooping-cough, 3

There did not appear to be any common source of infection among the scarlet fever cases, except in one posible case, where a mother who had been taking care of her child, was taken ill with the disease a few days after. Another case is out-of-town infection, the patient having a sore throat the day he moved from Brooklyn to Plainfield. The other cases were in different parts of town and seemed to have no connection with each other. Two were removed to the isolation ward of the hospital.

The source of infection in one of the cases of typhoid fever reported was probably water from a spring outside of Plainfield, which has been condemned and from which the patient drank. The following is a summary of the inspections made during the past month:

In connection with milk supply, 170; food supply, 144; nuisances, 349; general, 132; disinfections, 17; communicable diseases, 88; plumbing, 143, making a total of 1,043. Miss Mattison, registrar of vital statistics, reported 94 returns for the month as follows: Births, 47; still-births, 3; marriages, 20; deaths, 24. Of the deaths three were of persons between the age of seventy-five and eighty years.

FUNERAL OF MR. BERKOWITZ.

The funeral services of Samuel Berkowitz, of West Fifth street, were held at 4:30 yesterday afternoon at his late residence. Rabbi Davidson, of Beth-Israel congregation, of this city, was in charge of the funeral, which was largely attended. Workman's Circle, Branch No. 84, of which Mr. Berkowitz was a member, attended in a body, the entire membership being present. The interment was made in the Hebrew cemetery at South Plainfield.

BUSINESS MEN'S MEETING.

The Plainfield Business Men's Association will hold an important meeting Monday night. New quarters will be secured and the members will be notified as to the place of the meeting. While most of the merchants have decided to close Thursdays in August there still seems to be some misunderstanding about the matter and it is proposed to fully decide the question Monday night.

MISS RUTH STRYKER WEDS HORACE VAIL

Impressive Ceremony Performed at Meeting House of Society of Friends.

Miss Ruth Frances Stryker, daughter of Mr and Mrs. Arthur T. Stryker, of West Fourth street, and Horrace Edward Vail, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Vail, of Norwood avenue, were married at 7:30 o'clock last evening, at the meeting house of the Religious Society of Friends, on Watchung avenue, in the presence of about one hundred relatives and friends. The ceremony peculiar to the society of Friends was very impressive.

The bride was gowned in white crepe de chine and carried a large bouquet of white roses. She was attended by Miss May Greenwood Stafford, of this city, who was gowned in pink charmeuse and carried a bouquet of red roses. The best man was Walter Carson, of this city. The ushers were Clifford B. Vail, Harvey Vail, Raymond Bell, Leslie Palmer, of this city and W. Palmer Davis, of Elizabeth.

Following the ceremony the couple was showered with congratulations. A reception was held at the home of the bride s parents which was largely attended. The home was attractively decorated with summer flowers and palms. During the reception refreshments were served. Later the couple left on a honeymoon trip. Upon their return they will reside in Plainfield.

The bride was graduated from the Plainfield High School in the Class of '11 and since that time was engaged as a teacher in the typewriting department of the school. The bridegroom also attended the High School and is now engaged in the jewelry business with his father in this city. Mrs. Vail received a large collection of handsome gifts from relatives and friends.

NO CHANGE LIKELY IN PAY OF CLERKS

Elections' Committee of Board of Freeholders Will Meet to Consider Matter.

The elections' committee of the Board of Freeholders will meet in a few days to further consider the recommendations referred back at the meeting of the board last Thursday. It is not likely that the recommendations as to the compensation of municipal clerks will be changed if the schedule is adopted by the various municipalities. The Elizabeth clerk will receive $15 for each of the forty-seven polling places instead of $30, as heretofore.

The Plainfield city clerk will receive $15 for each of the eighteen polling places instead of $30, as in the past. The Rahway city clerk will receive $25 for each of the nine polling places in that community instead of the $30, as in the past. The Summit city clerk will receive $25 for each of the six polling places there instead of $30.

Westfield, Cranford, Roselle, Roselle Park, and all other places in the county will be the same, $30, as none of them have more than five polling places, and on that number the compensation is not changed. There are no places with between ten and fifteen districts to come under the $20 figure.

PLAINFIELD BOYS LEAVE FOR CAMP TOMORROW

The second group of local boys will leave for Camp Wawayanda tomorrow in charge of the boy's secretary of the Y. M. C. A., C. William Bingeman Eight boys will be in the party and of these four will remain one week and the other half two weeks. The following boys will leave on the 6:27 train tomorr w morning: Russell Tomlinson, John Hammann, Edward Crone and Harold Condict for two weeks and Robert Moyer, Mac Fullerton, Holmes Clawson and Elmer Blimn for one week.

There are forty-three boys on the list to go to camp from Plainfield during the summer and all will be in charge of Mr. Bingeman. Nine boys will return from camp tomorrow. The weekly athletic meets will be one of the features at camp this summer with prizes for the winners. Plainfield has always made a good showing in these meets and will try to do well this year.

FUNERAL OF MRS. GIDDES.

The funeral services of Mrs. M Anna Giddes were held this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Nuse, and from the Mt. Horeb Methodist church at 2:30. Interment was made at the cemetery at that place.

THIEVES ENTER HOME OF ORTON G. DALE

But so Far as Known Nothing of Value Was Taken Away.

The home of Orton G. Dale, at 13[illegible] East Sixth street, was found open late last night by Patrolman Hayle. He reported the matter to headquarters and Detective-Sergeant Flynn was put on the case. An investigation showed that the dwelling had evidently been ransacked from cellar to attic, but the family being away, it was impossible to tell whether anything had been taken or not.

The police communicated with the family today and a member is expected to come to Plainfield today to make further investigation. A few nights ago the home of W. A. Clark on West Seventh street, was found open, entrance being effected through a window, but so far as known nothing of any value was taken.

HUERTA'S FAMILY SAID TO BE AT VERA CRUZ

Washington, July 7.—While the secret has been carefully guarded it is known that the State Department has received information to the effect that Huerta's family has arrived at Vera Cruz. It is also understood that those in official circles regard the presence of the dictator's family at the Mexican port as positive evidence that Huerta himself will shortly follow. The advices received here also mentioned the fact that the wife of Senor Mohena, formerly a member of tthe Huerta Cabinet, is with the Huerta family that she wil remain in Vera Cruz pending the arrival of her husband. This leads to the belief that Huerta and Mohena will leave the capital together.

Those close to the Administration express the belief that with Huerta eliminated from the Mexican situation there will be little in the way of a speedy settlement of the Mexican trouble.

"AT HOME" WEDNESDAY.

New York, July 8.—Beginning today Col. Roosevelt will be "at home" politically, each Wednesday, at the headquarters of the Progressive National Committee in the Forty-second Street Building. The day promises to be a lively one and the Colonel will be greeted by Progressive leaders from all parts of the State who will urge him to run for the Governor. Among those who will call on the "Bull Moose" leader today is George Eastman, head of the big camera concern. Mr. Eastman will head a delegation of independent Democrats and Republicans from Monroe county.

EXPECTS EXONERATION.

Stamford, Conn., July 8.—Believing that Coroner Phelan will exonerate her when he resumes his inquest into the death of Waldo R. Ballou appeared in a more cheerful mood today than at any time since she has been confined in jail. She declares that she has nothing to fear and that her story when told will completely exonerate her.

JOHN D. 75 TO DAY.

Tarrytown, N. Y., July 8.—John D. Rockfeller is seventy-five years old today. There will be no celebration in honor of the occasion, however, and the oil magnate will spend the day much as usual. It was authoritatively stated that Mr. Rockefeller is seeking to avoid unnecessary publicity on account of the I. W. W. trouble.

HERBERT BARNUM SEELEY.

New York, July 8—Word was received here today of the death in Maine of Herbert Barnum Seeley, son of Nathan Seeley, grandson of P. T. Barnum, and the originator of the noted Seeley dinner held at Sherry's, Dec. 19, 1896, at which "Little Egypt" and others danced.

MAY LOSE $150,000.

New York, July 8.—If Mrs. Frances S. Oakley, of Orange, N. J., marries Lee Frassler, a lawyer of this city, she will relinquish all right to the $150,000 estate of her father, Egbert B. Seamon, who died June 27. The latter forbid the marraige in his will.

DEMOCRATS MEET.

The Plainfield Democratic Club met last evening at its rooms and discussed the preliminary plans for the fall campaign in an informal way. Local candidates for the county offices were considered, but no definite action was taken.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S MEETING.

FUGITIVE FROM JUSTICE CAUGHT

Dominick Shirella, Notorious Gunman, is Found at So. Plainfield.

ONE OF HOLD-UP GANG

Dominick Shirella, alias "Hump," a notorious gunman, of 215 East 111th street, New York city, who, it is alleged, with a gang of four other men, held up seventy-five men in a pool-room at 124th street and Lexington avenue, New York, on June 20, and got away with about $2,000, was arrested at South Plainfield, last night, by Sergeant Higgins on information secured from the New York police. He was brought to headquarters here and is being held to await further action by the Metropolitan police.

After reaching headquarters, Shirella is said to have confessed to Police Chief Kiely that he was one of the gang wanted. The other three men have since been arrested and the quartet, it is said, are likely to get long prison terms. The hold-up in the pool room is said to have been one of the most daring in recent times in New York. After securing a large sum of money, the gang made a getaway in an automobile and it was several days before three members of the gang were caught.

The New York police got information last week that Shirella was in this vicinity, and on Saturday a detective from New York, accompanied by one or two of the victims, visited Plainfield and with Detective-Sergeant Flynn made a search of the holiday crowds. No trace of the man could be found. A photograph was left here, however, and the search was continued.

Early last evening word came from New York that Shirella was living with fellow-countrymen in a shack at South Plainfield. Sergeant Higgins was sent to that place and found his man on the front porch of the shack and brought him to headquarters. A glance at the photograph showed that the right man had been captured. The arrest is considered one of the most important made in a long time, for Shirella has a police record and is said to be an exceedingly dangerous man at large.

FIRE COMMITTEE DEFERS PURCHASE OF AN ENGINE

The Councilmanic fire committe is not yet prepared to recommend to the Common Council the purchase of an automobile engine for the Netherwood section. It was expected that the Council as a committee of the whole would consider the various bids on Monday night, but owing to the absence of Councilman A. D. Edgar, it was decided to defer the matter until a later date. The members do not appear to be in any particular hurry about reaching a decision.

The majority of the bids received at the June meting were from the Nott Fire Engine company of Minneapolis, and the committee has not yet had time to go over the specifications carefully. The committee has at its disposal about $8,000 and it is intended to get an apparatus for that figure, if possible.

PLAN MEMORIAL SERVICE.

Plans are being made by Jehuda-Halevi Camp, No. 58, Order B'nai Zion, to hold a memorial service Friday evening in commemoration of the tenth anniversary of the death of the honored Zionist, Dr. Herzel. Dr. Charles I. Hoffman, of the Oheb Shalom Synagogue, of Newark, has been announced as the speaker of the occasion, which will be held at Temple Sholem, on Grove street. Memorial services are to be held by all camps throughout the State on Friday. A special committee appointed for the purpose, has charge of the detailed arrangements of the local service.

FUNERAL OF MISS SHELDON.

The funeral services of Miss Mary E. Sheldon, of West Second street, who died last Thursday at Morristown, were held yesterday afternoon from the residence of her mother, Mrs. Margaret Sheldon, Rev. J. O. McKelvey, pastor of Warren chapel officiating. The interment was made in the North Plainfield Presbyterian cemetery.

GAME POSTPONED.

The baseball game between the Plainfield policemen and the doctors, which was to have been played next Saturday afternoon, has been indefinitely postponed. It will be played sometime later in the season.

"The White Store"

Dunellen & Vicinity

Walter Titus, of New Market, has purchased from the Dunellen Home and Investment Company, lot number 23, of the Penfield and Culhane tract at the corner of Washington avenue and Culhane place, through the Charles E. Tinsman agency. Mr. Titus ,who is a carpenter, will commence the erection of a house for his own use at once. He expects to have the house completed and ready for occupancy by Sept. 15. In the meantime he will move from the farm on the South Plainfield road, which he recently sold, to the David A. Mills house on New Market road, formerly occupied by Herman J. Scandell.

At the weekly meeting of W. G. Holton Council in the hall, last evening, a candidate was initiated and the recently elected officers installed by Edward Kriney, past councilor of Franklin Council, Plainfield.

Miss Flossie Bunting, daughter of ex-Freeholder and Mrs. George Bunting, is visiting relatives in Brooklyn.

Mrs. William Johnson, of Front street, is entertaining her sister, Mrs. Moffett and two daughters, Bessie and Ruth, of Brooklyn.

Mrs. John M. Dayton, of Main street, entertained Mrs. J. Y. Rupell and daughter, Miss Maude, of Vail Terrace, yesterday afternoon.

Miss Bessie Darnell, of Staten Island; Mrs. D. T. Tyans and family, of Orange, and Mr. and Mrs. Elias Applegate, of Elizabeth, were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. John Logan, of Washington avenue, over the Fourth.

Fred Russell has accepted a position with the Tidewater Oil Company as foreman over the team department.

Clifford Schenck, son of Street Commissioner and Mrs. George A. Schenck, has purchased a new bicycle.

John M. Dayton's home on Main street is being connected with the city water.

Mr. and Mrs. Foster M. Sofield entertained the following over the Fourth: Mr. and Mrs. William Tabb, Miss Marjorie Lee and Clarence Sofield, from Port Richmond, and Charles H. Ware and Miss Dorothy Snow, of Bayonne.

Contractors John M. Dayton and Magnus Jackson are very busy these days, the following work only recently having been finished by them: The laying of the pressed brick walk from the roadway to the front porch of the Mrs. Emma DeLong place and the laying of 70 feet of concrete walk in the rear of that place; the reshingling of the barn of Philip Jenner; the laying of a concrete walk around the home of ex-Freeholder George S. Bunting, and the remodeling of the fence about the A. E. Curtis property and the laying of a concrete walk to the front porch of same.

The lawn about the new Morris Fosburg house on the old Andrew Johnson property has been graded.

The Fourth of July was an unlucky day for Burton Stillwagon, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Stillwaggon. In the morning he jumper off the back of a wagon in front of a machine driven by Roy Scandell, the wheel of Mr. Scandell's car passing over the fore part of his foot. In the afternoon he had recovered sufficiently from the effects of his accident in the morning to have his other foot stepped on by a horse that he was leading to Vail's Grove.

Mrs. Magnus Johnson is entertaining her niece, Miss Ellen Rogers, of Weehawken.

Word comes from Budd's Lake that Theodore W. Day, Jr., is still confined to his bed with the rheumatism, barely able to move.

A full account of last evening's games of the Women's Two-team Bowling Tournament on the Presbyterian alleys will be found on another page. In tomorrow evening's games according to the schedule it will be Miss Ruth Voorhees and Miss Pearl Dodwell vs. Mrs. H. B. Arnold and Mrs. J. N. Apgar vs Mrs. Albert Russell and Mrs. Paul Carpenter.

Mrs. Roger L. Cooley, of Dunellen avenue, is reported as being quite ill.

Routine business was transacted at the monthly meeting of the Board of Education in the Whittier School, last evening. General Contractor J. Newton Apgar was present and reported that the work was progressing satisfactorily on the new Lincoln School and that it would be finished as per contract. The color of the stucco to be put on the building was discussed at length, but no decision other than it should be a dark color was reached.

The advisory board of the Boy Scout Cadets met with its president, Mrs. John Pierson, of New Market road, last evening.

Dr. and Mrs. H. B. Arnold tendered their daughter, Muriel, a birthday party in honor of her fifth birthday at their home on Dunelen avenue, yesterday afternoon. The room in which the festivities were held was very artistically decorated, the color scheme being pink. The young guests arrived about 2 o'clock, presenting the honored one as they came in with many gifts. The afternoon was enjoyably passed by playing games, the one which evoked the most enjoyment being "Teddy Bear," for which prizes were awarded. The festivities were fittingly concluded by the serving of refreshments at 5:30. In the center of the table around which the young guests gathered there was a large birthday cake with pink icing and a lighted candle for each one of Miss Muriel's five birthdays. The young guests were: Edward Brown, Alton Vail, Richard Terry, Burtis Talamy, Muriel Kelly, Thomas Kelly, Beatrice and Ruth Coriell, Jane Eckerson, Evelyn Apgar, Dorothy Nelson, Verna Fromneyed, Justice Cooley, Reed Kelly, Russell Herrmann and Bessie and Ruth Moffett, of Brooklyn.

Upon the request of many residents of Dupnellen the remarks of E. J. Dusel, president of the Board of Trade, at the Fourth of July celebration are published herewith:

"My friends, we are assembled here today to celebrate once more the Declaration of our Independence. We are fortunate indeed to be able to contribute our support to an occasion of this kind. If there are a few among us who think it a needless expense they are undoubtedly in the minority and have not given the matter their careful consideration.

"We are located here today in this year of 1914 in the peaceful protection of the Watchung mountains, governed by just laws and having all the rights and liberties which free and intelligent men have a right to expect. These rights and liberties were secured for us by the blood sacrifice of our forefathers. After the Declaration of Independence was signed there ensued a terrific loss of life to secure to us the peace and comfort we enjoy today. We cannot look upon this sacrifice without raising a monument each year to those who made our peaceful government possible. Therefore the little assistance we give to this memorial day and the little expense we incur is necessary to inoculate into the minds of our younger generation a deep and abiding realization of the debt they owe to their forefathers.

"It is conceded by all of us that this day should be honored in a safe and sane manner. It was this idea that started our first great day of entertainment last year. We estimated that in our little township several thousand dollars were spent each year in individual celebrations on the Fourth. These celebrations were always accompanied with accidents to some of the children or damage to property, which aside from the sorrow they caused made the total outlay in money considerably larger than two thousand dollars.

"This old arrangement has been changed by our community celebration and the majority of our children are satisfied to give up their fire crackers to take part in our entertainment and enjoy the grand fireworks display in the evening. So as a matter of expense to the community it costs us far less to raise a general fund for celebration. It saves many little fingers, arms and eyes and gives the older folks a day of rest and entertainment instead of racking their nerves with explosions and worry. I hope, therefore, you will continue this movement each year so that ultimately all the children will look upon this form of celebration as best for their mental and physical welfare.

"Today is the 137th anniversary of the Declaration of Independence. This famous document was adopted July 4, 1776. The first anniversary was held in Philadelphia in 1777, 137 years ago, and was celebrated very much in the manner we are celebrating it today.

"Our country has made great advancement since that day. I do not know what the population was then, but in 1790 the population of the U. S. was about four million; today it is over 100 millions. At that time there were only six cities in the United States; now we can count more than that in our own State.

"Unquestionably we stand today the greatest nation in the world. In area and population we are fourth. China has an area of four million square miles and 439 million people; the British Empire eleven million square miles and 396 million people; Russia eight million square miles and 16 million people; the United States 3¾ million square miles and 160 million people, the population of 103 million is only 6 per cent. of the population of the world, but notwithstanding this fact we are served by 45 per cent. of the world's railroad mileage; 60 per cent. of the world's telephone facilities, and 70 per cent. of its telegraph lines. We produce 21 per cent. of the world's wheat crop; 40 per cent. of its corn; 85 per cent. of its cotton; 87 per cent. of its pig iron; 31 per cent. of its lead, and 30 per cent. of its zinc. This is a remarkable showing for a country representing only 6 per cent. of the population of the world and has been brought about by our free institutions which were made possible by the Declaration of Independence.

"In concluding I wish to say that the Board of Trade which has brought you together today is a body composed of our good citizens irrespective of politics or any other ties and their general aim is for the welfare and the township of Dunellen. I hope, therefore, that on our next holiday we shall exceed this excellent celebration and that every citizen will give his cordial support for the sole and vital reason that we are all brother Americans working toward a common end, which is for the benefit of our town, State and country.

"We have with us today our most prominent citizen, who not long ago notwithstanding his large business interests and important private affairs, consented to take the helm of our local government. His grasp of affairs and business acumen have accomplished already many important improvements and we man confidently look forward to other great and excellent results before his administration is over. I take pleasure in announcing that our Mayor, Mr. E. B. Latham, will now address us with a few words of welcome.

ONE MAY DIE, FORTY HURT.

Work Train Misses Switch and Dashes Into Passenger Coach.

Elyria, O., July 8.—Forty persons were injured, several seriously here, when a work train on the Grafton division of the Cleveland and Southwestern Electric railroad failed to take a switch and crashed into a passenger coach.

The vestibule of the passenger coach was splintered. The passengers, many badly bruised, fought to escape through broken windows. A car of the work train was almost completely wrecked. Nine of the injured are in the hospital, and all, with the exception of Motorman Hamilton, will recover.

BIG SONORA MINES CLOSE.

Cananea, Sonora, Mexico, July 8.—Twenty-eight hundred men are out of work and the big mines of the Corrigan McKinney interests are closed. The smelter is also closed, and a serious condition faces the people of the city and the owner of the properties.

The military authorities have offered protection to all who wish to return to work, but Captain Silas Callees, who is in command, is not believed to have a force sufficient to cope with the situation, and it is charged that Jose Maria Maytorena, the governor of the state, is backing the strikers and has refused to send any more troops.

MRS. BAYLY WITH GUARDIANS

Chicago, July 8.—Mrs. Helen Morton Bayly, held "mentally deficient" by the Dupage county court, was in custody of her legal guardian, Colonel George Fabyan, at his summer home, Riverbank, in Dupage county.

Her husband, Roger Bayly, the Virginian who brought about court action so disposing of his bride of three weeks, is with her. Mrs. Bayly is not under retsraint and is said to be virtually normal save for the recurrent periods when suicidal mania reappears.

"SPORTDOM TIPS"

WE LEAD, OTHERS TRY TO FOLLOW.

Numerous inquiries have been brought to our attention concerning the cause of the similarity of the two stories published in the local papers on the first annual field and track meet held Saturday at Parker Field under the auspices of the Playground Commission. In explanation we might say the account originated with the Plainfield Daily Press sporting department. The story was sent to the Newark Sunday Call and was also used in our issue of Monday. Our local contemporary, evidently recognizing the merits of the article used its scissors to good effect by "clipping" it from the Sunday paper and running it in Monday's issue almost verbatum. Thus, the Plainfield Daily Press sporting department furnished the Parker Field story for the other Plainfield newspaper and also the New Brunswick Times and the New Brunswick Home News, the latter two papers running the account just as it was written by the sporting editor. This is only another instance where our contemporary has unknowingly acknowledged the superiority of sporting accounts in the Plainfield Daily Press.

George Townley's good showing at Dunellen last Saturday afternoon earned him a regular place on the Plainfield team. George will report at every game hereafter and be ready in case of emergency. This work will keep him in training for next year's baseball season at college.

Maybe those Laurel A. C. boys expected the local coppers to turn down their challenge for a ball game, but the bluecoats were true sports and accepted the challenge without a second's hesitation. The game should be a good one from more than one point of view and the boys will certainly have the crowd with them this time.

It seems that all of the cups for that Parker Field meet have been handed out with the exception of one. That will be awarded in the course of the next two or three days to the rightful owner.

The local policemen will meet the New Brunswick team on Parker Field tomorrow afternoon. Let us hope the locals don't forget to take their third out in the ninth inning if that becomes necessary. Of course, it is a well known fact that the Plainfielders will now need their last "raps."

It looks now as if that Y. M. C. A. tennis tournament would fall through because there are not enough racquet wielders in the city who are willing to enter. Only fifteen have sent in their names so far and with that number it would not pay the local association to run an event of that kind.

RECREATION NOTES

The Washington Dramatic Club held its regular weekly meeting in the Washington School, last night. A large amount of interest is being shown in this branch of work and it was decided to start a new play for the opening of the new High School Auditorium. A committee was appointed for the selection of the play.

The members of the dramatic club will go on an automobile picnic next Saturday afternoon as the guests of Mrs. A. B. Jones.

The Folk Dancing Class will meet in the Bryant School instead of the Washington School tonight. All those who wish to join this class will be welcomed.

The Civic Club, under the direction of R. S. Rowland, will meet tonight in the Stillman building. All members are urged to be present.

The Stillman-Douglas Social Club, composed of eighth grade pupils of the Stillman Schol, will hold their regular weekly meting in the building Friday afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock. The object of this club is largely social.

The Dunbar Social and Educational Club is planning new features for their summer entertainment. The club will meet Friday night in Washington School. Mrs. R. C. Wormley, assistant supervisor of recreation, is to work with the club and help them in their evening's entertainment.

PUBLIC GATHERING PLACES.

Some complaint is heard regarding the practise of "loafing" on the business streets of the town during the evenings. The practise has been particularly noticeable on Front street and Park avenue Saturday evenings and pedestrians at times find it almost impossible to wend their way through the various groups assembled on the pavement. These crowds of men in some instances become boisterous and intolerable to peace loving citizens. The police department does its part in attempting to check the nusiance but it is well nigh impossible to keep the throng constantly on the move with but two patrolmen on the beat. The minions of the law are kept busy in one portion of the town disbanding the assemblages while others are gathering elsewhere.

This condition will never be bettered until Plainfield provides some public place for people to gather. Other cities of this size have city parks and playgrounds which are attractive to the unemployed and rest seekers. It is human nature for men in every walk of life to gather for the purpose of discussing topics of mutual interest. Would it not be better to open the playgrounds at night to the public than to have groups standing along the curbs in the business section? One way to lessen the practise would be to provide benches in the playgrounds and make them attractive for the working people who demand and are entitled to fresh air in the evenings.

The transformation of the recreation centers into lounging places would soon make them the centers for men who now frequent the streets. Shop workers and office clerks demand fresh air and at the present there is no place for them to get it but the streets. Many are too fatigued to take long walks into the country at night after a hard day's work. All of the four playgrounds could be used to advantage for the purpose and benches should be placed in the schoolyards. At the present time the playgrounds do much good during the daytime but are closed to the public at night. If the children are entertained by the city, why not the parents?

Plainfield needs parks and until they are provided the playgrounds could be made to serve the purpose.

UNITING ON UTILITIES.

When the organization is completed this autumn, Plainfield will probably be found among the cities of the country united in a defensive league and alliance to deal with public utility problems. Preliminary steps have been taken already to perfect the machinery of organization under the auspices of Mayor Blankenburg, of Philadelphia, backed already by the mayors of New York, Chicago, Cleveland, Dayton, O., and a few other large cities. It is proposed that representatives, probably the mayors, of as many leading American cities as can be got together, will meet in Philadelphia this fall to complete the alliance and formation of a national public utilities bureau of research which will arm cities with data and the munitions of argument to more intelligently present the side of communities before utility commissions.

While the field of urban organization may be said to be well filled if not over-crowded, along various lines of public economy and efficiency, there is not a city which at some time or another has not had or has its public utility problems, dissatisfactions and resistance and the proposed alliance hailing from Philadelphia would seem to offer a promising new field for coordination. The powers of utility corporations are organized and it is these organized efforts which cities must combat or oppose whenever cities take their case to the public utility commissions. To be sufficiently armed to present the case of the cities, an alliance of communities seems a logical necessity.

It seems that conditions warrant the venture of organization. The plan includes the formation of a bureau of public utilities research, which will equip itself to give the cities of the country able assistance in the same manner as the utility cropration. Now it is necessary for any community with a contention, to take up its own research work, which at best cannot be more than incomplete. Against this incomplete data, the utilities themselves are backed by thorough knowledge and investigation of their case. The city is left at a disadvantage. If nothing more is done by the new organization than to arm the community with a complete knowledge of its own case, the aliance will be worth while.

Why the delay in the appointment of a city dog catcher in Plainfield? Many homeless animals are at large and although the police force is doing everything in its power to round them up, a dog catcher could accomplish the same end in a much more thorough manner. Dogs running loose at this season are a menace to human life. Only last week one animal developed a case of rabies on one of our busiest thoroughfares and before it was put to death bit two other canines. The latter have not been found by the police and are likely at any time to run amuck on the streets. Heretofore lainfield has had a dog catcher and the municipality has been remarkably free from wandering curs. In the absence of a city pound, dogs are being put to death in the rear of police headquarters and the facilities provided there are not such as a public pound would have.

MAKE YOURS A PUBLIC SERVICE STORE

This is the age of service. The rewards of today go to the men who give the most in return.

Translated for you, Mr. Merchant, this means that the customers are certain to patronize the store that will give them what they want when they want it.

Cut prices may bring some trade, but better service will bring more.

This is the age when people are reading the advertising in their daily newspapers because they are finding it a distinct part of the service they expect their newspapers to give.

When a nationally distributed article of merit is advertised in the newspapers a demand for it sets in right away.

They are going to turn to the store that lets them know it has the article. That store will be giving them the service they want at that particular moment.

If it is a good article they are going to remember the store where they got it and will come back to that store again.

Co-operate with the manufacturers who come into the newspapers of your town to exploit their goods and you will be building business for yourself.

ENDEAVOR CAMP OPENS AT 'PLAINS

Miss Edna G. Schmidt, Chairman of Committee in Charge of Guests.

Camp Endeavor, at Scotch Plains, opened yesterday for its fifth season. A party of twenty-six mothers and children left Elizabeth yesterday afternoon, in charge of Miss Edna G. Schmidt, chairman of the guest committee. Mrs. Ezekie and Miss Sarah J. Keron, the city missionary, also accompanied the party. This group will remain for two weeks and will then be replaced by others who need the fresh air and tonic of the hills.

In previous years the camp, which is conducted by the Union County Christian Endeavor Union, has been for boys but it was found advisable to change the character of the camp and extend its benefits to small children and ill or tired mothers instead of the boys.

Despite the unfavorable weather the camp opening was a success, and the young guests were much pleased over the prospect of two weeks spent in the open. The company went from Elizabeth to Scotch Plains by trolley, and the trip up the mountains was a jolly strawride. Upon arrival at camp it was found that much had been done to make the party comfortable, and within a few days everything will be in good running order.

The choice of guests has been carefully made, Miss Schmidt having given special care to this point. The camp workers and assistants have also been well chosen, most of this work devolving upon Miss Lolotte C. Taintor, of Elizabeth. The matron secured is Mrs. Hattie M. Baldwin, of Roselle Park, and she is enthusiastic about the site of the camp and its possibilities for usefulness. She will be ably assisted by Mis Jennie Stoddard, of Elizabeth.

A Scotch Plains boy scout, Russell Johnston, hase been engaged to help with the camp duties, and a tent has been especially fitted up for his use. He is thoroughly familiar with the locality and will be an excellent assistant. Johnston's drive, on which the camp is located, was named for young Johnston's grandfather, the owner. This camp force, with such assistance as the mothers will give, will be ample, it is believed. From time to time the young people of the Christian Endeavor societies of the county will conduct Sunday afternoon devotional services and entertain on Saturday afternoon with games and contests.

Camp routine will be largely in the hands of the matron and assistant, who will use their judgment regarding hours and general regulations. Devotional services will be held each morning and evening. Visitors will be cordially welcomed at the camp at any time. It will remain open until Labor Day.

FEET AND FLOORS.

How the Body May Be Robbed of Its Heat and Vitality.

A cold floor is one that conducts heat away from the body, not necessarily one that is cold in itself. A wooden floor and a stone floor exposed to the cold will in themselves have no great difference in temperature. But one may walk barefooted over a wooden floor with comparative comfort, no matter how cold the weather, while a stone floor will seem to freeze the feet.

On the other hand, in a warm room the stone floor will be warmer than the wooden floor, for it will take up the heat. Thus the heat from a radiator standing on a stone or tile floor will make it warm for several feet in every direction, but it will affect the wooden floor only very slightly. A cold floor, therefore, is not a floor which sends cold into the body through the feet, but one which takes away the body heat, leaving it cold.

Life consists in keeping up the body heat. It is in order to get sufficient body heat that we eat and to retain it that we wear clothes. Were there no wind and if we moved hardly at all clothes would not be necessary, because the heat of the body would keep a layer of heated air about us all the time. But the wind and our natural movements constantly disperse this layer of heated air, and in consequence we wear clothes to keep this layer in.

In summer coolness is secured by loose clothing, which lets the wind blow away the heated air; in spring and fall more closely woven garments keep the heated air near. In very cold weather furs are used, because the skin and the fur afford a powerful resistance to the escape of body heated air. As long as the body heat is kept up illness is likely to be a long time away.

Cold floors rob us of body heat—they steal away our vitality. The slow sapping of vitality that comes from standing on cold floors is fearfully weakening to the system. No matter how old or ragged a rug or carpet, no matter how thin a cork or fiber mat, it will lengthen your life and save you from numberless discomforts which cold floors cause.—New York Journal.

THE CURIOUS LUSHEIS.

An Eastern People Who Are Afraid to Speak Their Own Names.

In his book, "The Lushei Kuki Clan," Lieutenant Colonel J. Shakespear tells of a curious trait of the Lusheis, a Bengal frontier race. They have a strong and general dislike to speaking their own names. The author tells of his experience with this strange people and accounts for that fear in the following manner:

When we first occupied the hills a man would not tell us his name. If asked he would refer us to some one else and say, "You tell him." The following explanation of their habit was given by a Lushei:

"Lusheis are shy of saying the name of their father and their mother and their own name. Because it is their own name they are shy of saying it. Some people are shy because their names are bad. Their parents' names—because they are their parents they never call them by their names; therefore they are shy of saying them. Their own names also they never say. Just for that reason they are shy of saying them. The names of their brothers and friends they are always saying; therefore they are not shy of saying them."

Long ago another explanation was given. When a man kills another he calls out his own name, "I, Laimanga, have killed you!" so that the spirit of the dying man may know whose slave he will be in "Mithi-Khua," the dead man's village. Accordingly, it was suggested, it was unlucky for a person to speak his name on a less important occasion.

FEDERALS FIGHT NEAR VERA CRUZ

Mutineers Attack the Loyal Huerta Troops.

GEN. MAAS WARNS FUNSTON

Villa and Carranza to War In Peace. Differences Between the Two Rebel Chiefs Settled at Torreon Conference—New Revolt Predicted.

Washington, July 8.—According to a dispatch received at the war department from Brigadier General Funston, fighting between mutineers and loyal Mexican federals is in progress outside of Vera Cruz.

The conflict between the loyal troops and the mutineers is a considerable distance from the American lines and, according to General Funston, has occasioned no disturbance in the operation of the train service between Vera Cruz and Tembladeras, the point where the railroad track to Mexico City is torn up.

Notice was received by General Funston from the federal commander, General Garcia Pena, to the effect that the mutineers might make an attack upon the American outposts. General Funston accordingly made preparations for meeting any attack, but instructed the outpost commanders that inasmuch as General Pena has disclaimed any hostile intent upon the part of the forces under his command they could fire only in self defense. No attack developed, however.

Members of the revolutionary junta at Vera Cruz appealed to General Funston for permission to pass out beyond the lines for the purpose of taking charge of the mutineers, who, they said, wished to join the ranks of the rebels. General Funston refused this permission. Private advices from Vera Cruz indicate that there is only a slight, if any, connection between the mutineers and the Constitutionalists. For months it has been known that many of the federal troops were dissatisfied with the conditions under which they were being held before Vera Cruz, and trouble in the Mexican ranks was expected.

Villa In Command.

El Paso, Tex., July 8.—Announcement came officially that the differences between the Mexican rebel leaders, Pancho Villa and Venustiano Carranza, have been healed and that "the war will go on in peace."

Villa wired his officials in Juarez to surrender the funds of the Carranza government, and it was given out in Saltillo, headquarters of Carranza, that Villa would journey there and shake hands with Carranza and renew his pledge of loyalty to "the supreme chief."

Official statement of the points settled was kept a secret, but it can be said that they are the same as outlined last week.

Whether certain officials surrounding Villa and Carranza have been eliminated is not known, but the understanding the lieutenants of both principals is that "certain changes will be made by both Carranza and Villa in the personnel of the men surrounding them." The changes will be made gradually.

General Felipe Angeles, against whom Carranza has a personal grudge apparently, is to remain with the Villa army with the title of general in chief of artillery, according to friends of Villa. The former bandit chief considers him too valuable a warrior to be eliminated, although Carranza is said personally to wish to expel Angeles from the rebel army entirely.

Villa will remain supreme in command of his army and is in addition to have command of the two co-operating Carranza armies in the movement against Mexico City. Both Obregon on the west and Gonzales on the east will take orders from Villa in the campaign, it is stated.

ANTI-RAT WAR CONTINUES.

Mississippi Valley Cities Take Strong Safety Measures.

Washington, July 8.—Although for forty-eight hours the public health service here had received no word from New Orleans on the bubonic plague situation there, the officials here were directing in other parts of the country preliminary campaigns to deal with any possible spread of the disease.

From Chicago, Cincinnati, St. Louis and the state board of health of Maine came letters asking detailed instructions for dealing with any outbreak of rat infection. Passed Assistant Surgeon Flood, in charge of the Ohio river investigation at Cincinnati, said he deemed it advisable to organize the health forces there so as to be prepared for any emergency. Surgeon White sent the same suggestion from St. Louis.

Dominican Rebels Capture Town.

Washington, July 8.—Dominican revolutionists have taken the town of La Romana, according to state department advices. They have established a censorship over wireless dispatches from that place. The revolution has also extended to the Bani district, though government troops still hold the town of that name.

GEORGE F. WILLIAMS.

Ambassador to Greece, Whose Resignation Was Asked For.

President Wilson has accepted the resignation of George Fred Williams, American minister to Greece and Montenegro, whose published criticisms of conditions in Albania caused a stir in Washington and in the capitals of Europe. This terminates Mr. Williams' brief and extraordinary career as a diplomat.

ORDER QUICK BURIAL FOR DEAD ANARCHISTS

Bodies Cannot Be Kept, Says Health Department.

New York, July 8.—Health Commissioner S. S. Goldwater refused permission to Alexander Berkman and his anarchist organizations to keep the bodies of the three men killed in Saturday's bomb explosion beyond the ninety-six hours provided by the sanitary code in such cases. Despite this, Berkman went right ahead with arrangements for the funeral in Union square on Saturday afternoon. He also gave notice that he would fight the order to have the bodies buried immediately.

"The authorities have no right to refuse an extension of time if parts of bodies are not found," he said angrily. "They cannot remove or order the undertaker to remove the bodies until they are complete. Under the law we can secure a six months' extension if we wish. This is an outrage, and I intend to fight that order to the last ditch."

Nathan Z. Morris of 1488 Fifth avenue, an undertaker employed by the Anti-Militarist league to take charge of the bodies, went to the board of health offices and asked permission to keep the bodies of Arthur Caron, Carl Hansen and Charles Berg until Saturday. Secretary Fisk of the board, speaking for Dr. Goldwater, said that he could not give such permission, as it would be opposed to the public health interests.

Morris protested, but as he could advance no good reason why the bodies should be kept until Saturday he made no headway. He did, however, secure a permit to move the bodies from the morgue, which must be done before 10 o'clock this morning. Unless Berkman finds some way to prevent the health board from enforcing the order the bodies will be taken to Fresh Pond today, cremated there and then placed in urns, which will be kept in the Ferrer school until the funeral.

COFFEE AT SANTOS

Brazil's National Beverage and the Way It Is Brewed.

A DRAFT OF LIQUID LIFE.

Thick as Thin Maple Sirup, Amber Bright and Crystal Clear, the Seductive Drink Stimulates the Brain, While It Sets the Nerves on Edge.

The coffee of Brazil is the lowest priced in the world's market. Knowing this fact, I was the more surprised at the exquisite flavor of the coffee served in the public cafes of Brazil. I called this apparent anomaly to the attention of an old Anglo-Brazilian with whom I dined in Santos one evening, and he advanced the opinion that the Americans, Germans and French, the principal coffee drinkers, did not know how to make the beverage.

"You are all too free with water and too sparing with coffee," he said. "You spare your coffee and, I suppose—um—well, yes, possibly your nerves." Then he summoned the head waiter, held a short conversation with him in Portuguese and finally induced him to escort us to the kitchen in the rear and inaugurate for my benefit the ceremony of preparing a fresh tank of coffee.

The chef desired it particularly explained that coffee as generally used in Brazil was not roasted to the crispness of that treated in the United States. This insures against any but the most delicate of the flavoring essence being extracted in the boiling and thus imparts smoothness to the beverage. He also called attention to the fact that the bean is not ground fine. Each grain is cracked into not more than six or eight pieces by being run through a wide set mill and then carefully blown and sifted to get rid of the dust and smaller fragments.

But the main divergence from our procedure lies in the quantity of coffee used. An extract of meat advertisement defines its product as "a bull in a teacup." With no more exaggeration might the modern Brazilian nectar be styled "a plantation in a coffee cup."

The chef took four liter measures of the cracked coffee and added it to just twice that quantity of warm but not boiling water in a shallow copper pan. Here he allowed it to soak for five minutes before turning on the burners, quickly bringing the water to a boil so violent that pieces of the coffee were thrown out on the stove.

This agitation was followed by ten minutes' cooling on a side table, at the end of which time the chef added a half dozen drops of a pungent liquid from a slender green vial, the nature of which he refused to divulge, but which my friend told me was some kind of a neutralizing agent to eliminate a certain rawness, impalpable to other than trained palates. Almost immediately a nickel siphon was introduced just under the surface of the liquid, and about six liters of it was drawn off from the pan into a boiler.

Nothing now remained but the boiling down, which took half an hour and reduced the liquid to a volume of three liters and the consistency of thin maple sirup. In the boiler it was inky black, but when poured showed a stream which was amber bright and crystal clear. Thus the four liters of coffee beans made only three-quarters of that quantity of liquid coffee.

If you are not of a nature impervious to the appeals of the appetite your first cup of coffee in a Santos cafe will be an experience. You enter and seat yourself at one of the tables scattered in refreshing aimlessness over the cool marble pavement. Hidden in a tangle of shrubbery an orchestra is playing something with a catch and a sob in it that you are sure you have heard in another incarnation, while an electric fan placed in a palm tree sets a frond aquiver just above your head.

Even the rattle of the street sinks to a heavy hum and comes to your ear all peacefulness. Lulled by a veritable lotus eater's spell of content, you are about to drowse away and loose your fancy on a search for the original source of the familiar but elusive melody that is still pulsing in the jungle in the patio when somehow you become aware that the mozo has set a little cup before you, which, from the pleasant odor and the thin curl of smoke above it, might be full of a fragrant incense.

You lift it to your lips and feel that strange stir of anticipation, that mysterious foretaste, called by sentimentalists "the soul of the drink," which steals over you preliminary to sipping a rare and pungent liquor. Now it touches your tongue, and you are willing to swear that the capsule of liquid life is dissolving in your mouth. In a moment more the fumes have risen to your brain, a thrill of energy goes tingling through your nerves, and you straighten up with the feeling that you are able to go out and build a railroad single handed. If you can go to sleep in the next twenty-four hours you deserve a gold medal.—New York Sun.

LIFE OF A SIBERIAN EXILE.

One Political Offender Who Lives in Comparative Luxury.

How a political exile lives in Siberia is shown in M. B. Price's book "Siberia." Mr. Price encountered this exile at Minusinsk. He and his family lived in a large house, and his actual punishment seems to consist of a certain social ostracism consequent upon banishment from the great centers of Russian life.

"When I went to call upon him he came to the door himself and, showing me in through a room where he and his wife had been having their evening meal, ushered me into a room beyond. I noticed his calm, philosophical face was that of a man who had evidently endured mental strain with stoical fortitude, but his wife, more nervous than he, showed signs of former anxiety. It seemed strange indeed that I should be sitting in company with two members of high Russian society, now ostracized by exile to Siberia, and stranger still to partake of their intelligent conversation on topics of human interest.

"First of all I was interested to know what sort of restrictions were placed upon the exile's liberty. I found that he was not allowed to leave the district in which he resided and that every week he had to sign his name in a book kept at the house of the chief 'nachalink.' With that exception his life was free. He had money, and he could live as he liked and go where he wished within that district, but he was continually watched by spies, who dogged his footsteps wherever he went.

"He related to me how he had acquired gold concessions on the Mongolian frontier and was hoping to find capital to float a syndicate for working them next year. This was not at all my idea of the life of a Siberian exile. Instead of being made to work himself in the galleries of the gold mines till death released him from his chains, the exile now floats mining syndicates."

INFINITUDE OF SUNS.

Those We Know Are as Nothing to Those Beyond Our Ken.

The photographs of 25,876 standard plates show the points, or images, of 100,000,000 suns. These have not been actually counted, but plates secured by exposure in telecameras to typical regions of the sky have, and the entire number has been subjected to the calculus of probabilities, resulting in the general number of 100,000,000 colossal suns.

These have been weighed—that is, their combined force of gravitational attraction has been computed. This led to one of the most overwhelming discoveries—namely, this entire pull of attractions of the quantity of matter in 100,000,000 suns as massive as our own sun could not even begin to impart the high specific speeds of several well known "runaway" suns. These are dashing through what has been named space with velocities so much greater than all other suns that they are a class by themselves.

Our sun contains 333,426 times more matter than is in the earth, and this multiplied by 100,000,000 reveals the quantity of matter known to exist, beyond all human imagination. But this immense mass may almost be ignored as a mere fraction in comparison with the gigantic quantity necessary to impart a velocity of from 150 to 200 miles per second to these suns flying athwart the sidereal universe.

Let the number of these suns or dark bodies run up to trillions or octillions, then the entire quantity of matter in all of them would be less than the weight of one grain of sand if compared to an infinite quantity of matter.—Edgar Lucien Larkin in New York American.

How Not to Drown.

A person who has not learned to swim, who falls into water, really drowns himself because he struggles to climb out. Should he keep cool and immerse his body, excepting his nostrils, he could float until help reached him. No one drowns with his nostrils above the surface and his mouth closed. By many experiments it was ascertained years ago that a fish—not a mammal—will live ten or twelve days out of the water if its gills are kept thoroughly wetted, and a man or woman with nostrils above the surface will not drown.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Held Him to the Rules.

An old soldier on leaving the army wrote to his colonel in the following terms:

"Sir—After what I've suffered, tell the army to go to blazes."

Imagine his astonishment on receiving a reply in the usual official manner:

"Sir—Any suggestions or inquiries as to movements of troops must be entered on army form 123 X. Y. Z., a copy of which I am inclosing. Yours, etc."—London Telegraph.

Roundabout, but Clear.

Irate Parent—No, sirree. You can't have her. I won't have a son-in-law who has no more brains than to want to marry a girl with no more sense than my daughter has shown in allowing you to think you could have her.—Life.

A Poor Showing.

"How's your boy getting on in college?"

"Not very well. They batted him out of the box in the third inning the other day."—Detroit Free Press.

Your Home Can Have Its Pianist

EVERY home should have a piano and a pianist. The piano, because it is the greatest of home musical instruments—the pianist, to make the piano useful.

You can buy a wonderful piano today that will make you and every other member of your household a pianist practically at once.

Though this sounds like magic, it is absolutely and literally true. You can prove it yourself, if you will, by coming tomorrow to Aeolian Hall and examining

The Stroud Pianola

Price, $550

The beautiful VICTOR SALON at Aeolian Hall—the most complete and perfectly appointed Victor establishment in the world. Prompt, courteous and intelligent service. Victrolas from 50c. weekly.

The artistic supremacy of The Pianola is recognized by all the world's greatest musical authorities. The Pianola dominates the player-piano markets of every civilized nation on the globe. Its supremacy is so absolute that to say The Stroud is a genuine Pianola is sufficient to establish its superiority over any player-piano, regardless of price, sold by any other music house.

THIS WEEK, The Stroud Pianola may be purchased on a FIRST PAYMENT of $15, balance on convenient amounts weekly or monthly.

WITH THE BOXERS

Jimmy Duffy has passed up an offer for a clash with Leach Cross at Vernon on July 17.

As manager of Young Saylor, Ray Bronson is picking up more cash than he did as a boxer.

A Kalamazoo promoter is anxious to stage a muss between Ad Wolgast and Johnny Dundee for Aug. 12.

Tom Kennedy, who went abroad to train Frank Moran, defeated Con O'Kelley at Hull, England, the other night.

Bill Brady is now boosting Jess Willard as the man who can defeat Jack Johnson. Bill's guess is about as good as his picking of Moran to whip Johnson.

BASEBALL NOTES

Rapps, of the tail-end Topeka team, is leading the Western League batsmen with a healthy percentage of .406 in 33 games.

Charles Comiskey, owner of the White Sox, is to stand the expense of erecting a 100-foot flagpole at the new ball park in Dubuque.

Bayless of the Venice Club is Ping Bodie's successor as champion fence-buster of the Pacific Coast League. He is leading the league in home runs and triples.

Shortstop Baker, who is known as Home Run Baker No. 2, of the University of Michigan nine, has joined the Winnipeg team in the Twilight League.

"Iron Man" Joe McGinnity has decided to quit as bench manager of the Tacoma team. McGinnity will continue as president of the club and Russ Hall will act as manager of the team.

Old Dick Cooley has no sooner been installed as manager of the Topeka team than he was set down by President O'Neill of the Western League for inciting a riot in Denver.

Willie "Bill" Mitchell, of the Naps, is credited with being the greatest seven-inning pitcher in the game. As a rule Willie is ready to blow the contest after the seventh round.

The Athletics evidently have Washington's goat, in view of Clarke Griffith's holler that the world's champions are a "cheap" outfit.

Pitcher Al. Damaree, of the Giants, is not showing the classy goods he displayed in 1913. A year ago Damaree was out in front among National League heavers.

It has just come to light that "Reb" Russell's front name is Albert and not Clarence. The big Texan flinger of the White Sox says he can't stand for the Clarence stuff, hence the announcement of his real name.

President Gilmore, of the Federal League, is quoted as saying that he intends to land Ty Cobb, Walter Johnson and Eddie Collins for the season of 1915. The Feds surely will have to dig deep in order to land the trio of wonders.

WELSH WINS TITLE AFTER FAST BOUT

Many Women See Ritchie Defeated In England.

London, July 8.—Freddie Welsh won the lightweight championship of the world here by defeating Willie Ritchie on points in a fierce twenty round battle in the Olympic.

The fighting was fast all through, but neither could score the coveted knock-out. The fighters each took hard punishment. There was a crowd of 12,000 present.

Ritchie forced the fighting in the early rounds and was repeatedly cautioned for holding in clinches. The battle consisted mostly of infighting, and after the fourth round each had a closed eye.

In the tenth round Welsh landed repeatedly and had much the better of the fight.

In the eleventh and twelfth rounds Walsh landed hard and often to face and head, but Ritchie showed great stamina and seemed to be fresher.

In the latter stages of the fight Ritchie came back strong, while Welsh slowed up. Fast infighting marked the rounds in the American's favor.

Welsh, having everything to gain and nothing to lose, was prepared to carry the fight to the champion from the start if necessary. He weighed 134½ pounds, just a half point more than Ritchie, when he stepped on the official scales.

The Rev. J. H. Bouniers, who was to preside as master of ceremonies for the battle, took his place at the ringside near Referee Corri. As the time for the fight approached the number of women in the boxes rapidly increased, and before the men entered the ring the affair took on much of the color of a society event.

Five thousand persons were about the ring an hour before the fight. The hall filled rapidly toward its capacity of 12,000. In the audience were about 800 women, all in evening gowns. There were also thirty clergymen in clerical attire. Fully 2,000 resident and tourist Americans were at the ringside.

GOOD MATCHES ON DUNELLEN ALLEYS

Large Crowd Witnesses Good Pinning in Presbyterian Bowling League.

Great enthusiasm was shown at the bowling matches of the two-team bowling tourney held in Dunellen Presbyterian alleys last night. The pinning was close throughout. Two of the teams broke even, while the Apgar-Smalley duo dropped four games which gives them a firm grip on last place. The Dice-Latham team and the Smith-Arrants duo each won three and lost one to each other. The former team moved from seventh to sixth place in the league and the latter team advanced from ninth to seventh. Miss Arrants is substituting on the Smith-Smith team for Miss Florence Smith who is out of town.

Mrs. Latham received much applause in the first game when she bowled 128, the evening's high score, and her partner came close to her in the second game with a total of 124. This team made the high score game for the evening which was 246. This mark ties the high score record of the tourney which was made by the Arnold-Apgar team early in the year. LOCAL COPS READY FOR NEW BRUNSWICK

Great Game Will Be Staged on Parker Field Tomorrow Afternoon.

The Plainfield policemen's baseball team is preparing to uphold its challenge tomorrow afternoon when the New Brunswick "coppers" appear at Parker Field for the first time this season. The visitors are sure of a victory and are coming with a lineup that will make the locals go the limit to win. The Plainfield team has the advantage over its opponents in having played two games this season while this is the first contest for the New Brunswick bluecoats.

The Plainfielders challenged the Middlesex guardians of the peace and, believing that they had the best team in the State, the New Brunswick players immediately accepted the challenge. The local team has showed some good work in the two games they have been in, trouncing the nine from Perth Amboy. When they met the team from Elizabeth it was a different story, but they played good ball in all but a couple of innings and are going to take another chance at the Betsytown "cops" later in the season. Captain McIntyre has had his men on the field a number of times for practice and put them through hard drills to get in trim for this diamond battle. McIntyre plays the initial sack.

The visitors are pinning their hopes on a famous pitcher who trounced the Perth Amboy aggregation two years ago and who is supposed to be a wonderful strike-out artist. His name is Luke Lyons and he is coming here tomorrow with all the curves that he ever possessed.

COPS ACCEPT CHALLENGE ISSUED BY LAUREL NINE

The baseball challenge that appeared in the Daily Press last night from the Laurel A. C. baseball club, to the local cops to participate in a game on Parker Field, has been accepted and the contest will be played on Monday, July 13th. The game has created much interest among the baseball fans of the city and a large crowd is expected to root for the boys.

The Laurels were the winners of the Parker Field Junior Baseball League last year and are on the road for the same honor in this year's race. They have a fine team. In Butler, the pitcher who held his opponents to no hits Monday, the Laurels have a crack and the bluecoats will find it hard to connect with his large variety of curves. The cops, however, appear to be in good trim and they may spring a big surprise and wallop the youngsters.

HERE'S A CHALLENGE.

The manager of the Red Stars, a fast local aggregation, would like to book some games with independent teams such as the Netherwood Fresh Air Camp, Dunellen Juniors and teams of like strength. Address all communications to Manager V. Mullin, 183 North avenue.

CHAUFFEUR'S WIFE DROPS CROSS SUIT

Charges Involved Miss McGill and Walter Mayer.

HAS ALREADY WON $6,500.

Crowd Packed Jersey City Courtroom In Hope of Seeing Heiress, Who Was Expected to Appear—New Turn to Case Has Apparently Relieved Her of Protecting Reputation.

Jersey City, N. J., July 8.—Something of a surprise was introduced in the trial of Walter Mayer's divorce suit against his wife, Mrs. Mary Mayer, in the chancery court of this city, when Peter Bentley, counsel for the defendant, asked for permission to withdraw his client's counter petition naming Miss Eleanore A. McGill, daughter of the late John D. McGill and formerly employer of Mayer, as corespondent. Mrs. Mayer recently obtained a judgment for $6,500 against the heiress for alienating her husband's affections. In his new move in court Mr. Bentley said that his decision was prompted by the fact that the judgment was procured on the allegation of "criminal conversation with Mayer."

There being no objection from the plaintiff's attorney, an order was made for the withdrawal of the counter petition.

The trial of the suit then proceeded. Le Mayer of 107 Charles street, the first witness, testified that he had seen one Otto Dickow, named by the plaintiff as corespondent, kissing Mrs. Mayer upon one occasion.

A crowd that packed the courtroom was on hand in the hope of getting a glimpse of Miss McGill, who was expected to appear. The heiress had formerly employed Mayer as chauffeur. It was said that she had contemplated going into the court of chancery to protect her reputation against the charges made in Mrs. Mayer's action, but the new turn of the case has apparently relieved her of the necessity of such a course.

DOG SLAYING HALTED.

2,000 Paterson Animals to Be Asphyxiated, Not Shot.

Paterson, N. J., July 8.—The police will not kill with riot guns the 2,000 homeless dogs here. Instead dog catchers with wagons and nets will be sent out. The police crusade started, but was halted after five animals had been shot. Under orders from Police Captain McBride, Sergeant Fritz started out with a riot gun in an automobile. When the chief heard of what he was doing he promptly called him in.

According to the chief, the shooting of the dogs would be not only inhuman, but dangerous to the community. But the chief agreed that the dogs must go and promised to send out the dog catchers. All the dogs brought in will be turned over to the S. P. C. A. for asphyxiation.

Miss Taylor, Ninety-six, Likes Her First Ride In Automobile.

Whitehouse, N. J., July 8.—Miss Mary Ann Taylor, ninety-six years old, had her first automobile ride when she went in the machine of Abram V. Honeyman to a cemetery to visit the graves of relatives. Miss Taylor agreed some time ago to take a ride in Mr. Honeyman's car and today on the way back from the burying ground she insisted that he put on full speed.

"A big improvement on the old time chaise, Abram," she remarked as she alighted. "Kinda think I wouldn't mind riding a little oftener in one of them."

Trenton, N. J., July 8.—A reduction of $1,541,283 was ordered by the state board of equalization in the assessment levied by Jersey City upon various properties of the Central Railroad of New Jersey in the municipality.

The assessments involved in the railroad's appeals aggregated $4,946,500. The state board ordered them reduced to $3,405,217.

BELIEVE WOMAN PAID MURDERER

Now Seek Hired Gunman In Bailey Case.

ARREST IS EXPECTED SOON

Disgruntled Comrade of Assassin Asserts Friend Was Hired For $50, but Did Not Fire a Shot—Woman Committed Crime Herself.

Freeport, N. Y., July 8.—District Attorney Lewis J. Smith admitted that he was investigating a striking story that had been brought to him in the midst of the inquest to the effect that a hired gunman had been procured by a jealous woman to come to Freeport on Tuesday last with the revolver that killed Mrs. Louise Bailey in the private office of Dr. Edwin Carman. The story, according to the district attorney, was told him by a man who said he was a disgruntled comrade of the gunman and who said he was led to "squeal" because the gunman in question, after receiving the money agreed upon as his hire, refused to divide the pay with him.

It is said that the Nassau county authorities know how the gangster came to be brought from New York, that he brought the revolver with him, that he escaped after the shooting and is now said to be in Kansas City.

It was for this reason particularly, it was said, that the William J. Burns Detective agency had been brought into the case.

The new clew was picked up from a man who was seen acting in a mysterious manner among the crowd that attended the inquest. He dropped a hint to one of those in authority that he knew something about the case, and after giving a little information was taken before District Attorney Smith. It was said that the district attorney called for the halting of the inquest on hearing the man's story and that he still has him where he can get him at any time.

It was said that the hired thug was to receive $50 for the job. The theory is that he approached the window of the physician's office from the rear. What is yet to be cleared up is whether or not he was told to shoot the physician or the woman who was with him.

Bears Out Adams' Story.

The flight of the hired thug—if the new theory be the true one—coincides with the story told by Charles Adams, the negro, and is further borne out by a statement made by a man in Baldwin, which supplements the negro's story.

Adams said that on the night of the murder he saw a man who wore a straw hat jump over the low picket fence to the west of the Carman home, run west on Ocean avenue and then turn to the Merrick road in the direction of Baldwin.

The statement of the man in Baldwin is that later in the night he was approached by a man who wore a straw hat and carried his coat under his arm. The man seemed in a hurry and asked what was the best way to the railway station. It is believed that he boarded the first train that came along, and that went in the direction of New York.

Sheriff Following Clew.

The absence from Freeport today of Sheriff Pettit and Detective Seaman gave rise to the belief that they were following up this new clew in the case. It was said that they were seeking information about certain meetings in New York which might have concerned the plot.

It was said that the informant came to tell of the part played in the case by the gangster because he had gone away without giving him any share of the money he received.

Following the new turn in the case it was believed that the arrest of a suspect—a woman—would be made within a very short time.

LOOK ASKANCE AT MORRIS.

Senators Wish to Scrutinize Man Named For Sweden.

Washington, July 8.—Senator J. Hamilton Lewis is having trouble with another appointment which he has urged President Wilson to make. It developed that Ira Nelson Morris, who has been named as minister to Sweden, will have to wait until he has undergone a careful scrutiny on the part of the senate before his nomination will be confirmed.

Mr. Norris, who is a son of the late Nelson Morris, was made a party to actions brought against the beef trust although he never had been active in the packing industry. The opposition to his appointment is making capital of the fact that he was named in proceedings instituted against the packers.

To Pay Payne Heirs.

Washington, July 8.—A bill was introduced in the senate by Senator McLean of Connecticut to pay the legal heirs of John Howard Payne, author of "Home, Sweet Home," the sum of $205.92. This is an old claim growing out of services rendered by Mr. Payne as consul for the United States at Tunis. It is said that the government had no final settlement with him before his death and that amount is due his estate on account of his official services.

—You can make want advertising "pay" if you have any reasonable task for a want ad—and, sometimes, with an unreasonable one.

SHOE AND LEATHER FAIR.

Boston, Mass., July 8—Many manufacturers of England, France and Germany are represented at the seventh annual international shoe and leather market fair, which was opened in Mechanics' building today and will be continued for one week. The exhibits show every process in the manufacture of shoes, from the raw leather to the finished product. During the week of the fair there will be a series of conferences of shoe manufactures, machinery and supply dealers to discuss various matters of importance to the trade. The opportunities for world-wide expansion offered by the opening of the Panama canal will be one of the principal topics of discussion.

THE DAILY PRESS IN BOUND BROOK will be found on sale or delivered to any address every afternoon by Hoagland, Union News Stand at station, and A. Aaron, newsdealer.

CHAPTER XII.

"The Lama's Goat."

IN the front parlor Melissa Tripp, a buxom young woman who was pinched so much in the middle that she bulged every place else, cast herself bodily upon Violet Bonnie with a gurgling gush.

"I'd have known you anywhere," declared Melissa, standing back to survey her mother's friend. "I've had your lithographs and photographs in my bedroom for years and years and years. It's astonishing how slightly you've changed since I was a little bit of a girl. There is no difference at all that I can see, except that you've put on a lot of flesh."

"Of course, child, you don't mean to be catty," returned Violet resignedly. "I thank you for the compliment, but I may as well tell you in the beginning that I'd as lief have firecrackers set off under my chair as to have anybody say years and years and years or mention fat." Suddenly her brow cleared, and she smiled serenely. "How much you look like your mother," she observed in satisfied retaliation.

Melissa stiffened immediately. "How funny!" she said, and forced a laugh. "You don't remember what mother looks like, I guess."

"I'm not so old that I'm losing my memory, too," retorted Violet, though very cheerfully, as she distinctly recalled the awesome features of Martha Tripp, whose mere appearance in any gathering was a signal for a snicker. "I remember her so perfectly that I can seem to see her standing before me now."

Melissa stiffened still more. "Really, I'm very rude," she confessed, taking refuge in her society manners. "Allow me to introduce my dancing master—Professor Flopsie, Mrs. Daw."

Professor Flopsie, a lean little man with lean little whiskers, mustache and hair, all of them parted exactly in the center, advanced three paces, toeing out nicely and bowing gracefully with each step. Straightening, he threw back his head and shoulders and elevated his right hand as one about to take his partner for the cotillion. He seemed almost to be waiting for the music. Not knowing what else to do with the hand, Violet Bonnie wagged it and let go.

"I'm delighted to meet so famous an exponent of the Terpsichorean art," announced the professor in a lean little voice and wound up that observation with a flourish and a bow.

Violet Bonnie inspected him with frankly amused curiosity. "Thanks," she acknowledged. "That's one they never handed me before, anyhow. Sit down and have something. Oh, John!" and she called the butler, who was passing in the hall. "Call for anything you want, professor. I will say that my husband knows as well how to stock a buffet as any bartender on Broadway."

"If it's not too much trouble, I think I should like a little tea," observed the professor. "We've had a very fatiguing journey."

"I shall take tea also," declared Miss Tripp, eager to establish her principles at the first opportunity. "Nothing stronger shall ever pass my lips. I have heard about the temptations that assail young girls on the stage."

"Oh, hush," admonished Violet, looking her over anew. "Somebody's been stringing you. If you find any temptations you'll have to overtake them," a conclusion at which Miss Tripp visibly bridled. "John, take Miss Tripp's things to the Looey Cons room and bring some tea and wafers! Where's your luggage, professor?"

"I regret that I cannot remain," responded the professor. "I merely came to see my star pupil launched upon the successful career that I am sure she will attain under your patronage. For three years Miss Tripp has been taking weekly lessons at my academy in stage and society dancing, fancy steps, parlor deportment, conversation and personal charm. 'Lissa!" and he archly held up a warning finger. 'Lissa promptly uncrossed her feet. "To be quite frank with you, Mrs. Daw, it would mean a great deal to me to have a success graduated from my academy. Many young ladies have come out of Squamosett equipped with all the graces and arts which the Flopsie academy of dancing and deportment could bestow upon them, but none of them, so far, has seemed to possess the force of personal character necessary to create a furor in the dramatic profession and so render the Flopsie academy a recognized preparatory school for Thespian laurels," and into the professor's old eyes—which, alas, could not, like his hair and beard, be brilliantined into youthful gloss—there came a wistful look, which Violet Bonnie could interpret much more accurately than she could his speech.

"I get you," she said with a quick sympathy for all the polite little man's weary, plodding, waiting years. "If we can make a winner out of Melissa all the stage struck Tessies and Mamies in Squamosett county and as far over the county lines as Hookersville and Snag bay and Fiddler's mills will streak for the Flopsie academy and pay fancy prices to be turned into real actresses."

The modest little professor blushed to find his plans stated so crudely, but he did not deny the accuracy of Violet Bonnie's deduction.

"Well, I'm for you!" announced Violet heartily. "I'll do the best I can," and she studied Miss Tripp with more sober calculation than she had yet bestowed upon that young woman. "There's one thing in Melissa's favor—she ain't cross eyed!"

"I'm not old," retorted Melissa, with a sniff.

"I should like to remain until you have seen Melissa dance," hastily said the professor, his heart sinking against the time when he should leave these two women together with no diplomat between them. "Perhaps Violet Bonnie will be good enough, 'Lissa, to have you shown to your room and excuse you long enough to put on a dancing skirt."

"Sure," agreed Violet. "She never could dance in that hobble thing. Besides, they've gone out, Melissa."

"I know it takes a certain type of figure to wear them," responded Melissa complacently. "You probably would not dare. I can wear almost anything. By the way, I suppose I shall have to wear tights. I am willing."

"You'll have to put shapers under them," stated Violet, not as a retort, but in mere critical judgment. "You've got skinny legs. I can tell from your arms. But don't worry about that, child. If you can get the dance across we can fix you all up so that from the front you'll look like the first fairy. I'll tell you what I'll do, professor. If Melissa can show me anything at all that looks like the goods I'll make life miserable for the managers in this town till they give her a tryout. Then it's up to her. If she falls down I'll go on record that I learned to dance in the Flopsie academy myself, though I really learned to dance by following the hand organ, and I got a double shuffle by the throat while I churned eight pounds of butter a day with an old fashioned dasher churn."

"I wish that were true," sighed the professor. "It would be the making of me to have the impression abroad that Violet Bonnie learned at my humble school."

"We'll have it true, then," declared Violet graciously. "A lie like that won't hurt my conscience three minutes. I guess I've told a million to accommodate my friends, and I still have a hearty appetite."

"You look hearty," admitted Melissa, who stood waiting in the doorway.

"I got my fingers crossed, kid. Let's can the dressing room asides," laughed Violet, laying away her rancor as suddenly as she had conceived it. "A little spunk's a good thing to have; but, Lord, we have to live together awhile, so what's the use of being catty? Come on. I'll introduce you and the professor to the jury before you go up to dress. I hope we got some of your music on the player piano; but, if not, Blackie can pound the piano till it hollers for mercy. You ought to hear him turn 'The Holy City' into ragtime."

Blackie played, Melissa danced, the professor beamed, and the jury repressed its emotions; then Violet Bonnie, acknowledging the dances to be a "scream" and burning to shriek, bundled Melissa and the professor off to get ready for dinner and collected the Wallingfords and the Daws into the comfortable library as quickly as possible.

"Well, you see what I'm up against, don't you?" she demanded, a trifle defiantly.

"I know it," she admitted. "I wish these helpless, sad eyed people would stay away from me. They get me going, and the first thing I know I've offered to shed sunshine along their pathway forever."

"I don't feel very much of a tug at my heartstrings on account of this Melissa person," remarked Blackie, pulling thoughtfully at his mustache. "Of course, you saw her first, Vi, and she's all yours, but if I owned half of her I'd go out to a nice circular race track and set my half's steering gear to the correct curve and give it a shove and tell it that Sweeney was looking on."

"I'd let my half run for Sweeney, too, if I could," responded his wife; "but I can't do it. This poor little jay town dancing master has got to my soft spot, darn him! It's on his account I have to do something for Melissa Tripp, and I don't know what it can be unless I give her poison. She can't dance, she can't sing, she has no face nor figure and she hasn't got that something inside her that wins you. She ain't fit for anything but classic dances."

"Why not classical dances?" Mrs. Wallingford soberly inquired. "We might if we were clever enough about it, work her into a fad. She's very ugly, but if we were to accentuate that artistically and give her elaborate stage settings and some unique advertising"— She paused, finding the astonished eyes of the other three upon her, colored and was silent.

"Why, look who's here!" exclaimed her husband and patted her upon the shoulder. "I think I'll have to take you in with me, Fannie, on my next business stunt."

"I've been keeping bad company for years," Mrs. Wallingford retorted. "Really, though, I'm a good deal like Violet; I seem possessed with a desire to help our forlorn little Professor Flopsie."

"He's a cute enough little man," agreed Wallingford, "but I don't see a chance for a novelty high brow dance. They've had freak wrigglers from all over the globe."

"There's one country they haven't come from yet," advised Blackie. "I haven't seen any sacred dancers from Lhasa."

"La who?" demanded Violet Bonnie, slipping from the arm to the seat of her chair and leaning forward with eager interest.

"Lhasa, the big noise town of Tibet, you know. Mostly religion and dirt, from what I read about it. Lhaa, the sacred dancer from Lhasa. That sounds bad, I guess, eh? There's just two places they'd eat that up—at a pumpkin circuit county fair or some place near Forty-second street and Main Stem."

"Tibet," mused Wallingford. "Seems to me I've heard of that place, but I know I never worked it. Where is it?"

"It's some place on the other map," replied Blackie. "Nobody knows anything about it. No white man ever got away from there alive, so we can do whatever we please. They have long haired goats, I know that much, and the people are so mud ugly they have to wear blinders to keep from seeing each other."

"What a chance that gives Melissa!" said Violet with earnest enthusiasm. "I'll work up the turns for her myself. The 'Dance of the Sacred Goat!' That ought to be easy for her. She looks the part, and all she'd have to do would be to hop, and she does that swell. We could even buy up a lot of goats and introduce 'em into the scene, with a mob of supers to be the high priests and such things. Go to some good costumer and have him work up a lot of correct historical costumes, only fancy, and get a good electrician to figure out a lot of light effects. Then get us a good press agent, and we're all to the merry."

Wallingford shook his head. "I'm afraid of it," he objected. "You might fill a few matinees, but there aren't enough freak hunters, even in New York, to keep her hopping very long. They wouldn't even give her the price in vaudeville, for while vaudeville is full of bunk, they're particular about what kind of bunk it is, and the Monday afternoon tryout would be about all that the 'Dance of the Sacred Goat' would pull."

"I don't see why I was ever born!" wailed Violet. "I hate trouble. It's such a bother!"

"Then there's only one thing left," asserted Blackie, who was bound to remain cheerful, though the heavens fall. "We'll have to make her the plot of a musical comedy. Lhaa, the sacred dancer of Lhasa, in 'The Lama's Goat.' I guess you couldn't burn up the billboards with that, and a good nervous press agent could have the time of his sweet young life."

"Blackie, on the level, you're the only husband I ever really loved!" avowed Violet fondly. "The others only had money, but you've got brains. You've fixed it all up for us. The musical comedy goes. Jimmy, you say you ain't going to do anything for the next six months, and if you don't, it's a cinch that Blackie won't. So you can "Help!" shouted Violet.

both just pitch in and impresario Melissa Tripp till you're black in the face. The only trouble I see is in getting a theater for her."

"Why, Vi, you have two theaters," protested Mrs. Wallingford.

"Help!" shouted Violet. "You don't suppose I'd put a hoodoo on one of my own places, do you? They're both doing a good business, and I'm like all the other theater owners—the more money I'm making the more scared I am."

"Why not the hoodooed Avon?" suggested Wallingford to Blackie with a smile.

"The Avon!" exclaimed Violet Bonnie. "Well, here's where good old Dan Sickels gets a fresh start! I'm stout for Dan and for the Avon, and I think it will be a mascot for us. Blackie, you hunt up Dicky Dolger, who wrote the book of 'The Pink Canary,' and I'll get him right to work on a libretto for 'The Lama's Goat.' Melissa won't have any soubrette part. We'll get a real one for that. Melissa will just come on at 10:15 and have it over and go home in her automobile. Then you hunt up Rickets Johnson, who wrote the music for the 'Canary' piece, and I'll set him to work on the score. Poor devils! Neither Dicky nor Rickets have ever come back since and maybe this is their chance!"

"Maybe the picking isn't so good," observed Blackie. "It's a cinch that Dicky Dolger stole 'The Pink Canary' from 'The Yellow Bird.'"

"He didn't," denied Violet Bonnie instantly. "Dicky was a friend of mine. He only adapted it. If Dicky's anything like he used to be I can lock him up in a room with a bunch of old librettos and a case of red eye and have the book in a week. If we can put detectives after Rickets Johnson to keep anybody from slipping him dope money till he's through with this job I can have the score in a month. Any good music publishing house will hand us a young song writer to dash off the lyrics. Allow another month for rehearsals, scenery, costumes and props, and there we are. We ought to open at the Avon in two months from today."

This separate skirt shown in 8332 is an excellent model for a heavy linen cotton, serge or gabardine. It is a straight lined three-piece skirt with a three-piece tunic and three circular ruffles which may be used or omitted according to the fancy. Oyster white linen of a rather coarse quality could be used effectively for this skirt for summertime wear with sheer blouses. It would also be attractive for black taffeta or moire; these taffeta skirts may be worn with contrasting jackets and are especially cool for summer afternoons.

To copy this skirt in size 24, 3¼ yards of 42-inch material is needed. Linens for skirts and suits comes very wide, averaging 42 to 95 inches in width. It is priced from about 98 cents and up.

Pattern comes in six sizes, 22 to 32.

This is a Perfect Pattern.

It may be obtained by filling out the coupon and enclosing fifteen cents in stamps or coin to the Pattern Department of this paper.

14466

Such a lovely hat for the "kiddie" could be made from white or colored linen and embroidered by hand. A hat, like the one illustrated here, is very good for summer, as it shades the eyes from the glaring sun and is light and cool.

This attractive little hat, 14466, is suitable for a child from 1 to 3 years. The brim is 12 inches in diameter and may be embroidered in solid work and eyelets. The crown should be separate and either tacked to the brim or fastened by means of small buttons or snaps. The embroidery on the crown may be omitted if desired. This design may be bought in a strip 1-inch wide for trimming waists, dresses, neckwear and children's clothes. By ordering pattern 14465, you will receive 6 yards and 4 corners.

Guaranteed, hot-iron transfers will be supplied for 10 cents each.

Some Cookery Suggestions

BLACKBERRIES IN DELICIOUS WAYS.

LUNCH.
Egg Salad, Mayonnaise.
Hot Rolls. Olives.
Blackberries and Pineapple.
Chocolate.

THERE are a number of varieties of blackberries. The long blackberries are firmer than the round ones. Some are much sweeter than others, so this should be taken into account when putting them up.

Blackberries and Pineapple.—Take a quart of fresh blackberries and cut into small dice the same amount of pineapple. Chill the fruit thoroughly and serve with sugar and cream. This is a dessert that always pleases, as the sweetness of one fruit is neutralized by the other's acidity.

A Tasty Novelty.

Blackberry Omelet.—For this use a cupful of large blackberries. Cut in two with a silver knife; sprinkle with four tablespoonfuls of sugar and set aside; beat four eggs, the whites and yolks separately; to the latter add a teaspoonful of sugar, a trifle of lemon juice and a pinch of salt. Fold in the whites lightly and turn into a hot buttered omelet pan. When done spread over the top the sugared berries, fold and set in a hot oven for a minute and serve on a hot platter.

A Decorative Dessert.

Blackberry Mold.—Take one and a half pounds of good cooking apples; pick the berries and peel and core the apples, cutting them up. Place the fruit in an enameled pan, adding three-quarters of a pound of sugar and a teacup of water. Stew the fruit until tender, then rub it through a sieve, when there should be three gills of puree. In another pan melt half an ounce of gelatin in a gill of water, but do not let it boil; when melted stir it into the blackberry and apple puree. Stir for five minutes and then pour the mixture into a wet mold, and when cold turn out and serve with whipped cream.

Nice For Children.

Blackberry and Sago.—For this stew some blackberries with enough sugar to sweeten them until you can strain off a pint of juice. Put this juice into an enameled pan and when very hot sprinkle into it two large tablespoonfuls of fine sago or tapioca. Stir briskly until the sago turns clear; the mixture will then have thickened; pour into a wet mold; when cold turn it out and serve with a plain custard round it. The custard should be made with a half pint of milk, one ounce of sugar and two eggs; beat the eggs with the sugar for five minutes, then gradually stir in the milk; put the custard in a pitcher into a saucepan of boiling water. Stir the custard till it thickens, but on no account let it boil or it will curdle. When the custard coats the back of the spoon used for stirring it is done and should be poured into a basin to cool before pouring it round the pudding.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

The True Story Of a Patriotic Army Dog.

The Firecracker Did Not Go Off.

THE Fourth of July had drawn to a close and Jack and Evelyn were very tired, but daddy had a story to tell them, a really true story, and, of course, they were very eager to hear it.

"There was a dog once named Dash. He was an Irish setter, and he belonged to an army family. His master was a young lieutenant in the army, and his master's father was a general.

"Now, this dog was quite old, but he had led an active life which had agreed with him splendidly, and he didn't behave as though he were old at all. There were several young children in the family, and he was made a great pet. What he liked above everything was the sound of guns.

"He had been to numerous army posts, and each one seemed to him to be quite perfect, especially on the days of target practice or when the salutes were fired.

"But, alas, one summer the family went to live in a stupid, quiet little village, where there was absolutely no life at all.

"Dash seemed to be pining away in the village. Quiet country life didn't agree with this dog of the army. The family thought that maybe Dash was going to die of old age until one day came—the day of joy to so many thousands of people! And it was the day for Dash. 'Could it be true,' he thought to himself when he first heard the sound of a huge dynamite cracker. Then came another. With a bound Dash was out of his corner, wide awake and barking furiously. There was no more sleep for that household that night, but little did they care, for all wished to enter into the celebration.

"Late in the day the young lieutenant said to a friend of his: 'Let's go off to the river. I have several cannon firecrackers to send off. I didn't dare to fire them today, as I was afraid they might break the windows. But we can throw them over the bridge. Dash has gone to have his supper and is somewhat calmed down.'

"So off they started for the river, and over the bridge they threw a lighted cannon cracker. Just before it landed in the water off it went with a terrific report.

"They had lighted the other and thrown it into the water when Dash went bounding into the river, swimming toward the awful firecracker. These crackers had been recommended as 'sure to go off,' and there was the beloved Dash going for it.

"But the firecracker did not go off! Dash sniffed at it disgustedly, while his master breathed the biggest sigh of relief and thanks of his life."

VOTES FOR WOMEN

Conducted by the Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield.

Votes for women: woman's service to the State and her glorious handicap.

When the president of the New York State antis says:

"Woman has attained the position she has in the community without suffrage. She hasn't needed it. If it were known tomorrow that no woman would ever vote in New York not a single privilege of woman would be taken away. No college or university would close her doors to her. She wouldn't be excluded from a single profession or occupation or industry," it sounds impressive, but an analysis of the statement shows its utter worthlessness as an argument against suffrage. What a waste of time and words to strike an attitude and tell us that women are still free to obtain a college education and work for their living though they have no vote. There is nothing new or striking or revelant in this so-called "uncontrollable" argument.

One Anti-Suffragist devotes a half column of her communication to listing women who are doing notable service for the State today and then proceeds to congratulate these women upon being "appreciated" by the men of the State inasmuch as "No sooner does a woman show that she is the person needed for a special work than she is called on to do that work," and the writer of the communication is jubilant over their good fortune in having no ballots. This "incontrovertible" argument is: "See what these women have done without the vote. Because they are so able and efficient without it, they do not want the vote."

(Query: Even if it were true that able, efficient women could do without the vote, might it not be that the State could ill afford to do without the vote of able, efficient women?)

All this reminds me of a certain member of the baseball nine of an Eastern school. This player was a great favorite, always in demand, and sure to bring credit to his team. Owing to a deformity at birth, he had but one arm—the other was merely a stump at the elbow. But in the folds of this half empty sleeve he caught the ball and clutched it with his one hand. His skill was cause for wonder. His good work for his school was certainly appreciated and he was called upon regularly to play his part on the team. But I never heard anyone say, "Isn't it fine that he has only one arm! O, how unfortunate it would be if he were not deformed!" And I don't remember that it was ever suggested to amputate an arm from each of the other players so as to improve their game.

According to Anti-Suffrage logic this would be just the thing to do. They give all praise to Dr. Katherine B. Davis for instance, and then assure her that having been appointed by a man Mayor and "appreciated" by men politicians she should be only too grateful and happy and not wish for anything more. The ridiculous effrontery of their attitude never seems to occur to them.

The honest opinion of one of their number telling Dr. Davis with what sort of citizenship she ought to be contented, may be worth something, but the real weight of value it would seem should belong to what Dr. Davis herself thinks about the matter. Now Dr. Davis knows better than anyone else on earth can tell her just how far she has been able to acomplish what she desires, just how much "appreciation" falls to her lot, and just what her political handicap means to her. And knowing all these things first hand Dr. Davis is a Suffragist heart and soul. She never loses an opportunity to express her own earnest desire for the vote and to urge upon other women its desirability. Does this able, efficient woman know what she is talking about or not? Does she or does she not know what she needs to complete her work and her standing as a citizen?

It sems to me that I would prefer Dr. Davis' opinion on this matter to that of anyone else however well meaning that person might be. It seems to me I would hesitate before informing Dr. Davis what sort of citizenship ought to satisfy her, and give some heed to the sort of citizenship that she, from her own experience, finds needful for herself and all other women.

The less I could understand a desire for such citizenship the less I should be willing to enroll myself in opposition to such a woman as Dr. Davis. Rather should one feel that "such knowledge is too high for me; I cannot attain unto it." But one should at least recognize it as knowledge, and admit that the conviction of a Florence Nightingale, of a Lucretia Mott, of a Frances Willard, of a Julia Ward Howe, of a Katherine Davis, of a Jane Addams were surely such that in very humility at her own failure to rise to the height of vision one at least should never shame herself and her sex by presuming to tell such women that she knows better than they what their place under government should be.

In his fight for re-nomination on the Democratic ticket, Governor Morehead of Nebraska, will have as opposing candidates, Richard L. Metcalfe, George W. Berge and John G. Maher.

The withdrawal of William F. Robertson, as candidate for the Democratic nominaion for governor of Texas, has left Jas. E. Ferguson and Thomas H. Ball as the leading candidates for the head of the State ticket.

William E. Mason, who was a representative in the Fiftieth and Fifty-first Congresses and a United States Senator from Illinois, 1897-1903, is now a candidate for the Republican nomination to succeed United States Senator L. Y. Sherman.

Three of the present members of the United States Senate are sons of former United States Senators. They are Gilbert Hitchcock, of Nebraska, Willard Saulsbury, of Deleware and Johnson N. Camden, the new United States Senator from Kentucky.

Representative Frank E. Doremus, of Michigan, who is chairman of the Democratic Congressional Committee, is to have opposition for re-nomination. Mr. Doremus has announced that he will make his fight for re-nomination on an anti-woman suffrages platform.

Five candidates for United States Senator are promised in Vermont this year. Senator Dillingham is expected to be re-nominated by the Republicans, Charles A. Prouty, former Interstate Commerce Commissioner, will run as a non-partisan, Governor Allen M. Fletcher as an independent, Frazer Metzger as a Progressive, and either Charles A. Watson or Harland B. Howe as the choice of the Democrats.

Never before has there been such a large field of contestants for the governorship of South Carolina as is the case this year. Eleven candidates are already announced. Among them are C. A. Smith, the present lieutenant governor; M. L. Smith, the present speaker of the House; John G. Richards, State railroad commissioner; R. A. Cooper, solicitor of the Eighth Circuit; W. C. Irby, member of the legislature; Richard I. Manning, former State Senator, and John L. McLaurin, former United States Senator.

REAPING BENEFIT.

From the Experience of Plainfield People.

We are fortunate indeed to be able to profit by the experience of our neighbors. The public utterances of Plainfield residents on the following subject will interest and benefit many of our readers. Read this statement. No better proof can be had.

Mrs. William E. Gardner, 322 East Second street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I suffered a great deal from rheumatic pains across my back. I was in a miserable condition for months. Nothing I tried seemed to give me any relief until I began taking Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Randolph's drug store. They seemed to take hold at once, banishing the rheumatic pains and regulating the action of my kidneys. They improved my condition so much that I soon felt like a different woman. I will always endorse Doan's Kidney Pills."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Gardner had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv.

IF BACK HURTS BEGIN ON SALTS
Flush Your Kidneys Occasionally If You Eat Meat Regularly.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which excites the kidneys, they become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood, then we get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, stop eating meat and get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate the kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.—Adv.

Corporation Notice.

Notice is hereby given that the following Ordinance has been introduced before the Common Council, read the second time and ordered engrossed preparatory to its third reading, and that it is the intention of the Council to adopt the same.

AN ORDINANCE

A Supplement to an Ordinance Entitled "An Ordinance for the Assessment of Taxes for the Year 1914" Approved June 8, 1914.

WHEREAS, The Board of School Estimate of this school district, that is to say, the school district comprising the City of Plainfield, has fixed upon and determined the amount of money necessary to be appropriated for the use of the public schools in such district for the ensuing school year, exclusive of the amount apportioned to it by the County Superintendent of Schools, to wit, the sum of One Hundred Nine Thousand One Hundred Thirty Dollars ($109,130), and has made two certificates of said amount signed by all the members of said Board, one of which certificates has been delivered to the Board of Education of said school district and the other to the Common Council of said City:

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council do enact as follows:

Section 1.—That pursuant to the Act of the Legislature of the State of New Jersey, entitled "An Act to establish a thorough and efficient system of free public schools, and to provide for the maintenance, support and management thereof," approved October 19th, 1903, and Acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto, the sum of One Hundred Nine Thousand One Hundred Thirty Dollars ($109,130) be the same is hereby appropriated for the purpose aforesaid as other appropriations are made by the Common Council and that said amount shall be assessed, levied and collected for the year nineteen hundred and fourteen in the same manner as money appropriated for other purposes in this city are required to be assessed, levied and collected.

Diamond Architecture

Today, however, Art is "creeping Out from Under," and everywhere we see efforts toward the Beautiful in Diamond Jewelry.

We have in our Cases and Windows, rarely wonderful pieces, created into La Vallieres, Bar Pins, Breast Pins and what not.

Any time during the business day we will be glad to show this selection.

ELKS' APPEAL IS DISMISSED

IS SUBJECT TO TAX

Decision Based on the Ground is Not Organized Exclusively for Religious, Charitable or Hospital Purposes.

Trenton, July 9—The State Board of Equalization of Taxes today handed down a decision dismissing the appeal of Mt. Holly Lodge, No. 848, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, from the assessment for taxes levied upon the Elks' Home and other property of the lodge in Mt. Holly. The total assessment involved was $7,000, of which $5,700 was on the Elks' Home. The lodge filed its application with the State Board asking that the assessment against the Home be cancelled under the provision of the act of 1913 exempting from taxation all buildings and corporations organized exclusively for the moral and mental improvement of men and women, or for religious, charitable, benevolent or hospital purposes.

The appeal is dismissed by the State Board upon the ground that Mt. Holly lodge is not organized exclusivelly for religious, charitable or hospital purposes, nor is its building actually used for one or more such purposes.

The decision is of wide significance, as it determines the policy of the State Tax Board with reference to the taxation or exemption under the act of 1913, of the property of lodges and other similar fraternal organizations.

It was admitted in the proceedings before the State Board that the general object of the Order of Elks is to inculcate the principles of charity, justice, brotherly love, etc., and that in addition to this Mt. Holly lodge aids and protects its members and their families, practices general charity and aids in the "Big Brother" movement. It was shown, too, that the Home is used exclusively for the social intercourse of its members, and is furnished with reading and writing rooms, pool and billiard rooms, dining-room and kitchen; that liquor is sold there to members under a license duly granted by the Burlington county court. The lodge also occasionally holds entertainments in the Home for its members and their wives. The lodge claimed that the Home property was within the purview of the act referred to and so should be exempt from taxation.

The State Tax Board rules that the Mt. Holly lodge is not an association or corporation organized exclusively for the mental and moral improvement of men or women; that the agreed state of facts does not establish the use of the Home for religious, charitable, benevolent or hospital purposes; that while the lodge is undoubtedly benevolent as to some of its objects, it is not exclusively so.

"It will be noted," says the State Board, "that the statute makes the use of the building an essential test for exemption. A building may be owned by a church, or a school, a hospital or a charitable institution, and still be taxable. The question is not who owns it, but does it possess characteristics, or is it used for purposes which the Legislature has decreed shall confer upon it freedom from the tax burden."

SUSPICIOUS CHARACTERS ARE TAKEN INTO CUSTODY

Arrested as suspicious characters by Roundsman Saffron, at an early hour this morning, Joseph O'Brien and William Burns, who give their address as Salem, Mass., are being held prisoners at police headquarters awaiting arraignment tomorrow morning and further examination as to their identity.

The men were found lurking about the enclosed yard of the Union Beef Company on East Fourth street and when queried by Saffron could not give a satisfactory account of themselves.

MISS ROSE'S FUNERAL.

The funeral of Miss Katherine Rose, who died at her home in the borough Sunday, in the thirty-seventh year of her age, was held yesterday afternoon from the home of her brother, Peter Rose, at 101 Belmont avenue and was in charge of Rev. George Bowers, of Warrenville. She is survived besides a mother, Mrs. Katherine Rose, of Springdale, by two sisters, Mrs. Henry Albert, of Warrenville, and Miss Mitta Rose, of this city, and three brothers, Peter, August and Fred Rose, of this city. Interment was made in the North Plainfield cemetery.

MISS MARTIN DIES IN HER 75TH YEAR

Sister of Former Assistant Postmaster J. A. Martin Succumbs to Illness.

Miss Catherine Martin, aged seventy-five years, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Augustus Martin, and sister of former Assistant Postmaster James A. Martin, of Westervelt avenue, died at 3:30 o'clock this morning following an illness of eight years which began with a stroke of paralysis. Throughout her long illness she was helpless and a great sufferer, requiring the constant attendance of someone.

Miss Martin was born in Plainfield and always lived here. She was of a quiet, retiring disposition and was admired for her many excellent womanly qualities. Her sister, Miss Sarah Martin died in 1900. Miss Martin's father was tax collector in Plainfield for many years, and the family has always been well known here.

There survives two brothers, James A. Martin, of Westervelt avenue, and Augustus H. Martin, of North Plainfield. The funeral will be held at the late home at 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The burial will be in North Plainfield cemetery.

1,000 BAPTISTS GO TO ASBURY PARK

Second Excursion of the Season Attracts a Large Crowd.

Nearly one thousand Baptists and their friends left Plainfield this morning on the annual excursion of the First, Temple and South Plainfield Baptist churches to Asbury Park, the second one of the season from this city. There were two sections of eight coaches each required to carry the pleasure-seekers to the shore. The weather of the early morning was not promising for a good day, the city being wrapped in a heavy fog, but before 7:30 o'clock this had lifted and the sun put in an appearance, cheering the hearts of both old and young who had planned for the annual outing.

The committee in charge of the excursion comprised the following: Chairman, John G. McLaughlin; Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, Pierson Bailey, Harold Robins, Arthur Pierson, Earle Pierson, Loren Giddes, Wilbur Randolph, Louis Matlack, George Church, of the First Baptist church; Rev. Evarts C. Conover, Charles Post, L. W. Randolph, Frank Stewart, U. B. Crane, Christopher Myers, Oswood Myers, William Simons, Edward Simons, George Huff and Herbert Uhrlick. The excursionists will leave the shore at 7:15 o'clock tonight.

Y. M. H. A. SHIRTWAIST DANCE LARGELY ATTENDED

The Y. M. H. A. shirtwaist dance held in Abrams' Auditorium, last night, was largely attended. There were guests from New Brunswick, Somerville and this city present, and all enjoyed a fine program with music furnished by a local orchestra. Dancing was continued until 2 o'clock. Refreshments were served at midnight.

Harry Siegel was the chairman of the committee in charge and he was assisted by Sam Myers, A. Schwartz, I. Kunzman and Dave Rosenthal. Morris Block, Jr., was in charge of the refreshments.

1915 Hudson Arrives Tomorrow.

The new Hudson "Six 40"—as you will concede after you have seen it, is the typical car. It reveals the criterion by which coming cars will be measured. Its new type motor has made Sixes more economical than Fours. It removes the last reason for buying a Four in the field above $1,000. Its moderation in size and power accords with men's trends today. Its weight shows the new possibilities without sacrifice of strength. In beauty and equipment it shows new attractions to which future cars must come. This car will be on exhibition at the showroom of the Thompson Auto Co.—Adv. ***

MAYOR STEWART NON-COMMITTAL

Not Known Whether He Will Seek Senatorial Honors or Not.

G. O. P. GETTING BUSY

Republicans Will Make Determined Effort to Elect a Mayor—Several Changes Predicted in Common Council for Next Year.

Although Mayor Percy H. Stewart's name is being frequently mentioned as a possible candidate for the State Senatorial nomination, Plainfield's executive is non-committal on the subject, not yet being willing to make any statement as to what he intends to do. From Elizabeth comes the information that in the event of his entering the race, causing a three-cornered fight between himself, Assemblyman Frank Dobbins, of Rahway and Assemblyman Leonard, of Elizabeth, the last named would win out. This is the opinion of the wise ones in Elizabeth who assert that the strength of the Democratic primary vote, as well as at the general election, lies in that city. That remains to be shown, however, according to Plainfield Democrats.

There is every reason to believe that the Republicans of Plainfield intend to get together this year and make a determined effort to elect a Mayor, whether Mr. Stewart decides to run or not. While it is a litle early maybe to get definite information as to a probable ticket, influences are known to be working which will bring out an unusually strong man for the Mayoralty nomination, with the idea of regaining lost honors.

The present city executive is the first Democrat to hold that office in many years and the Republicans say that they believe they can elect a party man this fall. There is likely to be a number of changes in the Common Council next year for it is known that several of the present members intend to retire, one term being sufficient for them. Among those who it is believed will not seek a renomination are Cornelius van Herwerden and A. D. Edgar. Leighton Calkins, whose term also expires this year, has been mentioned for the Mayoralty nomination on the Republican ticket, and although he will not commit himself, it is believed that should he be urged to enter the race he would not refuse the honor. He has been particularly active in city affairs during the present term and has shown himself to be a leader in the Council.

The list of Republican Assembly aspirants gives indications of being increased by one more name, if the boom started for William E. Clum, of Elizabeth, by his friends, meets with his appoval. A quiet movement in his behalf has been under way for some time. Mr. Clum has been sounded on the subject, and, if a sufficient amount of sentiment in his favor can be aroused by those active in his behalf, it is believed he will make the run. In addition to being widely known as one of the oldest-established architects in Elizabeth, Mr. Clum has an extensive acquaintance throughout the county by reason of having held high delegated and elective positions in the Jr. O. U. A. M. and other orders.

The dissatisfaction and disgruntled feeling among Plainfield Democrats over the postmaster appointment here by United States Senator Martine, is not disappearing as fast as some of the leaders, both local and county, would like. The rumblings against putting a local ticket in the field which were heard after the appointment was announced, still continue as do also the assertions of the "old guards" against taking any part whatever in the approaching campaign. Those feeling the disappointment less keenly, say they will put a ticket in the field, however, and will trust to party loyalty for support.

Indications at present point to no other place in the county being as well represented in candidates on all tickets as Rahway. The Republican column has William T. Stuchell for Congress and Sheriff Wright for the county clerkship. The Democratic ticket will have Assemblyman Dobbin's name for State Senator, and probably Mayor Thomas J. Fyffe for sheriff. Former Mayor James B. Furber is also being prominently mentioned as a Progressive candidate for sheriff.

WILL DANCE IN STORE.

An innovation will be introduced in the way of entertainment tomorrow night when the Ritz store management on West Front street will conduct a program of dancing for their patrons in the spacious store. For this purpose special music has been arranged for and exhibitions of modern dancing will be given by Daniel McCormack and "Doc" Doyle, of this city.

PIED-PIPER WANTED FOR LOCAL CANINES

Chief Kiely Finds Applications Scarce for Dog-catcher's Job.

Who wants to be a dog-catcher? That is the problem of the hour presented to Chief Kiely, of the local police department, for solution. The police head is doing all in his power to engage the proper man to round up stray canines but as yet has been unable to land an applicant. Instructed by Mayor Percy H. Stewart to hire an individual to act in this capacity, the chief has been scouring the city for possible seekers of the job.

The dog catcher's office carries with it a fee of fifty cents for every homeless cur found loitering about the city streets. Whether the unemployed of the city think that dogs are too scarce to warrant their applying for the position or whether a majority are shy of the beasts is not known, but Chief Kiely has found the talent as rare as a Fourth street trolley car at 2 a. m.

Although the court ordered several of the canines shot in the rear of police headquarters on Sycamore street, last week, Chief Kiely has issued orders to have this practice stopped and the dogs will no longer be put to death in the station-house yard. As soon as a "Pied Piper" for stray dogs can be unearthed a public pound will be established and unclaimed animals will be executed at the expiration of a fixed time limit.

MOTORISTS COLLIDE, ONE SLIGHTLY HURT

Running his motorcycle head-long into an automobile in the Netherwood section shortly after noon today, Carl C. Evans, son of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Evans, of Lenox avenue, sustained a number of painful, but not serious, cuts and bruises and had his machine completely demolished. Evans' vehicle, a two-cylinder affair of the Indian model, and an automobile, the owner of whom made himself scarce shortly after the collision, came together at right angles, both having been traveling at a moderate rate of speed at the time.

Evans was hurled from the lighter machine and hit the macadam roadbed with great force. His arms, face and legs were scratched and bruised. The automobile was of the Ford type and although the driver was forced to stop his car when the accident occurred, he soon made his disappearance. Evans was taken to the home of his parents, where he was resting comfortably this afternoon.

CHURCH BENEFIT WILL BE HELD IN COLUMBUS CLUB

The annual entertainment and dance for the benefit of St. Mary's church at Stony Hill, N. J., will be given in the auditorium of the Columbus Club Wednesday night, July 15. A number of pleasing features have been arranged by the committee in charge and all who attend are promised a good time.

Heretofore this annual event has been held at Stony Hill, thus necessitating a long stage ride to and from the place. The Columbus Club is a more convenient place for the affair and the receipts are expected to exceed those of other years.

MISS MAY CODDINGTON CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY

Mr. and Mrs. Winfield Coddington, of Somerset street, gave a party yesterday afternoon for their daughter, May Etta, in honor of her eighth birthday. There were about twelve little children present and the afternoon was spent in playing games. Refreshments were served during the afternoon. Mrs. George E. Cowling assisted Mrs. Coddington in entertaining and serving.

Those who were present are the Misses Marjorie Cowling, Mattie, Ruth and Madeline Uhhahan, Mildred Harding, Hattie VanWinkle, Sarah Cooper, Grace Beady, Mazie Coddington and Howard Coddington, John Bosterly and Irving Cowling.

LOCAL WOMAN FIGHTS BURGLAR

Mrs. Martin J. McGinley, Formerly Miss Katherine Harding, Attacks Big Man.

A NOTED CRIMINAL

Apprehended at Revolver's Point—Early Morning Visitor Has Served Time in Elmira—Entered Room in Bare Feet.

Mrs. Martin J. McGinley, twenty-four years old, formerly Miss Katherine Harding, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Harding, of John street, this morning awoke in her home, 359 Fourth street, Brooklyn, and saw a shoeless burglar making his way to a couch on which she had been sleeping with her baby daughter, five months old.

Arising, she seized the intruder and grappled with him. After a hard tussel the man escaped from her and while the woman was lying in a dazed condition on the floor he donned his shoes and leaped through a window.

Then McGinley, hearing his wife's cry of "Burglar!" gave chase. He is a postoffice clerk. Dressed in his pajamas only he ran after the burglar along Fourth street to Sixth avenue and then in Sixth avenue to Third street.

In Third street Policeman Peter Kraft, of the Bergen street station, saw the man in pajamas chasing a youth wearing hose only. Kraft drew his revolver, waved it under the fugitive's eyes and arrested him.

At the station the prisoner said he was Thomas Beagan, No. 135 Nevins street, Brooklyn.

Mrs. McGinley said today that fortunately she was aroused by her baby's cries just when the burglar broke through a screen and entered the parlor she was using as a sleeping room.

"He was a little man," she said, "and I felt sure I could handle him myself. I found, though, that he was a squirmy sort of person and he got away from me before I could make him my captive."

"He made no attempt to take my rings. I had on my engagement ring a solitaire diamond and another ring with three stones, besides my wedding ring. I am sorry I didn't floor him and arrest him myself, but he was just a bit too slippery for me."

Sleeping with McGinley was his father, John McGinley, sixty years old, of High Bridge. He had placed $200 and a gold watch on a morris chair in the parlor temporarily the bedroom of the wife who battled with the burglar. Her father-in-law thanked her today for saving his money and watch.

SPICER COMPANY PLANS MANY IMPORTANT CHANGES

Rumors to the effect that the Spicer Manufacturing Company, of this city will transfer a large portion of the work at present turned out at the local plant to the works at South Plainfield, were verified today by a representative of the Daily Press, who interviewed officials of the concern. A permit was recently granted the Spicer Company to demolish several building of its local plant. This will probably be accomplished when the new building at South Plainfield, which was recently started is completed. Officials of the company stated, however, that some work will be continued here.

This statement on the part of the officials will no doubt set at rest and many conflicting rumors concerning the possible action of the company shifting their entire force from this city.

SOMERVILLE MAN FACES CHARGES AS A BIGAMIST

Gustav Sutir, thirty-seven years old, of 196 West High street, Somerville, was arrested at his home yesterday by Detective-Sergeant Garrick, of the Hoboken police force. The Somerset county man is accused of bigamy by Emily Maretzka, of 303 North street, Mount Vernon, N. Y., who says that she is his first wife.

According to the complainant they were married in Trinity church, Hoboken, June 5, 1910. She alleges that since then he married Anna Luttberger and lived with her as his lawful wife. He will be arraigned in Hoboken tomorrow morning.

JAMES PENNY RECEIVES A PURSE OF $400

James Penny, the faithful sexton of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, and one of the best known residents of the city, was given an agreeable surprise following the midweek prayer service in the church, last evening, when Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, the pastor, on behalf of the congregation, presented him with a purse of $400 with which to take a trip to his native home in England this summer. Mr. Penny was so greatly surprised that it was several minutes before he could regain his composure and express his appreciation for the gift.

Mr. and Mrs. Penny will sail on July 23 for England. During the visit abroad, they will visit Manchester Cathedral, in front of which Mr. Penny as a lad used to sell London dailies, at a time when his gandfather was the organist. The token of esteem presented to Mr. Penny, last night, was one which has followed several years of faithful service as sexton of the church.

MERCHANTS AGREE TO CLOSE ON THURSDAYS

Majority Will Suspend Business All Day During August.

Announcement is made today that a majority of the merchants have decided upon a summer closing plan for August, all but a few agreeing to close their places of business all day Thursday of each week and the others for a half-day Thursday. The announcement appearing in the newspapers yesterday that the Business Men's Association would meet Monday night to consider the closing subject was erroneous, as the subject will not be taken up at that meeting.

Notwithstanding that a majority will close on Thursdays in August there are still others who have in years past closed on Saturday afternoon and evening and they will follow that rule this year as usual. The following business houses have signed to close on Thursday of each week in August:

S. Scheuer & Co., A. E. Force & Co., Schwed Brothers, Tepper Brothers, Hyman Adelberg, Morris C. VanArsdale, Samuel Rothberg, S. H. Whitney, Roth & Co., H. A. Bona Co., K. D. Gaffney, Woodhull & Martin Co., Mrs. J. P. Burd, DeMeza & Blimm, H. P. Greenwood, Louis Preger, Shirley & Johnston, Leo Slonim, Carl Silbert, Penn & Bernstein, J. L. Bennett, Fred H. Firstbrook, M. R. Giles, Charles E. Vail, H. Hinchcliffe, Marcus Hoyt & Co., H. L. Viebrock, O. M. Dunham, J. R. Blair, J. Hervey Doane, Peter F. Delgyer, John J. Kenney, L. B. VanCamp, K. H. Stuart, A. L. Eames, A. E. Force & Co shoe store. These have agreed to close a half day: Zeek Bakery Company, F. W. Woolworth Co., W. L. Smalley and Smalley Brothers.

SUFFRAGE ASSOCIATION BUSY PREPARING FOR CONVENTION

The activities of the New Jersey Woman's Suffrage Association are centred at present in the preparation for the next annual convention, to be held in Camden.

Although the convention will not be held until November 6, committees have been appointed. The program committee is already seeking speakers for the occasion. Mrs. Ward D. Kerlin, president of the Camden League, is chairman of the program committee, and assisting her will be Mrs. Robert P. Finley, of Merchantville, Mrs. S. Morris Craven, of Trenton, Mrs. Durbin Van Vleck, of Boonton, Mrs. Mary K. Colvin, of East Orange and the State president, Mrs. Edward F. Feickert, of this city.

The association will co-operate with the Congressional committee of the national association in a conference to be held in August, the exact date and place to be decided later. The association will hold a public meeting in Asbury Park late this month, in favor of a federal amendment for woman suffrage. The Congressional Union will co-operate with the association in this event.

GUNMAN IS HELD FOR EXTRADITION

Dominick Shirella Placed Under Bonds of $5,000 by City Judge DeMeza.

MAKES A CONFESSION

Higgins' Quarry Will Be Transferred to Elizabeth This Afternoon—Brother Assists Police in Extracting Truth from Gangster.

Dominick Shirella, notorious gunman of New York's underworld and self-confessed holdup man, was arraigned before Judge W. G. DeMeza in the city court, yesterday afternoon, and held in $5,000 bonds to await extradition to the Empire State. Following a request made by District Attorney Whitman's office in New York city, Judge DeMeza placed the prisoner under heavy bail. According to information received in this city, yesterday, from the outhorities in the Metropolis, Shirella has served time in Sing Sing, Elmira and other penitentiaries. He was apprehended by Sergeant Higgins living as a hermit in a hut in the South Plainfield swamp and held as a fugitive from justice.

In a cell at police headquarters, Shirella is in a downcast mood, full of remorse. Visited by his two brothers, one a youngster of fifteen years and the other older than the prisoner, his bravado has been melted and he no longer holds control of the iron nerve that characterized him immediately after his arrest. The brothers, one a prosperous business man in New York, were highly commended by Chief Kiely to newspaper men this morning. In referring to the brothers the police head had nothing but words of praise and spoke highly of the relatives' efforts to make the desperado divulge all he knew about the atrocious crime for which he is being held.

According to the New York authorities, Shirella, alias "Hump," with a gang of four other gunmen, held up seventy-five men in a pool room at 124th street and Lexington avenue, and got away with about $2,000. The other three men have fallen into the dragnet of the Metropolitan police and the quartet face long prison terms.

Soon after being locked up Shirella was visited by his brother and the latter made every effort to draw a full and detailed confession from the wayward youth. Under Chief Kiely's cross-examination and urged on by entreaties on the part of his brother, the prisoner finally broke down and made a clean breast of the whole affair. Telling of the carefully laid plans of the gangsters, the hold-up scene and getaway, Shirella divulged information to the local police head which will play a large part in the trial.

Speaking of the desperado, whom he referred to as the "black sheep" of the family, the brother outlined the courses pursued by the parents to bring the youth to his senses. He told of his efforts to support his aged mother and the sorrowful manner in which Dominick's crimes affected her. Old and fast failing the mother has not as yet been informed of the boy's apprehension and when she is told the shock will no doubt be a severe one. This time, more than ever before, Shirella has displayed genuine penitence. He exhibits remorse that has filled all of those with whom he has come in contact with pity. Hardened by the life he has been leading, the prisoner when first apprehended took his arrest as a matter of course. Had Sergeant Higgins not used precautionary methods to "bag his game," the man would have probably put up a desperate battle. He was taken completely unawares and after reaching headquarters admitted that if he had been given half a chance he would never have been taken into custody.

Well dressed, clean shaven and good looking he does not present the outward appearances of a New York gangster. His shifty glance and "hard" speech are the only things that betray his character. He admits having served terms in prisons and reformatories, but has now taken a sudden view of the better side of life. His crime is one that will not go unpunished in New York State and when he comes out of prison at the end of his term Shirella claims that he will begin anew.

The prisoner will be transferred to the Union county jail at Elizabeth this afternoon to begin a thirty-day sentence during which requisition papers will be made out.

What's In a Name

There is one name in the banking business, one name in the jewelry business, one name in the silver business, one name in the mail order business, one name in most businesses which, in the popular opinion, is the representative name in its particular field.

There is such a name in the clothing business in Plainfield, too.

Rogers, the former well known New Marketite, apprising her that the Rogers' have traded their orange farm at Fort Pierce, Fla., for a place at Colorado Springs, Colo. The trade was made on account of Mrs. Rogers' health.

Edward Potter, of Somerville, who was arrested by Marshal Tarpey early Tuesday morning for conducting himself in an unseemly manner on the premises of Mrs. Grace Ising, was in the borough Tuesday afternoon having been arraigned before Recorder David S. Campbell early that morning and released after paying a fine, looking for his coat, which contained a check for $192, a diamond studded watch valued at $147 and a diamond stickpin worth $30. Mr Potter was in the borough only a short time before he was apprised that Mrs. Duncan Munn, of Madison avenue, had found a coat in her back yard. Potter hurried there, identified the coat as his, found all the articles of value intact and handed Mrs. Munn a $5 bill to compensate her for her honesty. Potter also took Mrs. Munn's name and address and the probabilities are that she will receive a substantial check from him for the damage which he did to her garden as the result of his night's prowling. In regard to the incident, Potter said he had gotten on a train at Elizabeth and that was the last thing he knew until he came to his senses in the borough jail. He is a prominent man in Somerville, being president of the golf club there.

PRINCIPALS IN MURDER.

DEMOCRATS STUNNED BY LOUISIANA REVOLT

Congressional Committee Bolts to Progressives.

Washington, July 9.—Democratic leaders from the south were stunned by the news received from the Third Louisiana district where the Democratic congressional committee went over to the bull moose party in a body. Louisiana Democrats are out of tune with the Wilson administration and are ripe for a revolt. The split in the Third district is expected to extend throughout the state and may result in the election of three Progressive members from Louisiana. The movement is anti-Democratic and is not necessarily a drift toward the third party. The Louisiana Democrats who find themselves at odds with the administration cannot make an alignment with the Republicans because of the race issue. The Progressive party is advertised in the south as a "white man's party," and for that reason is hopeful of gathering in the disaffected Democratic elements in that section.

The leaders in the Progressive movement in Louisiana are all representative men who have heretofore affiliated with the Democrats.

They are W. H. Price, L. C. Roger, Edwin Broussard, John Marks, Samuel Le Blanc and W. T. Peterman.

Senator Elect Broussard of Louisiana, a Democrat, who at present represents the disaffected Third district in the house, testifies to the character of the men who have deserted the Democratic party on tariff issue.

"I have not been home since the first of the year, and I have no idea how far reaching the revolt is," said Mr. Broussard. "My information is faulty because I was not consulted by those who made the anti-Democratic demonstration at home yesterday, but I can tell you who the men are who have left our party so summarily."

HERE'S WARNING TO COOKS.

Boarders Made Ill by Bad Meals Can Recover Damages.

Topeka, Kan., July 9.—Persons who provide unwholesome food which "makes their guests, boarders or employees sick" are liable for personal damages, according to a decision of the Kansas supreme court.

The decision was handed down in the case of J. D. Malone, a farm hand, who brought suit for $15,000, alleging that his employer served meat that made him ill. The lower court gave him a verdict for $1,000. The decision was upheld by the supreme court.

MRS. CARMAN IN CELL; COLLAPSED

Breaks Down When Arrested on Murder Charge.

ENTERS PLEA OF NOT GUILTY

Deeply Pathetic Scenes Follow the Finding of the Coroner—Examination Will Be Held Next Monday in Freeport—Arrest a Surprise.

Freeport, N. Y., July 9.—Although Mrs. Edwin Carman is in the Nassau county jail at Mineola charged with murdering Mrs. Louise Bailey in Dr. Carman's office on the night of June 30, one of the principal witnesses against her, George Golder, has repudiated the testimony he gave at the inquest and has sworn to an affidavit "that he was only guessing."

The warrant on which the arrest was made contains the assertion that Mrs. Carman "used criminal means to bring about the death of Mrs. Lulu Bailey."

The arrest of Mrs. Carman had been demanded by District Attorney Smith at the conclusion of the inquest at noon, although Coroner Norton said later that he issued the warrant on his own initiative. The action of the district attorney was taken after hearing the story of an eyewitness to the shooting. This witness said that on the night that Mrs. Bailey was killed he was near the Carman home. Immediately after the shot was fired he looked in the direction of the Carman house and saw a woman whose description tallied exactly with that of Mrs. Carman walking from the window through which the shot had been fired toward the rear of the house.

Neighbors Gather in Crowds.

After the telling of this story the arrest of Mrs. Carman was generally considered to be only a matter of time. The word went around that she would soon be in custody and nearly all of Freeport's population began to gather in front of the Carman home.

The crowd surrounded the wide lawn in front of the house and was kept back by nearly the full police force of the town and some deputy sheriffs. Standing on the lawn as the crowd gathered was Dr. Carman. He was as usual unruffled, although he knew that his wife's arrest was a question of minutes.

Officials Go to Carman Home.

Coroner Norton and Sheriff Pettit came from the Elks' club and jumped into a waiting automobile. They were whirled up to the Carman house while the crowd gaped as they approached. Dr. Carman met them at the door, and Mrs. Carman was called from upstairs. In the meantime District Attorney Smith and his assistant, Mr. Weeks, had gone to the house, and Lawyer George M. Levy was on hand to look after Mrs. Carman's interests.

When Mrs. Carman was brought into the office where Mrs. Bailey had received her fatal wound, Coroner Norton, who has known her since childhood, met her in the most kindly fashion. Producing the warrant, he said:

"I have a most painful duty to perform. I must place you under arrest to answer for the murder of Mrs. Lulu Bailey. Do you plead guilty or not guilty?"

All Were In Tears.

Mrs. Carman stood before the coroner, her husband's hand in hers. She replied "Not guilty" in a low voice, and then as she looked at her husband both began to cry. The coroner was weeping himself as he said, "I commit you to the county jail at Mineola." This was about all he could say, and he went to a far corner of the room, wiping his eyes. In fact, there were few in the improvised courtroom who had dry eyes during the proceedings.

Coroner Norton said later that he would hold an examination in Mrs. Carman's case at his office in Freeport next Monday at 10 o'clock.

The proceedings over, Mrs. Carman prepared to leave. Her hat, an automobile coat and a heavy blue veil were brought to her, and these she put on. The automobile had been run around to the door at the east side of the house. Through this door first came Dr. Carman, leading his wife by the hand, and after them came Sheriff Pettit and Deputy Sheriff Wallace. They all entered the automobile at once and were hurriedly driven away.

EIGHT EXPLORERS MISSING.

Members of Stefansson's Expedition Thought Safe, Now Believed Lost.

Ottawa, Ont., July 9.—Eight members of the Stefansson artic expedition who were believed to be on Wrangel island, off the coast of Alaska, with the rest of the Kariuk party which was reported safe more than a month ago, are now thought to be lost, according to a report which Deputy Minister of Marine Desbarrats received from Captain Bartlett in Nome. Bartlett commanded the Kariuk.

The previous report from which it was inferred that the whole party had reached Wrangel island neglected to mention two parties of four, which set out ten days after the Kariuk sank—one for Herald island, and the other for an unknown shore, dimly discernible through the arctic night. Neither of these parties has been heard from.

SAFE AND SANE.

According to reports being gradually compiled following last Saturday's observance of Independence Day, 1914 was the safest and sanest Fourth of July ever celebrated in the United States. Realizing the folly in the useless sacrifice of human lives for patriotism, the American public is beginning to assume a sensible observance of this day. In Plainfield, the strict ordinance that has been in force for two years accomplished wonders. Few injuries were reported and these were all of a minor nature. The municipal pyrotechnic display on Parker Field, attended by hundreds, was substituted for the family exhibitions of previous years, and everyone admits that the experiment was an entire success. Time, money and possibly lives, were saved by this method of demonstrating patriotism, and its increasing popularity was evidenced by the attendance figures, which eclipsed by far those of 1913.

In ten years, from 1904 to 1914, the nation's method of celebrating the Fourth of July cost 1,326 lives and 35,500 were injured, a grand total of 36,831, killed and wounded, so, in ten national holidays, through toy pistols, giant crackers, cannons, dangerous bombs and dynamite, more were killed and wounded than there were at Gettysburg in that awful three-day battle, a little more than fifty years ago. Gettysburg was one of the most terrible battles in the history of the world. The total killed and wounded, both armies, was 32,865, or less by four thousand than our Fourth of July slaughter in ten years. The battles of the Civil War are remembered with a shudder by those Plainfielders who were in them, and yet how few of us stop to think of the awful death toll, due to the "peaceful" celebration of the country's birthday. This year the statistics compiled by a Chicago newspaper show that the loss was much less than ever before. Let us show that within a very few years deaths as a result of Fourth of July celebrations will never be heard of.

A SMOKELESS FUEL.

Smokeless gunpowder has well-nigh displaced the old black powder, and cities may again take heart now for there is a promise of a smokeless fuel, which will be quite as welcome as the Burbanked prickless berry and the thornless rose. American communities, many of them suffering from an over-developed smoke atmosphere, will await with a considerable interest the experiments now being made in Glasgow, Scotland, where for a long time the necessity has been felt for a cheap smokeless fuel in order to purify the atmosphere of the city and prevent fogs, the result of the heavy air.

Scotch smoke students now are considering the manufacture of a low temperature coke which will burn in an ordinary grate. The gas company of the Glasgow corporation has recommended the experiment and a plant capable of dealing with 20 tons of coal per day for the manufacture of the smokeless variety of fuel will be erected.

The chief question to be considered is not whether a smokeless fuel can be manufactured but rather, can such a product be manufactured at a price sufficiently low? Cost is the chief consideration. In American cities, industry depends upon the lowest possible price for fuel of proper heat units. For the Glasgow experiments to be of interest here, cost must be at a minimum. American cities would welcome fuel both smokeless and cheap, for such a fuel would add to the industry, economy and beauty of communities.

In the MacLaurin process, which takes its name from its inventor, a Glasgow trained chemist of experience in oil and gas and whose family for generations has been connected with the Scottish oil industry, the unit plant will deal with a ton of coal per hour, we are told, the heat necessary for carbonizing being generated internally. If the invention bears out MacLaurin's claims, a distinct advance will have been made in coal distillation.

By-products from the process will serve to further decrease the figure at which the proposed new fuel can be sold, these by-products being much greater than in other processes. The interesting experiments will be awaited on this side of the Atlantic where smokeless cities are a goal to be attained if there is any possible way to attain it.

The East Second street philosopher has been busy of late. Here is his latest effort: "Labor creates wealth. The circulation of wealth creates labor. One good turn deserves another. Realizing these facts, we suggest that the men on each side of the fence do their duty toward their fellow men, and prosperity will follow in the wake of dull times, and everybody, with the exception of a few professional crabs, will be happy." Can you beat it

The contributing editorial in the Daily Press on Saturday will be written by a prominent lawyer of this city, who has chosen a subject of the greatest importance to every citizen. He has made a close study of this subject and will treat it in a plain and practical way. Those who are interested in Plainfield's welfare should not miss reading this editorial.

PRELIMINARY REPORT IS AWAITED WITH INTEREST

New York, July 9.—The preliminary report of the receivers of the H. B. Claflin Co. based upon the examination of the expert accountants which has been in progress since the receivers assumed control is naturally awaited with keen interest. It is now expected that it will be possible to make public this report within a few days. So far it has been impossible to get a definite idea of the probable showing from official sources.

This is easily accounted for because the magnitude of the concern and its business necessarily made the examination difficult. There is now said to be good reason for believing that the preliminary statement will disclose a much better condition than was expected at the receivership.

LAST DAY TO PAY INCOME TAX WITHOUT A PENALTY

Tomorrow is the last day for the payment of income taxes before a five per cent. penalty is imposed. An additional one per cent. will be charged for each month the tax is unpaid. The ten days of grace granted by the income tax law expire July 10.

Numerous checks have been received by the collector of internal revenue by mail since July 1, which have been sent back because they were not certified properly. The checks, to be payable as income tax, must bear the certification of a New York, Newark or Jersey City bank. Eighty per cent. of the tax had been paid by July 1, and it then was estimated that fully ninety-eight per cent. would be paid by July 10.

THIRD EXCURSION JULY 16.

The annual excursion of the First Presbyterian, Congregational, Park Avenue Baptist and New Market Seventh-Day Baptist Sunday-schools to Asbury Park and Ocean Grove, will be held Thursday, July 16. Two sections have been chartered to accomodate the crowd and they will leave the local station at 8:15. Both trains will stop at Grant and Clinton Avenues both ways. Returning the trains will leave Asbury Park at 6:40 p. m.

VILLA IS MOVING NEAR U. S. BORDER

Health Conditions Make It Imperative That a Cooler Climate Be Sought.

Torreon, Mex., July 9—The true reason for General Villa's temporary abandonment of the campaign in the north and the return of his army here is that the troops are suffering severely from dysentery. The men are from the high mountain country near Chihuahua and are unused to the impure water and semi-tropical heat of the Zacatecas country. The result is that large numbers of them are dying each week or are invalided. Even in Torreon the conditions are not good, for the city has never been cleaned up since the battle which gave the place to Villa, and those who know the filth which exists in the average Mexican town even in normal times, may gain an idea of what it has been since the battle when hundreds of men and thousands of animals were killed, the bodies of many of the latter not yet having been disposed of.

It is thought that Gen. Villa has realized that if he wishes to save the best part of his army of 23,000 men it is absolutely necessary to get the troops into a cooler latitude and where better water is to be had.

Another report is that Villa, with his supply of amunition becoming low, has moved his army in the direction of the United States border so that if necessary a demonstration may be made which will induce the American government to permit him to get ammunition and other needed supplies from American territory.

Very Cruz, July 9—Rumors to the effect that General Huerta's family have left the capitol cannot be confirmed here. In fact, these reports are generally discredited. It is possible, however, that Querido Moheno is leaving.

Mexico City, July 9—A report to the effect that Gen. Villa had been killed at Torreon by a woman was received here by the Interior Department.

El Paso, Tex., July 9—Telegrams of inquiry regarding the reported assassination of Gen. Villa are refused by the Constitutionalist censor. The rumor is denied by Villa's agents here.

PROCTOR INCORPORATES NINETEEN NEW COMPANIES

F. F. Proctor, the vaudeville manager, incorporated nineteen new theatrical organizations yesterday in Albany, each with the stated object of carrying on a theatrical, moving picture and realty business. The incorporation was simply a technical arrangement of some of the Proctor enterprises.

The theatres involved in the newly formed companies were the Leland in Albany, the One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street Theatre, the Lyceum in Troy, the Port Chester Theatre, the Grand in Albany, the Fifth Avenue Theatre, the Fifty-eighth Street Theatre, the Troy Theatre, the Schnectady Theatre, the Twenty-third Street Theatre, the Griswold Opera House in Troy and the Cohoes Theatre.

DISTRICT DEPUTY INSTALLS OFFICERS

Plainfield Lodge, I. O. B. A., Entertains Members at a Banquet and Smoker.

The recently elected officers were installed at the session of Plainfield Lodge, No. 627, I. O. B. A., at their meeting of last night, the ritualistic work being done by District Deputy Charles Miller, of Morristown. The officers are as follows: President, E. Zekendorf; vice-president, Morris Nathanson; treasurer, Joseph Himmelfarb; financial secretary, A. B. Cantor; recording secretary, Isaac Goldstein; guard, Hyman Kushner; trustees, Arthur Victorson, Aaron Levine and Nathan Bergen.

One candidate was initiated at the conclusion of the installation, while a banquet and smoker in honor of the newly installed officers concluded the meeting. The reports of the financial secretary indicated the lodge to be in a prosperous condition, and that the membership of the lodge had been increased from fifty-two to ninety-five during the year.

Arrangements have been made by the lodge to hold a picnic at Chimney Rock next Sunday, the members of the order meeting at West Front street and Madison avenue at 10 o'clock. Automobiles will convey the members attending from Bound Brook to the picnic ground at the Rock. Dancing will be a feature of the occasion. The proceeds from the outing will be used in connection with the relief fund.

BETHEL CHAPEL CHOIR BOYS TO CAMP OUT

The choir boys of Bethel Chapel will leave Sunday morning for a two weeks' camping trip on Staten Island. Ten of the boys are to make the trip, Councilman Theodore Martin, of East Third street, donating the use of one of his auto-trucks to convey the youngsters to the camping ground. Those making the trip include Russell Johnson, Martin Johnson, Cyril Lambert, Albert Vaughn, Daniel Hassel, Aubrey Lambert, Jesse Smith, William Jeter, Jr., William Reasoner and Lawrence Somerset. The boys will be in charge of Charles E. VanHorn, the choirmaster.

WILL DISCUSS NEW PLAN OF GOVERNMENT

Civic Ass'n Meets Tomorrow Night to Decide on Future Action.

The West End Civic Association will meet tomorrow night, when there will be further discussion regarding the movement for commission government in this city. When the association met last week there were speeches both for and against the proposition, but it was not decided to join the Board of Trade in advocating the new form of government for Plainfield, in fact, no attempt was made to get an expression of opinion of all present, the matter being deferred until tomorrow night.

There appears to be a wide difference of opinion on the subject and after Councilman R. A. Claybrook related his experiences at last week's meeting many of those present changed their views and were of the opinion that perhaps a business manager would be better than commission government.

Former Councilman Herbert Buxton, who has just returned from the west during which he visited Des Moines, Iowa, where the commission government is in effect, said today that it appears to give the greatest satisfaction there where it has been in operation for some time. He said that the city is one of the best governed in the country.

EXCURSION COMMITTEE OF K. OF C. WILL MEET

There will be a special meeting of the Knights of Columbus excursion committee following the last service at St. Mary's church Sunday morning. For the convenience of the public tickets for the event are now being sold by the following: John J. Varley, John J. Kenney, H. P. Greenwood, Jeremiah Callahan and Frank Cullen.

The primary object of the trip to the shore is to supply a day's pleasure for the children of St. Mary's and St. Joseph's churches and at least 1,000 boys and girls will be taken on the trip.

PERSONAL.

Sigmund Frucht, of New street, sailed yesterday on the Vaterland for Europe, where he will spend several weeks.

Kasper Bosterle, of Watchung avenue, who has been seriously ill for some time, is now sufficiently recovered to be about again.

Rev. Dr. and Mrs. C. M. Anderson, of Central avenue, will spend their vacation at Ocean Grove in August.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Frederickson, of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., have been visiting Mr. Frederickson's parents, former Police Captain and Mrs. Christian Frederickson, of Leland avenue. They made the trip here in their automobile.

George L. Babcock, of West Eighth street, has purchased another automobile, it being a two seat narrow-guage machine.

Rev. and Mrs. Evarts C. Conover, of East Second street, will spend the month of August at Ocean Grove.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Packard, formerly of West End avenue, are planning to remove to Jersey City soon.

Herbert Buxton, of West Front street, has returned from an extended trip through the west.

TO SELL FARM LAND.

The first tax sale to be advertised in this vicinity this year has been announced for August 10, when 427 acres of Warren township land is to be placed on sale for unpaid 1912 taxes. The delinquent taxes amount to $488.10.

BUMPER WHEAT CROP.

Washington, July 9.—The July forecasts of the year's wheat crop of the United States is 930,000,000 bushels, the department of Agriculture announced today, the largest ever produced, exceeding last year's crop, which was itself a record crop by about 167,000,000 bushels. The third crop in size is that of 1909, when 748,000,000 bushels was the estimate. The average production of the past five years was 686,000,000 bushels.

AUTHOR DEFENDS CHILD LABOR LAW

Manufacturers Seek to Make New Statute Unpopular.

CHILDREN LOSING WORK.

R. L. Flemming Says Conduct of Certain Factory Owners Since Law Went Into Effect Is Proof of Necessity of Such Laws as Have Been Secured. Complaints From All Over State.

Jersey City, N. J., July 9.—New Jersey's new child labor laws, which became operative on Saturday last, are causing trouble through the fact that factory owners have dismissed many children upon whose wages families depended entirely or in part. The child labor law provides that no child under sixteen may be employed at any occupation dangerous to its health and no child under sixteen shall work, whether factory, workshop, store or home, more than eight hours in any working day or more than six days a week.

Hundreds of children have been thrown out of work and complaints are coming from all parts of the state to Robert L. Flemming of this city, member of the state board of children's guardians and president of the Jersey City Society For the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, who drafted the labor laws passed by the legislature this year.

"The conduct of certain factory owners since the child labor laws have gone into effect," said Mr. Flemming "is proof of the necessity for just such laws as we have secured. I am forced by the developments of the past week to the conclusion that the reason many manufacturers employed the children they are now laying off was that they could work them as long or longer hours than they could adults and that they knew that under the old laws the boys and girls had no one to protect them. Under the new law violators are held as the common criminals they are and are liable to suffer a jail penalty for their offenses."

ASKS $5,000 FOR BAD PEAS.

Farmer Says They Were Sold as Best Brand, but Were Bad.

Passaic, N. J., July 9.—Charles Dorrmann, farmer of Wortondyke, started suit against Muzzy Bros. of Paterson for $5,000 because three bushels of peas they sold him as the best brand, and which he planted, turned out unsaleable.

In his affidavit Dorrmann set forth that when he purchased the peas the company warranted them to be the Telephone brand. He planted them in ground that had been prepared with great care and expense. The little shoots were nursed tenderly, and the crop a splendid one in quantity. Dorrmann claimed instead of the Telephone the peas were of an unmarketable grade and his summer's work a dead loss.

WATER WAGON STARTS FIRE.

Before You Say Impossible Just Read This Chronicle.

Atlantic City, N. J., July 9.—Firemen here assert they have extinguished the strangest blaze on record.

It was started by a water wagon.

The "food for the flames" was a street.

The tank of a motor driven street sprinkler spilled gasoline which trickled over a lantern at the rear. That fired the gasoline. The blaze ran along the trail of liquid spilled on Atlantic avenue, and the bitulithic pavement was ignited.

The flames spread until a half square of the street was blazing. The firemen were half an hour in putting out the flames.

BRIEF STATE NEWS.

The body of a man about twenty-one years old was found beneath the Fourteenth street viaduct in Hoboken. It is supposed he was pushed or jumped off the bridge.

By using several charges of dynamite in Franklin pond searchers succeeded in bringing to the surface of the pond the body of Charles Maross, a laborer in the limestone quarry at Franklin Furnace, who is believed to have drowned himself Monday.

Just out of hospital after losing half of one of his feet from a railroad accident, James Tallmadge, thirty-four years old, of Beaver Lake, a freight brakeman on the Susquehanna railroad, was hit by a westbound passenger train at Little Ferry and instantly killed.

A flag captured by his brother, William P. Johnson, in the civil war has been sent by Judge John L. Johnson of Verona to Governor Mann of Virginia, with the request that the governor turn it over to the nearest of kin of General Robert E. Lee. The flag is that of the stars and bars.

The Public Service corporation has notified James J. Murphy, counsel to the Hudson county board of freeholders, that it will obey a recent decision of the United States supreme court confirming the order reducing the fare on the Staten Island ferry from 5 to 3 cents. The reduction goes into effect today.

REFEREE DISALLOWS CLAIMS AGAINST BANK

Newark, July 9.—Referee in Bankruptcy Edwin G. Adams, disallowed yesterday, claims amounting to $50,000 against the bankrupt Home Ice and Products Company, made by the Mutual Bank of Roseville on notes that were part of the assets of the wrecked Roseville Trust Company.

The Home Ice Company is one of Raymond E. Smith's concerns. Smith was secretary and treasurer of the wrecked Roseville Trust Comnay. He is in State prison serving from seven to fourteen years for his share in wrecking the bank.

Objection was made to the debts he contracted for the ice company on the ground that Smith in his official capacity with the Roseville Trust had no authority to lend money to the ice company.

TO STUDY CONDITIONS ABROAD.

New York, July 9.—A commission organized by the Southern Commercial Congress to study urban conditions and achievements in various countries in Europe sailed from this city today for England. The commission is headed by Senator Fletcher, of Florida, and includes the mayors of a number of cities, officials of civic and commercial organizations and representatives appointed by various State governors.

The commission will first attend the International Congress of Municipal Executives and Civic Leaders, which opens in London, July 20. Later it will participate in the international urban exposition at Lyons and then make an extensive tour of investigation in France, Germany, Switzerland, Italy, Austria-Hungary, Belgium and Holland.

AFFILIATES WITH THE AMERICAN FEDERATION

Cranford, July 9.—The Union County Federation of Patriotic Societies met here Tuesday night. Committees were appointed to organize similar federations in Morris and Somerset counties. The Federation affiliated with the American Federation of Patriotic Voters.

It will work with the latter in a determined effort to pass laws in every State to the effect that no person be employed in a public school to teach, who is not a graduate of a public school; providing free text books in the public schools; for the taxation of all church property; inspections by State authorities of all nunneries, institutions or homes maintained or supported by any church or religious society; State control of all institutions for juvenile delinquents and course of instructions therein to be prescribed by the state; that all marriages shall be performed by civil magistrate, but not to preclude a religious ceremony to be performed thereafter.

The Federation also passed a resolution, denouncing the boycott of the Panama-Pacific Exposition, declaring the boycott the "weapon of cowards" and utterly un-American, expressing satisfaction that this country is to be honored by having a man of Mr. Nathan's standing act as his country's representative to the great exposition.

ILLINOIS ENDEAVORERS.

Peoria, Ill., July 9.—With an attendance of delegates from all parts of Illinois the annual State convention of the Christian Endeavor Union assembled here today and was opened under auspicious conditions. The sessions will continue several days and will include public meetings at which religious workers of national reputation will be among the speakers.

STANDARD TIME CONVENTION FOR TWENTY-FIVE NATIONS

Washington, July 9.—Exact time for the whole world is contemplated by an international convention recently ratified by the Senate and signed last October in Paris by representatives of twenty-five nations. It proposes the establishment of an international time association in Paris whose duty shall be the unification of time, by radio-telegraphic or other signals, for all nations that are party to the convention.

At present each nation has its own standard of time. To the individual it makes little difference, but the variations of time between countries in recent years of improved means of communication cause no little confusion to organizations doing international business.

International railways in Europe, steamship lines operating between countries, and telegraph and cable companies have to adapt their business to as many kinds of time as there are countries. The variation is not great, but it is sufficient to have brought about an apparently successful effort to standardize time throughout the world.

KEARNY MONUMENT TO BE UNVEILED OCTOBER 14 NEXT

Trenton, July 9—John J. Slater, of Paterson, was appointed by Governor Fielder yesterday to succeed James Inglis, of Paterson, as a member of the commission appointed with legislative authority to remove the body of General Philip Kearney to the National cemetery at Arlington, and to superintend the erection of a suitable monument to mark his last resting place. The removal of the body was accomplished some time ago. The monument will be unveiled October 14 next.

It was at a recent meeting of the Commission held at Paterson that the October date for the unveiling of the monument was chosen. President Charles F. Hopkins, of Boonton, was authorized to prepare invitations for the unveiling. These will be sent out to all members of the First, Second, Third and Fourth regiments, and Battery A, First New Jersey Artillery, and also to every G. A. R. post in the State. Arrangements for transportations for those attending the unveiling will be made by John W. Bodine, of Camden, corresponding secretary of the Commission.

In addition to those already mentioned the members of the Commission are Theodore W. Alston, recording secretary, 71 Roseville avenue, Newark; W. J. Buckley, of Paterson, and Eugene S. Burke, of Morristown.

Y. M. C. A. CAMP GREAT SUCCESS

First Section at Lake Wawayanda Best in the History of the Camp.

LOCAL BOYS DO WELL

They Win Third Place in the Annual Athletic Meet and Take Second in Aquatic Contests—Roy Hafner Wins Quoit Championship.

The fifteen boys who represented the local Y. M. C. A. in the first section of the annual Jersey Boys' Camp at Lake Wawayanda, have made an excellent showing considering the fact that they are among the youngest set at the camp. The local athletes made third place in the first section athletic met and scored over one hundred points more than the Montclair association which is generally one of the leaders in this line. In the aquatic meet the Plainfield delegation fared even better and took second place with a total of 495. Montclair was first in this meet with 590 points. This is about the best showing that the local association has ever made and those that left today for the second period of two weeks will probably do qually as good if not better.

Plainfield again came in for honors in the quoit championships when Roy Hafner, a member of the Employed Boys 'Class of the local association, defeated William Morrell, also of this city, in the final round for the championship title of the first section. Hafner will have a chance to meet the winners of the quoit tournaments of the next three sections in the fall for the camp championship. During the last six years that title has come to this city four times. The quoit trophy is what is known as a "perpetual" cup, that is, it has to be won by the same person three years in succession before it becomes his personal and permanent property. Joseph Sattells, of this city, accomplished this feat and was awarded the trophy. A new cup has been put up and the local man has a fine chance of taking that.

Many activities, other than athletics and swimming have been thoroughly enjoyed by all of the campers. Fishing has been excellent and several hikes were taken. The campers were also favored with several fine lectures by men who are interested in the camp.

The ever-popular camp library has been increased by a donation of books from William D. Murray and A. A. Tilney, of this city. They sent a large box containing many fine books. Charles H. Line, of this city, had charge of the athletics and carried out his program in a manner befitting one of his experience and training. He has been a student at the Springfield Training School for three years. Henry Welle, assistant physical director of the local association, has held a prominent place in all the activities of the camp.

Rev. William T. Boult, pastor of the Congregational church of Bound Brook, has had charge of the morning Bible class and his teachings have been interesting as well as instructive. The boys of Plainfield will have a chance to hear Mr. Boult at one of the Saturday morning meetings. Carroll Taylor, a local leader, was chairman of the camp Flag Committee and Prof. Hauch, of Plainfield High School, was one of the all around popular leaders. William Beckner, another local leader, was kept busy telling the boys of his college experiences. He is a graduate of U. of P. P. C. Chang, a Chinese student at Columbia College, is one of the interesting leaders at camp.

The results of the meets that were held in the first section are as follows: Athletics, Ridgewood, 999; Orange, 906; Plainfield, 776; Montclair, 667; Elizabeth, 553; Metuchen, 80; Bayonne, 74; Asbury Park, 73. Aquatics, Montclair, 590; Plainfield, 495; Ridgewood, 345; Orange, 259.5; Elizabeth, 232; Asbury Park, 120. The local boys who will return home today are Kenneth Stover, Witter Clawson, Harold Neilson, William Morrell, Linsey Bohl, Lewis Zeek, Charles Gates, Duncan Taylor, Hayward Erickson, Roy Hafner, William Ross, John Duroches and Louis Moore.

Frank B. Gray, of Montclair, who has always been an earnest worker at the camp, introduced a new feature this year by forbidding the sale of candy at the camp store. The store, which has always been popular, has sold sweets and the boys would it buy it to eat during the rest period every day. Mr. Gray claimed that it was not good for the boys and assigns several cases of sickness to the habit. He is superintendent of the Montclair public schools.

DUNELLEN WILL PLAY FLEMINGTON SATURDAY

The Dunellen baseball team will go to Flemington, Saturday afternoon. The team of that place. The Dunellen lineup has had a big shakeup and some of the old veterans will not appear again. President Voehl is trying out some younger material and will have some of last year's High School players. McFadden, a Dunellen man, will do the twirling for the team and Teeling will do backstop work. O'Leary, the Plainfield High School star, will take care of second base and Victorsen will play the short field. Dunning will probably play right field. Pennoyer, another local player, will be stationed on the difficult corner. The team will probably lineup as follows: Alberts, lf; Wall, cf; Dunning, rf; Hannon, 1b; O'Leary, 2b; Pennoyer, 3b; Victorsen, ss; Teeling, c; McFadden, p.

NEW BRUNSWICK TEAM HERE NEXT SUNDAY

The baseball game that was to be played here last Sunday afternoon between the local team and the St. Peter's nine, of New Brunswick, but was postponed on account of rain, will be played on the Woodland avenue grounds next Sunday afternoon. A large crowd was on hand to witness the game last week and was greatly disappointed but if the weather conditions are favorable this week there will probably be as big a bunch of rooters.

Manager McDonough, of the local team, has a very strong lineup for this game and will get Harney, of Somerville, to do the twirling. The visitors will have Jackie Hayes on the mound and McAlvaine on the receiving end. Baseball fans can be sure of a fine exhibition of ball at this game.

ROD AND REEL

One man caught twelve big weakfish at Morgan yesterday. They are biting fairly good now but the weather has been bad down there.

Pickerel are plentiful in Estling Lake now. One man landed a big catch and one fish weighed four and one-half pounds.

Reports from Camp Wawayanda show that there are still fish in the lake. This has always been a fine place to fish and has been one of the main sports of the campers.

At Barnegat Bay one man pulled in ninety-six weakfish in two days. Many in the catch weighed over three pounds.

A pretty good catch was made yesterday by two men along the shore. They landed eight sea bass, twelve blackfish and four porgies.

Crabs are running fine. No matter where you fish, if the water is clear, you will surely find plenty of blue claws. Raritan Bay, New York Bay, Rockaway, South Amboy, Morgan, Keyport, Keansburg, Water Witch and the Highlands are all good places to fish for them.

This is supposed to be a good week for deep sea fishing. The tide and moon are about right and some great catches of humpback sea bass are looked for. Saturday and Sunday were good days for the anglers who seek the sea for recreation and profit, as they all carried home a mess of fresh fish.

While the weakfish may be somewhat disappointing, there are enough fluke about to pay up for it somewhat. Fluke fishing is not quite as exhilerating as weakfishing, but for eating they answer all purposes. There are any number of them in Raritan Bay from Morgan to Belford, but few people fish for them.

PETs vs. WESTFIELD.

The Plainfield Pets and the Westfield A. A. baseball teams will meet for the third time this season on Parker Field, Saturday afternoon. The two former games have been victories for the Pets. Cowperthwaite, a Williams College twirler, will be on the firing line for the visitors and there will be several changes in the Westfield lineup. George Townley will probably start the game for the local team.

BREAKS BIKE RECORD.

Bobby Walthour again proved superior ability as a pace follower in winning the motor paced point race last night at the Brighton Beach Motordrome. The event was run in three heats at ten miles, Walthour being second in the first two heats and winning the last, breaking the record of 12.13 2-5. His time was 12.04 2-5. Walthour's total score was eleven points.

FAMOUS CATCHER DEAD.

Philadelphia, July 9—O. F. Schreckengost, for eight years a catcher on the Philadelphia American team, once famous as the battery partner of the late Rube Waddell, died this morning in the Northwestern General Hospital. He collapsed yesterday in a cafe on Columbia avenue. His death was due to a complication of diseases. He was thirty-nine years old.

ENGLAND IN FRONT.

Folkestone, Eng., July 9—England's tennis champions trounced Belgium in the tennis doubles yesterday preliminary to the Davis Cup matches. By winning yesterday's game the British team qualifies to meet the French contenders.

NO RACE TODAY.

Newport, R. I., July 9—Fog and light wind prevented the American cup yachts Resolute, Vanitie and Defiance from racing today.

Germany Won't Play.

Berlin, July 9.—Germany will not be represented in the matches for the Davis cup, the international tennis trophy. Following reports that a team might be entered at the last minute, the German Lawn Tennis association issued a formal statement saying Germany would not participate.

IN MEMORY OF MONOCACY.

Frederick, Md., July 9.—The fiftieth anniversary of the battle of Monocacy was observed on the battlefield today by the unveiling of a marker to the memory of the Southern dead. The battle of Monocacy was fought July 9, 1864. The Federal troops in the action were commanded by Gen. Lew Wallace, afterward famous as the author of "Ben Hur." For eight hours Gen. Wallace successfully resisted the Confederate force under Gen. Early, and prevented the latter reaching Washington.

ROCKEFELLER AT 75.

Observes Birthday Anniversary Quietly at His Estate.

"All days look alike to me now. I enjoy playing golf, I enjoy my friends, I enjoy the work on my estate and the fact that I can give so many men employment. I like to see things moving, and I hope to keep them moving for some time to come. I don't feel more than sixty."

John D. Rockefeller so expressed himself on his seventy-fifth birthday anniversary. He celebrates it something after this fashion:

A light breakfast at 7:30.
Eighteen holes of golf no matter what the weather.
Read birthday messages and other mail.
Receive calls from accredited friends.
Luncheon at 1 p. m.
A short nap after luncheon.
Automobile drive over his estate.
Overseeing work under way on the grounds.
Simple dinner with Mrs. Rockefeller and her sister at 6 p. m.
Early to bed.

AN ORDINANCE

For the Laying Out and Opening of East Fourth Street from a point 388.6 feet northeast of the center of Washington Street to the southwesterly side line of Richmond Street.

WHEREAS, the Common Council have judged and do hereby judge that the public good requires that East Fourth Street should be laid out and opened between the points named in the title to this ordinance, therefore

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That a public street, to be known as East Fourth Street, be and the same is hereby ordered laid out and opened in said city as hereinafter specified, that is to say:

The center line of said street shall begin at an iron monument in the centre line of East Fourth Street, said point being distant, in a northeasterly direction, 388.6 feet along said center line, from the center line of Washington Street, as said streets are now laid out and opened, and running from said point in a northeasterly direction, parallel with and distant 67.5 feet in a southeasterly direction from the center line of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, a distance of 846.7 feet to a point in the center line of Richmond Street and there to end. Said street shall be 35 feet in width, that is to say, 17.5 feet on each side of said center line and the roadway shall be 25 feet in width extending along the northwesterly side of said street. Said center line, and also the side and curb lines of said street are delineated on a certain map filed with the City Clerk, April 6, 1914, entitled, "Map Showing proposed Laying Out and Opening of East Fourth Street, from a point 388.6 feet east of Washington Street to Richmond Street, City of Plainfield, N. J., 1914," to which map reference is hereby made for greater certainty.

The lands, real estate and appurtenances to be taken for the laying out and opening of said East Fourth Street (the larger part of said street having already been dedicated to the public), include that part of the property now or formerly of the Estate of John Rafferty and Ernest White described as follows: Beginning at a point where the southeasterly side line of East Fourth Street as formerly laid out and opened is intersected by the southeasterly side line of East Fourth Street as herein laid out and opened, and running from said point in a northeasterly direction along said line as formerly laid out and opened, a distance of 61.45 feet to a point in the northeasterly line of said property now or formerly of the Estate of John Rafferty; thence along said line in a southeasterly direction a distance of 21.62 feet to the southeasterly side line of East Fourth Street as herein laid out and opened; thence along said line in a southwesterly direction, a distance of 65.42 feet to the place of beginning.

The lands, real estate and appurtenances to be taken and the lines of the proposed street as the same is hereinbefore ordered to be laid out and opened, are shown on said map on file with the City Clerk, hereinbefore referred to and made a part hereof.

Approved by the Mayor, July 6, 1914.
PERCY H. STEWART, Mayor.

FAMOUS MONTREAL HOTEL THREATENED BY FIRE

Montreal, July 9.—At 12:30 o'clock this afternoon Dufferin Terrace, the famous promenade of Quebec city, built in honor of the Marquis of Dufferin, caught fire and it is feared will be totally destroyed. It is several hundred feet up from the edge of the St. Lawrence river with parts of ancient lower French quarter of the city lying at its feet and the hotel of the Canadian Pacific railroad, Chateau Frontenac, at the eastern corner. The flames thus far have reached half way down the terrace from the far western end, but the hotel is not yet in danger.

AN ORDINANCE

for the Permanent Improvement of Certain Streets and Portions of Streets of the City of Plainfield, with Permanent and Durable Macadam Pavement, and to provide the Necessary Funds in Advance of the Collection of Assessments for Benefits.

Section 1. That the following streets and parts of streets of the City of Plainfield, shall be permanently improved with durable macadam pavement, said macadam pavement to be of the depth and width hereinafter specified. All work to be given out upon contract to the lowest responsible bidder, and only after bids therefor shall have been solicited and received according to law, all bids to specify prices for each of said streets or parts of streets separately:

Emerson Avenue, from the macadam on East Front Street to the macadam on George Street.

West Fourth Street, from the macadam on Clinton Avenue to the City Line;

Sec. 2. That said streets and portions of streets described in Section 1 shall be macadamized for the depth of seven inches in the center and five inches at the curb lines, and for the entire width of the roadway, and the macadamizing preparation shall be laid down to the grades established by ordinance for said streets or portions of streets, respectively.

On Geraud Avenue and Monroe Avenue the gutters shall be paved with cobbles for a width of 3 1-2 feet on each side of said streets.

Sec. 3. That for the purpose of obtaining money by the sale of bonds hereinafter specified for the permanent improvement of said streets and parts of streets as aforesaid, in advance of the collection of assessments for benefits, to an amount not exceeding fifteen dollars per capita for each of the inhabitants of said city according to the last official census, but not for more than the amount limited by law, the Common Council of said City do hereby, pursuant to the Act of the Legislature of said State entitled "An Act to authorize the Improvement of streets and highways in cities of this State, and to provide for the payment of the expense of the same, and for the assessment of the benefits of such improvements upon the land and real estate benefited thereby," and acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto, authorize the issuing of sixteen coupon municipal bonds of the City of Plainfield of One Thousand Dollars each ($1,000) and amounting in all to Sixteen Thousand Dollars ($16,000) which bonds shall be dated September first, 1914, and shall bear interest at the rate of five per centum (5 per cent.) per annum, payable semi-annually and be payable three years from the date thereof, with the option to the City to redeem or pay off the said bonds, or any one or more of them, at any time after one year from the date thereof and before three years from the date thereof, on giving personal notice to said holders of said bonds or thirty (30) days notice by advertisement in the official newspapers of the City of the intention to make such redemption or payment, which bonds shall be signed by the Mayor and bear the corporate seal of the City and be attested by the City Clerk, and may severally or collectively when ordered by resolution of the Common Council be sold for an amount not less than par value; and there shall be raised by tax in each year hereafter such sum of money as may be necessary to pay the interest on all outstanding bonds and the principal of such bonds as may mature during that year, and the money derived from the assessments upon the property benefited shall, when collected, be held as a fund toward the payment of said bonds.

Sec. 4. That after said improvements shall have ben completed, the Common Council shall, pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, apply to the Court of Common Pleas of the County of Union for the appointment of Commissioners to estimate and assess benefits upon the owners of the lots or parcels of land and real estate peculiarly benefited by such improvements, in proportion, as near as may be, to an amount equal to the amount of benefits actually acquired by the lands and real estate bordering on said streets or portions thereof respectively, by reason of such improvements respectively; and in case the costs and expenses aforesaid shall exceed the amount of said benefits, the excess thereof shall be paid by the City at large and raised by general tax; no property or owner thereof to be in any case assessed beyond the amount of benefit actually derived from said improvements.

Approved by the Mayor, July 6, 1914.

Corporation Notice.

PROPOSALS FOR COAL.

Pursuant to a resolution adopted by the Common Council of the City of Plainfield, N. J., at a regular meting held July 6, 1914, notice is hereby given that the Common Council will meet on Monday, the third day of August, A. D. 1914, at eight o'clock p. m., at the Council Chamber, No. 149 North Avenue, at which time and place said Common Council will receive sealed proposals for furnishing the following, that is to say:

250 Tons of Coal, more or less, stove and nut, of quality equal to the best Lehigh, delivered in bins of the different departments.

To be delivered at the various Engine Houses, Police Station, Alms House and Street Department, in quantities as required by each of said departments, during the remainder of the current year, with the privilege on the part of the City to purchase at same prices for the first three months of 1915.

Upon receipt of bids or proposals the Common Council will immediately proceed to unseal the same and publicly announce the contents in the presence of the parties bidding or their agents, provided said parties or agents choose to be then and there present, and also make proper record of the prices and terms upon the minutes of the Council.

The right to reject any or all bids is expressly reserved by the Common Council. Proposals should be endorsed "Proposals for Coal."

By order of the Common Council.
JAMES T. MacMURRAY, City Clerk.

PERSONAL PROPERTY VALUED AT $20,000

Sylvester Connolly is Granted Administration Papers by Newark Court.

The personal property of William H. Connolly, uncle of Peter and Frank Briscoe, of West End avenue, who was killed on June 25, last, by a fall from Proctor's theatre, Newark, which he was building, was valued at $20,000 yesterday in an application by his son, Sylvester Connolly, for appointment by the surrogate as administrator. The application was granted. The right to administer the estate had been renounced by Mr. Connolly's widow, Mrs. Bridget Connolly and two daughters, the Misses Beatrice R. and Loretta C. Connolly.

It is understood that there is much real property in the estate but no estimate of its value was given yesterday. Mr. Connolly had been a contracting builder in Newark for many years. He lived at 136 South Seventh street. No will could be found after his death, hence the application of the son for administration papers in the surrogate's court. Bonds to the extent of $40,000 were furnished by the executor, the bondsmen being James Connolly, of Newark and John Mulligan, of Arlington.

Mr. Connolly was engaged in inspecting the work on Proctor's theatre, having gone to the top of the structure in a hoist, when he made a misstep and fell the entire distance to the basement, being killed instantly. He was one of the best known contractors in the State and was a frequent visitor in this city.

DOOR OF ARTHUR JANKE'S HOME IS FOUND UNLOCKED

A report was received at police headquarters this morning that the doors of the house owned by Arthur Janke, on West Ninth street, had been found opened. According to Private Officer Cooney, who is engaged to watch the houses in that section, Mr. Janke's house was locked at 4 o'clock this morning.

It is the supposition of the police that some one opened the door after the above hour evidently intent upon burglarizing the place but were scared way before they could carry out their plans.

PERSONAL.

Ralph Smalley, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Smalley, of Greenbrook road, who had an operation at Muhlenberg Hospital last Monday, is recovering and will return home soon.

Miss Cora Gano, of Grove street, is visiting relatives at Lake Hopatcong, and will return the latter port of the month.

Mrs. Frank W. Runyon, of Park avenue, is enjoying her vacation with friends at Great Barrington, Mass., where she will spend the month of July.

Mrs. Tovell and son, Wilbur, of Madison avenue, are at Lake Hopatcong, where they are enjoying a visit with relatives.

William S. Tyler, of West Eighth street, is spending his vacation at Sunapee, N. H.

F. A. Grant, of Westervelt avenue, is spending his vacation at Mays Landing.

Isaac Schwed, of Evergreen avenue, has returned after spending some time at Asbury Park.

C. H. Hall and family, of Watchung avenue, are spending the week at Asbury Park.

NOMINATION WILL STAND.

Washington, July 9—The nomination of Mr. Warburg will stay just where it is before the Senate banking and currency committee until dooms day if he continues to refuse to come before the committee and give it information to which it is entitled, said a prominent member of the committee today who refused to allow himself to be quoted. The committee met early today to consider the further nominations of Thomas D. Jones and of Paul M. Warburg as members of the Reserve Board.

2,300 MEN EMPLOYED.

Pittsburgh, July 9—Several hundred men from Philadelphia and Detroit were taken into the Westinghouse Electric Plant in East Pittsburgh today. An official of the company says that 500 new men came in this morning and that there are now 2,300 at work in the various shops.

PROSPERITY ON THE WAY.

Washington, July 9—Henry Ford, automobile manufacturer of Detroit, agrees with President Wilson that the country is about to enter on one of the most prosperous eras in its history. Mr. Ford told the President he indorsed the administrations reiterated prophecy without restriction.

ARRIVES SAFELY IN ENGLAND.

Word was received here yesterday of the safe arrival of Rev. Gabriel Reid Maguire and family in Queenstown. They will spend the summer months in Europe. The voyagers were held up several days by the fog and rough seas.

A. M. GRIFFIN GETS PLUMBING CONTRACT

Will Install the New Toilets in the Lincoln School for $600.

The A. M. Griffen Company, of this city, was awarded the contract for the installation of new toilets in the Lincoln School by the Plainfield Board of Education at the meeting held in the High School last night. The local firm was the lowest bidder, presenting figures of $600. This work will be done during the summer vacation and everything will be in readiness for the opening of the school term in September.

The contract for furnishing stationary and school supplies for the ensuing year was awarded to J. L. Hammett, of Brooklyn. Three bidders presented figures following the advertisement sent out by the Board and the successful concern's bid was $2,191.84 for the supplies.

The Board adjourned last night to meet again Wednesday night, July 29. This will probably be their final meeting of the year until the opening of the school term for 1914-15.

WILL BE DETAINED FOR OBSERVATION BY POLICE

John Nidal, of 215 Muhlenberg place, was brought to police headquarters this afternoon following a complaint made by his wife. According to the latter Nidal has been acting in a suspicious manner of late and he will be kept under observation to determine whether or not he is suffering from a mental affliction.

The complainant alleges that her husband threatened to kill herself and several small children and otherwise acted distorderly in and about the house.

BOMB VICTIMS CREMATED.

Seizure of Remains by the City Averted by Anarchists.

New York, July 9.—The anarchists, still protesting, obeyed the orders of the health department and took the bodies of Caron, Hansen and Berg to Fresh Pond, where they were cremated.

Nathan Z. Morris, the undertaker employed by Alexander Berkman and the anti-Militarist league, appeared at the morgue with two hearses.

If Morris hadn't been there just on time he would have found that the bodies had been taken away. Orders had been given to acting Captain McAdams of the East Thirty-fifth street station to remove them to Potter's field if they were left in the morgue, and a department of health tug was waiting at the pier nearby.

APOLOGIZES FOR WILLIAMS.

President Expresses Regret to Powers For Envoy's Exuberance.

Washington, July 9.—President Wilson has directed Secretary Bryan to make an expression of regret to the European powers because of George Fred Williams' criticism of the action of the powers in regard to affairs in Albania.

The resignation of Mr. Williams as minister to Greece and Montenegro was accepted by President Wilson. No complaint in regard to the statements of Mr. Williams has been made by any of the nations concerned, and the action of the president in forwarding an expression of regret is purely voluntary.

TO PROTECT ITS MINES.

Bellaire, Ohio., July 9—Coal operators in Belmont county were prepared to take drastic action today to protect six mines in the strike district following the refusal of Governor Cox to call out State troops. The operators wired Givernor Cox that armed strikers incited by the I. W. W. agitators were assaulting the guards and attempting to cripple the mines by destroying their pumps.

MASSACRE THREATENED.

Paris, July 9 (Central News cable)—The Journal Debate has received private advices from Bosnia saying that a massacre of Servians is threatened on the Herzegovina frontier. The Bosnian authorities were distributing arms and ammunition to the Catholics and the Moslems.

CONDITIONS ARE QUIET.

Cananea, Mex., July 9, 1914.—Conditions here are quiet. The mines of the Greene, Cahanea Company have not yet been re-opened and it may take a few days for matters to adjust themselves.

STATENDAM LAUNCHED.

Belfast, Ireland, July 9—The new 35,000 tons Holland-America triple screw turbine S. S. Statendam was successfully launched this morning at the Harlan & Wolf shipbuilding yards.

CHAPTER XIII.

A Thirty Day Option.

MELISSA TRIPP marched into the library upon the assembled Wallingfords and Daws two evenings later with a letter and a small sheaf of newspaper clippings in her hand. "There's one thing we haven't talked about," she said, interrupting the planning of the great dance scene in the temple. "We haven't made any business arrangements."

"Business arrangements?" repeated Violet in surprise. "I don't quite get you, child. It's going to cost us about $5,000 real money to stage this, and we're responsible for a lot more. But you needn't worry about it."

"You don't understand me," returned Melissa. "You're expecting to build the success of this whole dramatic production upon my talent, and what I want to know is, What do I get?"

"Somebody ought to tell you," observed Blackie.

"That'll be about all, Blackie," admonished Violet Bonnie. "Remember, she's from Squamosett, and she's our guest. At the same time, you might be right. Why, Melissa, none of us had figured on anything but to give you the total profits."

"But suppose there shouldn't be any?" queried Melissa calmly.

"Then we all get the hook," laughed Violet. "We get it a little worse than you do, to be sure, but we can stand it."

"I don't know about that," insisted Melissa. "I've been practicing for three years, and I'm sure of my art. This musical comedy may fail. It may not be the proper setting for my performance, and if it fails after all my labor and all my skill and all my personality I get nothing. Is this fair?"

Violet Bonnie nearly choked. "No," she confessed. "It looks like a scheme to do you; but, believe me, it shan't be done in this house. I'm going to have an extra lock put on your door so that nobody slips in and steals your art. What do you want, a guarantee?"

"Something like that," agreed Melissa. "I've just had a letter from Professor Flopsie. He's sent me his collection of what he has read in the papers about musical comedies, and he tells me that nineteen in every twenty fail. Now, I'm just beginning my career, and I must watch out for myself. I think I ought to have a certain guaranteed salary, and then, of course, if the profits go over that so much the better."

Wallingford and Blackie exchanged glances of keen delight, but Violet Bonnie did not pause to exchange glances with any one.

"When I was a kid," she calmly explained, "we had a tramp come to our house and get a square meal, with hot coffee and hot biscuits and all the trimmings, and then he tried to burn down the house because we had no pie. But he was a piker. About how much salary do you think you want—Caruso's or just Tetrazzini's?"

"Only what I earn," stated Melissa modestly. "Professor Flopsie sent me a clipping showing the salaries of prominent dancers. They range from about $250 to $1,000 a week and some, I believe, even larger than that. But I'd be satisfied in the beginning just to take the general average."

Solemnly Blackie opened the door of the cellaret and handed a bottle and a glass to his wife. She waved away those trifles, being in no need of stimulants.

"I get you," she told Melissa. "If I wasn't so crazy about my own scenario I would introduce you to the managers. But I'll tell you what we'll do with you, Melissa. We'll fix it so that you don't have to gamble at all. We'll finance this thing ourselves; but, win or lose, we'll guarantee you $50 a week and give you a fourth of the profits above that. I don't like to fuss with a guest, but those are the terms."

"I suppose that for this first engagement I am compelled to take what you offer me," accepted Melissa, with the air of a martyr. "I reserve the privilege, however, of leaving your production at any moment that I get a better offer. How long an engagement do you guarantee me?"

"One minute," returned Violet, tearing a piece of insertion out of her gown. "We reserve the right to fire you and get a real dancer any time you don't make good."

"I feel secure in my art," announced Melissa stiffly. "No one can take that from me." And she went to bed.

"If her art was catching they'd quarantine her!" raged Violet. "Is my nose getting red, Fannie?"

It was fully five minutes before she was able to join the rest of them in the enjoyment of the funny side of it all, and she was through with it quicker.

"Everybody says I have a sweet disposition," she explained, "and I know I have; but, honest to Christmas, folks, this Flopsie academy graduate has me strangling feather pillows in the night and calling them Melissa! There's one thing sure, though—she's fixed it so I have to make this goat piece win or die of apoplexy. Now, we'll all four chip in and become producers in earnest."

"You'll have to count me out," declared Wallingford. "I've just made a bet with Blackie that I won't go into any money making scheme for six months."

"Maybe this isn't," suggested Mrs. Wallingford with a smile.

"Oh, Fannie!" protested Violet, really hurt. "I didn't think you'd go back on me."

"I haven't," returned Mrs. Wallingford, still smiling. "To prove that, Violet, I suggest that you and I finance this thing ourselves, leaving the men entirely out of it, except as business agents and errand boys."

"That's the idea!" agreed Violet, highly delighted.

That was the idea that remained. Wallingford saw to it that the Avon theater, sadly run down, was put in proper condition for the play, and he attended to all the necessary business, while Blackie put in his time and ingenuity devising wonderful dispatches from St. Petersburg concerning the great dancer Lhaa! She was missing from the temple at Lhasa. The lama was offering fabulous rewards for her dead or alive, for she knew all the horrid mysteries of the temple. She was rumored to have been seen in every capital of Europe and Asia. She was definitely located in St. Petersburg. The Russian government, captivated by her marvelous beauty, would not turn her over to the lama to be beheaded, and war was startlingly imminent. She was finally on her way to America. Later.—She had been secured by the enterprising managers of "The Lama's Goat" to dance Lhasa's most jealously guarded sacred ceremonial in that stupendous forthcoming production. It was great "stuff," and the papers printed some of it.

In the meantime the Daw residence was the scene of at least equal activity. The Wallingfords moved over to the Daw residence bag and baggage and took possession of the colonial suit. Dicky Dolger, being found homeless and forlorn by Blackie down on the Bowery, was pushed by the shoulders through a Turkish bath and a barber shop into some clean linen and a new suit of clothes, trundled out to the house and installed in the "umpire" room, where the cellaret was most scantily stocked, but replenished at judicious though regular interval. Rickets Johnson went home of nights along in the wee small hours when he felt like it and was given the Tudor room because the window mullions and other vertical decorations reminded him of a pipe organ. The renaissance music room, in which a mechanical organ, an electrical piano, a bird's eye maple phonograph and an automatic guitar had been installed, was turned into a rehearsal hall, and here, while Dicky Dolger culled nosegays of wit from vast sheaves of dead and bygone librettos to adorn the plot of "The Lama's Goat" and Rickets Johnson "adapted" the hit numbers of all the successful musical productions since "Pinafore" and Blackie and Wallingford in the dutch library concocted weird and still more weird tales concerning the marvelous Lhaa of Lhasa, Violet Bonnie, with the unobtrusive assistance of Mrs. Wallingford, took up Melissa Tripp as a lump of raw material and molded upon her the "Dance of the Sacred Goat."

Attired in a short skirt made from an early spring chiffon, which had been ruthlessly cut off at the knees, Violet danced and postured and explained and did it all over again from mid-afternoon to dewy morn and enjoyed almost killing her constantly complaining pupil, who held that genius should not need to work.

"Honest, Fannie," Violet declared after about two weeks of it, "this has banting, dieting and all the other fat cures beat to a custard. If Melissa Tripp only lasts till we get through I'll be able to squeeze back into that year before last lavender that I keep to measure myself by."

Members of the "profession" wandered into the rehearsals, which soon began at the Avon and said, "My Gawd, how could they ever cast Tommy Delancy for that part!" or they said it about Willis Lawrence or Elsie Devoe or whomever they happened to know best, and went away. Friends of the "profession" came in and listened a while and yawned and said: "Delightfully reminiscent! Why in blazes don't somebody spring a new one?" and went away, forgetting that ninety nine out of every hundred who defy Broadway by "springing a new one" die the recipients of charity. Managers of other houses came in and yawned and said: "Why, look who's here! Dicky Dolger and Rickets Johnson, the pair that never came back! Well, order the hearse!" and chuckled and went away.

After all this criticism upon the part of the experts in the game the piece was bound to be a stupendous success, and Business Manager Wallingford was so certain of it that during the last week of the rehearsals he went back into the lonely corner where Dan Sickels always sat in gloomy apathy.

"Well, Dan, what do you think of the piece?" he inquired.

Dan tried to force a smile. "You never can tell. It's all a gamble. Nobody knows," he said.

"You're entitled to a guess," Wallingford insisted. "Come on, Dan, tell me honestly, what do you think about it?"

"Well, I don't like to hurt your feelings," Sickels hesitated.

"I haven't any," Wallingford promptly informed him.

"Well, if you leave it to me, I don't think it's any kind of a musical comedy, anyhow. None of the boys thinks so. You see, Wallingford, you got in wrong from the start. You got Dicky Dolger's and Rickets Johnson's names tacked on the program, and you're unlucky in your cast. Delancy and Lawrence and Devoe are all right, but they haven't had decent parts for three seasons, so what can you expect? Violet Bonnie hasn't been in touch with the game for a long time. Then again, this is the hoodooed Avon. It looks like you're up against it, Wallingford."

"It looks like you're up against it, Wallingford."

"It isn't my funeral," returned J. Rufus. "I'm not engaging in any business this year, anyhow, but I still have a bet left in me. If 'The Lama's Goat' makes a hit it'll break the hoodoo, and this house will be worth more than it is today. At what price will you sell the property, and how much will you take for a thirty day option on it?"

Dan sank back in his chair like a collapsed puffball. "It's too late," he huskily whispered; then he cleared his throat: "It's too late," he repeated in a louder huskiness. "I gave Dillon a thirty day option day before yesterday."

"The devil you say!" exclaimed Wallingford, deeply disappointed. "Why, the man's as crooked as Tammany and a sure bankrupt if he goes through with this thing. I thought you had decided not to fuss up with him."

"I couldn't help myself," half whined Sickels, in the pitiable weakness of a once strong man. "Wallingford, I've been broke so long that when I see any of my old friends on the street I hunt an alley. I used to be one of the best dressers on Broadway, and now I don't like to go out there in the sunlight; I feel as if everybody that's walking behind me has his eyes focused on the fringe of my pants. I own this property and its $85,000 worth of mortgages, but there's many a time I've felt like trading it for the price of a new suit of clothes, a dinner with a pretty girl, a skin full of champagne and a bottle of prussic acid. Well, when I'm feeling about like that this quivering Dillon comes along and shows me twenty-five greenbacks, each one of them good for $20 at any regularly licensed bar, and I fall. He offers me $100,000 cash and the same amount in stock of the Dillon Stores company for this place, if he chooses, on or before the day his option expires. But it isn't the figure he offers me that gets me; it's that visible $500 in real money. Say, do you know what I've got on now for the first time in a century or so? Silk socks!"

"I'm sorry you closed with him, Dan," commented Wallingford, too much interested in the business end of it to pay any attention to Dan's joy in the sordid necessities of life. "All you'll get out of this place will be the $15,000 difference between the cash you get and the amount of your mortgages." And Wallingford stalked away, steadfastly refusing Sickels' hospitable invitation to go out and take a drink and forget it.

Instead, Wallingford, as was his habit when he had been balked in any of his plans, hunted a quiet corner where nobody could find him. An hour later he hurried down from the lonely balcony box just above the jangling rehearsal and hunted Sickels, whom he found huddled up in the old watchman's comfortable chair at the stage entrance with a foot across his knee gently stroking a silk sock.

"You might as well have some more haberdashery, Dan," Wallingford observed, laying a hundred dollar bill across the glistening ankle.

Dan promptly clutched the gaudy trifle in his fingers. "What's it for?" he asked quite naturally.

"A second option on this theater and the ground it occupies. Thirty days, dating from today."

"Same price?" inquired Dan, folding the bill lengthwise and then endwise.

"Better," replied Wallingford "Two hundred thousand cash."

Dan stuffed the money into his pocket. "Let me get this straight," he said, rising vigorously from his chair. "You're paying me this $100 for what you call a second option. If Dillon don't buy my property in thirty days from last Tuesday at the price he offered me you have the right to buy it at any time in the following two days for $200,000 cash?"

"That's it," acknowledged Wallingford.

"Let's go and see my lawyer," greedily invited Dan. "I hope Dillon chokes before his thirty days are up."

Practical Fashion Hints

By Alice Gibson

This straight-lined peasant dress is an ideal play garment, may be made up in a heavy linen, chambray, galatea or crepe. It closes at the side front, has elbow sleeves and a rolling collar. If it is desired to make the dress for "dress-up" occasions," one of the flowered crepes or voiles may be used, trimming bands of eyelet embroidery or contrasting material may be added as shown in the illustration.

These loose garments are being made up in find serges too just now, and will be found very practical for morning wear and for the opening of school a little later in the season. For the child of eight this dress requires 2⅝ yards of 36-inch material.

Pattern No. 8313 comes in five sizes. 2 to 10.

This is a Perfect Pattern.

It may be obtained by filling out the coupon and enclosing fifteen cents in stamps or coin to the Pattern Department of this paper.

NEEDLEWORK

By MARGARET LAWRENCE

TWO SUITABLE DESIGNS FOR EMBROIDERING PARASOLS.

What is more attractive than a pretty white parasol to complete the dainty wardrobe of the summer girl. Here are two lovely designs which are suitable for embroidering parasols of linen or silk. The sections should be embroidered before stretching them over the frame, and they should be cut so that there will be plenty of material for seams. The outer edge of the parasol may be finisned with scallops, a hemstitched hem or a narrow hem.

The floral sprays, in pattern 14268, are 5½ by 10 inches, and there are 8 motifs in the pattern, 4 reversed. 10 cents. These are suitable for use on parasols, waists, dresses, underwear, center-pieces, bureau-scarfs and lingerie pillows.

The conventional motifs, 14512, are 8 by 8¼ inches, and the pattern includes 8 of them for 15 cents. These may be used on parasols, waists and dresses of linen.

Solid work and eyelets combined may be used in developing these motifs, or either stitch may be used alone.

Guaranteed, hot-iron transfer patterns will be supplied to readers upon receipt of price.

Some Cookery Suggestions

RASPBERRIES WITH OTHER FRUITS.

THE delicious flavor of the raspberry makes it a fruit which combines successfully with other and more tasteless kinds. Raspberries may be used with gooseberries, cherries, apples, peaches or currants. Their bright color makes them useful from the decorative standpoint when desserts are to be made.

Delectable Jams.

Raspberry and Currant Jam.—Take twice as many raspberries as currants. Wash, stem, heat gently and mash. To each pound of pulp add three-quarters of a pound of sugar. Bring slowly to boiling point, boiling gently twenty minutes. Skim and pour into glasses. At the end of twenty-four hours cover with melted paraffin and put away.

Raspberry and Cherry Jam. — Put four pounds of cherries in a preserving kettle, add one quart of cold water and cook until the fruit is all off the pits; then strain through a jelly bag. Put the juice back into the kettle and add three pounds of raspberries and four and a half pounds of sugar. Boil for thirty or forty minutes.

Favorite Preserves.

Combination Preserves.—Take equal parts of green gooseberries, green currants and red raspberries. Use a pound of sugar to a pound of fruit and make preserves in the usual manner. Because of the slight acidity of the combinations the preserves may be served with a meat course.

Red Raspberries and Gooseberry Preserves.—Gooseberries and red raspberries in equal parts make fine preserves. Use one pound of sugar to each pound of fruit, as the gooseberries are tart. Proceed as for any preserve.

Raspberry and Rhubarb Conserve.—Prepare the rhubarb as for any conserve, then for every cupful of the rhubarb add one cupful of ripe raspberries and cook slowly until the raspberries are tender.

AN OLD RECIPE TO DARKEN HAIR

Sage Tea and Sulphur Turns Gray, Faded Hair Dark and Glossy.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray; also ends dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy." You will get a large bottle for about 50 cents. Everybody uses this old, famous recipe, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time: by morning the gray hair disappears and after another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger.—Adv.

The Eagle Was Flying Overhead.

Daddy's Bedtime Story — The Eagle's Pride As the Bird Of Freedom.

OF course, as you can imagine, Jack and Evelyn had been buying all sorts and all sizes of firecrackers.

"I think the Fourth of July is my favorite holiday of the whole year," said Jack.

"Yes," said Evelyn, "so do I, except possibly Christmas and our birthdays."

"I suppose," said daddy, "that you two children will be up bright and early tomorrow morning, and I have my very great suspicions that your clothes are all ready to be put on in the morning instead of having to waste any time in thinking what you will put on.

"I hardly think I had better tell a story tonight," said daddy, "for you two ought to get some sleep. I am afraid by the time I finish you may suggest that instead of it being the time for going to bed it is the time for getting up."

"Oh, no," said both the children. "Please tell us a little story."

"Yes," said daddy, "I don't believe I can let a single night go by without a story, not even the Fourth of July eve.

"Well, once upon a time"—

"Daddy," chimed in Jack, "I never heard you begin a story that way before."

"You see, this is a special occasion, so I am allowed these favors.

"But, to continue, there was once a great big eagle who was flying overhead on the Fourth of July, and when he saw all the firecrackers going off and heard all the noise and saw the parade with the flags flying and the band playing, he said:

"'To think that I belong to the family that is taken as the representative of all that. I mean freedom and liberty and all those wonderful things. My great-great-grandfathers may not have fought for freedom as the great-great-grandfathers of the little boys and girls who are today firing off firecrackers did, but they flew overhead and said to the winds which whispered it to the soldiers:

"'"The eagles are free—you must be free." And the soldiers whispered back to the winds:

"'"Yes, as the eagles are free in the air above, so will we be free on this land below.'"

"So, no wonder the eagle is more than proud of being the bird of freedom and the emblem of the United States."

AN ACCIDENT.

The news flashes along the road. There is a hurrying to the scene. "Is anybody hurt?" is likely to be the first inquiry. Maybe the answer is, "Yes, badly. Send for the doctor, quick." Then it is that you will remember being advised to insure if you are the cause of the accident, driving your car, or it maybe an employe. In either case you will be asked to pay. You had better see us and get proper insurance coverage, now.

COLONEL ROOSEVELT.

Snapped at Meeting of New York Progressives.

For hours the Progressive leaders of New York state used every argument at their command to force Theodore Roosevelt to agree that he would accept the nomination for governor. After it was all over Mr. Roosevelt said that he had nothing to say at this time and would not change his previous statements declining to run. It was understood that the question was still an open one, but with Mr. Roosevelt continuing to stand out against the proposal that he head the state ticket.

90 PER CENT OF US TUBERCULAR, HE SAYS

Osler Declares Nearly All Humans Harbor Germs.

London, July 9.—Nearly all human beings harbor tubercular germs, Sir William Osler, formerly of Johns Hopkins university, now regius professor of medicine at Oxford, told his audience at the conference of the Association for the Prevention of Consumption.

"Let me give you a shock," the speaker said, by way of warning. "Tuberculosis may be put into three groups. All of us who are here come in the first. If I had an instrument here with which I could look into the chest or the abdomen of each of you the probability is that in 90 per cent of you would be found somewhere a small area of tuberculosis. So widespread is the bacillus that practically all humans, by the time they become adults, harbor the germ of the disease.

"Why don't we die? Because we are not guinea pigs or rabbits. We have obtained a certain immunity. But the germ is in us, although negative, and with all of us there is the possibility of slipping into the two other groups.

"The second group comprises those in whom the disease is active enough to produce symptoms, but in whom there is the possibility of arrest or cure with restoration to working health. Those in the third group are doomed. The disease progresses week by week, month by month, year by year, and from one year to five sees the end.

"When workers have living wages, when the house becomes the home, when the nation spends on food what it now spends on drink, then, instead of hundreds of thousands, there will be millions in the first group, with practically continued immunity. The enemy has been tracked to its very stronghold, which is defended by the three allies—poverty, bad housing and drink."

WANT TO REVIVE SCOUT'S COUNCIL

Mass Meeting to Be Held for the Purpose of Arousing Interest.

NOW A DEAD ISSUE

Unless More Interest Is Shown by Men in the Council the Seven Scout Troops in This City Will Have to be Disbanded.

What practically will amount to a mass meeting is scheduled for Monday evening at the Y. M. C. A. At that time the question will be considered as to whether the Boy Scout movement in this city is to be permitted to continue to exist in the future as a powerful influence for good in boyhood or whether it is to pass into a state of innocuous desuetude because there are not enough men in the community willing to serve on the local scout council, the administrative board of the local organization. Urgent letters of appeal have been sent out by President William N. Runyon to members of the council organized two years ago to meet on July 13 for re-organization in accordance with the rules recently promulgated by National headquarters. The meeting is called for 8 o'clock.

The boy scout movement here in Plainfield, according to the reports compiled by the local field officers, is showing wonderful growth. As far as the actual work among the boys is concerned the scout movement here is in a flourishing condition. There are now about 175 boys enrolled. Practically every scout is bringing in other boys. There are now seven active boy scout troops in the city. Plainfield boasts of the only colored scout troop in this section of the State. A troop of Jewish boys has just been organized under leadership of Scoutmaster Livingston and Assistant Earl Victorson. On Sunday an Italian boy scout troop is to be organized in the Presbyterian Italian mission on East Third street near Richmond street. Then there are thriving troops which are also making headway in various avenues of scout endeavor, such as wireless telegraphy, agriculture, sanitation, plumbing and engineering, athletic work such as barrier climbing, pyramid building and signalling, music and other departments. But under the new ruling made by National headquarters this work must cease unless an active scout council can be organized here of representative citizens who are willing to meet regularly once a month to vise the examinations and tests of the Plainfield scouts who are striving for advancement in one way or another.

"As a matter of fact, the Boy Scout work here in this city is not merely a form of recreation for boys," said Commissioner Allen E. Beals this morning." It goes deeper than that. Aside from character building, it takes the form of vocational training. Scoutwork takes the boy who has not yet found himself, who is uncertain as to what his life work is to be. It puts in his hand a number of lines of endeavor to select a hobby from. This may be any one of some sixty subjects. It may be astronomy or bee farming, plumbing or baking, telegraphy or heliographing, firemanship or engineering, architecture, construction of metal work and then offers him a prize in the form of merit-badges awarded by the national council in New York, for achieving distinction in any line of work selected. In this way, the boy gets an insight into practically every line of mechanical or scientific vocation that men commonly follow and since accomplishment breeds ambition the boy reaches out for further opportunities in his search for knowledge. If he has shown proper ambition an effort is made to find employment for him along the line of his greatest proficiency shown in his honor medal scout work.

"National headquarters now rule that before any more merit badges can be obtained the examinations must be vised by the local Boy Scout Council and the Court of Honor which is a part of the council. The same rule prevents the delivery of rank, badges or other supplies to scout troops.

"The purpose of this order is clear. It is a physical impossibility for any one officer, (and no officer receives remuneration in any form for his activity in the scout work), to vise the work and examinations of some 175 boys in any community. Furthermore it gives the field officers an administrative board before which all matters pertaining to the administration of scoutwork can be discussed. It also makes for better discipline in the ranks, for court martials are held before the Court of Honor or Council.

"The scout work balks at neither creed, race nor color. Its aim is to give every boy a chance to find his vocation in life and at the disposal of the local scout troops for various kinds of scout work, but all incentive is lost because there is no active

PROGRESSIVES BOOM KNAPP AND RICHART

Elizabethans Being Urged to Enter Race for Assembly Honors.

Edgar A. Knapp and William R. Richart, two of the most active and enthusiastic Elizabeth members of the Progressive party, are being boomed as candidates for Assembly, and, while neither appears at this time to be in a receptive mood, it is not unlikely that they will be induced to make the run if party interests so demand.

The Progressives are planning to place a strong Assembly ticket in the field, and prominent party workers who are familiar with the ability of those who have been spoken of as possible timber believe that Knapp and Richart will make a strong pair of candidates. The Assembly ticket will be discussed at a meeting of the Progressive County Committee to be held at the headquarters in Elizabeth next Tuesday night.

Mr. Richart is chairman of the Progressive Elizabeth City Committee. Mr. Knapp was one of the organizers of the Progressive party in Union county. The former made a creditable run for the Board of Excise, in Elizabeth, on the Bull Moose ticket two years ago. He has been engaged in the drug business in Elizabeth for many years, and is a member of the firm of Richart & Company, which has two stores in Elizabeth.

Mr. Knapp was elected a delegate to the Chicago convention which nominated Roosevelt, and was elected a member of the Bull Moose State Committee in the campaign two years ago.

HORSE PUT TO DEATH, OWNER UP IN ARMS

Wants to Know Why Constable George Cooper Made a Target of Equine.

Leading a horse through North Plainfield Township yesterday afternoon, Andrew Bobemisky, of North avenue, was acosted by one of the minions of the law in the mountainious district and ordered to take him off the roadway. Taken by surprise at Constable George Cooper's orders, the Netherwood man demanded to know the reason for the action. It appears that Bobemisky purchased the animal from a party by the name of George Bowers, in Watchung, yesterday afternoon and was bringing him to the Queen City when apprehended.

According to the purchaser his intention was to bring the beast to his pasture in Netherwood. There he proposed to take off the equine's shoes and turn him out to graze with a view to restoring him to his normal state of usefulness. Some one had previously informed Bobemisky that Netherwood grass and the climate was a sure cure for any ailment common to these beasts of burden and the new owner naturally looked upon his investment as a particularly bright one.

When Cooper insisted that the animal be removed from the streets of the township he replied:

"All right I'll just turn him loose in this pasture and leave him there until such time as I see fit to transfer him to my own property."

After securing permission from the owner of the pasture Bobemisky let his new asset loose and it proceeded to romp about the fields. A slight tameness according to Bobemisky, was all that was visible in the animal's make-up and so declare several others who gave it the "once-over."

Shortly after 10 o'clock last night, when everything was quiet in the hills of Watchung, the owner of the pasture was startled to see a miniature army of men, headed by Constable George Cooper, enter his front gate. The men marched in single file to the place where Bobemisky's horse was reposing in the coolness of the night Announcement was formally made that Cooper had come to execute a death sentence and the luckless animal was singled out as a target for the constable's marksmanship. The animal was dispatched in short order and the death witnesses left as they had come

All that remains now is to have the animal's carcass carted away to the fertilizer factor, the luckless lot of all good horses, and this will probably be done this afternoon. When informed of the execution Bobemisky was greatly wrought up and has now engaged Robert Newton Crane as his counsel to make an investigation into the conditions surrounding the equine's mysterious death, and to determine the rights and liabilities of the "shooting constable."

LOCAL ELKS NOT AFFECTED BY DECISION

Plainfield Lodge Withdrew Its Appeal and Paid Assessment.

The decision of the State Board of Taxation handed down yesterday in the case of the appeal of the Mt. Holly Lodge of Elks from taxation, will not affect the Plainfield Lodge of Elks, as the local organization paid its taxes some time ago. Plainfield lodge did make an appeal last year to the County Board for a cancellation of the assessment on its property on Watchung avenue on the ground that it was a benevolent organization, but later it was withdrawn, the local Elks deciding to pay the assessment upon the advice of V. W. Nash, Jr., who represented the lodge in the matter.

While at first there seemed to be an opinion that the Elks were entitled to exemption, Mr. Nash after looking into the law carefully decided that while its acts of benevolence are wide and varied, the organization could not legally come under the provision of the act which allows exemption in cases of churches, hospitals, colleges, etc.

Neither will the Elizabeth Lodge of Elks be affected by the decision, as that body has already paid its taxes for the property on Westfield avenue, Elizabeth. It is understood that a number of other lodges in the State did the same thing. However, those lodges which failed to settle their taxes will now be compelled to do so following the decision of the State Board of Taxation.

ENTERTAINS MANY AT BIRTHDAY PARTY

Mrs. Sarah E. Kline Showered With Congratulations at Pleasing Celebration.

Mrs. Sarah E. Kline, of 21 Sandford avenue, who on June 1 last was eighty-seven years old, celebrated the event at her home yesterday afternoon and evening, when she entertained about seventy-five relatives and friends from all Parts of New Jersey, as well as from New York and Pennsylvania. It was impossible to hold the celebration on June 1, and the affair was postponed until yesterday.

During the afternoon and evening Mrs Kline was showered with congratulations and there were many features which combined to make the celebration one of unusual interest. Mrs. Kine was the recipient of many gifts from relatives and friends. Following the afternoon reception a birthday supper was served.

Mrs. Kline was born June 1, 1827, at Newton, Sussex county, being one of a family of seven children. She is now the only surviving member of the family and every year relatives and friends gather to join in the celebration Mrs. Kline came to this city in 1872, and has lived here ever since. Among the guests present during the day were: Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Miller, of Anderson; Mrs. Richard Correll, of Pen Argyle, Pa.; Mrs. Ann Van Sickle and Mrs. Robert Moore and daughter Hilda, of High Bridge; Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Ramsey and Mr. and Mrs. John Ramsey and son John, of Bray's Hill; Mr. and Mrs Lucas Voorhees, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ramsey, Mrs. George Ramsey and Mrs. Lydia Hoyt, of Lebanon; Miss Madeline Davis, of Orange; Mrs. William Van Deventer, a daughter of Mrs. Kline, of Brooklyn; Mrs. Edward Davis, Mrs. Frank Cramer and daughters, Mary and Helen, Lester Robinson and Miss Endora Kline of this city.

EXCURSION A SUCCESS.

The annual excursion of the First, Temple and South Plainfield Baptist churches to Asbury Park, yesterday, was successful and there was not an accident of any kind to mar the day's pleasure. The weather at the shore was not clear, but the absence of the sun rather added to the enjoyment of the excursionists.

VICTIMS OF FIRE SEARCH FOR WORK

Salem Boys Arraigned in Police Court as Suspicious Characters.

FAMILIES DESTITUTE

One Was Employed in Factory Where Fire Started and Had Narrow Escape—Tell of Town Ravaged by Flames.

Two eighteen-year-old boys, William Burns and Joseph O'Brien, from Salem, Mass., were arraigned before Judge DeMeza in the city court this morning following their apprehension by Roundsman Saffron as suspicious characters. They were found in the yard of the Union Beef Company on East Fourth street early yesterday morning and could not give a satisfactory account of themselves. After a heart-to-heart talk and some advice from Judge DeMeza the boys were sent on their way again.

In an interview with a reporter for the Daily Press, following their dismissal, the boys related a pitiful tale of the suffering of their two families during the devastating fire that made 20,000 homeless in Salem, June 25. With those remaining in the families after the fire the boys erected a small cabin and after making their parents as comfortable as possible started east to look for employment.

Employed as a "sole catcher" in the Karn Leather Company, in Boston street, along with seventy-five other hands, O'Brien was one of the first to discover the flames, for the fire started in this plant. All of the employes escaped although many were forced to jump from second and third story windows and several were taken to the hospital in a serious condition. O'Brien escaped by hanging out of the second story and climbing down some lattice work to the ground. Burns is a team driver and the truck which he was handling when the fire broke out was transformed into a morgue wagon. He made many trips with the dead bodies to homes of relatives and to a public morgue that had been established in the center of the city.

The youth's vivid description of the raging flames and the cries of homeless people was an impressive one and their personal experiences are such as to be long remembered by them. According to O'Brien the hospital at Salem was packed to its capacity and fifty men, women and children taken to its doors were refused admittance. At present the city is covered with tents and temporary shacks which house the destitute families. The boys tell of the swirling flames as they burned huge buildings to the ground and describe the destroying of many historic residences. The blaze licked up handsome homes along thoroughfares doing its work of destruction on both sides of the field at the same time.

Left without work and finding their parents in destitution the boys, who have been life long chums, decided to leave Salem and attempt to find employment elsewhere. They have been wandering about for two weeks without success and declare that they will stick to the discouraging task until they succeed. Most of their travel has been done on coal trains and they have spent their nights in barns and outbuildings.

SECOND ANNUAL OUTING OF REMINISCENCE CLUB

The second annual outing of the Reminiscence Club, of this city, to Camp Ram's Horn, Lake Hopatcong, will be held on Sunday, July 19. The train will leave the North Avenue station at 9:10 o'clock in the morning and tickets may be secured from the committee comprising Den J. Galbraith, chairman; Edward Strapp, treasurer; William Jaeger, secretary, and B. K. Davis, David L. Coleman, C. E. Drake, Charles H. Ryder, Joel Pennington and T. R. Randolph.

The club expects to visit the president, Thomas M. Muir, and it is requested that everyone who intends to make the trip purchase tickets by Wednesday evening, July 15, as they are limited. The price of the tickets includes railroad fare, dinner, refreshments, badges, etc.

NOW HE'S LOOKING FOR INFORMATION

Cyclecar Agent Perusing Books on How to Coax a Balky Engine.

Although he has had his demonstrating car but a short twenty-four hours, everyone who knows that William de La R. Anderson, former Assemblyman and at present Watchung's "Mayor," is the local agent for one of the leading makes of cars, the vehicle that has brought single file transportation into prominence all over the country. While engaged in exhibiting the efficiency of the car to the residents of Watchung, last night, Mr. Anderson had the misfortune to get into difficulties with the engine and the contrivance became stalled. Despite entreaties and threats on the part of the new owner the car refused to budge.

Anderson, who is not an unknown in the wilds of Watchung, found many of the villagers ready to lend a hand in getting the novel car into running order once more, but none were able to diagnose the complaint of the baby automobile. A crowd soon collected and the Mayor and his inanimate protege were the targets for all kinds of good old countryside advice. The infant remained stubborn and Anderson finally gave the task of turning over the engine for the thousandth time, up as a bad one.

Just at a time when many of the spectators concluded that they had lost enough sleep and when even the new owner had begun to despair of ever riding in the sample car again, George Cooper, Watchung's constable, happened along and offered the services of a team of self-propelled horses to his chief. His invitation to chaperone Mr. Anderson and the baby car back to a garage was graciously accepted and the vehicle was thus put under cover for the night.

Whether or not Mr. Anderson had previously planned this little demonstration as a means of interesting prospective buyers is not known, but his exhibition would have been far more auspicious had he fooled those present by suddenly inducing the balky little car to complete its journey without the assistance of a team of equines. The cyclecar has attracted considerable attention in Watchung and in the event of its future success on the roads, Mr. Anderson will substitute it for horses in the Indian Legend of Watchung next summer.

PUBLIC LIBRARY STATION FOR EAST END OF CITY

For the purpose of meeting the needs of residents of the East End of the city, the directors of the Plainfield Public Library and Reading-room, have decided to open a public library station in that section of the city. This action was hastened somewhat by reason of the fact that the Board of Education decided not to erect a new school in the East End for the present ,at least. It has been suggested that the Netherwood Reformed church be used to house a sub-station for the accommodation of all East End residents.

The library has had for the past three years a sub-station in the Jefferson School building, corner of Clinton and Myrtle avenue, in the West End, and during the past winter established one also in the Darrow avenue school near Grant avenue. 3,352 volumes circulated through these two sub-stations last year. Further notice will be given when the day and hour is decided upon on which books will be circulated weekly, from the East End station.

PLAN FOR EXCURSION.

The excursion committee of the First Presbyterian, Congregational, Park Avenue Baptist and New Market Seventh Day Baptist Sunday-school met last night and made final arrangements for the annual outing of these schools to Asbury Park and Ocean Grove, Thursday, July 16. A record crowd is expected to go. The committee consists of about twelve men from each church which will be in charge of the trains. There will be two sections.

BOSCH MAGNETO CO. LOCATES IN THIS CITY

Rumors which have been current for some time concerning the sale of the Rushmore Dynamo Company, of this city, were confirmed yesterday from authentic sources by a reporter of the Daily Press. The local plant on South avenue and Berckman street, has been sold to the Bosch Magneto Company, of New York, which controls 85 per cent. of the magneto trade of the country. It is understood that the buying concern has connection with the Robert Bosch Company, which has large plants in Germany. From the same source of information comes the statement that possession has already been taken.

While the Bosch Magneto Company has large factories located at Springfield, Mass., this does not mean that Plainfield will lose an industry that has given employment to many of its citizens here, but rather, to the contrary, means that within due course of time, the forces at the Plainfield plant will be greatly increased. There are at present in the vicinity of 250 men employed at this plant.

From reliable sources, it is said, that representatives have options on two properties in the immediate vicinity of the works, and the prospects of additional buildings in the near future are exceedingly bright. It is highly probable that the working force of the works will be increased to 500, or even 750, within the course of the next year.

SANFORD ROBINSON FACES ESSEX COUNTY JAIL TERM

Charged with driving his automobile through the streets of Newark while in an intoxicated condition, Sanford G. Robinson, formerly of Craig place, but recently of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., was arraigned in the Newark police court yesterday was held in $1,000 bail to await trial. Robinson is well known in this city and has been in town frequently during the past week. He represents a New York oil manufacturing concern and is at present living with his family at 50 Montgomery street, Poughkepsie.

Arraigned in court the defendant was unable to furnish the necessary bonds and was committed to the Essex county jail at Caldwell to await further developments. Driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor is a serious offense and the law leaves the court no alternative other than to send the man to jail. A case similar to this one was tried in the Plainfield police court last July and a young society man of this city was sent to the Union county jail for a period of thirty days.

AUTOMOBILE PICNIC.

An automobile picnic will be given the members of the Washington Musical and Dramatic Club tomorrow afternoon by Mrs. A. B. Jones, of the Public Recreation Committee, in appreciation of the work of the members of the organization in presenting the play at the "safe and sane" Fourth celebration. Automobiles will start from 145 East Sixth street and the home of Mrs. Allen, of West Third street at 1:30. The destination of the trip has not as yet been made known to the members of the club.

OFFICIAL SCHEDULE.

The official Parker Field League schedule has been arranged for the coming week and three games will be played. Mr. Wriston would like to hear from the Watchung A. C. regarding their entrance into the league. The schedule is as follows: Saturday, July 11, Emeralds vs. Laurels; Monday, July 13, Colored Scouts vs. Red Stars; Tuesday, July 14, Laurels vs. Colored Scouts.

PLANNING STATE MEETING.

The Master Builders' Association, of this city, is completing arrangements for entertaining the State body in this city on Thursday, July 30. The visitors will be entertained at dinner at Reform Hall, the affair being in charge of a local committee from the association. An entertainment is also being planned.

TEMPERATURE REPORT.

The temperature report from The State Trust Company today is as follows: 9 a. m., 72 degrees; 11 a. m., 75 degrees; 1 p. m., 75 degrees.

NARROW ESCAPE IN AUTO SMASH

Occupants of Car Thrown Over Windshield and Land in a Field.

FAILED TO TAKE TURN

Driver Evidently Did Not See Bad Curve in the Road Near New Market—Witnesses, it is Alleged, say Two Machines Were Racing.

Two men and a young woman had a miraculous escape from serious, if not fatal injuries yesterday afternoon when an automobile in which they were riding turned turtle in a field on Stelton road, just outside of New Market. Thte automobile, a car of the two-seated type, was owned by Lewis D. Randolph, of South Plainfield and in it were Miss Ida Noble and Daniel Sofield, the latter chauffeur for Mr. Randolph. According to residents in that section, Sofield it is alleged, was racing with another car driven by William Norman, Jr., of South Plainfield and was traveling at a high rate of speed.

A bad turn exists in the road at the place where the accident occurred and the driver evidently did not see it or could not make his steering gear work at the time. Instead of rounding the curve the big vehicle shot headlong into the bank at the side of the thoroughfare and the occupants were hurled clear of the windshield, their bodies going a distance of ten feet. The three landed in a heap in the field but were uninjured aside from scratches and bruises. The Norman car was stopped by the driver before he reached the scene of the accident thus avoiding a similar fate.

According to information received today Sofield was returning from New Brunswick. No statement could be secured from him as a means of placing the blame for the accident. The occupants, escape from death was a narrow one and all are today suffering considerably from shock sustained. The car was damaged to the extent of $200 and had to be towed to the garage of Gus Barfuss in Dunellen. The left side, including the two wheels was torn off and the windshield, lamps and radiator were demolished. Mr. Randolph and his family went on the Baptist excursion yesterday and the chauffeur accepted the opportunity to take a ride.

BONSEL STOVER PASSES NAVAL ACADEMY "EXAM"

Bonsel Stover, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert W. Stover, of East Ninth street, passed the naval physical examination at Annapolis, yesterday, and will enter the Naval Academy at once. He passed his mental examination in April last, but could not take the second examination until he reached the age of sixteen years. His birthday anniversary was on Wednesday and he arranged to take his examination yesterday. He had previously received an appointment to the service.

MERCHANTS SUMMONED TO APPEAR IN COURT

The Plainfield Board of Health has summoned about thirty merchants to appear in the District Court, July 15, to explain why they have failed to comply with the provision of section 31 of chapter 217 of the laws of 1907 and section 11 of chapter 231 of the laws of 1909, in protecting fruits, vegetables, meats and other food products from dirt and other contamination by keeping them in wood and metal, or unless they are inclosed in tight barrles, bags or boxes, provided, however, that this rule shall not apply to fruits or vegetables, which must necessarily be peeled before use, but such foods, when displayed outdoors, must be supported on platforms at least eighteen inches above the surface of the sidewalk or ground.

The Board of Health has warned all of the fruit and produce dealers in the city concerning the law and it claims that they cannot plead ignorance of the law. The law covers the matter fully. The penalty for violations of any provision of the law is $50 for the first offense, $100 for the second and $200 for the third or subsequent offense.

WANTS TO REVIVE COUNCIL

scout council in this progressive city of Plainfield to inspect the work done so that they can obtain the medals they are working for.

"About eleven boys have been waiting two years to get merit badges that they have already earned. As soon as the council is organized a number of other boys will be ready to submit their claims for meritorious scout work. One scout who has risen from the ranks to the office of Assistant Scoutmaster is entited to the very high honor of Life Scout, and is now striving for the highest mark, that of Eagle scout, of which there are very few States than can boast even of one.

"Any man who is sufficienty interested in the welfare of the future citizens of Plainfield to register himself as a member of the Plainfield Scout Council and to lend his advisory assistance to the work now going on here will be mighty welcome at Monday night's meeting."

STATE TO TEACH OWN HISTORY.

California will teach its own State history at the State University and in anticipation of the regular courses to be instituted in the college work has professors at work among original sources and ancient archives in this country and in Europe. Not only is State history to be taught but it is to be collected and preserved as well.

That State has the future in mind, which looks into the past and its foresight will be well repaid by the history preserved, the patriotic pride inspired and the more public-spirited citizens developed. Much of State history is being lost forever or buried deeply under dusty volumes, while it has been considered far more important to cram the student's mind with ancient chronicles than to give the pupil a smattering of the life and heroes which concern him.

California, ever anxious to give vent to and to stimulate civic and state pride, has named Prof. Charles E. Chapman, head of the new State history course and has sent him to Spain to search the archives at Seville and other cities for documents bearing upon the early period of the Spanish occupation. In Mexico as well, California expects to find locked up rare stores of history important to the State historian but just now sealed while that country is building its own bloody history.

Lack of ample data near at hand has made California's eary history a hazy one Doubt and uncertainty exist as to even many events no farther back than the last generation. A few years ago, much of this would have been easily obtainable but now it is too late. Still further back, the early explorations of California, the influence of the Spanish, the Mexican political regimes, rule of the mission establishments, history of the pioneers, the transition from military to civil rule, the onrush of the gold seekers are enveloped in much mystery but present a wonderful history. It should be collected and shaped into form.

California announces it will teach this history in the State University. It would be better to introduce the text book into every High School and grade school throughout the State. Will it not be a commendable thing when other States write their histories and introduce them in their public schools for the edification of young and old alike?

With the return of the excursion season the west bound station of the Central Railroad in this city once more becomes the mecca for the Thursday night crowd. Hundreds of persons flock to the station platform to witness the return of the excursionists and the patrolmen and railroad employes on duty at that place have much trouble in keeping the crowd in check. Conspicuous among the waiting throng are small children, some barely able to walk and many more who are not old enough to realize the danger that lurks on the rails. Something ought to be done while the excursion season is young to stop the practise of children frequenting the station on these occasions and the railroad officials should see that the youngsters are kept away.

Repeated warnings sounded by the police department and the press have had little effect in checking the nuisance, and if no other means is found the parents of some of the children should be made an example. Several narrow escapes have been recorded in the past during the gathering of excursion crowds and unless things are remedied, a fatality will occur one of these days. Parents should do their part and safeguard their children's lives by keeping them indoors after dusk. The excursion trains do not arrive until 9 o'clock and that is too late for the youngsters to be on the streets or at the station.

The excellent work being done by the North Plainfield Shade Tree Commission is described in the annual report submitted by the commissioner. The supervision has been done in a thorough manner and although hampered by the lack of funds the commission has managed, by co-operating with the Painfield commission, to extend its good work over a wide area. To make this branch of municipal work of even greater value during the coming year the citizens of the borough should co-operate with the commission. The State Shade Tree Commission suggest a thinning out of the trees in various sections of North Plainfield, while other portions would be greatly benefited by planting. Comparatively few of the borough's property owners took advantage of the opportunity to have their trees sprayed during the year and this was probably due to a lack of knowledge of the benefits derived.

Now that the new swimming pool in the Plainfield High School is nearing completion it is time someone took up the proposition of turning it over to the public during the summer months. There is a crying need for a pool in Plainfield and when finished the High School tank could be utilized to good advantage. Under proper supervision there is no good reason why the pool should not be opened to the public as soon as possible. During the day time the younger set could use it and in the evening the working man could obtain a little recreation at this place. Other High Schools in the State turn over their pools for the use of the public during the summer months and it would prove a welcome innovation here.

The four drinking fountains located in different parts of the city are at present sadly in need of repair and immediate steps should be taken to put them in the proper condition. The Common Council has conducted an investigation into the existing conditions and something will probably be done along this line in the near future. The fountains are essential and since their installation have been of vast value to horse owners. In making the repairs durability rather than ornamentation should be the object, as at present inexpensive fountains well supply the need.

Councilman Francis J. Blatz will be the contributing editorial writer for the Daily Press tomorrow, in which he discusses street improvements. As this is a matter of great concern to Plainfielders at the present time no one who is interested in the growth of Plainfield should fail to read what Mr. Blatz has to say on the subject.

WILL NOT RECOGNIZE COMM.

Washington, July 10—President Wilson announced today that he would not recognize the action of the Senate banking and currency committee in refusing to accept his nomination of Paul M. Warburg and Thomas D. Jones to be members of the Federal Reserve Board. He made it clear to callers that he would offer no other names for the position Thus, it is believed the White House proposes to carry the fight to the end and intends to put the responsibility of the entire matter squarely up to the Senate.

NOMINATIONS REJECTED.

Washington, July 10—The Senate banking and currency committee today rejected the nomination of Thomas D. Jones, of Chicago, as a member of the Federal Reserve Board by a vote of 7 to 4. The committee postponed action on the nomination of Paul M. Warburg, of New York, indefinitely.

IF KIDNEYS AND BLADDER BOTHER

Fake Salts to Flush Kidneys and Neutralize Irritating Acids.

Kidney and bladder weakness result from uric acid, says a noted authority. The kidneys filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it often remains to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread, the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again, there is difficulty in avoiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it, because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is really one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, continue this for two or three days. This will neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs which then act normally again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by uric acid irritation. Jad Salts is splendid for kidneys and causes no bad effects whatever.

Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink, which quickly relieves bladder trouble.—Adv.

HOLD WITNESSES IN CARMAN CASE

Expect Maid Will Change Her Former Story.

DELAY GRAND JURY ACTION

Mrs. Carman Taken Suddenly Ill, the First Breakdown Since the Crime Was Committed—Negro Girl's Testimony Damaging to Defense.

Freeport, N. Y., July 10.—Despite vigorous efforts on the part of the lawyer for Mrs. Edwin Carman, accused of the murder of Mrs. Lulu Bailey, to discredit the testimony of the two most damaging witnesses against her, District Attorney Lewis J. Smith insisted that the strength of the case he had made out had been in no degree weakened since the arrest of Mrs. Carman and that the testimony of his main witnesses had in no way been shaken.

Late developments are a movement by District Attorney Smith to hold two important witnesses until the case is disposed of and the report that Celia Coleman, the negro servant in the Carman home, had broken down and changed her story in such a way as to be very damaging to Mrs. Carman.

Mr. Smith obtained commitment orders for Elwood T. Bardes, whose story, told at the inquest, did more than anything else to bring about the immediate arrest of Mrs. Carman, and the tramp, Collins, who also said he saw a woman near the window of Dr. Carman's office at the time of the firing of the shot that killed Mrs. Bailey. These two will have to show good cause why they should not be committed until the case is over. Bardes may be able to give heavy bail and in this event he will be released. Otherwise he will have to stay in custody.

Believes Bardes Saw Woman.

Mr. Smith again declared yesterday that he still believes Bardes' story about his seeing a woman resembling Mrs. Carman at the window after he heard the shot. He insisted that the attacks made upon it had not weakened it in any degree. Collins, the tramp, who has been held on a charge of intoxication, differs from Bardes in his story. He says that the woman he saw wore a coat and hat, whereas Bardes says that the one he saw wore a shirtwaist and had no hat on her head.

The district attorney also said that about all his efforts were directed to working up the case against Mrs. Carman. He admitted, however, that he had not eliminated another woman from the case. There was talk that this woman was being shielded, even at the sacrifice of Mrs. Carman's temporary comfort.

It is believed that Mr. Smith will also ask for a commitment order for Celia Coleman. Ever since she gave her testimony at the inquest the girl has been the object of much attention by private detectives. She is not now at the Carman home.

The report that was not denied was that the detectives had induced her to change her story, so that she will be a valuable witness for the prosecution.

Mrs. Carman Ill.

Mrs. Carman was taken suddenly ill. While her illness is not serious, it came as the first break in the remarkable nerve and composure she has shown ever since the murder of Mrs. Bailey in her husband's office more than a week ago. It is sufficient to call for the careful watch of a physician.

District Attorney Smith said that he would not submit the case to the grand jury this week. He said also that when the examination came up before Coroner Norton on Monday he would ask for an adjournment and that he had the promise of Mrs. Carman's attorney to consent to any reasonable adjournment.

"Before I go to the grand jury with this case I want more evidence," said the district attorney. "I have enough to go before it now, and I want more. In my opinion the evidence has not suffered because of the attacks made on it. It was expected that all kinds of affidavits would be obtained after certain persons had testified.

"The testimony is satisfactory. It shows, for one thing, that Mrs. Carman was downstairs about the time the murder was committed, wearing the same dress that she wore on her trip to New York that day."

PUTS TAX ON HEIRESSES.

Congress Bill Aims at Those Who Marry Titled Foreigners.

Washington, July 10.—American heiresses who marry titled foreigners will have to pay 25 per cent of their income annually to Uncle Sam if a bill Representative Bowdle of Ohio introduced becomes law.

Bowdle's bill proposes "to provide revenue for the government and to promote the general welfare by levying a special tax on the income of citizens of the United States who contract marriages with titled aliens."

Campaign Bill Passes.

Washington, July 10.—The Rucker bill, to amend and codify campaign publicity laws, passed the house. It would extend existing requirements to senators who were not elected by popular vote when the original law was passed and limits amounts of money which national political committees may send into states.

HENRY FORD.

Detroit Manufacturer Talks on Business With Wilson.

President Wilson said that he was assured that the business men of the country are not opposed to the completion of anti-trust legislation at this session. The president declared that his conviction of business not being hostile to a settlement of the anti-trust question had grown out of the clearer knowledge of the views of business which he has gained recently. Mr. Wilson made this statement soon after he had entertained Henry Ford of Detroit, the automobile manufacturer, as a luncheon guest.

THREE CHUMS DROWN IN LONG BEACH SURF

Thousands at Outing See Five Float to Sea.

New York, July 10.—While thousands of Sunday school children from Richmond Hill looked on, unable to aid, two girls and a young man were drowned off the Deauville Bathing company's pavilion at Long Beach. The three were members of a party of five Sunday school picknickers who floated out to sea on a log beyond the safety bathing lines.

One girl lost her grip on the log, tried to recover it and so caused the log to roll over and throw all five into the water. Those drowned were:

Norman Beach, twenty-three years old, of 1401 Ferris street, Woodhaven.

Grace Reeves, seventeen years old, of 1026 Walnut street, Richmond Hill.

The body of Carrie Raycraft was seen floating in the surf near the Nassau hotel twenty minutes after the accident and was recovered. Albert Reese, a life saver on duty near the hotel, saw something through the spray of a "coming" wave which caused him to investigate. He brought the body ashore, and for the next two hours he worked over it in a vain endeavor to restore life.

A pulmoter was raced by automobile to the beach from the Mineola hospital, and it was used for another two hours, but without effect. Three surgeons from the hospital, under the guidance of Dr. Norton, worked with the pulmoter. When it was seen that the efforts to revive the drowned girl were vain Mrs. William Worth, a neighbor of Miss Raycraft's family at Richmond Hill, was called by telephone.

The chief games of the Sunday children were water games played near shore. The children were warned to keep within the bathing lines. The five of whom three were lost did not heed the warning.

Clifford Reeves, a brother of Grace Reeves, and Irene Miller, the two survivors of the five who went out on the log, swam to the shore without help.

HUDSON Six-40 for 1915

The New-Year Surprise

31 New Features---Price $200 Less

Since this new model HUDSON was announced in the Saturday Evening Post, the demand to see it has been overwhelming.

So we brought on this car by express.

It is here today—come see it.

Last season's HUDSON Six-40 seemed to mark perfection. It so met ideals that the year's output was 3,000 cars oversold. In May men offered premiums—up to $200—to get one of those cars.

Now the HUDSON engineers—headed by Howard E. Coffin—have devoted a year to refinements. The new model comes out with 31 new features—comforts and conveniences.

Last season's price—$1,750 f. o. b. Detroit—was the record price for a quality Six. And no comparable Four could meet it.

Now the Hudson announces a trebled output, which cuts the cost $200. And the new model price is $1,550, f. o. b. Detroit.

Last season's weight—2,980 pounds—was 1,000 pounds under old-time averages for cars of this capacity. It saved you the weight of a car-full of people, by better designing and proper materials. Yet it proved itself, in thousands of hands, one of the staunches cars ever built.

Now comes a further savnig, due to such things as a tubular propeller shaft. The new model weighs 2,890 pounds.

The New Criterions

This new HUDSON Six-40—as you will concede—is the typical modern car. It reveals the criterions by which coming cars will be measured.

Its new type motor has made Sixes more economical than Fours. It removes the last reason for buying a Four in the field above $1,200.

Its moderation in size and power accords with men's trends today. Its weight shows the new possibilities, without sacrifice of strength.

In beauty and equipment it shows new attractions to which future cars must come.

This is the gem car of 1915. It is the greatest of HUDSON successes. It is Howard E. Coffin's ideal of a car. And he is the master among modern designers.

We brought it here by express—one of the first models finished—to show it a few days sooner. Please come today and see it.

SENSATIONAL WORK ON VILLAGE ALLEYS

Dunellen's Fair Pin Topplers Are Attracting Considerable Notice.

Spurred on by a crowd of young men rooters, the Miss Ruth Voorhees and Miss Pearl Dodwell team in the games of the Women's Two-team Bowling Tournament on the Presbyterian alleys, Dunellen, last evening, won all four games in which they participated, toppling the leaders, the Arnold and Apgar duo, which had been heading the tournament with a percentage of .875, to a tie with them for third place. The Arnold and Apgar combination and the Russell and Carpenter team broke even in their matches.

As a result of the Russell and Carpenter duo losing three out of the four games, a tie has been caused to exist between that team and the Dice and Latham combination for fifth place. Mrs. Fred S. Vail, as the result of Mrs. H. B. Arnold having an off night, now leads the individual average column, Mrs. H. B. Arnold's average depreciating 10 points, .697. The Misses Voorhees and Dodwell each boosted their average four points, Miss Voorhees now ranking fourth from the top with an average of 94 and Miss Dodwell twelfth with an average of 71.

MORE JOIN MUTINY; ISLAND SHOP FIRED

Keepers With Drawn Pistols Drive Prisoners Back.

New York, July 10.—Six hundred prisoners are locked in their cells on bread and water rations in the west wing of the workhouse on Blackwell's island as the result of an attempt by rioters in the tailor shop to burn the workshop. The rioters evidently tried to copy the methods of Sing Sing convicts who burned their workshop in protest against conditions in the penitentiary.

Correction Commissioner Katharine B. Davis said that the only grievances that the prisoners have are that the prison authorities disciplined forty men who insisted on singing on the Fourth of July and that a number of letters which prisoners have tried to smuggle out to dope dealers and other improper persons had been intercepted. When informed that there were reports current that there were other reasons which were being concealed she declared angrily:

"That is an absolute lie!"

The commissioner made good on her promise to tell the story of the uprising. Apparently she spared none of the details, even mentioning the fact that every time she passed near the west wing of the penitentiary she was greeted by catcalls and howls of derision from the prisoners. She declared she wouldn't go near them until they have quieted down a bit.

Deputy Commissioner Lewis has already issued a statement saying that the revolt of the night before had been suppressed and commending Warden Hayes and his men when the second uprising got under way. There were 700 prisoners at work in the shops when it started. Men who were in the plot began yelling and running about. Suddenly flames shot up from a pile of rubbish in the tailor shop, and general confusion followed. Foreman James King called upon several prisoners who were not participating in the demonstration to help him.

While the fire was still being fought a prisoner slipped over to the big belt that turns the machinery shafting in both tailor shop and shoe shop. There was a snap and slap as he cut the leather and ducked back into the crowd of excited prisoners. In a moment every machine in the place had stopped, and those who had continued to work became the especial object of the disturbers' scornful jibes.

AUTO RUNS DOWN MOUNTAIN.

Machine Gets Uncontrollable on Bank of River—One Drowns.

Kennett, Cal., July 10.—Mrs. Elizabeth Webber of Berkeley, Cal., was drowned at the end of a wild ride down a mountain side in an uncontrollable automobile, which shot from the bank of the Sacramento river, leaped clear across a flat ferryboat and plunged into the river. With Mrs. Webber in the automobile were Z. K. Horton and his mother, Mrs. C. E. Horton. The Hortons swam ashore.

The body of Mrs. Webber was found four hours later by searchers at Keswick, twelve miles below. Five thousand dollars in currency lies at the bottom of the river in the automobile.

Roosevelts Sail For United States.

Southampton, July 10.—The Roosevelt party, consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Roosevelt and Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, is on the Imperator, which sailed for New York.

It is estimated that nearly 29 per cent. of the persons engaged in agricultural pursuits in the United States are members of industrial and economic organizations.

SERB PLOT TO KILL KAISER.

German Police Were Warned Last April From Sarajevo.

Berlin, July 10.—A deep impression has been created here by an official announcement that the German police in April last received a warning from Sarajevo, Bosnia, where Archduke Francis Ferdinand and the Duchess of Hohenberg were assassinated, that a Servian Slav secret committee was in existence in Berlin and that it was plotting to assassinate the kaiser.

The warning was anonymous and the police paid no serious attention to it, but since the murder of Archduke Francis Ferdinand they have made vigorous searches of houses. Yesterday they raided premises at Charlottenberg which were occupied by Servian students and seized a mass of documents.

ANOTHER COP GAME.

The Plainfield A. A. baseball team will play the Plainfield police on Parker Field, Monday, July 20. Arrangements have been completed by Managers Bader and Olen. The Plainfield A. A. team will have mostly High School stars and a good game can be expected. The school boys will probably lineup as follows: Moulton or Pollock, catcher, Maiden, pitcher; Hirsch, first base; O'Leary, second base; Dilts or Rosenson, shortstop; Victorsen, third base; Abrams, left field; Kyle, center field; Cantor, right field.

FINED FOR AN ERROR.

Eddie Graney, left fielder for the Cleveland American League team, was fined $25 for dropping a fly ball in the game with the Yankees yesterday, at the Polo grounds. The bases were filled in the second inning and Maisel popped an easy fly to him which he let fall to the ground. Three runs were scored on this play and a fine was levied on the fielder. The Yanks won the game 7 to 4.

TWO STEAMERS MEET ACCIDENTS

Trouble Hits Boats of Same Name at Once.

FISHING BOAT AGROUND.

Atlantic City Ran on Shoals, but Her Engines Were Reversed Quickly, and After Short Time Boat Managed to Get In Deep Water—Cutter Assists Coast Liner.

Atlantic City, N. J., July 10.—One of the most remarkable coincidences in the history of the sea was reported from Barnegat when news came that two steamships were named Atlantic City.

The new steamship Atlantic City, bound from the resort after which she is named to New York, became disabled by a break in her engines about three miles off Barnegat. She was immediately anchored by her commander, Captain V. Townsend.

Shortly after the accident stopped the boat she was spoken by the Old Dominion liner Hamilton, bound north. Captain Townsend refused the Hamilton's assistance and asked that his office be notified. When the Hamilton arrived she informed the revenue cutter Onondaga, which hurried to the rescue and took the Atlantic City in tow.

The Atlantic City is practically a new steel screw vessel. She is about 180 feet in length and inaugurated service between New York and Atlantic City on July 1. It leaves Pier 23 every other day about 8 o'clock in the morning.

The Atlantic City left here yesterday morning. She carried little freight and about twenty passengers.

The fishing boat Atlantic City, with a number of anglers from this city aboard, narrowly escaped grounding while returning from the fishing banks. She was making her way down the coast when in the fog which prevailed she ran on the shoals, on the south end, but her engines were reversed quickly, and after about fifteen minutes of "full speed astern" the boat managed to get off the shoals and into the deep water.

She appeared to be uninjured and started for this city with her excited passengers.

AUTOISTS ENTERTAIN FIELDER

Justice Pitney Is Another Guest at Somerville Banquet.

Somerville, N. J., July 10.—Governor James F. Fielder was a guest of the Somerset County Auto association at a banquet at the Somerville Country club.

He was met at the station by Mayor Steele and a committee of guests, including Mahlon Pitney, associate justice of the United States supreme court; Chief Justice William S. Gummere, Justice James J. Bergen, Judge John J. White, Vice Chancellor F. W. Stevens and Colonel E. A. Stevens. Great preparations had been made by F. G. Thomas, president of the automobile club, to make the visit of the governor and the other guests enjoyable.

The golf course of the country club is the largest in New Jersey, and several matches were played on it by Justice Pitney and others. Hundreds of automobilists attended the banquet, at which President Thomas acted as toastmaster.

RAID SUMMIT "SPEAKEASIES."

Late Business Hours of Grocers and Butchers Cause Suspicion.

Summit, N. J., July 10.—Nine "speakeasies" were raided by the police. The whole department turned out to help in the crusade.

Nearly all the prisoners are owners of grocery stores and meat markets. Their late business hours aroused the suspicions of the police.

Fines amounting to $825 were collected by Police Justice Arthur W. Hicks, the most profitable day for the town in the history of the court. Five of the prisoners were fined $100 each, two were fined $125 each, another was fined $7, and in the case of the last sentence was suspended.

STATE NOTES.

Charles Rubinaski, eleven years old, of Jersey City, died in the Jersey City hospital from lockjaw, the result of his scratching his ankle on a rusty nail in a barrel hoop.

James Hennessy, former chairman of the Hudson county Democratic committee and for years right hand man to the late Boss Bob Davis, is dying at his home in Jersey City. He has dropsy and kidney trouble.

William L. Baeder of Hoboken, who was arrested by Constable Milton D. Strauss on June 20 while driving an automobile through Fort Lee without a license, was fined $20 and costs by Recorder Beebe in the Rutherford police court.

Another candidate for the Republican nomination for the assembly from Mercer county entered the field in the person of C. Howard Severs. He is president of the Trenton Steel Railway Employees' union and is prominent in labor circles.

Tri-State League.

At Reading—Reading, 7; Wilmington, 2.

At Harrisburg—Harrisburg, 8; Trenton, 3.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS.

Nothing may be wrong fundamentally with the Madison-Chatham sewerage plant, but it does not work right. That fact is admitted, after an investigation by the State Board of Health, which has urged that the authorities of the two municipalities get together and remedy the defects. If they do not do so, then there is an intimation of trouble, emanating from headquarters in Trenton. Yet the plant is an up-to-date Imhoff tank type that has been declared by its promoters and many other distinguished engineers to be the most efficient of any system in the world. It will not, however, operate automatically, and the installation of the system will not guarantee that there will be no nuisance created and that no trouble will develop for the municipalities that use it and their neighbors. There must be constant caution and expensive expert supervision over the operation of the plant, and even then there is danger of complications that have not been foreseen because of varying conditions in the sewage of different communities.—Newark Evening News.

TO LAUNCH DREADNOUGHT.

Quincy, Mass., July 10—At the yards of the Fore River Ship Building Company in this city a small army of workmen was employed today in making the final preparations for the launching of the United States battleship Nevada. The big vessel will make her maiden plunge early tomorrow afternoon in the presence of Secretary Daniels, of the Navy Department; Governor Oddie, of Nevada, and a number of other notable guests. The Nevada is a sister ship to the Oklahoma, and is of the latest dreadnought type.

TO BEGIN CAILLAUX TRIAL.

Paris, July 10—Everything is in readiness to begin the trial of Mme. Caillaux, wife of the former minister of finance, who some months ago shot and killed Gaston Calmette, editor of Le Figaro, because of his editorial attacks upon her husband. Mme. Caillaux apears confident that she will be acquitted.

OFFER TWO FARMS AS SITE OF STATE HOME FOR GIRLS

Trenton, July 10.—The trustees of the State Home for Girls in this city have received tenders of two adjacent farms near Trenton Junction as a prospective site for the home in the event of its removal from its present location.

One of the farms, containing 110 acres, is owned by George W. McGuire, State dairy inspector. The price asked for the property is $18,000. The other property, known as the Richard Jones farm, contains about 125 acres and is held at $20,000.

The members of both old and new boards of managers have been generally of the opinion that the removal of the home to a less congested district would be desirable if legislative authority can be obtained. The restricted area of the present site, together with the encroachment of the home, seem to be desirable to the trustees.

Commissioner Burke, director of parks and public property in Trenton, has expressed a willingness to purchase a part of the present home ground with a view of adding to Cadwalader Park, if the State will consent to sell.

DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEEMEN WILL HAVE SHORE DINNER

The Democratic State committee is going to have a shore dinner at Price's, in Newark, on Wednesday, July 22, to which only the members of that body will be admitted. William L. Dill, of Paterson, secretary, has sent out invitations to the various members, including City Counsel James R. Nugent, of Newark, who represents Essex county.

The invitations are typewritten upon State committee stationery and are made attractive by red print letters that were used during the recent Gubernatorial campaign.

Across the top of the letterhead are the words, "For Governor, James F. Fielder," while at the bottom of the page appears the exhortation in the same red ink, "Fight for Fielder." There is nothing contained in the invitations that might indicate that the dinner is for anything but to satisfy the inner man.

New Providence.

William A. Davis, of New York, is spending several weeks at his summer home in Springfield avenue.

Mrs. A. Bunn VanOrmer, of Shippensburg, Pa., is with her mother, Mrs. Elias R. Morehouse, of Springfield avenue, West Summit.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist Episcopal church was entertained by Mrs. Charles Ulrick and Mrs. William A. Davis, Wednesday afternoon.

An ice cream festival will be held on the lawn of the Arthur G. Balcom place tomorrow for the benefit of the New Providence Athletic Association.

High Bridge-Califon.

Under the direction of George Dare, an organ recital will be given tonight in the High Bridge Episcopal church.

Abraham Montanyua, of Newark, is visiting his parental home at High Bridge.

Mrs. Martha Hummer is making improvements to her property in West street, High Bridge.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Apgar, of Westfield, were guests this week of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Neigh, of Main street, Califon.

Mrs. Harry P. King and Mrs. Oscar Tigar entertained their Sunday-school classes on the lawn of the Califon Methodist church, Wednesday.

Walter Wellinghoff has returned to New York after a visit to Mr. and Mrs. John Rowlett, of East Main street, Califon.

After visiting their son, Willard Wood, of Newark, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Wood have returned to High Bridge.

Contractor C. C. Demarest has moved his large stonecrusher from Hoffman's, on the High Bridge-Califon road, to Whitehouse, where he is building a road from Whitehouse to New Germantown.

SET METUCHEN SPAN SUNDAY.

Meuchen, July 10—According to the plans of the engineers, the new steel bridge which the Pennsylvania Railroad Company is erecting will be placed in position early Sunday morning. Two stationary engines have been placed in Main street and these will be used to pull the two-track span of the west-bound tracks into position. The following Sunday the east-bound tracks will be taken care of. The tracks east and west of the bridge have been moved and raised. The passenger and freight stations have been moved and men are at work shifting the switches and elevating them. It is also planned to move the Lake avenue bridge Sunday. The cost of the new work aggregates $150,000. When it is completed the Pennsylvania will have five new bridges. The new bridges have three times the capacity of the old. It is expected that there will be no interruption in the service Sunday.

NATIONAL CATHOLIC CONGRESS.

London, July 10—The annual National Catholic Congress, one of the leading ecclesiastical gatherings of the year, assembled today at Cardiff. This year the congress has been given a definitely Eucharistic character. The sermons and the principal papers will relate almost exclusively to the Blessed Sacrament, and for the first time in the history of the congress there will be a procession of the Blessed Sacrament. This procession will be held Sunday in the grounds of Cardiff Castle. Tomorrow there will be a large procession of the Catholic children of Cardiff through the streets of the city.

CHAPTER XIV.

Putting One Over.

ON the morning of the momentous opening date of "The Lama's Goat" Melissa Tripp was stricken with her first attack of stage fright, which took the form of nervous chills. Dicky Dolger, his occupation more or less gone, arose at rosy dawn, emptied his own cellaret and those in the Sheraton and Art Nouveau rooms and fell downstairs, and Rickets Johnson lost the conductor's score of the music. At the final rehearsal that day two of the most important chorus girls left a yawning gap in the ranks by their failure to appear. Miss Devoe utterly refused to go on that night unless they settled in her favor the allotment of the star dressing room now in dispute between herself and Melissa Tripp. The electrician who had rehearsed all the light effects burned his hand. A new grip man poked one of the heroic sized papier mache goats through the rear wall of the temple, and the stage manager had a fight with Willis Lawrence, the big basso.

Through all these trifling incidents Violet Bonnie, though working like a stone crusher and meeting each death blow as it came up with a fierce energy that should have belonged only to despair, retained an amazing cheerfulness, which was explained when, over the hasty sandwich that formed her dinner, she observed to the only companion who was unruffled enough of disposition to remain with her through it all:

"Blackie, it's a pipe! Never in the history of the Big Lane was there a production that started off with so many signs of being a winner. If we'd had a smooth rehearsal this morning and everything else had gone off as gay as an election bet wine fest, I'd have been out right now ordering a calla lily Rock of Ages and being measured for my crape."

At 7:15, however, she sent a hurry-up call for Blackie, who was already in the lobby with Wallingford, gloating serenely over the advance sale. Hastening back, Blackie found Violet Bonnie seated in a lonely state upon the temple steps of the gorgeous first act set.

"It's all over, Blackie," she said, with stiff lips which somehow stretched and pulled and numbly hurt as she tried to form the words. "Somebody has sure put a Dutch hex on this show," and she twisted a lace kerchief into a rough little string.

"Cheer up," begged Blackie, responding nobly, though with a sinking heart, to this new demand upon his cheerfulness. "The fatalities may not be so great as at first reported. Who mixed up the switchboard this time?"

"Delancy!" she gulped.

"Delancy? What's he kicking about?"

"Cramps!" she wailed. "Cramps, dog-gone him! I just got a note that he's had three doctors, and I guess a plumber, trying to take the kinks out of his stomach, but he can't be repaired in time."

"How inconsiderate of him!" mumbled Blackie politely, still trying to be brave. "Why, he's the grand lama!" he exclaimed, awakening suddenly to the enormity of the blow. "This show can't go on without a lama. What are you going to do, girl?"

"Do?" she half shrieked. "I'm going up to Squamosett and strangle Martha Tripp with her own cockscrew curls!" And suddenly for the first time in her life she gave way to complete despair and threw her arms around Blackie's neck and sobbed—actually sobbed!

Blackie was scared to a pale Nile green. "Cheer up," he begged, with a feeble imitation of his usual flippant heartiness and patted her automatically upon the shoulder. "Cheer up, Vi. Say, for the love of Mike, cheer up or I'll go dippy myself!" And he looked about him wildly for some place to sit down, for Violet was no bantam, and she was leaning her full weight against him.

"The Lama's Goat" might have come to a premature demise, there and then, had not the distracted stage manager invigorated Violet by bursting upon them at that moment.

"Now the devil is to pay!" he bawled out. "Lawrence's boots for the second act have just come in, and they're an inch too short. What in Texas are we going to do about it?"

"Saw his toes off!" ordered Violet, turning fiercely upon him.

"But,"— protested the stage manager.

"Shut up!" she cried. "I told you what to do; go and do it! And if you bother me any more I'll drop the asbestos curtain drum on you. I say, get out! Blackie, lick him!"

"Sure," accepted Blackie, glad for any relief from his own surcharged feelings, and he made a dash for the stage manager, who beat him up the stairs by two lengths and locked himself in Lawrence's dressing room. Blackie returned apologetically. "He got away from me," he explained in some shame, "but I'll watch at the foot of the stairs till he comes out, if it takes all night."

Violet looked at him and suddenly laughed. "Honest, Blackie, I wouldn't be a widow again for $1,000,000 alimony," she confessed. "You needn't watch at the foot of the stairs, though, for I've got a better job for you. You've got to go on tonight and play the Lama."

Blackie laughed at her. "Show me my best friend's baby and tell me to murder it, and I'll do it, but I refuse to step into your aeroplane. Where are you taking me?"

"To Delancy's dressing room," she firmly replied, pushing him ahead of her by one elbow, like a country sheriff taking his first local malefactor to the lockup, and, as inexorable as unrelenting fate, she pushed him up the stairs and into the star comedian's dressing room, where the grand lama's costumes hung upon their hooks in gaudy array, and Delancy's own musty assortment of grease paints lay spread out upon a Joseph's coat of chamois skin.

"But look here, Vi," persisted Blackie, genuinely panic stricken; "you don't know what you're running me up against. I can't"—

"Take off your coat and vest and collar and tie and shirt, and rub that cold cream all over your face," she ordered. "I'll be back as soon as I've seen whether Melissa Tripp is having fits or only the ague."

"Just one moment," commanded Blackie, holding up a compelling hand. "Are you on the dead level about this?"

"Why, certainly I am! You're exactly Delancy's size. You know all the lines, business and cues, and you know the words and music of every song. You play the Grand Lama tonight!"

"But I sing like a pig under a barbed wire fence," still objected Blackie, who, however, had already removed his coat and vest and was now tugging at his collar.

Violet disdained to answer that foolish objection and started out the door, but Blackie recalled her.

"You win," he gave in, "but I want a case of 190 proof rye up here in five minutes."

Violet turned and contemplated him thoughtfully. "I believe that is a noble little idea," she agreed. "I'll send for it right away, but you must let me feed it to you. There's nobody in this world, not even you yourself, can tell as good as I can when you've got just the right edge on."

Somebody repeated Blackie's first cue to him three times a little later on and pushed him on the stage. He uttered the well remembered first line in a dazed air to no one in particular, and out in front everybody laughed. As one in a dream Blackie went through the part of the Grand Lama in precisely the manner in which for a month he had been urging Delancy to play it. When the curtain rang down on the first act Miss Devoe hated him for life, for the recalls were all for him. Violet Bonnie threw her arms around him with gurgles of joy.

"This is the proudest minute of my life!" she exclaimed.

"Give me a goblet of rye," begged Blackie huskily.

"Clear!" yelled the stage manager to the pro tem star comedian and his wife.

"Get out of the road, you!" snapped a grip man as he slammed past them with a set of marble steps on his shoulder.

The next Blackie remembered was having his costume torn off him in the dressing room and another one thrust upon him.

"You'd better step out and tell them that Delancy's sick and that an understudy was put on at a moment's notice," he suggested in his only lucid interval.

Somebody laughed at that. It sounded like his wife. Then he was on the stage again and great peals of laughter were rolling up to him and over him from out that vast yawning pit of dim human mistiness. It followed him wherever it went. It annoyed him whenever he spoke, because he was never allowed to finish what he had to say, but there was something in it that he seemed to like too. It seemed to liven him up and make him more active.

It was so all through the play. Before the evening was half over the experienced Violet Bonnie went around shaking hands with everybody who would stand still long enough, and with herself when nobody else was handy, for "The Lama's Goat" was "across!" She was the happiest woman in the world, and the proudest, for Blackie had done it all! She told him as much, over and over, until she almost made him believe it after the last act.

"Well," he finally conceded, "I never would have done it if it hadn't been for that souse."

"Souse!" she repeated, laughing. "Why, Blackie, you haven't had a drink today," and she pointed to the still uncorked bottle upon his makeup table.

He looked at it, astounded, until he finally believed that, too. "Somebody get me a corkscrew," he directed. "I've got eight drinks coming."

The stage manager burst into the dressing room just at Blackie, submitting to cocoa butter, was taking the second of his belated drinks and all but embraced him.

"Your reputation's made from this minute!" the stage manager exclaimed.

"That's what I was afraid of before I started," retorted Blackie, with a rather sheepish grin.

"You've put over the biggest hit on Broadway. I just got word from Delancy's wife that he can come back tomorrow, but if he does come back it'll be to carry a spear."

"He'll play the part tomorrow night if he can walk," asserted Blackie determinedly. "I got a nice face, and I like it. I wouldn't abuse it this way again for $1,000,000!"

"You don't mean you're not going to play any more, Mr. Daw!" exclaimed the stage manager, turning chalky. "Why, it would be a crime for you to quit!"

"I'm so proud of Blackie that I've got gooseflesh," interposed Violet Bonnie. "But just the same, he quits!"

"Thanks," said Blackie, both relieved and surprised

"You needn't thank me," retorted his proud wife. "Of course, you don't know it, but you sloshed around among googoo eyes all night, and there's four of the little blonde squabs in the chorus that go at the end of the week; Nos. 3, 6, 7 and 13. Give 'em their notices, Ben."

"By the way, how did Melissa go?" asked Blackie earnestly, very happy indeed to change the subject.

"In a taxi," replied the stage manager. "I think she went away with a dried up little lollop that hung around on the prompt side all night, apologizing to the scenery."

"That's right; you didn't know about Melissa, did you?" inquired Violet, with a flush of anger that ended in a laugh. "You know, she has two dances, one just before the goat dance. Well, they giggled her off the stage in the first one, and she left for Squamosett, I guess, without even stopping to change her costume."

"I don't see how you cut out the second dance," puzzled Blackie. "I wish I'd have been present at this show. I'd like to have seen how the plot turned out."

"It turned out fine!" Violet assured him with great enthusiasm. "We pulled Dicky Dolger out of his souse in the back part of the right proscenium box, and we fixed up the part in the seven minutes between the two dances. Elsie Devoe was just dressing for her third act change. We explained it to her and threw her into Lhaa's second costume, and she came on and did the dance of the sacred goat so swell you could almost hear her bleat, knew every step of it just from watching that Tripp joke rehearse. Then she unveiled and Lhaa turned out to be the daughter, and as the sacred dancer had a right to marry anybody in the kingdom. It made the plot swell. Next to you, Blackie, it was the hit of the show."

"It certainly got 'em," agreed the stage manager delightedly. "The music helped a lot. You know, there were three managers and a tailor hunting for Dicky Dolger and Rickets Johnson before the last act curtain rung up. They've come back, and so has Devoe and everybody else."

"Devoe's a perfect lady, I'll say that for her," asserted Violet warmly. "She's strictly professional. She kept her eyes to herself and hated Blackie and everybody else that got a hand."

Wallingford and Mrs. Wallingford and Toad Jessop found their happy way back to the star comedian's dressing room and added to the general jubilation.

"It's an honor to know you, Blackie," chuckled Wallingford, while the two women embraced each other fervently and sat on Delancy's battered old trunk, hand in hand, to tell each other all about it in agitated snatches.

"Did you see the show, Jim?" asked Blackie in surprise. "Where did you sit?"

"In the left stage box," replied Wallingford indignantly. "You looked at us half the time!"

Blackie pondered that marvel in silence a moment. "Have a drink?" he finally sighed. "Toad, go scare us up another glass. Jimmy, it's too bad you're not in on the personal triumph of this thing, along with us artists."

"Oh, I'm not dissatisfied," Wallingford informed him with easy nonchalance. "It isn't my game, but still I'll clean up about $150,000 on the side."

"I suppose so," grumbled Blackie. It's got to be a habit with you. Who suffers this time?"

"Dillon," explained Wallingford, chuckling. "I bought one little $100 share of stock in his company today, and tomorrow I'm going to bring suit,

"Oh, I'm not dissatisfied."

as a stockholder, for dissolution of his company, on the grounds of misrepresentation and misuse of funds. My lawyer demanded to see the books four minutes after I bought my share of stock, and he tells me that I'll have no trouble at all in getting an injunction that will prevent the Dillon company from taking any steps toward the extension of the business within the next thirty days."

"I've heard of pikers, but holding up a $5,000,000 company to protect a $100 certificate comes close to the edge of being the limit," judged Blackie after mature deliberation. "Why all this grouch against Dillon? And why tie his hands for thirty days—so as to quiet his nerves?"

Wallingford smiled seraphically. "Merely so I can exercise my option on the Avon theater at $200,000," he replied, striking a match on the big red "No Smoking" sign and lighting a long black cigar. "The hoodoo is broken, and the house is worth double my option at this very minute. Nasselanger of the syndicate was trying to buy it from Sickels tonight, and Sickels is at this moment over at the Breeches hotel drowning his sorrows with one hand and drinking to his luck with the other."

Blackie gazed upon his friend with thoughtful admiration for awhile, and then he grinned. "I want you to go over with me and call on Dillon tomorrow right after you file your suit," he suggested. "I want him to wait on us while I pick out a pink undershirt and a pair of silk suspenders."

Of Interest to Women and the Home

Practical Fashion Hints

By Alice Gibson

Over-blouse designs such as the one shown in No. 8297, are extremely attractive made up in black taffeta or crepe de chine; the under bodice is usually of a fine net or chiffon; shadow lace is often used, although it is not quite as popular as any of the other sheer materials. In this design fine net is used for the shaped underbodice and there is a separate V-shaped vest effect fashioned of a colored taffeta, the frock itself is a black taffeta and the girdle of satin. The soft sheen being a pleasing relief from the dull finish of the taffeta.

This dress may be made up in size 36 from 4¾ yards of 36-inch material. It is a design that could be used with one of the smart cottons or fine serges quite as effectively as with taffeta.

Pattern comes in five sizes, 34 to 42.

This is a Perfect Pattern.

Be sure to give right size, measuring over the fullest part of the bust for dimensions.

It may be obtained by filling out the coupon and enclosing fifteen cents in stamps or coin to the pattern department of this paper.

NEEDLEWORK

By MARGARET LAWRENCE

A dark suit worn in summer needs a bit of white or bright color to lighten it, and this may be accomplished through the use of white collars and cuffs. This set, illustrated on a coat, may be used on a suit or dress. White or colored linen, batiste or handkerchief linen may be used in making this set, and white or colored mercerized cotton should be used for the embroidery. This design is very effective developed in eyelets and solid work combined, although either stitch may be used alone. Outline and seed stitch may also be used in embroidering the larger dots in this set. If the design is developed in solid work, it should be heavily padded with soft padding cotton, keeping all of the stitches on the upper surface so that it will be raised, and the under surface will be flat. This can be done by taking a large stitch on the right side of the material and a very small one on the reverse. Cover the padding with close over-and-over stitches.

For eyelet embroidery, first run around the outlines with very small stitches, then punch the centers with a stilleto or cut them out a very little, and work over the line of running stitches and the edge with binding or over-and-over stitches, which should be small and even and close together.

Guaranteed, hot-iron transfer pattern, 14403, will be supplied for 15c.

Some Cookery Suggestions

PUTTING UP RHUBARB.

DURING the summer, when fresh rhubarb is available, it may be put up for winter use in many novel and delicious ways.

The rhubarb may be used alone or in combination with fruits.

Will Keep Indefinitely.

Preserved Rhubarb.—Cut rhubarb, unpeeled, into inch pieces, put into preserving kettle in layers and sprinkle each layer with sugar till the kettle is full. Let stand twenty-four hours and stew in juice without water till soft. Put in glass jars. Thus it retains its flavor and keeps indefinitely.

Rhubarb Butter.—To each pound of rhubarb, which is peeled and chopped, add two cupfuls of sugar, mix thoroughly, put on a slow fire and cook until thick as peach butter. Be careful not to allow to burn.

Canned Rhubarb Without Cooking.—Pare rhubarb and pack it in jars, first cutting it into small pieces. Then cover the top of each jar with a piece of thin cloth tied on to keep the fruit in and set the jar in a pailful of water. Let it stay for half an hour to bring all the air bubbles to the top, then seal and keep in a cool, dark place.

A Breakfast Sweet.

Rhubarb Marmalade.—Take three-quarters of a pound of sugar to every pound of rhubarb. Cut the rhubarb, without peeling, into short lengths. Mix rhubarb and sugar in preserving kettle and slowly heat to bring sugar to the melting point. Boil slowly, stirring very frequently to prevent scorching. Cook about one hour. Put in jars or in jelly glasses and when cold cover with melted paraffin.

A Spicy Jam.

Rhubarb Jam.—To a pound of fresh rhubarb cut small add three-quarters of a pound of granulated sugar, the juice and grated yellow rind of a lemon and a very little water if fresh rhubarb is used. Simmer until as thick as desired, stirring often with a wooden spoon, and can like any other fruit. A little ginger root or essence may be added, and it may be varied also by adding the juice and grated yellow rind of an orange to each quart of rhubarb, omitting or using lemons.

Anna Thompson.

The Idea Started With Miss Black Ant.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—The Ants Build a Summer Hotel.

EVELYN had always said that she thought ants were splendid little creatures because they were so busy and seemed to enjoy working over their homes and carrying food to their children.

So daddy told her that he had a story to tell her about a summer hotel that the ants had just finished building.

"The idea started with young Mrs. Black Ant, who was quite a giddy young creature. But despite that fact she was very capable and was one of the best little housekeepers known to the ant world.

"She told the other ants that in order to make their colony popular they ought to have a big summer hotel where all the fashionable ants could come for the summer months, wear their best clothes and listen to the concerts given by the crickets every evening near by.

"Now, the ants thought that this was an excellent scheme of hers.

"And she added that of course they must charge enormous prices, because she said that folks who wanted to be fashionable were always willing to pay big prices for—well, just to be fashionable.

"Now, all the ants listened to young Mrs. Black Ant with the greatest of interest, and they wasted no time about setting to work. They built their hotel on the top of a fine mound with a beautiful view of the surrounding country, for another thing that young Mrs. Black Ant had told them was that they must brag about their magnificent view. The hotel was built in less than a day. It certainly was large. In fact, the ants were almost afraid it was too large and that they would never be able to get enough 'guests' to come to it.

"They all went around to nearby ant cities telling the ants about the wonderful hotel they had just built with all the modern improvements—sun heat, star light, fresh air breezes, delicious food bought by the ant managers, who were very fussy that it would always be of the best. And last and perhaps the most important of all would be the concerts of the crickets, which they could listen to every evening when they could dress up in their best clothes. Besides going around themselves, they sent notices on little sticks, which they mailed in the ant postoffice to the faraway ant cities."

"I didn't know ants had a postoffice," said Evelyn.

"They certainly have," replied daddy. "Their postmen are any of the ants who happen to be going near the cities where the letters are addressed.

"Well, the hotel was a wonderful success. They opened with a ball, and the ants who came to stay for the season said:

"'This is something this place has always needed.'"

OPPOSE HIRING TEACHER WHO IS CHARGED WITH KISSING

Hackensack, July 10.—Resolutions condemning the action of the Bergenfield Board of Education for engaging Lafayette Talbot as supervising principal of schools were adopted at a meeting attended by 300 residents. Professor Talbot was dismissed from the schools of Hoboken after trial on the charge of having kissed a scrubwoman.

The resolutions will be filed with County Superintendent of Schools Wooster in this city, "to impress upon him the gravity of the case and the necessity for prompt and definite action." If Professor Talbot is vindicated by the State Board of Education he will be acceptable, it is said.

NEVER MIND, SCOOP, IT IS TOO HOT TO WEAR 'EM ANYHOW

IN THE SPORTING SPOTLIGHT

"SPORTDOM TIPS"

Gee, it's great to be able to get the "C-N" cub riled every time you feel like it. We always get response.

And we're still waiting for an explanation from the Courier-News sporting editor as to why he let us write that story of the Parker Field athletic meet for him. It evidently does not take a William Burns to recognize the true value of a Plainfield Daily Press sporting story for the "C-N" cub is far from the top rung in the ladder of intellectuals. However, he's one of those kind who are looking for a change and a little "live-stuff" on his sporting sheet probably was welcomed with open arms. "Very special to the 'C-N.'"

WHY ARE THESE THINGS THUS?

The "C-N" sporting scribe:

Page 1—Column 4—Cup yachts did not race.

Now de'd like to know how they got the returns and the starting time if the boats were prevented from racing because "of fog and light wind," as stated in the same issue.

Baseball appears to be a dead issue in these parts this season. For years past never has the interest been so thoroughly squelched as it is now. There are plenty of fans but they fail to exhibit the genuine old-time enthusiasm so typical of the Queen City rooter. One cause of this is the calibre of games that have been staged here this season. The contests have not reached their usual high standard and for that reason have been poor drawing cards. On the other hand, the fair to middling conflicts have also drawn poorly for the simple reason that the enthusiasts knew not when to expect the flash in the pan. If you're going to have thirty-second degree enthusiasm among baseball bugs you have to deliver the goods on every occasion. This season there has been several good games but the goodness runs in a spasmodic channel. When we can place some dependence on the weekly program we will be satisfied to turn out and root at regular intervals. A real fan has a certain amount of rooting to get rid of at this time of the year but if he is not given the opportunity his store naturally lies dormant, and the longer it lies in this state the harder it is to bring it to the surface.

Considerable grumbling has been manifest over the returns from the five-mile meet at Parker Field on the Fourth of July. There has been some talk of lodging protests but as yet the principals have done nothing On the outcome of the controversy rests the presentation of the Plainfield Daily Press cup. Those interested in the deal have seen fit to issue threats to the donors to give their man the cup but it will be held pending a final statement from the Playground Commission. All of these roundabout methods of settling a dispute are doing nothing but engineering hard feeling and unless something is done to curtail the practise pretty quick there's going to be a break and there's also going to be someone lying on the ground. Those who have been active in attempting to scare certain parties into booming their cause might better stop abruptly for nothing will come of the joshings.

TOWNLEY WILL PITCH FOR PETS

N. P. H. S. Moudsman Due to Start Against Westfield Tomorrow.

LOCAL GAMES SCARCE

Plainfield will play the Westfield baseball team on Parker Field tomorrow afternoon, this being the feature event on the week-end sporting calendar. Cowperthwaite, the visitor's star twirler and strikeout artist, will probably be opposed by George Townley, who made such a favorable debut in a Plainfield uniform on the Dunelen mound, last Saturday afternoon. George is in fine fettle for the match and it is not unlikely that he will be the startoff man with Mathewson in reserve. The remainder of the team will be practically the same as last week, but Harney will hold down the difficult corner instead of Brunni, one of the out-of-town performers, who has been playing here.

The Sunday-School League battle of the week-end will be waged between the Hope Chapel and Monroe Avenue contingents on the Clinton avenue field. The Monroe and Hope aggregations are old-time rivals and the contest should be a hummer.

Dunellen goes to Flemington for a game with Flemington, tomorrow, and High Bridge goes to Hacketts-town. The First Baptist team will try conclusions with the Independents.

The Plainfield team will lineup as follows: Coyle, 3b; Mullin, ss; Dixon, 1b; Harney, 3b; Nelson, c; Stine, rf; Dorman, cf; Stewart, lf; Townley or Mathewson, p.

WILL PLAY FOR LOCAL TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIP

A tournament for the championship of Plainfield, open to all residents of Plainfield, will be held on the courts of the Plainfield Country Club, on Saturday, July 11 and Saturday, July 18 Entries can be given to any of the following: Charles A. King, 911 Watching avenue; Henry W. Brower, 440 W. Eighth street; A. Willis West, 120 Crescent avenue; Carr B. Neel, 1001 Prospect avenue; Paul G. Chase, 508 Belvidere avenue; Henry E. Haws, 967 Madison avenue; S. Wallis Merrihew, chairman, 1016 South avenue (Phone 798-J).

Y. M. C. A. TOURNAMENT OFF.

At a recent meeting of the tennis committee of the Y. M. C. A., it was decided not to have the open city tennis tournament that was under consideration.. When the committee planned this feature it thought that a large number of local people would take an interest in it but only fifteen signified their intention of entering the tournament and it would not have paid the Association to run an event of this kind with that number of entrants, so the affair was called off.

FRITTS PITCHES WELL

Kiely's Men Hit Two Opposing Pitchers for Sixteen Safeties in Six Innings—Score Was 19 to 6.

The Plainfield policemen proved that they are hard sluggers, yesterday afternoon, on Parker Field, when they hit to New Brunswick pitchers for sixteen safeties in six innings and scored a 19 to 6 victory over their opponents. The game was a swatfest and a comedy of errors, the locals making four and the visitors seven misplays. The Plainfield coppers led in the score at all times except in the second inning, when the visitors scored three times and tied the score.

Fritts was on the firing line for the local and although he was erratic at times, held the visitors at bay. The New Brunswick batsmen found him in the first inning for two doubles and scored one run, but the locals pulled four over the rubber in their half of the initial round. The visiting pitcher gave three bases on balls in a row to start with and then Fritts singled. The visitors scored three times in the second and once in the following two innings. Plainfield was blanked in the second but scored in the following four innings. Three were made in the third, fourth and fifth and six tallies were accounted for in the sixth stanza. Boice started to twirl for the New Brunswick team and lasted four innings, retiring after the locals had scored seven runs. He was relieved by Cox, who fared much worse and he was hit for twelve tallies. The game was caled in the sixth inning to allow the visitors to get home.

Francis played the star game for the visitors on first base, nabbing everything that came within his reach. Manley made two doubles and a single. Fritts was the best batter of the day, geting a triple, a double and two singles out of four trips to the plate. The locals pilfered thirteen bases in the six rounds while the visitors could only go three against McCarthy's fine wing. The locals figured in two pretty double plays which stopped men from crossing the plate. The game was attended by a large crowd of local fans and the visitors also brought over their bunch of rooters.

EQUALS RECORD FOR DEFEATS.

San Antonio, Tex., July 10.—By losing its twenty-sixth consecutive game here yesterday, the Austin club of the Texas League tied the record for straight games lost in professional baseball, made by Louisville of the American Association in 1889. Yesterday's game was lost in the thirteenth inning by a score of 6 to 5.

"NIBS" HAND WITH AMBOY.

"Nibs" Hand, who formerly caught for the Scotch Plains baseball team, has signed a contract to play with the Perth Amboy team of the Atlantic League. He will be a teammate of Cliff Randolph and will probably do the backstop work for this team.

CRITICIZED FOR FIRING MARTIN

Frank Chance Scored by Philadelphia for His Various Trades.

BACK AT SHORT STOP

Philadelphia Manager Says the Local Boy is Back at His Old Position to Stick—Injury is the Only Thing That Will Keep Him Out.

Jack Martin's advent in Philadelphia baseball circles has been the cause for considerable rejoicing in Charlie Dooin's camp. Since going there the Plainfielder has been burning up the diamond in shortfield with clever fielding plays and lightning throws and has also been working his bat overtime. The local youth is apparently there to stick and this is evidently the change we have long been awaiting. Martin's friends have always contended that he would land in right at some time and his chance appears to have made itself known just now The sporting editor of the Philadelphia Bulletin has the following to say of Jack and his playing:"

"Jack Martin is now playing short for Philadelphia Martin will continue to cover the short field, as his play has pleased Manager Dooin and President Baker. The latter informed the writer yesterday that Martin would finish the season at shortstop unless he was injured, and that Magee would return to the outfield; that he had no intention of sending Martin and several other players to Columbus in exchange for Bobby Gerber, the sensational shortstop of the Columbus Club. Martin has been playing third for Boston this season because of the illnes of Deal, but he never played third before going to Boston. His position is short. He was turned back to the minors by Frank Chance because he couldn't field and hit worse, bue he has been doing well with the Braves, and started off finely with the Phillies. Chance hasn't used very good judgment on a lot of ball players, judging from their work since he turned them loose. He let Birdie Cree go to Baltimore because Cree wouldn't change his position at the bat; $2,500 was what Baltimore paid for Cree. Yesterday Chance contributed $5,000 to Baltimore for Cree's return—and he will bat as he always batted, not as Chance wanted him to. Cree has been hitting .340 in the International League, which is a better average than the entire New York team commands. If Chance would bring back all the players that he sent away he would have a pretty good ball club in New York today. As it is, it is a poorer club now than when he took hold. Managing the Cubs—a championship team handed to him—and managing a natural tail-ender, are different propositions. With all the money he desired at his command, Chance has been unable to get a good ball player or develop one from the many bushers who have joined his forces."

ROD AND REEL

One good authority states that this will be a big year for fluke. Three Newark anglers were out a few days ago and landed thirty-four fluke, ranging from one and a half to two and a half pounds apiece.

The recent storms apparently have had no effect on the weakfishing. Good catches are being made daily in both Raritan and Jamaica bays. Favorable reports have also come up from Barnegat Bay points. Two men caught nine nice weakfish in Raritan Bay, yesterday. The boats fished in front of Seidler's Beach, at the net stakes, and their best catches were made at the top of the tide, with shedder crab bait.

The surf angling clan is out every night alng the shore from Allenhurst to Point Pleasant. Striped bass catches are being made right along, the fish running from four to thirty-eight pounds. Point Pleasant has yielded the greatest number of fish thus far, with three and four being taken in a single night. Some good reports have come in from Manasquan Inlet, also.

The so-called "River of Doubt" which Mr. Roosevelt seeks to put somewhere on the South American map has a rival in the "River of Trout," but the two differ in that one has a vigorous press agent and the other an equally strenuously suppress agent, or, rather three of them, for neither James Close, W. W. Trimpi nor Roy O. Anthony of Newark will divulge the whereabouts of the stream from which they obtained such well-filled creels of splendid trout whenever they motor in the direction of Henryville, Pa. The Newark disciples of Izaak Walton have planned six trips to the "River of Trout" this month and so plentiful are the finny prizes that Mr. Close is seriously thinking of building a log cabin near the stream. Moreover the wonders of the "River of Trout" are not limited to fish, for upon their last trip—July 4—the party seriously reported seeing a real honest-to-goodness bear.

Big schools of bluefish are scarce just now, although a few stragglers are being picked up right along. One bluefish of fifteen pounds was caught by a surf fisherman at Point Pleasant a few nights ago.

DUCHESS OF MARLBOROUGH

Enthusiastic Over Mrs. Belmont's Conference of Great Women.

© 1914, by American Press Association.

Nothing but favorable comment was heard about the conference of the Political Equality association at Marble House. The general opinion among the women interested in the work seems to be that a great deal of good was done by the holding of this "conference of great women." No one is any more pleased with the meeting than is the Duchess of Marlborough. Mrs. Belmont's main idea in arranging this conference was to give her daughter a chance to meet some of the women of this country who are interested in the same reforms in America as she is in England, and the duchess is very enthusiastic over what she heard. She showed this enthusiasm by remarking, "I wish we could have the meeting all over again."

NETHERWOOD CHURCH GIVES LAWN FESTIVAL

Under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society, of the Netherwood Reformed church, a successful lawn festival was held on the grounds adjoining the church, last evening. The affair attracted a large number of members and friends of the church and the society realized a considerable sum from the proceeds.

During the evening there was an attractive program of music furnished by Adams' orchestra and this was much enjoyed by those present.

Those in charge of the various attractions under the direction of Mrs. C. H. Hansen, general chairman, were as follows:

Apron table, Mrs. James C. Hansen and Mrs. Merkle; the Cabbage Patch, "Mrs. Wiggs," Mrs. Hamilton Johnston; "Lovey Mary," Miss Stewart, cake table, Mrs. Ellston Johnston and Mrs. Whitman; lemonade, Mrs. Horace J. Martin; candy, Mrs. D. S. Adam and Mrs. Wooster; ice cream, Mrs. Horace Adams and Mrs. William Carson

Today, however, Art is "creeping Out from Under," and everywhere we see efforts toward the Beautiful in Diamond Jewelry.

We have in our Cases and Windows, rarely wonderful pieces, created into La Vallieres, Bar Pins, Breast Pins and what not.

Any time during the business day we will be glad to show this selection.

SPEAKERS OPPOSE NEW GOVERNMENT

But No Ballot is Taken at the Meeting of the West End Civic Association.

PLAN BAND CONCERTS

Series of Baseball Games Will Be Played With the Netherwood Residents' Association—Much Routine Business.

Among the speakers opposing the introduction of Commission Government in Plainfield, who spoke at the meeting of the West End Civic Association, last night, was Councilman John H. Cose. The city official's talk was strongly against the proposition and he cited numerous reasons why the abolition of the present form would be a detriment to the city. His words bore considerable weight at the meeting and although numerous other individual speakers discussed the question no definite decision was arrived at. The general sentiment seemed to be against the Commission Government idea and as a result no ballot was taken on the subject. The speeches were of an informal nature and a great amount of interest was shown by those present.

The session was largely attended and several new members were elected. Among the communications received was one from the Netherwood Residents' Association challenging the West End body to a series of three baseball games. These contests are proposed as a means of bringing the members of the two organizations into closer touch and if they are successful it is likely that a number of similar inter-association plans will be laid. The ball games will be followed by a reception and dance at Truell Hall.

Agitation was started last night to provide the West End residents with a weekly program of music. This will be in the nature of an evening band concert and the interest already manifested in the idea assures it of success. A committee is working to bring the plan about and the first entertainment will probably be held within the next few weeks.

Routine business occupied a large portion of the association's time last night and a large amount of accumulated matter was disposed of.

OPENING SERVICE AT NETHERWOOD HOME

The opening service of the Netherwood Fresh Air Home will be held at the Home tomorrow afternoon, at 4:15 o'clock. The service will be in charge of George A. Chapman, and the speaker will be the Rev. Dr. Charles M. Anderson, pastor of the First Methodist church. Edgar A. Cole, baritone of the same church, will be the soloist. There are about three hundred mothers and children now at the Home, and the season has opened under the most favorable conditions.

Services are held on Tuesday and Friday evenings of each week and this coming week the speakers will be Mrs. Louis H. Matlack on Tuesday and W. D. Murray on Friday evening. These services are all open to the public and those interested in the Home will be cordially welcomed and strangers will be shown through the Home. On Sunday next the Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, of the First Baptist church, will speak and the music will be under the direction of Howard M. Case, organist and director of music of the same church.

REFUSES DISCHARGE.

Mrs. Priscilla A. Perley, of Franklinville, N. Y., appeared before Judge Connoly in the Orphan's Court in Elizabeth yesterday, and asked that she be discharged as administrator of the estate of Mrs. Harriet Merritt, consisting of property in Westfield and other towns in this section valued at $5,000. She did not appear to be more than thirty-five years of age yet she pleaded "age and increasing infirmities." Judge Connolly ruled against her petition.

UNABLE TO GET BAIL.

Sanford Robinson, formerly of Craig place, but recently of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., is still confined in the Essex county jail, unable to get the necessary $1,000 bail for his freedom. Robinson, who is well known here, was arrested by the police of Newark charged with driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor. He denies the allegation.

HUMORIST MACMANUS AND A POLICEMAN

Seumas MacManus, who during a temporary sojourn in this city, had a rather unpleasant experience with the police, being arrested following his refusal to give any information concerning himself, has been ever since seeking vindication for his actions by writing to newspapers throughout the country giving his version of the affair. The Evening Wisconsin, of Milwaukee, received one of these letters, and in a dignified way takes occasion to "spank" the humorist as follows:

"'When a policeman meeting a good citizen on the street late at night asks his name and address and the business which has brought him out at that hour, what is the proper course for the good citizen to pursue?' says the Evening Wisconsin. 'This question is elementary and there ought to be no doubt as to the answer. The good citizen should cooperate with the 'powers that be' for the maintenance of law and order. The policeman represents authority. The good citizen should respect authority, for authority and good citizenship are on the same side. It is for the protection of good citizens that policemen exist.

"Neither policemen nor good citizens always live up to the ideals of their respective positions in the social organization. Sometimes policemen are more brusque than need be. Sometimes people who as a rule are good citizens are obsessed by an overweening egotism that makes them supersensitive or supercilious, and causes them to resent the perfectly proper attempt of a policeman to identify them when for reasons which he has a right to consider sufficient he accosts them in an endeavor to find out who and what they are. It is perfectly safe to assert that in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred when clashes occur between policemen and citizens on the streets of cities at any hour of the day or night the initial fault is with the citizens rather than with the policemen.

"Seumas MacManus is a clever man whose writings are much enjoyed, and no doubt in the main he is a good citizen; but he made a serious mistake a few nights ago. He lives in Plainfield, New Jersey, where there have been many burglaries of late, and where the police are on the alert to restrain suspicious characters. In a letter to the Chicago Tribune, Mr. MacManue states as follows what took place between himself and a Plainfield policeman:

"After a number of praiseworthy burglaries had been brought to a peaceful issue in the town of Plainfield (where I am temporarily hanging out my shy shingle), a policeman, bent upon vindicating the efficiency of the force, saw me, an eminently burglarious looking person, returning from the postoffice one night, cross the quiet, tree shaded avenue on which I reside, directly to the house that has the honor of holding me, then saunter up and down in front of the house (a highly suspicious action to which I am prone)—pause once or twice in the path (in poetic ecstasy) and resume the suspicious exercises again. From the shadows opposite the vigilant guardian of the law pounced upon his prey, demanding where the prey lived (if he lived anywhere), and what was his name. The humor of the situation so amused me that the policeman considered the majesty of the law, as represented by his august person, vilely outraged. I joked my persistent companion up an down the block, his temper got the better of him, and he arrested me.

"At the station, when the identity of the prisoner was discovered, the chief would have let him go, but MacManus was not satisfied with this, and demanded to be taken before a magistrate. The magistrate acquitted him of disorderly conduct, but said, 'As you should have given your name to the policeman, I find you guilty of indiscretion and suspend sentence.'

"Mr. MacManus fancies that he has been abused, and his letter to the Tribune is an appeal for sympathy. From the standpoint of lovers of order the sympathy is due to the policeman, and not to the citizen, who so far forgot the interests of all good citizens, including himself in that category, as to refuse to give his name to a policeman when that official asked for it under circumstances making the demand perfectly justifiable, as the account submitted by Mr. MacManus shows.

"It was the business of the policeman to guard the MacManus residence and others by preventing the lurking of suspicious characters in their vicinity. It was no reflection on him that he did not happen to known MacManus. There are circumstances under which joking is

AIDA ANTHONY PLEADS GUILTY TO FORGERY CHARGE

Elizabeth, July 11.—Aida Anthony who was recently committed to jail from Westfield, for forging a check for $25 pleaded guilty to the charge in the court of Quarter Sessions yesterday afternoon and will be sentenced next Friday. Fritz Semanson, admitted carrying a gun in Fanwood, and will also be sentenced Friday.

George Farron, a Paterson man, who was sentenced to six months in the county jail and fined $100 for being a party to a conspiracy to rob Jacob Reuter, an Elizabeth saloonkeeper, charged that John A. Galatian the county detective, sent William Fitzpatrick, now awaiting sentence for highway robbery after Farron, so as to "frame him up." The charge was vigorously denied by Prosecutor Alfred A. Stein who defended and praised the county detective. Louis Deakon, Farron's companion, was liberated under a suspended sentence.

MAY BE THREE CORNERED FIGHT

Both Fowler and Stuchell Likely to Be Opposed for Congress.

CAPSTICK A FACTOR

Morris County Man Urged to Enter Race—Ernest R. Ackerman is Favored by Many of the Republicans.

Charles N. Fowler and Rev. William T. Stuchell, both of this county, and candidates for the Republican nomination for Congress at the fall primaries, will have some opposition from Morris county, which, with Union county, forms the Fifth New Jersey Congressional District. John H. Capstick, of Morristown, is being urged by many friends to enter the race for the Congressional nomination. Up to this time, however, he has declined, but promises to make a statement within the course of a few days. Should he decide to enter the race, it would make the contest for the nomination in the Republican party a three-cornered one and somewhat complicated. Mr. Capstick would undoubtedly poll a large vote in his own county.

A meeting of the Republican State Committee will be held about the third week in this month at which plans will be mapped out for the primary fight. The principal object will be getting "right men" on the primary ticket in each Congressional district.

How this will affect Union county is problematical. The announced candidates for the Republican Congressional nomination from this district are former Congressman Charles N. Fowler, of Elizabeth, and Rev. William T. Stuchell, of Rahway. Former State Senator Ernest R. Ackerman, of this city, has been mentioned as a candidate.

Fowler is generally conceded as a better vote getter than Stuchell, but he is distinctly "on the outside" as far as the G. O. P. machine is concerned. Any attempt to indorse Fowler would meet with opposition led by former United States Senator John Kean. Emphasizing their candidate's ability as a vote getter, friends of Fowler point to his surprising run last Sept. as a candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor before that time he had been considered "dead" politically, but the vote showed that there is still enough power in him to make him a thorn in the machine's side for several years to come.

No one is sure of Stuchell's strength, and the question is whether the leaders are willing to take the chance of pinning their hopes on him. There is talk that another effort will be made to induce former Senator Ackerman to get into the contest.

Republican State Chairman Newton A. K. Bugbee has explained that the State committee will not take any side in the primary contests, Congressional or otherwise, but the committee purposes that in all the districts candidates of sufficient strength to attract the Progressive vote shall run.

THIEVES TRY TO OPEN SAFE WITH STEEL AXE

Sometime during the night burglars entered the store conducted by Elmer R. Mills on Grant avenue through a rear window that had been left unlocked. Efforts were made to batter open a safe with an axe that was near at hand but the thieves evidently found the metal too hard to demolish.

Three boxes of cigars, one box of candy and several novelties were taken by the intruders. No clue has as yet been unearthed in the case but Detective Sergeant Flynn is working on it.

MISSION WORKER WILL SPEAK AT HOPE CHAPEL

The pulpit of Hope chapel will be occupied at both services tomorrow by Rev. Thomas B. Ironside, superintendent of the Market Street Mission, of Morristown. Mr. Ironsides has been the efficient head of that Mission for twenty-five years, and is well known among the social and rescue workers.

Mr. Ironsides is a native of Aberdeen, Scotland. Following his graduation, he was engaged in teaching in that city, coming to this country in 1885. Sometime afterward, he was converted at a street meeting in Washington. He became an active worker in the Central Union Mission of that city, until called to his present position at Morristown. He is of a pleasing personality, with a broad knowledge of the practical side of Christianity. His services have been appreciated in mission conferences and conventions. He recently declined a call to the chairmanship of the executive board of the City Mission of St. Louis. Mr. Ironsides has preached at Hope chapel upon several previous occasions and also during the absence of the pastor on his vacation.

NEW DOG CATCHER STARTS BAGGING STRAY ANIMALS

Chief Kiely has finally succeeded in landing an applicant for the dog catcher job and yesterday afternoon Burt Rogers, colored, was appointed by Mayor Stewart. Rogers did the work last year and is considered capable.

He started his work of rounding up stray curs this morning and all canines running loose on the public thoroughfares will be taken to the city pound.

WILL NOT RUN.

James J. McCann, of Division street, who was a member of the defunct small Board of Freeholders, was considered by Democrats from the other end of the country, as a possible candidate for the Assembly from Union county this fall. Mr. McCann was a formerd resident of Elizabeth This fact would in all probability make him a strong candidate in the entire county. However, he has declined to sanction the use of his name.

WILL PRESENT REWARDS.

Rev. Charles L. Goodrich, pastor of the Congregational church, will preach tomorrow morning on "Lessons from Lower New York." After the sermon, rewards will be presented to the boys and girls members of the "Go-to-Church Club" having a perfect attendance for three months. The Young People's Society's social service will be held at 7:30.

SERVICE ON THE LAWN.

Rev. Edward S. Rawlston, pastor of the Netherwood Reformed church, has announced his sermon subjects for tomorrow as folows: Morning, "The Mission and Message of the Church"; evening, "Think Great Thoughts." Weather permitting, the evening service will be held on the lawn.

OPENING SERVICE.

The opening service of the Netherwood Fresh Air Home will be held tomorrow afternoon when Rev. Charles M. Anderson, of the First M. E. church, will be the speaker. Special music will be rendered by the choir of the First church.

JOHN P. OWENS MAY ENTER RACE

Expected That He Will Seek County Clerk Nomination on Democratic Ticket.

It became known in this city, last night, that John P. Owens, of East Second street, county attorney for the small Board of Freeholders, who was afterward legislated out of the office, is considering running at the fall primaries for the Democratic nomination for county clerk. Mr. Owens' candidacy is an outcome of a boom started at the meeting of the local Democratic Club, Tuesday evening. In response to an inquiry put to him by a reporter of the Daily Press, Mr. Owens stated that while he is considering his announcement as a candidate for the office, he has not, as yet, reached a decision in the matter, but would make a statement in regard to the matter shortly.

Mr. Owens was the candidate of the local Democrats last fall for the city judgeship, but was defeated by the present incumbent, William G. DeMeza, candidate of the Republican party. Mr. Owens was recently appointed by Governor Fielder as an appraiser of inheritance tax on decedents' estates. He is a graduate of Seton Hall College, and was a classmate of Joseph Tumulty, secretary to President Wilson. He was admitted to the bar as an attorney in November, 1907. He is married, and has one child. Mr. Owens is an active worker in the local ranks of the Democratic party, and should he become a candidate for the clerkship, will in all probability, receive the support of Plainfield's Democracy.

Those who were behind his boom at the meeting of Democrats early in the week were desirous of having the organization endorse his candidacy, but the majority of those present were of the opinion that this action would be in opposition to the spirit of the Geran act.

BOROUGHS IN FAVOR OF CONSOLIDATION

Fanwood and Dunellen May Hold Special Elections This Fall.

North Plainfield's special election on the consolidation question in the fall will determine, it is said, whether or not Fanwood Township and Dunellen will take steps to affiliate with Plainfield in municipal government. Should the borough voters decide in favor of the long agitated proposition the Dunellen Board of Trade and the Fanwood Council, it is believed, will take steps to hold similar elections in those places.

Dunellen taxpayers contend that their municipal government could be conducted on a more economical basis if consolidated with this city. It has been found that the joint sewerage disposal system will be a saving to that town because of the fact that it is being constructed jointly by three municipalities and if this proves true there is no reason why the fire department, police department and other civic branches cannot be conducted in a similar manner benefiting all concerned. This would be partially carrying out the Washington county idea suggested by Newton B. Smalley.

The sentiment in Fanwood Township has long been in favor of consolidation, but Plainfield has never extended a very urgent invitation to the authorities of that section to merge with the city. Following North Plainfield's special election, in the event of the consolidation idea being accepted, Fanwood and Dunellen will probably take up the question.

WEDDING ANNIVERSARY.

Mrs. Harry Cook, of Somerset street celebrated his nineteenth wedding anniversary yesterday, afternoon when she entertained about fifteen of her women friends. The afternoon was spent in playing games, vocal and instrumental music after which refreshments were served and a sewing club of which Mrs. Cook is a member presented her with a cut glass pitcher.

EARLY MORNING SHINE.

A pile of refuse in the barn at the home of Frank C. Talmadge, 714 Belvidere avenue, caused a telephone alarm to be sent into fire headquarters at 1:20 o'clock this morning. The blaze was extinguished with little or no damage resulting.

TEMPERATURE REPORT.

The temperature report from The State Trust Company today is as follows: 9 a. m., 71 degrees; 11 a. m., 72 degrees; 12:30 p. m., 76 degrees.

James A. O. Keefe, of the local fire department, spent yesterday in New York seeing the sights.

BOROUGH AGAINST GRADE CROSSINGS

Dunellen Plans to Start Agitation for Bridges Over Two Avenues.

TWO BAD SPOTS CITED

Several Bad Accidents Have Aroused the Dunellenites to Action—Expense Would Be Borne Jointly by the Borough and Railroad.

Dunellen residents have been stirred to action following the numerous recent narrow escapes of pedestrians and vehicle drivers on the Washington and Prospect avenue grade crossings and are now planning an agitation to compel the railroad authorities to either tunnel the crossings or place an overhead bridge at those places. Several times during the last two months hairbreadth escapes have been recorded at the two dangerous crossings and each time the feeling in the village has been aroused to a keener pitch.

In the past few years several pedestrians have been killed and numerous others injured at the Washington and Prospect avenue crossings, and it is the opinion of those pressing the movement that the railroad authorities can be forced to grant the demands.

Plans are being made to send a committee of Dunellen residents before the Public Utilities Commission if a hearing can be arranged for. In the event of the favorable consideration of the Dunellen petition by the members of the Commission it is probable that the village will have to bear a portion of the expense attached to the improvements.

Although nothing definite has been done to induce New Market and Piscataway township residents to co-operate with the plan it is understood that the proposition is favored by them and it would be an easy matter to line them up with the idea. At the present time the crossing is a menace to human life and when the flagman is off duty many vehicle drivers choose another route rather than endanger their personal safety.

Mr. and Mrs. Z. Gopan, of New York city are now occupying their recently purchased property "Hilltop Farm," on Mountain boulevard.

NO LOOKING BACK IN PLAINFIELD.

New Evidence Constantly Being Published.

Since the long succession of Plainfield reports were first published in the local press there has been no looking back. Plainfield evidence continues to pour in, and—better still—those whose reports were first published many years ago, verify all they said in a most hearty and unmistakable way. Read the experience of Mrs. E. Dorflinger, of 400 Clinton avenue, Plainfield, N. J. She says: "The first symptom of kidney trouble was a dull, heavy pain in my back and head. This was followed by a tired, languid feeling and I knew that my kidneys were gradually giving out. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised and getting a box at Randolph's Drug Store, I began using them. Before long I improved and I continued taking Doan's Kidney Pills until I was cured. I hold just as high an opinion of them now as when I gave my former endorsement recommending them. The cure they made has been permanent."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Dorflinger had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv.

'Plains & Fanwood.

The Rev. George H. Houghton Butler will be in charge of the morning service at the Episcopal church tomorrow at 11 o'clock. Sunday-school will be held at 10 p. m.

Dr. H. K. Carroll will conduct both services at the Methodist church tomorrow. Sunday-school will be at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and the Epworth League meeting in the evening at 7:45.

Services will be held in Willow Grove chapel tomorrow at 3 o'clock in the afternoon as usual.

Mrs. Robert Chadwick will conduct the services at the St. John's, colored Baptist church tomorrow afternoon.

The Saturday Night Club meets in the Fanwood Firehouse at 8 o'clock tonight.

Miss Mary Kaufman, of the township, is spending the week-end with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Kaufman, of Jersey City.

What is to become of the Fanwood Public Library is a question being asked by many borough people. The library as well as the postoffice is attached to the residence owned by Miss Carrie Bettman, the postmistress, and as her resignation takes effect August 1 she has offered the dwelling for sale. If some provision is not made shortly Fanwood people are apt to find themselves without a library as well as a postoffice.

Fred Coombs had a narrow escape from possible death on Thursday when he fell in Cook's stonecrusher on the mountain. Coombs in company with several other young boys started to climb the face of the mountain that had been cut away and is three hundred feet deep. He had nearly reached the top when a stone on which he was resting gave way and Coombs dropped to the bottom bruising and scratching himself on rocks and shrubbery in the descent. His fall was broken somewhat by landing in some bushes.

worth League convention at Northfield, Mass., returned home yesterday. The Misses Elizabeth Babcock and Marie Boise will remain at the new Louise Andrews camp for another week. Those who returned were the Misses Matilda Kuehn, Mammie Clark, Eloise Goodwin, and Emma Elliot, and all report a pleasant time.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Baptist church is making preparations to give the new minister, the Rev. J. Madison Hare, a reception in the church on Tuesday evening.

After the regular weekly prayer meeting in the Methodist church last evening the first quarterly conference was held. The Rev. F. J. Hubach was in charge.

It is now reported that the Scotch Plains Memorial Parish House will never open again under the present system as the place was not patronized enough last winter to pay the current expense.

Tony Denitz, who has been playing shortstop for the Dunellen ball team all season, has quit as he is considering several offers from minor league clubs. Joe Alberts will be seen in a Dunellen uniform today for the first time in several weeks and Lambertson will play third base.

South Plainfield.

The regular services will be held in the South Plainfield Baptist church tomorrow. At 11 a. m., the pastor will preach on "Gethsemane," after which the ordinance of the Lord's Supper will be administered. At the evening service the choir will render "The Story of the Pink Rose." This is a service of song and story and will be of interest to young and old. It tells the story of "Blue Bird of Mulberry Street."

Rev. and Mrs. J. J. Allen are planning on spending the months of July and August at their summer home at Carmel, N. Y.

J. W. HARRISON IS CELEBRATING TODAY

Well Known Citizen Observes Seventy-seventh Birthday Anniversary.

J. W. Harrison, orf New street, is today celebrating the seventy-seventh anniversary of his birthday. He is enjoying good health and is quite active for one of his age. Mr. Harrison has made two trips across the continent in a gospel wagon in company with his wife, who has since died. They traveled over 5,000 miles. Mr. Harrison is a member of the Christian church, better known as the Disciples of Christ.

Together with his wife, Mr. Harrison left New York September 19, 1903 on the first trip in the gospel wagon, passing through thirteen States, preaching as they traveled. On this trip, they went as far south as Atlanta, Ga., returning to New York in October, 1904. The second trip was cut short when Waterville, Kansas was reached, where Mrs. Harrison was taken sick. They then came to this city, where Mr. Harrison has since resided.

Mr. Harrison is still active in business, civic and religious affairs. He was prominent in the last Democratic presidential campaign, speaking at several of the local meetings. He is a warm advocate of woman suffrage. Mr. Harrison has always shown considerable interest in public questions in this city.

RECREATION NOTES

The members of the Dunbar Social and Educational Club met last evening in the Washington School Auditorium, and all agreed that it was one of the most enjoyable meetings that they had had for some time. Dancing and a musical program comprised the evenings entertainment. There were vocal selections by Mr. Nathan Clay and Henry Van Blake, a piano solo by Miss Gertrude Randolph, another song by Miss Madeline Fisher and the last number, "Dreaming of you," by Miss DeGrofoureed which was so well received that an encore was necessary. Mrs. R. C. Wormly, the new assistant director of recreation was present and it was largely through her efforts that the evenings entertainment was such a success. The recreation committee, under whose auspices the club meets, was represented by Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Jones.

The municipal dance will be held tonight in the Washington School. The attractive auditorium, the good floor, and the excellent music affords the means of much good wholesome entertainment to the people of Plainfield this summer.

If there is any joke in the matter as it stands, the joke is on MacManus, and he ought to take it with good grace instead of trying to turn its point against an officer of the law whom he endeavored to thwart in the performance of duty."

THE ART OF BUILDING GOOD ROADS.

The earliest roads of history were the great highways for war and commerce extending into districts not readily accessible by water. Most of these, however, were merely footpaths, until the Carthaginians began and the Romans developed the science of road building. The best of these Roman roads were three feet thick, laid in four courses. A foundation of large flat stones laid in lime mortar was covered with a well compacted concrete of lime and broken stones in the proportion of about one to three. On top of this was placed another layer of concrete, which was not tamped and which was a mixture of old building materials and hot lime. The wearing course consisted of irregularly shaped flat stones about six inches thick, carefully fitted and laid in lime mortar. This form of construction was undoubtedly not the first method used, but was the result of much experience. Even these early road builders appreciated the value of placing in the road a material providing a positive mechanical bonding strength between the stones.

With the fall of the Roman Empire came a decline in road construction and for several centuries no further attempt was made to improve highways. The revival of paving came in the building of streets in the larger cities. This was followed by the improvement of the through routes between the centers of population.

It was not until the latter part of the 18th century and the early part of the 19th, that a truly scientific attempt was made at road building. The methods employed during that period are in use today, in slightly modified form, in our country and village roads.

The decided change in the mode of transportation on our highways during the last few years has necessitated new methods of construction. The lasting quality of a mecadam road depends greatly upon the natural cementing value of the stone composing it. Until the advent of the automobile, the binding material of the surface was disturbed by the horses' shoes and blown away by the wind; more binder was then chipped off the stone, compressed by the steel-tired vehicles, and reformed by absorbing moisture from the atmosphere. The automobile prevents this remaking of the binder. The action of the rear driving wheels displaces not only the surface binder, but the road materials as well, scattering them beyond recovery. When this occurs, rain penetrates the road, and softens the base and foundation. The road in turn settles, breaking the bond, and thus permitting the loosened stones to be displaced. In order to prevent these defects a permanent binder, such as Portland cement, or a bituminous binder, must be incorporated with the other road materials, or, where the travel is not too heavy, by applying a bituminous surface coat to the roadway.

The use of cement concrete, and bituminous concrete roads is increasing, it being stated that the total amount of cement concrete pavement laid up to the beginning of the present year was over 18,000,000 square yards. In many places, notably Ann Arbor, Michigan, the concrete is protected by a thin bituminous coating, which increases the durability of the pavement by forming a cushion between the concrete and the shock of travel, and also makes the pavement water-proof. Concrete pavements have been criticized on account of the cracks which develop in them, but these are easily filled with a bituminous cement, and do not seem to injure the pavement. It has been pointed out that the use of concrete pavement is particularly indicated for Plainfield, as the principal ingredient, hard trap rock, is found here in abundance. Such pavements are very satisfactory for streets which require something more substantial than macadam. For the lighter traveled residence streets, macadam, with a surface coat of tar, or asphalt, will, no doubt, continue to be the favorite, the convenient supply of trap rock also favoring this type.

In the business section of the city, we do not find anything which is likely to be more satisfactory than a good brick, or brick block pavement, though an asphalt block might be preferred on account of its being less noisy.

There are two serious troubles with our old macadam streets: (1) The coat of stone is now extremely thin, easily breaking through in the spring time, and (2), only the middle of the street is covered, leaving the sides of dirt to be churned into mud by vehicles. This results in constant calls upon our street committee for gravel, or something similar, to fill the mud holes.

Macadam is known as an expensive pavement to maintain where the traffic is at all heavy, and the saving in this item by using a more permanent form of pavement would be considerable.

In case it is found practicable to allow the property owners ten years in which to pay for street improvements, the example of the owners on West Third street, who petitioned for a brick pavement, will, no doubt, be followed by many others. It is quite probable that if some street should be improved with concrete walks, curbs and gutters, and with permanent pavement, citizens would soon request similar improvements on their own streets.

On Visiting the Sick.

Do not ask them how they feel. It is an insult to them, for if they felt well they would not be sick, and it is also a reflection on your intelligence, for if you would look around a little you would be able to see how they feel. Be of some service and cheer (if possible) and get out. There is a time later when folks need company, but sickness is essentially a nonsocial occupation. It is a merit to visit the sick when you help them, but to beat them over their enfeebled heads with your robust personality is a peculiarly careless crime.—Collier's.

Moon Theories.

There is a theory that the circular, crater-like Mountains of the Moon are not of volcanic origin, but are the result of the moon's being hit by planetoids. Another theory is to the effect that the earth was at one time encircled by a ring similar to that which now encircles Saturn and that this gradually coalesced, gathering first around a large number of nuclei and finally uniting in a single sphere—the moon.

ZIMMERMAN LEADS KNOCKING IN RUNS

Cubs Third Baseman Has Been Responsible for 43 Tallies Thus Far.

Probably Heinie Zimmerman, of the Chicago Cubs, will be the first major league player this season to pass the half century mark in driving in runs. At the end of the eleventh week's labors O'Days' hard hitting third baseman had hammered home 43 tallies and was in the lead for the timely hitting honors of the majors. No less than six men then were tied for second place in the runs batted in league, these athletes being Baker and McInnis, of the Athletics, Lewis of the Red Sox; Shanks, of the Senators; Walker of the Browns, and Wheat of the Superbas. Each of these players had hit in 40 counters.

The two Philadelphia teams have the best trios of timely thumpers. To July 1 Baker, McInnis and Collins, of the Mackmen, had batted in 115 markers, Magee, Cravath and Luderus, of the Dooinites, 109. The Red Sox have three formidable stickers in Lewis, Speaker and Gardner, who have put the finishing touches to 99 of their team's scoring output, and so have the Cubs in Zimmerman, Saier and Leach. The Western trio's record in this respect is the same as the Eastern trio's.

Frank Leroy Chance, who is a peerless leader when things are breaking right and a cheerless leader when they are breaking wrong, must wish that he could round up a trio of able clubbers like Baker, McInnis and Collins. His three best batters—Hartzell, a sub; Williams, who has been shunted to the Western League, and Maisel—only have knocked in 49 tallies. The entire Yankee team stood credited on July 1 with only having batted in 137 counters. Pittsburg is another major league club sadly in need of three men who can consistently hit safely when runs are in sight. Below will be found the three best men on each club at batting in runs:

On the club in the junior league are four White Elephants, three Senators, one Brown and one Red Sock. The team in the senior organization is composed of two Phillies, two Giants, two Cardinals, two Cubs and one Superba. The outfits follow:

ROD AND REEL

For some unaccountable reason, black drum are scarce this year at Corson's Inlet, where as many as a dozen of these fish have been caught in a single day in previous years, ranging in weight from thirty to more than eighty pounds. Farther down the coast, at Avalon, several of them have been taken on rod and line, and they have even begun to make their appearance further up the coast, a seventy-pound black drum having been caught the forepart of the week by a fisherman on one of the banks boats off Seabright.

Large fluke are plentiful in Flatlands Bay. Catches run all the way from a dozen to more than a hundred to the boat, and they run up to five pounds and more in weight. A local man got sixty-five of these big flat fish the fore part of the week, and also had a big mess of weakfish.

Fishing has been excellent during the past week or so at Weequable Park Lake.

Black bass, perch, eels, sunfish and catfish are plentiful in Weequahic Park Lake and Branch Brook Park Lake.

Fishing is poor at Sewaren this year.

Fluke fishing is fine in Raritan Bay all the way from Seidler's Beach to South Amboy along the Jersey shore. Dozens of them are picked up by the fishermen out for weakfish and double the number could be taken by trolling.

A party of four people went out in a boat at Morgans yesterday and caught twenty-two weakfish. They fished off the pound net stakes in Raritan bay.

Get out your crab net, sinkers and lines, boys. The crabs have found their way up the Raritan and are now peacefully crawling about on the muddy bottoms about Martin's dock and even further up the river than that point. Although small, the crabs that have pushed their way up the river to Martin's dock are heavy and good eating.

Down the bay about Crab Island, which is near Sayreville, the crabs are plentiful and are large, with plenty of meat therein. During the past week a number of boats were seen in this vicinity and all had large catches. The crabs have started to run early, but the lovers of the crab fishing have not missed the opportunity of getting an early mess, as it is not known how long they will continue.

A number of parties returning home from fishing about Martin's dock had catches from fifty to one hundred and fifty for an afternoon fish. Parties from around Crab Island have registered from two to three hundred for a day's fishing.

Sea bass continue to keep a great many anglers entertained these days. Every boat that goes out to the fishing banks brings in great quanties along with black fish and codling. Some lobsters have been taken during the past few days by hooks and line fishermen on the boats, and when a lobster is caught in that manner it is usually worth considerable money. Twenty cents for a ten-pounder pays all expenses of the lucky man for the day.

The daily reports from Weequahic Lake are most encouraging, as they contain accounts of good bass fishing, and that is what the anglers look for.

The biggest kind of weakfish are being caught over in Jamaica bay Guides have all they can do to take care of the fishermen that want a crack at them. No one seems to be able to account for the fact that men come in with thirty and forty three and four pound fish, but it seems to us that the water is much warmer over there on account of the shallowness of the bay and it takes warm water to make the weakfish bite.

The Federal authorities are taking quite an interest in the campaign of the boatowners against the pound nets of Cape May and Atlantic counties. It appears that the boatmen are working with the handline fishermen in their protest against the nets extending so far seaward and the government wants to hear all those who are interested. The last hearing was at Atlantic City Tuesday and another is arranged for at Anglesea, with the possibility of one being held in Monmouth county later on.

Fluke are biting well along the Staten Island shore of Raritan Bay. Two men trolled on the sandy bottom from Lemon Creek down to Great Kills every day and usually pick up from seventy-five to 100 fluke. They sell their catch and never make less than $10 a day.

The weakfish are here and all that is needed in several consecutive days of warm weather to make them bite well. Reports from all parts of Raritan Bay and the Shrewsbury river show that the catches are climbing up to the twenty-five mark, which is considered a good catch nowadays and it is.

THREE JERSEYMEN ARE IN THE SEMI-FINALS

Of the four semi-finalists in the Sleepy Hollow Country Club's golf tournament, three are from New Jersey and the other from New York. Baltusrol, Montclair and Princeton are the cities represented in this State, and Max Marston, of the first named place, stands a fine chance of taking the final round. Philip Carter, the Metropolitan junior champion who successfully defended his title at the local country club in the recent tournament, was off his game and lost to a New Yorker.

G. D. Raine, of Westfield, qualified for the third sixteen, but was put out in the first round by C. G. Comstock, Jr., of Sleepy Hollow, 6 up and 5 to play. Dr. S. M. Hinman, of Cranford, one of the third sixteen, was also defeated in the first round, 1 up in 21 holes. These two men were the last in this vicinity to play.

LINDEMAN ON THE MOUND.

Ernie Lindeman, who pitched for the Plainfield baseball team several years and was prominent in the Central New Jersey league will pitch for the crack Suburban nine of New York tomorrow afternoon against the Chinese team of the University of Hawaii.

LOCAL BOYS WILL FIGHT FOR TITLE

Philip and Ludlow VanDeventer Will Play for Union County Championship.

In the final round of the Union county doubles tennis tournament, which will be contested on the courts of the Town and Country Club in Elizabeth this afternoon, Philip and Ludlow Van Deventer, of this city will meet Lindsay Dunham and Harold Throckmorton, of Woodbridge, for the county title. Last week the local boys who are brothers, defeated two Elizabeth men and qualified for the finals. The match today will undoubtedly be one of the finest that has been played in the tournament as the two teams are very evenly matched.

Philip Van Deventer, is a member of the Plainfield High School Committee and has held the city interscholastic singles title for three years. He is a member of the school tennis team. His brother, Ludlow, is at present a student in Princeton and is a member of the tennis team. Both play an exceptionally fine game of tennis, and should make their opponents go the limit in today's contest. Throckmorton, who is playing under the colors of the Ilderan Outing Club of Rahway, is the State interscholastic champion and has appeared several times in this city against the local school team.

TRIO OF FORMER PETS DOING WELL

Bruggy, Luyster and Carlstrom all Playing Great Ball in Fast Company.

Frank Bruggy and "Flick" Luyster, who played bal in this city two years ago in "Pet" uniforms and who are now playing with the Lawrence team of the New England League, are making a good record according to accounts in the New England journals.

An article in the Haverhill Herald says the following about these two players: Bruggy and Luyster are to the New England League what Cobb and Crawford are to the American. Both are sluggers and are most always there in the pinch. Although he is not hitting the pill as hard as last season, Luyster is traveling along at a clip a little over the 300 mark. Bruggy is going his teammate one better, and in the opinion of the writer hits more in the pinch than any player in the league."

An even break was registered by Lawrence in a double header at Worcester, Wednesday. They lost the first game 11 to 6, but won the second 4 to 2. Frank Bruggy featured with a homer in the first encounter. He also corralled a single, scored a run, had five put-outs, three assists and one error. Bruggy's homer over the left field fence in the first inning was the bigest clout of the season at the Worcester park. It was the first time in two years that a homer has been made over the left garden wall. Bruggy scored in the second, had three put outs and one assist. Flick Luyster collected three hits in the two games. Two of his wallops came in the first tilt. He scored a run in each game. In the first game Luyster pitched the first three innings but was forced to retire. Six hits were made off his delivery in the three rounds. His fielding, however, for the entire day was perfect.

Albin Carstrom, another, local player of years back, is playing great ball with the Buffalo team of the International League. In a double header with Rochester he pounded a triple in each game and in the first encounter scored one run, and made two putouts and one assist. In the second game he had one putout and one assist to his credit.

PLAINFEILD vs. ST. PETER'S.

Phe Plainfield Sunday Baseball Club will lineup against the Knights of St. Peter's nine, Sunday afternoon, at the Woodland avenue grounds with the following players: Harney, p; Nash, c; Garretson, 1b; Grimes, 2b; Mullin, ss; Conti, 3b; Jaeger, lf; Porter, cf; Alberts, rf.

This will be the opening day for the new grounds and it being on the Arlington avenue trolley line there will no doubt be a large attendance as the New Brunswick team is reputed to be fast and Jackie Hayes has been announced as the pitcher. A good game may be expected.

SIR EDWARD CARSON.

Ulster Leader Given Free Hand to Call Volunteers if Necessary.

The "provisional government" formed by the Ulster Unionists, at its first meeting in Belfast, Ireland, gave Sir Edward Carson a free hand to take whatever action he may think necessary in calling the Ulster volunteers to arms. The men were declared ready for mobilization at a moment's notice. Sir Edward Carson, in a speech, declared that the time had come for the loyalists of Ulster to translate their words into action. He said something must be done to compel the British government to make up its mind. Ulster, he concluded, was anxious for peace, but was not going to accept peace with surrender.

HIS TACT WON.

Pleasantly Spiked the Enemy's Guns and Got What He Wanted.

A London advertising solicitor was sent up into the midlands to get business for a special edition of a daily paper dealing with an important industry. The king pin of this industry was a manufacturer of great repute, a baronet, whose actions determined policy in the trade, but it was said he had never spent a penny for advertising. The success of this special edition turned on Sir John. If this important personage could be landed for an advertisement others would come in as a matter of course.

The solicitor went after Sir John first. He tried to see him, but failed. He wrote to him, but got no reply. Finally an arrangement was made with his private secretary whereby the latter was to doze for five minutes on a certain afternoon, and the solicitor was to slip into Sir John's office on his own responsibility, providing his own introduction.

This plan worked out all right. The advertising solicitor got in. Sir John looked up threateningly when the door opened to admit a stranger. It was a large office, and as the intruder hurried across to where the manufacturer sat he could see storm clouds rising. The moment he was within earshot he said:

"Sir John, I am a staff investigator for the Clarion, and in visiting the leading men of your industry here in the midlands two things have impressed me particularly—the uniform courtesy with which I have been received everywhere and the intelligence with which a survey of the industry has been comprehended."

The rising storm subsided. Of course Sir John was bound to be as courteous and intelligent as the rest of the trade after that, and he wanted to hear about this investigation. He listened as the salesman quickly explained his proposition. The word advertising was not spoken. Before the interview ended, however, he had given his order for a page, and with that everybody else in the trade worth while was brought into line.—Saturday Evening Post.

ANTI-SUFFRAGE

Conducted by Plainfield Branch New Jersey Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage.

To the Editor of The Evening Sun—Sir: Are militant tactics to be used to express "the moral support" pledged to the suffrage movement by the convention of the Federation of Women's Clubs? The first fruits of that pledge appeared on Tuesday, June 30, when 700 or 500 clubwomen—it matters little which—were assembled in the East Room of the White House. Their spokesman, Rheta Childe Dorr, attempted to cross-question the President, who, quite properly, refused to allow that lady the joys of an impromptu debate with the Chief Executive. There should be no surprise at the incident.

The Congressional Union, that suffrage body which boasts of its well filled treasury, arranged this hearing of "representative clubwomen from all parts of the country." The Congressional Union's heart and hand is Alice Paul, American citizen, who wears the badge of honor conferred on English militants who suffer—or enjoy—imprisonment. During Inauguration Week in 1913 Mrs. Pankhurst's colors floated over the headquarters of the Congressional Union in Washington, a hint to authority that at least a wing of the suffrage party stood for direct action.

As the Congressional Union arranged the White House audience, so the friend and ally of Mrs. Pankhurst her companion during her detention at Ellis Island, Mrs. Rheta Childe Dorr, spoke for the assembled women. At the termination of the meeting in the East Room, so the New York Times' reports "a single hiss rang out." Nor should this surprise anyone who recalls the hissing of President Taft by members of the National Woman's Suffrage Association when, as their guest, he addressed their meeting in Washington in April 1910.

Did these disputants of June 30 truly represented suffrage policy? If they did, will the Federation of Women's Clubs find their "moral support" interpreted in terms of direct action

Last May the clubwomen of California, after a scant three years' experience of voting, spread this resolution on the books of their federation: "Resolved, That we protest against using the influence and agencies of State and District federation to further partisan and political interests, and that we work for the moral and educational movements on which we stand practically united."

Surely it is reasonable and timely to ask if her freedom from political entanglements does not constitute woman's distinctive power in furthering the moral and educational movements which are her most intimate concern. Meantime the clubwomen of the country may well ask if the disciples of English militants are to be their interpreters at the White house.

ALICE N. GEORGE.

Wellesley, Mass., July 1.

A DEFENSE OF MILITANCY.

An American Suffragist Sees Reason for Admiring Mrs. Pankhurst.

To the Editor of The New York Times:—In your editorial article, "England's Tragic Farce," you strike a note which, to my mind, is out of tune with the usual fair-play spirit of The Times. You say: "Sylvia Pankhurst is not another Jeanne d' Arc. She is an obstinate, illogical, and contentious woman of the shrewish type." With all due respect for the editorial dignity and wide vision generally characteristic of The Times, I would like to say a few things in relation to that sub-conscious something which reminds The Times of Jeanne d'Arc when speaking of Sylvia Pankhurst!

Question: Had The New York Times existed in the days of "the wondrous maid" would it have recognized Jeanne's greatness? Personally, I am convinced that the editorials you would have written concerning the Maid of Orleans—if you had been the you of today would have been far more scathing than any you now write about the Pankhursts! Indeed, I suspect that you would have cited her as the arch type of the reprehensibly unfeminine, a meddler in the domain of creations' lords!"

Personally, I do not know Sylvia Pankhurst I am not a suffrage leader in England or America. I have no axes to grind, and my training has made the artistic and architectural possession of historic England seem to me so valuable and noble that their destruction is a tragedy. But I do know courage when I see it; I do recognize magnificent singleness of purpose, and I honor the pluck, determination, and, yes, "obstinacy" of the militants. What is more, I know that these qualities are winning and holding the respect of a good many men and women the world over.

As leaders the Pankhursts have doubtless blundered often-so did Napoleon and Wellington, Grant and Lee, Kuroki and Kuropatkin. But the bloodless war waged by the women in England has been one wherein the women themselves, and especially the leaders, have suffered more than anybody else. The militants have had the Government against them, the conservative citizens against them; if we are to believe the papers, the London police and the London populace against them. Then why are they still in evidence? Why were not they crushed years ago? Why does Asquith care about Sylvia and her hunger strike? Yet the militants are only a handful of women with an apparently forlorn hope.

The trouble with most critics of the militant tactics in England is that they either do not know the facts or they fail in imagination. The facts apparently are hard to get. Eye-witnesses of so-called suffrage riots in London have told me that what they saw was quite different from the "mad rioting and disorder" which the British press described the next day.

But imagination—we can all develop a little of that quality without which the world would be devoid of art, of beauty, of scientific achievement and even of patriotism. Take the raw material—a handful of women, in many cases women of some distinction, personal, professional or social, fired by what they believe to be a just cause. These women might live lives of luxury or ease. They might write or speak their opinions peaceably, although in that case few would listen to them, that method having been tried in England for many years. What they actually do is to give up comfort, scorn safety, even temporarily relinquish that dearest possession which good women have long held indispensable, the thing called dignity.

They do it all—these English suffragettes. They speak on platforms, on the streets, in the face of opposition, even of missles, sometimes, wherever they can find hearers. They go to jail, not once, but many times. They go without food, even without water; they submit to the insolence of officials and the execrations of the press and of the comfortable everyday citizen who never espouses any new cause—until after it is won! They live for months, years, a life more unrestful and hazardous than the lives of beggars, thieves, stokers, miners even of many soldiers, and all in pursuit of an idea, the old, hackneyed, motheaten, yet adored, ideal of liberty, fraternity, equality. And as a result, one of the world's greatest newspapers describes one of their leaders as "an obstinate, illogical, contentious woman of the shrewish type."

Possibly, Mr. Editor. Yet it is also possible that The New York Times of, say, 1930, will refer to Sylvia Pankhurst as a woman of unwavering conviction, dauntless will, and a courage as vivid and beautiful as that of the deathless Maid of Orleans herself—or as of that other brave woman, Sylvia's mother.

ELIZABETH N. HEPBURN.

New York, June 27, 1914.

Comment on the above letters would seem superfluous, but it is interesting to note that they appeared within a few days of each other in the same paper.

Mrs. Hebburn's is especially enlightening, in view of the loud and ceaseless protest against sympathy with militancy.

Here we find glorified and extolled, the whole workings of militancy, indeed according to Mrs. Hepburn's estimate. "Napoleon and Wellington, Grant and Lee, Kuroki and Kuropatkin" and Jeanne d'Arc—last but not least because considered least—should be honored by even being mentioned with these British viragos, who are much more eager for the grabificabrication of their own wishes, than fired by patriotism.

Who follow the methods of hoodlums, not those of honorable warfare.

Mrs. George's letter should command the attention of all who, even if they are not in sympathy with President Wilson personally, as man or politician, have sufficient patriotism and respect for their country and the government, to show common courtesy as its chief executive, as such.

Especially should the treatment meted to the President, arouse the indignation of the members of the Federation of Clubs, and they might well consider what they would, however, thought, and said of a number of men so forgetful of their own dignity and self-control, and so lacking in respect for their country as prevented by President Wilson.

News of Interest in Building World

ONLY FOUR PERMITS ISSUED THIS WEEK

Building Operations Slow Down During Mid-Summer Season.

Building operations in this city have received but little encouragement during the past week, but four small permits having been issued by Inspector T. O. Doane, one of these being for the demolishing of buildings, rather than for the construction of new ones. While permits this week have been few, contractors continue to be optimistic, and issue encouraging reports concerning the outlook for the building trades of this city. The permits as issued for this week are as follows:

First Ward.

Bouis P. Chatel, of 334 Jackson avenue, will erect a 17x22 foot addition to the structure at the above address, two stories high. The foundation will be of concrete block with a frame superstructure. The cost is estimated at $1,200. Gus Meissner has the contract for both the carpenter and mason work.

James H. Keiderling, of 316 East Second street, will erect a 14x12 foot frame work shop in the rear of his residence at a cost of $50. Mr. Keiderling will do the work himself.

Second Ward.

W. A. Garrigues, of 721 Watchung avenue, will install a tank for the storage of volatile liquid at that address. The cost will be $25.

Fourth Ward.

Permission has been granted to the Spicer Manufacturing Company to demolish several of the buildings which constitute its plant on Madison avenue. In speaking with a representative of the Daily Press a few days ago, an official of the Spicer concern stated that the buildings would not be demolished for sometime, if at all, as the concern had changed its plans to some extent.

REALTY TRANSFERS

The following realty transfers of the surrounding towns are recorded at New Brunswick:

Thomas E. French, et al, receiver, transferring to Frank Linke, fifty-two lots in Township of Piscataway, for $3,500.

Nellie Jane Johnson and husband transferring to Lewis W. Raven, lands in Township of Piscataway.

Christian M. Meyer, sole surviving executor, transferring to Spicer Manufacturing Company, property in the Township of Piscataway.

Hector Crippe has bought of Co-Operative Holding Association, house and lot in Oaklawn Terrace, Metuchen.

E. H. Ingham has bought of the Realty Co-Operative Club a house and lot in Oaklawn Terrace, Metuchen.

Merchants, Traders and Realty Company has bought of Twin State Realty Company, 70½ acres in Piscataway township.

William S. Beers has bought of Purchasers Profit Sharing Association house and lot on High street, Metuchen.

Homer M. Freeman has purchased from Walter J. Titus and wife, 9½ acres on the road from New Market to South Plainfield in Piscataway township.

The Tidewater Company has bought of the Bound Brook Company two tracts in the Watchung Estates in Middlesex Borough.

Michael Lang has bought of Metuchen Realty and Improvement Company, a plot in Metuchen Estates.

Laura Amanda Couch has bought of Samuel M. Titus and wife, property on east side of Whittier avenue, Dunellen.

Co-Operative Holding Association transferring to Hector Crippe, four lots in Oaklawn Terrace, Metuchen.

Realty Co-Operative Club, transferring to E. H. Ingram, four lots in Oaklawn Terrace, Metuchen.

George E. Loeffler Land and Improvement Company transferring to Austin E. Allen, two lots in Park Avenue Estates.

Bound Brook Company, Inc., transferring to the Tidewater Pipe Company, tract in the Borough of Middlesex.

Metuchen Realty and Improvement Company transferring to Michael Lang et al, plot in Metuchen Estates.

Walter J. Titus and wife transferring to Homer M. Freeman, 9.50 acres on road from New Market to South Plainfield, Township of Piscataway.

Metuchen Realty and Improvement Company, transferring to Antonio Martino, plot in Metuchen Estates.

Purchasers' Profit Sharing Association, transferring to William S. Beers, two lots in High Street Terrace, Borough of Metuchen.

Frederick L. Menge, transferring to Maude E. Manton, four lots and parts of four others in the Township of Piscataway.

Plainfield Land and Building Company, transferring to Mary E. Allen, two lots in Oakdale Park, Township of Piscataway.

The Plainfield Suburban and Realty Company, transferring to Patrick O'Connor, two lots in the Township of Piscataway.

Co-Operative Holding Association, transferring to Herbert T. Glidden, two lots in Oaklawn Terrace, Borough of Metuchen.

Samuel M. Titus and wife, transferring to Laura Amanda Couch, property on Whittier avenue, Dunellen.

BOSCH MAGNETO CO. PLANNING TO BUILD

Several Options Secured on Land Adjoining Concern's Plant.

It has developed that the Bosch Magneto Company which has just purchased the plant and business of the Rushmore Dynamo Company, of South avenue, this city, has secured an option on a 550 foot vacant plot just across the street from the present works, which is now owned by D. F. Dugan, of East Sixth street. From reliable sources, it is also learned that an option has also been obtained on the building on Berckman street for some time occupied by the Manufacturer's Brass Company.

From oresent indications, it is expected that when the Bosch concern gets its recently purchased shop as it now stands, into working order, an additional wing will be placed on the original works along the Central tracks, leaving sufficient room for a siding into the works. Other buildings on the grounds on which options have been obtained, will undoubtedly follow. With the additional force that this will provide for, new dwellings in the east end will become a necessity

While it is recognized that the dwellings about town which are vacant, together with those now in the course of construction, will provide homes for many, it is doubtful as to whether these will accommodate the additional force which will probably be added to the pay-roll of the Bosch within the course of the next twelve months.

JUST NOTES

The annual convention of the National Association of Building Owners and Managers is to be held at Duluth, Minn., July 14 to 17.

More than two million feet of timber with a value of $4,500,000 on the stump was sold by the Forest Service, last year, according to the recent annual report of Henry S. Graves, forester.

While there are five hemlocks in the United States, only two are of any commercial importance, common hemlock and western hemlock.

Something more than 1,000 builders are said to have been licensed in Boston, Mass., in anticipation of the laws which went into effect April 1.

One of the laws recently passed by the legislature of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts provides that inspectors of masonry construction on all jobs by the State, metropolitan boards, counties, cities, and towns must have at least three years of practical experience in such construction.

The question of licensing architects in Queenstown, Australia, is being vigorously agitated.

Hon. W. J. Browning, Congressman from the First District of this State, has recently sent a check to the Lincoln Highway Association, for a substantial amount to aid in the construction of a fitting memorial to President Lincoln.

BOROUGH NOTES.

William J. Trembath, of Chatham street, has had several minor alterations about his residence made during the course of the past week.

The Texier building on Somerset street has been completely overhauled this week, a new foundation having been put under the building, as well as other minor repairs.

REGRADE GROUNDS.

The yards surrounding Whittier and Franklin Schools have recently been regraded. The former yard has been terraced in order that grass may be planted. Mobus Brothers, of North Plainfield, have had charge of the work.

CONTRACT AWARDED.

Mobus Brothers, of the borough, have been awarded the contract for the work in connection with making the excavations for the new Spicer buildings at South Plainfield. Work was started during the course of the past week.

REAL ESTATE BOOM AT SOUTH PLAINFIELD

Spicer Company Activities Starts Building Operations.

The building and real estate boom in South Plainfield has arrived at last. The excavations for the new 75 x125 foot frame factory to be erected by the Spicer Manufacturing Company of this city has been started. When the buildings are completed, much of the work now being accomplished by the local plant will be transferred to the village. The Spicer concern has purchased within the course of the past two weeks a large tract of land from Christian M. Meyer, of South Plainfield, who was the sole surviving executor of an estate. The tract is on the south side of the Lehigh Valley Railroad tracks, adjoining the site on which the present South Plainfield plant of the Spicer Company is located.

This action will, no doubt, mean much to the future development of South Plainfield, as well as other portions of Piscataway Township, not only in attracting a great number of home-seekers when the new plant starts operations, but will doubtless bring the proposed trolley line from this city to the village. One of the first results in the building lines to be noticed as following the work on the new factory is the plans given out by William Hamilton, who anticipates starting work immediately on six new dwellings which will meet demands of a workingman's needs. These dwellings will be in addition to the twelve dwellings now in the course of erection. A new addition to the public school of the vilage is at present ebing considered by the Piscataway Township Board of Education.

WILL ERECT LODGE AT WASHINGTON ROCK

The contracts for the work on the caretaker's lodge to be erected at Washington Rock by the State in the near future, have been awarded to Stahl & Kinney, carpenters, and William H. Pangborn and Sons, masons, both firms being of North Plainfield. The structure will be of a semi-bungalow type, and will be constructed of hollow terra cotta tile. It will measure 30x40 feet.

REALTY COMPANY WILL BUILD NINETEEN BUNGALOWS

The building operations in the mountain towns of Watchung and Warrenville are progressing rapidly. Among the latest contracts to be given out is one by the Kline Realty Company, of the latter place, who expect to erect nineteen bungalows within the near future. This territory is fast becoming a popular section for summer residences, and indications point to considerable building during the present season. Walter Slevin, of this city, has been awarded a contract for the remodeling of the residence of Mrs. J. C. Cooper, as well as the building of a new barn.

NATIONAL FOREST RESERVE EXCEEDS MILLION ACRES

A government purchase of 27,000 acres of woodland in six southern States brings the national forest reserve in the East up to 1,105,000 acres. The $5,560,000 spent in conserving the standing timber of the Appalachian Mountain system in the four years since the plan was inaugurated, with the $2,000,000 of the original appropriation still available, is money splendidly invested. It will mean many times that sum in prevention of drouth, and flood, and husbanding of water power, to say nothing of the esthetic boon of preserving the natural features of the landscape.

WILL ERECT APARTMENTS ON CENTRAL AVE. TRACT

Symon Hirsh, of Watchung avenue, and Samuel H. Schwartz, of West Front street, recently purchased the property at 231-329 Central avenue, corner of West Fourth street, from George L. Babcock. It is reported that the new owners will erect apartments on the plot which has 101 feet frontage on Central avenue, and a considerable depth on West Fourth street. The proposed buildings will replace a frame structure now located on the plot.

DUNELLEN'S REAL ESTATE MARKET ACTIVE

Steady and Wholesome Growth of the Borough is Assured.

The real estate market in Dunellen has been very active during the past month, according to John Fedderman, of that place. Many inquiries concerning homes and home sites are being received each week, and should a fair portion of the inquiries lead to the purchase of dwellings or lots on which new houses may be built, a steady and wholesome growth of the borough during the present season is assured. While the development of the two tracts in the western end of the town has meant much in keeping the realty market alive in the borough, the progress that is noticed in the regular routine of business is the type of progress which indicates the popularity of Dunellen as a home town.

Harry Boice, of the borough, recently had his property on Culhane place surveyed and has awarded a contract for a dwelling to J. Newton Apgar.

Walter Stryker has purchased a lot at Columbia Park tract, and will probably erect a dwelling in the near future.

Walter Titus, of New Market, has purchased a lot through C. E. Tinsman from the Dunellen Home and Investment Company, at Culhane place and Washington avenue. A modern dwelling will be erected on the lot shortly.

Homer M. Freeman has purchased the Walter Titus farm at New Market, the papers being signed early this week. Mr. Freeman will take possession August 1. The deal was made through Charles E. Tinsman, of Dunellen.

The painting and decorating contract for the work on the newly erected addition, as well as the interior of the Gray building on North avenue, has been awarded to Edward Ayers.

Among the rentals of the borough reported during the past week is the dwelling at Center street and Prospect avenue, to C. Hicks Barrow, of Plainfield.

The new garage at Washington and North avenues has been completed, and will be occupied the first of next week by Gustav Barfus.

Goldson W. Smalley, of the borough, has been appointed bridge inspector by the Middlesex Board of Freeholders.

The Volney Paper Company recently purchased the plant of the Rubberoid Roofing Company, of Lincoln, and will occupy the plant after a number of minor repairs have been made to the buildings.

The Public Service Company is erecting an additional storage shed on its property at Lincoln, made necessary by the increase of their business activities.

Mrs. Joseph H. Johnson, of Lincoln, has sold her home, "Maplewood," to Harry Raver, of Riverside Drive, New York, who will take possession at once.

INCREASED USE FOR CEMENT IN BUILDING

Last Year's Production Greatest in the History of Country.

The great increase in the use of cement for building and other purposes is plainly shown by figures recently contained in a report issued by the United States Geological Society showing the great increase in the manufacture of Portland, natural and puzzolan cement produced in 1913 over the production of previous years. The production last year was the greatest in the history of the industry, close to ninety-three million barrels of the material having been turned out, at a value of $93,001,169.

The quantity of Portland cement produced, 92,097,131 barrels, is equivalent to 15,623,620 long tons. Compared with the production of pig iron for 1913, which was 30,966,301 long tons, the Portland cement production is nearly 50.5 per cent. of the quantity of pig iron.

Of the 113 producing plants in the United States in 1913, 23 were in the State of Pennsylvania, whose output was the largest produced by any one State. The second greatest production came from Indiana and California was third.

The natural cement produced in the United States in 1913 amounted to 744,658 barrels of 265 pounds each, valued at $345,889. Puzzolan cement was manufactured in 1913 at three plants in the United States, in Alabama, Ohio and Pennsylvania. The output of puzzolan and collos cements in 1913 was 107,313 barrels, valued at $97,663, an increase in quantity of 15,449 barrels and in value of $20,300.

The United States has a comparatively small export trade in cement.

SINGLE TAX SAID TO BE EFFECTIVE

Canadian Mayor Explains its Benefits to Land Owners.

That single tax is effective in many ways is evidenced by the reports recently made by William J. McNamara, Mayor of Edmonton, Canada, who recently made an address at a dinner given in his honor at New York. He declared that single tax had worked out well in his city, and that municipal ownership had, too, also proved successful. In part, he said:

"We have never taxed buildings in Edmonton, but up to 1912 there were several business licenses and a tax on floor area, graduated according to the value of the business transacted. The tax on a jeweler's floor, for example, was much higher than on a butcher's for the same area. These taxes were abolished, and the increase in the tax rate on land has been very small. Land is assessed at full value, but the rate is only $1.60 per $100. Until recently it was only $1.45.

"An effort has been made to prove that our municipal ownership system has been a failure, but there are only two public utilities which show a deficit. Our municipal electric light plant charges only three cents per kilowat hour for light, two cents for power and a maximum of seven and a half cents for overhead lights, with a discount of ten per cent. for all if paid promptly. We own our street railways, but are handicapped by the existence of a tract two miles by one and a half miles in the centre of the city owned by the Hudson Bay Company. We are obliged to run around this tract. Six railway tickets are sold for a quarter, eight for a quarter for workmen, and children get half fare at the rate of twelve for a quarter."

REAL ESTATE INSURANCE MANNING & CURTIS 106 DEPOT PARK

Wallingford In His Prime

CHAPTER XV.

The Usual Method.

THE cab driver who brought the prosperous big president of the Earth and his prosperous friend to the Hotel de Renaissance received a $10 tip. The bell-boys who carried in their elaborate luggage received $10 each. Before dinner was over the jovially smiling big man was spoken of about the hotel as Spender Wallingford, and the proprietor himself went up to see what was the matter with the thermostat.

"I'll have the head engineer up here in just a few minutes," announced Mr. Blount, who was a bullet headed man upon whom a dress suit sat with some shame. "If you want anything in the town let me know and I'll get it for you, Mr. Wallingford."

"I don't think you're going to give me a chance to want anything," returned Wallingford pleasantly. "By the way, though, I'll probably need some information. Do you imagine that it would be difficult to promote a big public amusement park here?"

Mr. Blount considered the matter gravely, then shook his head. "I couldn't tell you about that," he admitted. "You see, that's all politics here. The only two amusement parks we have are run by a county commissioner and an alderman of opposite politics, and they're both backed by the traction company, which is all politics. This is the only city in the country that has two healthy political gangs, and nobody knows who's going to lose next time."

"I could give you a guess," interpolated Mr. Wallingford's black haired and black mustached and black frocked friend. "When you hit a town like that the voters lose."

"They lose any place," agreed Blount, with a laugh. "They'd ought to lose for standing for what they do. I've no more sympathy for them than I have for a deacon that tries to buy counterfeit money and gets a box of sawdust. It's so especially fierce because these amateur grafters are a lot of rabbits. I have no respect for a holdup man that will shiver while he's going through your pockets. They're planning to steal the courthouse right now, but they're so scared I think they sleep with all the lights turned on."

Wallingford chuckled in huge enjoyment. "I've heard of stealing a grindstone and a hot cook stove," he observed, "but stealing courthouses is a new specialty on me."

"It ought to be easy," asserted Blount, still disdainful of his local ordinance tinkers. "They've just built a profitable new courthouse, and the old one, which occupies the finest business situation in town, is to be sold next Saturday. A bunch of these burglars want to buy it in for about half of its value and open a beer hall cafe, but they're afraid to grab it before election for fear it will swamp them at the polls, and they're afraid to wait till after the election for fear they won't get a chance at it."

"That sounds interesting, but it makes my scheme look like feeling a rattlesnake's fangs to see if they're sharp. I'd like to meet some people who can tell me exactly how the land lies."

"I'll bring you Charley Jackson," offered Blount. "He knows so much about politics that he's changed his party four times and always landed on the winning side."

When the proprietor had gone Mr. Wallingford's friend Daw came out of his modest retirement, and he came out grinning.

"You've always been a quick producer, Jim," he confessed, "but you dug up that public amusement park thought so suddenly that it's dizzy yet. Would you run one?"

"I wouldn't run anything unless it went some place in a hurry," asserted Wallingford, laughing. "I had to talk to the man, though, didn't I, and I don't know any more entertaining conversation than a lie."

"That's right," agreed Blackie admiringly. "It's the only thing there's no limit to. This town don't look so bad, Jim."

"It's a pleasant town," approved Wallingford. "It can't have much over 100,000 population, yet the hotels, churches and banks look like real money, and we're paupers.

"I told you that Fannie objected to my investing $500,000 in a railroad scheme to put another little crimp in the bank roll of E. H. Falls," patiently explained Wallingford, "so I took the $5,000 I had already drawn out for us to go on that little hunting trip, turned the balance of the bank roll over to Fannie, brought you along to complete your education, and now I'm hunting that $500,000. Let's go and show ourselves and throw away some more money. There hasn't a reporter asked about us yet."

Charley Jackson was a man who had but two worries in life: He could not understand why sleep was ever invented, nor why all the places did not stay perpetually open. He had laughed so much for voters that the stretch of his wide lips had pushed each cheek into a glistening red roll. Wallingford clasped Charley Jackson by the hearty hand, and he twinkled back into Charley Jackson's twinkling eyes, and he smiled his jovialist in response to Charley Jackson's jovial smile, and he figured Charley Jackson to be about as careless as an old maid eating shad in the dark.

Proprietor Blount, having spent the entire evening in locating the widely ranging Jackson, who was everywhere present, but not all at once, congratulated himself upon having brought these two kindred spirits together, and smiling his gratification, waited for a vote of thanks. It came in the form of an invitation to supper, and when Chef Josef saw that Blount was to be one of those to enjoy his succession of surprises, he hurried back into the kitchen and tore jagged splinters out of his disposition, for he had sworn never to cook again for the proprietor, who was a beast, and an ox, and a swine, and who had once complained of the faint trace of garlic in a fillet which was a marvel of epicurean perfection. Later on, at the waiters' end of the Renaissance bar, he confided his woes to his friend Bert Harvey of the Morning Record, who adroitly pumped Josef about the gorgeous spendthrift and the table conversation and hurried right back to his office, for there was still a city edition of next morning's Sunday paper into which good live scandal could be jammed.

Meanwhile Charley Jackson and Spender Wallingford, who had enjoyed each other's society very much until 1 a. m., had now repaired to the Venetian suit to begin the evening, and Blackie Daw, knowing well when his best services consisted of a prolonged and intense silence, took up his favorite role of bartender.

"Whatever you do with this amusement park idea has to be done on the quiet," observed Charley Jackson, with a friendly glance at the buffet which the deft and unobtrusive Blackie was arranging. "You need gumshoes in this town."

"Seems like a lively burg at that," suggested Wallingford. "It has good night action, and that's a sure test. I counted eight silk hats in the lobby of the theater."

"How much money did you propose to invest in an amusement park?"

"About $200,000," announced Wallingford, and stooped forward to pick up an invisible pin. A heavy red wallet fell from his pocket. He picked that up, too, and it fell open, disclosing a thick wad of bills, mostly of the orange and lemon yellow colors. He caught the gleam of Mr. Jackson's eye upon those fancy papers and was satisfied. "Blackie!" he called sharply, and tossed the wallet to his friend. The bartender caught it dexterously, slammed it in a drawer of the buffet and pounded a clear toned glass sharply. The effect was so startling that the annoyed Wallingford almost expected to see a number pop up, but the bartender went right on mixing.

"The usual rake off is about 20 per cent," stated Mr. Jackson thoughtfully.

"Twenty!" protested Wallingford. "I thought that, with the competition in this town, there ought to be a cut rate."

"Competition in politics boosts the price," insisted Mr. Jackson firmly. "It's so much harder to put anything across."

"Twenty per cent!" mused Wallingford, with the preoccupied air of a good business man. "That would amount to $40,000 worth of stock in my enterprise. Who gets it?"

"Hush!" laughed Jackson. "Nobody gets it. You just take the subscriptions of some good safe friends of certain parties and they forget to pay you for the stock. That's all."

"That's the usual method," assented Wallingford. "I suppose it's split equally among the members of the city council."

"Not!" objected Jackson, mechanically quaffing of a coral pink liquid that his hand had found within range. "Collop runs Lunar park and Tunnison is the right hand party of the county commissioner who runs Pleasure lake. You'd be wasting your stock on them. You see, we have a campaign coming on," he continued, "and everybody in the game is as nervous as a burglar in a room full of loose boards. They're afraid to make another step and yet they need the money. The traction company would be glad to have your new park, but their franchise ran out three years ago and now we only renew it a year at a time. You can see yourself how much more revenue that yields in the long run. Now if the traction company encourages you any they'll have Collop and Tunnison and all their friends sore at them and that may cost them all their profits. On the other hand, Collop and Tunnison are both up for re-election this year and you can see what a mess that makes."

Wallingford gazed at him in silent contemplation, then he grinned cheerfully.

"I wonder how much the city council would take to let me pay my hotel bill and leave the town?" he pondered.

"Tut! tut!" warned Jackson, holding up a chubby forefinger. "It's against the rules to leave town with any money. It isn't so bad as it seems, Wallingford. I know I can fix both the bosses and if I go to all the members of the council but Collop's and Tunnison's friends very quietly I can fix it to run you through a permit."

"That's quite kind of you," returned Wallingford politely. "You're not working for your health, however."

"I got too much of that now," remarked the other with a happy laugh. "Say, Mr. Daw, I'm no prude about my drinks, but I think I'd better stick to just one color from now on," and he surveyed doubtfully an amber colored mixture that Blackie had set before him.

"Leave it to me," begged the bartender with an engaging smile. "I am keeping strict tab on the state of your health and I guarantee you a safe and pleasant journey. You reach the apex of this with the rainbow bender, which I will presently build for you, but before you begin to babble I shall commence to let you down with graded fixers. Safe, sane and scientific, and I watch the effect of each drink."

Mr. Jackson laughed long and heartily. "I don't care what happens to me now," he said. "I never had a scientific jag in my life and I'm willing to try anything once."

"How will you go about it to get my permit?" asked Wallingford, watching Blackie in fascination.

"Well, first, you give me $1,000," announced Mr. Jackson quite calmly. "I'll just lug that $1,000 around and show it to the boys and then they'll think you mean business."

Wallingford chuckled. "What right has a man to be a stranger anyhow?" he inquired. "Will you excuse me a moment while I step down to the office?"

"Certainly. You'll have to get Blount if you want to open the safe."

"This is Mr. Wallingford, Mr. Blount," said J. Rufus presently over the telephone. "Can I trust Charley Jackson with $1,000?"

"Do you expect it back?" asked Blount.

"Well, no."

"Then yes."

"Will Mr. Jackson do what he promises?"

"Have you any more money?"

"Naturally."

"Then yes."

Wallingford went back upstairs, where he found Blackie holding a watch in his hand while Mr. Jackson drank the rainbow bender.

"I've decided to hand you that $1,000," Wallingford announced with a warning glance at Blackie and he strode to the buffet drawer, where he obtained his wallet. "You understand what I want, don't you, Mr. Jackson?" and he proferred two $500 bills.

Those bills disappeared so quickly into Mr. Jackson's pocket that they must have been startled.

"Certainly I do," Mr. Jackson assured him. "You want to be allowed a chance at the people's money and you're willing to pay 20 per cent for the privilege. You know, of course, that some of the boys will want to buy up the land and sell it to you when you pick out your location?"

"I hadn't thought of it," answered Wallingford, smiling cheerfully, "but now I can see how plausible it is. The more I know of your political system the more I admire it. It is so careful, so clean and so thorough."

"You'll like it better when you get close to it," Jackson told him soberly. "Let me warn you of one thing. You want to keep quiet about this scheme. If Collop and Tunnison get wind of what you're doing before I spring the thing on the city council for an actual vote they'll down us sure."

The telephone bell began to ring in the Venetian suit as early as 8 o'clock the next morning, which was Sunday. Wallingford, groaning with numb drowsiness, dragged himself out of bed, dug his knuckles into his eyes, answered the telephone, wrangled in attempted suavity with a voice, slammed the receiver and leaned heavily against the telephone to gather up strength enough to lurch back to the most delicious spot in all the wide, wide world.

"What time is it?" came a comfortably drowsy voice from Blackie Daw's pink bedroom.

"Eight o'clock!" barked Wallingford, then he paused to curse the representative of the Trumpet, realizing, meanwhile, that he was doing but a feeble job of it. "Jackson or somebody has hurried right to the papers with this fool amusement park talk and saved me the trouble of queering the game."

"That's tough," Blackie stated without opening his eyes. "Now you can't build that park, and I wanted the first ride on the roller coaster."

"Oh, you wouldn't have got it anyhow," returned Wallingford crossly, too miserable of body even to smile at Blackie's inconsequentiality. "I never intended to build an amusement park. That was only a blind to get me into the edge of the game so I could sink a fork into something else. I intended to slip the information to Collop and Tunnison tomorrow, but I didn't figure on having an infernal reporter get me out of bed at 8 o'clock on Sunday morning."

Hints

By Alice Gibson

6310

No. 6310 is a kimona cut house dress, with a straight, four-gored skirt, elbow sleeves and a square sailor collar. The blouse closes surplice fashion in the front, and just a suggestion of fullness at the waistline is held in by a broad contrasting girdle. One of the small patterned crepes or voiles, with the collar, cuffs and girdle of plain voile would make a cool little dress for summer days. Percale, chambray, or gingham would be practical, if the dress were intended strictly for morning wear. While this is an extremely simple design, if made up in one of the figured silks with collar, cuffs and girdle of taffeta, it would be quite dressy enough for afternoon wear on warm days. Small novelty buttons could be used to close it to good effect.

Size 36 in this dress calls for 4 yards of 36-inch material. Pattern comes in seven sizes, 34 to 46.

This is a Perfect Pattern.

It may be obtained by filling out the coupon and enclosing fifteen cents in stamps or coin to the Pattern Department of this paper.

NEEDLEWORK

By MARGARET LAWRENCE

Crepe makes such serviceable dresses and waists for summer, as it is cool and is easily washed out over night. For one who is traveling or camping, a few waists of this material is indispensable. Embroidered crepe is exceptionally pretty combined with the plain, and these two designs, shown here, are particularly suitable for embroidering waists and dresses of this type, as the motifs may be cut apart and scattered over the surface. They also may be used as borders on suits and evening wraps. White or colored mercerized cotton may be used for developing these designs in solid work and outline-stitch.

The conventional pine-cone border, 14600, is 2¼ inches wide, and there are 3 yards in the pattern for 10 cents. Seventeen Chinese motifs, each 5 by 3½ inches are in pattern 14620, for 15 cents.

Guaranteed, hot-iron transfer patterns will be supplied upon receipt of price.

Some Cookery Suggestions

SOFT SHELLED CRABS.

LUNCH.
Creamed Crab Meat.
Buttered Toast.
Fresh Fruit.
Cocoa or Tea.

DURING the summer, when crabs shed their shells and the so called soft shelled crabs are to be had, this shellfish is very popular. The soft shelled crab is only the ordinary crab taken after it has shed its old shell and before the new shell has had time to grow.

With Tartare Sauce.

Crab Croquette.—Take a pint of boiled crab meat. Add to it a tablespoonful of chopped parsley, a dash of salt, pepper and grated nutmeg. Heat a cupful of milk and add one tablespoonful of butter rubbed into two tablespoonfuls of flour. Cook until smooth. Add the beaten yolks of two eggs and stir for a minute. Take from the fire and stir in the crab meat and set away to cool. When perfectly cold shape in cakes or balls. Roll in cracker crumbs, then brush with egg, dip again in fine cracker crumbs and plunge into deep boiling fat and fry a deep golden brown. Serve with sauce tartare—that is, mayonnaise to which have been added chopped pickled cucumbers.

Daintily Broiled.

Broiled Soft Shell Crabs.—Choose large fine crabs, dip in melted butter and season lightly with salt and pepper. Arrange on a gridiron and broil until they are a delicate brown. Turn them from side to side every few minutes. Arrange on rounds of toast and pour over them hot melted butter flavored with a little lemon juice and chopped parsley.

Creamed Crab Meat.—Take one pint of crab meat, one tablespoonful of melted butter, one level teaspoonful of flour, one small after dinner coffee cupful of cream and salt, celery, salt and pepper to season, and slices of toast for serving. Mix the flour and cream, then add the other ingredients. Put the mixture in a saucepan and let simmer on the back of the stove until thick enough to spread on toast. Pour over the slices of toast and serve.

Fish and Vegetable.

Crab and Tomato Sandwich.—Toast bread on the outside and fill with a large slice of ripe tomato browned in butter or broiled nicely and either buttered crab meat or a soft shell crab flattened in a double broiler and broiled over hot coals, basting with butter. Serve this sandwich hot of course.

In restaurants where this is a specialty the crabs are first cooked a la creole—really smothered by steam over a mixture of condiments so that the natural moisture and delicacy of flavor are preserved with the added piquancy from the condiments.

Each Wished the Other Would Go to Sleep.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

The Turtles Who Couldn't Keep Awake.

IT had been a very hot day, and both Jack and Evelyn told daddy that they didn't know when they had felt the heat so intensely.

"Well, the turtles felt the heat, too, today," said daddy. "They lay around on the front piazzas of their homes, half asleep and half awake, grumbling."

"Dear me, yes!" replied daddy. "They are very fortunate, too, because they do not just own one front piazza, but they own several.

"You see, each turtle picks out three logs or three snags or possibly one log and two snags, and he announces to the other turtles that those are his front piazzas. They are not at all selfish about them, for any of the other turtles can make use of them whether they own them or not.

"Today was so hot that all the front piazzas were being occupied. There was Mrs. Black Mud Turtle on her very own porch with Mrs. Hard Shell Turtle. Mrs. Hard Shell Turtle, you see, had just enough energy to get over to Mrs. Black Mud Turtle's porch, for she had many things she wanted to talk to her about. There was the catfishes' ball, which was to come off the next week, and she wanted Mrs. Black Mud Turtle's opinion as to what she would wear and what all the little turtles would wear.

"You know they began talking about the costumes they would have to get ready, and they became sleepier and sleepier. They blinked their eyes very hard and tried with might and main to keep awake.

"Mrs. Black Mud Turtle didn't want to go to sleep, as she thought it would be so very rude when Mrs. Hard Shell Turtle had come to call on her. Mrs. Hard Shell Turtle felt that if she went to sleep it would be a terrible thing.

"But they both felt so terribly sleepy and they both wished the other would go to sleep so the rudeness would be some one else's.

"They kept on dreamily talking.

"'Yes, my dear,' Mrs. Black Mud Turtle would say, 'I think that would be lovely.'

"And Mrs. Hard Shell Turtle would answer, just managing to swallow a yawn:

"'It is so sweet of you to take an interest.'

"They kept this up some time, their voices getting lower and lower, and finally Mrs. Black Mud Turtle was fast asleep, and Mrs. Hard Shell Turtle was sleeping just as soundly. There they slept all day, and when they woke up this evening neither of them knew who had gone to sleep first, so both laughed and said:

"'Wasn't it a hot day?'"

PHOTOGRAPHED CANAL FORTS; FOUR ARRESTED

Article Stirs the Federal Government to Action.

San Francisco, July 11.—Four men charged with divulging the secrets of the United States fortifications on the Panama canal by the taking and the publication of photographs of the big batteries that protect the Pacific approaches of the canal are arrested.

Charles K. Field, editor of the Sunset Magazine, a Southern Pacific railway publication; Robert G. Fowler, an aviator; Ray A. Duhem, a photographer, and Riley A. Scott, a writer, are involved.

District Attorney Preston has made the charges under instructions from Attorney General McReynolds.

The objectionable photographs were accompanied by an article entitled "Can the Panama Canal Be Destroyed From the Air?" written by Scott. The reproduced photographs were taken by Duhem from an aeroplane operated by Fowler over the canal fortifications.

Washington, July 11.—The question of prosecuting four men charged with a violation of the "secret defense" statute of the United States has been referred to the disttrict attorney of San Francisco by the department of justice in connection with the publication of an article in the Sunset Magazine. The question of arresting the men is now in the hands of the district attorney of San Francisco.

It is charged by the department of justice that the magazine mentioned some time ago published an article entitled "Can the Panama Canal Be Destroyed From the Air?"

This article, written by Scott, contains pictures taken by Fowler from his aeroplane, which portray views of the canal fortifications which the war department desired to keep secret.

"Why Don't You Tell People the News?"

IT WAS a woman who said it. She went through the two buildings from top to Subway. Examined the merchandise. Noted the prices. Then exclaimed: "I have never seen your quality goods selling at such amazingly low prices—why don't you tell people the news"?

Well, now, we thought we had been telling the news. But perhaps it was told in too piece-meal a fashion—a little one day, a little the next.

So, today, we publish this summary of what is being offered—as much of it as we can crowd into one page.

If it will lead you to the store you will find just what this one woman found—that not in fifty years—since A. T. Stewart first established this business at Astor Place has good wanted, seasonable merchandise been offered for so little. The reason is merely this: owing to market conditions—

TWO INJURED IN AIRSHIP ACCIDENT

Others Slightly Hurt at Palisade Park.

NEWS WAS SUPPRESSED

Said Occupants of One of Airship's Boats Was Thrown Out When Operator Suddenly Shut Off Power—Boy in Englewood Hospital Is Said to Be in Serious Condition.

Hackensack, N. J., July 11.—Rocco Cammuz, seventeen, of 322 West Sixty-ninth street, New York, is in the Englewood hospital and Blanche Eliazar, ten, of 496 East Twenty-fourth street, Paterson, is in the North Hudson hospital suffering from a fractured wrist as the result of an accident which befell an airship at the Palisade Amusement park on Wednesday evening. Four others were slightly injured, among them Mrs. Rachel Eliazar, aunt of the injured girl.

Just who was guilty of suppressing the news cannot be determined. A reporter who got a little tip on the accident called up the North Hudson hospital on the phone and was told there was no injured patient there that had come from the amusement park. Dr. Bising, superintendent of the hospital, says he gave none of the nurses instructions to suppress this news at the amusement park.

It was said the occupants of one of the airship boats were thrown out when the operator shut off the power too suddenly, causing the car to jerk violently. "We did not suppress the news," says the press agent. "We did everything for the injured people and sent them to the hospitals.

"The park management should not be held responsible for the negligence or carelessness of an operator."

SENTENCED TO GET A WIFE.

Must Be Married Within Thirty Days or Be Sent to Jail.

Elizabeth, N. J., July 11.—Unless Dennis Boyle, thirty-one years old, of Bayonne, finds a wife within thirty days he will have to spend thirty days in the county jail. Boyle was before Judge Mahon in police court on a charge of being intoxicated.

"You drink too much," said the judge to Boyle. "You need a wife to take care of you. If you are not married in thirty days you will be brought back."

"Judge," pleaded Boyle, "please have a heart. I don't want to get married. You wouldn't want a woman to have a man like me, would you?" he asked hopefully.

"A woman would have a hard time getting worse," replied Judge Mahon. "The evidence before the court is that you are not married. Now you get married before your thirty days are up. By the way, you had better take the pledge for six months."

Boyle did.

HOME RULE LAW UPSET.

Declared Unconstitutional by Court of Errors and Appeals.

Trenton, N. J., July 11.—The law introduced by Senator Hennessy and enacted by the legislature to give commission government municipalities absolute home rule was declared unconstitutional by the court of errors and appeals.

When the act was passed New York lawyers attacked it as illegal and refused to approve proposed bond issues by this city. To determine the law's standing citizens sued the city over a park bond issue and a river transportation company questioned the city's right to condemn its property. By the decision Trenton loses both points.

CUTS THROAT WITH GLASS.

Optician Kills Himself on Account of Business Trouble.

Atlantic City, N. J., July 11.—Despondent over business troubles, Ralph Bierman, an optician, 501 Oriental avenue, killed himself by cutting his throat with a sharp piece of glass.

Bierman had just left his young wife downstairs after kissing her. Mrs. Bierman before her marriage was a resident of Philadelphia.

CONDENSED STATE NEWS.

The Montclair general Republican committee has announced that it has indorsed E. Mortimer Harrison for the Republican nomination for mayor.

Two charges of dynamite, each of seven pounds, were exploded in the sea at Bradley Beach in an effort to recover the body of Norman E. Vogel, the East Orange boy who was drowned in the surf on Tuesday.

George Carragan, president of the defunct First National bank of Bayonne, declined re-election as president of the Bayonne hospital board of directors, which he held for about fifteen years, because of his connection with the bank. Former Mayor Egbert Seymour was elected.

Tri-State League.

SENATOR SHAFROTH.

Will Lead Fight to Force Confirmation of Thomas D. Jones.

Senators James Hughes, Shafroth and Lewis, who are to lead the fight to force confirmation of Thomas D. Jones for the federal reserve board, reported to the president that, while the vote will be unpleasantly close, they are convinced that they will be able to mass enough senators to bring about the confirmation of the Chicago man. It is expected that an attempt will be made to hurry up this vote and that pending it there will be no further action with regard to Mr. Warburg.

MISS DAVIS QUELLS RIOT OF PRISONERS

Men Recite Grievances Against Warden Hayes.

New York, July 11.—Another outbreak by the prisoners sent Commissioner of Corrections Katherine B Davis to Blackwell's Island in a hurry, and before she had left there had been enacted several scenes the like of which, it is safe to say, had never been witnessed there before. Throwing aside her resolutions of the preceding day, she went before the men with a scheme to air their grievances. They accepted it with cheers.

Two deputations of prisoners representing men confined in the west wing and in what is called the old prison were questioned.

Most of those told their stories, declaring that Warden Hayes is responsible for all the trouble. They averred that his severity has set the prisoners on edge and that his sarcastic humor is not calculated to help matters. They grieve that many innocent men have been punished for the disturbances of a few, and they fail to see the warden's point that by punishing all he is sure to get the guilty ones. No one could be found who backed up the stories of petty politicians being behind the revolt, and the theory that the restrictions on drug users were responsible was scouted generally. The keepers came in for their share of criticism also. One fact stood out in the testimony along this line, and that was that Warden Hayes plays no favorites. In the words of the prisoners, "He hands it to all of us."

The trouble started when the warden and ten keepers began to bring out the prisoners in the cell block north of the administration building. No sooner had the lever unlocking twenty-three of the cells been turned than the forty-four men rushed out, armed with their sixteen pound cell pails. With a yell of rage they sprang for the keepers and the best explanation of what the keepers did is in the fact that some of them were hurt. They jumped into the melee with their heavy night sticks and spared not any head they saw. Three of the prisoners required medical attention when the fight ended and many a man crept back to his cell nursing lumps and bruises that will ache for days.

DANIELS NAMES BATTLESHIPS

They Are the Arizona, California, Idaho and Mississippi.

Washington, July 11.—Secretary Daniels stood godfather and named four new battleships to be constructed for the United States navy. This was the first time in many years that so many were named at one time.

Battleship No. 39, now building at New York, was named the Arizona; Nos. 40 and 41 the California and Idaho, and No. 41, to be built with the proceeds of the sale of the old battleships Idaho and Mississippi to Greece, will be called the Mississippi.

The armored cruiser California will henceforth be known as the San Diego.

Plans for the three new ships authorized this year will be advertised about Aug. 1. One will be built at a navy yard.

Wilson Visits Suffering Cousin.

Washington, July 11.—The condition of Miss Mary Smith of New Orleans, President Wilson's cousin, who was operated on for appendicitis, was reported to be much improved. President Wilson spent a short time with her.

WILSON PINS HIS FAITH ON JONES

Will Make First Fight For Chicago Man.

CAMPAIGN BEGINS MONDAY

Warburg Case to Await the Result of Vote in the Senate—Owen Changes His Mind in His Cable to Support Banker.

Washington, July 11.—Democratic leaders are actively engaged in gathering their forces for the fight which is to begin Monday for the confirmation of Thomas D. Jones and Paul M. Warburg to the federal reserve board.

The first test of strength will come on the nomination of Mr. Jones. The administration senators believe his is the stronger case, and the plan now is to make no move in the senate in regard to the Warburg nomination until the fight on Jones has been settled. In allowing the Warburg nomination to remain in the committee for the present the president's supporters are actuated partly by the hope that the New York banker may reconsider his refusal to appear before the committee and make it possible to have his nomination considered on its merits, free from the question of the assertion of the senate's constitutional right to demand information of the nominees.

The administration senators have decided to force the fighting on the Jones nomination without delay. Mr. Jones is the president's friend and, as the president has indicated, his personal choice. This has appealed to the loyalty of all those senators on the Democratic side who call themselves administration senators.

Attack Hitchcock.

They look upon the attack made upon Mr. Jones as an attack on the president. The feeling against Senator Hitchcock among some of the administration senators was very bitter. Senator Reed was criticised, but in less severe terms. The charge was made not only by senators, but in quarters close to the White House, that Senator Hitchcock had gone out of his way ever since he had been in the banking and currency committee to embarrass the administration. Some of these critics of Mr. Hitchcock were inclined to ascribe his attitude to trouble he had with Secretary Bryan early in the administration over the Nebraska patronage. But Mr. Hitchcock's friends say that he is inspired by no motives of revenge, but has always pursued an independent course in politics. Senator Hitchcock said that he might be able to submit his adverse report on the Jones nomination on Monday or a few days later. The supporters of the president will make a motion to confirm the nomination of Mr. Jones as soon as Senator Hitchcock submits his report. The president's supporters were claiming at least seven majority in the senate after a canvass they made, but these figures were scoffed at by the opposition.

It was learned that Senator Owen cabled Senator Hollis, a member of the banking and currency committee, asking that his vote be counted in favor of a favorable report on both Warburg and Jones. This message from Chairman Owen, it is understood, was the result of a dispatch sent to him at the instance of the president urging him to get "on the job." His vote was not recorded for two reasons—first, it could not have been counted as a proxy under the practice of the senate, except by unanimous consent, which probably would not have been given in this case, and, second, it would not have affected the result because seven of the twelve members recorded themselves against the president.

The interesting and significant thing connected with the Owen cablegram was the fact disclosed by members of the banking and currency committee that Chairman Owen had changed front on these two appointments. Before he went away he stated positively to one or more senators that he was opposed to the confirmation of Jones and would vote against it, and his displeasure over the nomination of Paul M. Warburg has been well known. It was therefore a matter of some surprise that Chairman Owen had finally decided to support the president on these two nominations.

HUNT FOR FOUR BANDITS.

Posses After Men Who Blew Up Safe on "Katy" Flier Last Night.

St. Louis, July 11.—Posses are hunting the four bandits who boarded the "Katy" flier, Texas bound, when it stopped for water at Matson, dynamited the American Express company safe and escaped with their loot.

N. T. Brown, general agent of the express company, said that the safe contained several packages of jewelry valued at not more than $1,000.

CONGRESS STAGGERS ON.

Yesterday Was Chosen For Adjournment, but the End Is Not Yet.

Washington, July 11.—Friday was the date fixed for sine die adjournment of congress.

The "agreement" to adjourn was made six weeks ago at a White House conference of Democratic leaders, but the same leaders predicted extensions of the session for six weeks and possibly two months.

An Enormous Mill Clearance

Begins in the GIMBEL SUBWAY STORE On Monday

Seasonable Products from Many of America's Best Mills

In such a fine condition of newness are the GIMBEL Subway stocks kept that in this, the month of clearance, ten days have practically accomplished our object, and now we shall hold open house for the coming and going of manufacturers' clearance stocks, which in most cases will sell at about factory prices.

Scores of high-grade mills and factories that supply the regular GIMBEL stocks will doubtless have some fine plums to offer during this sale.

For tomorrow, the first day, there is a magnificent assemblage. Note, for instance:

The sale of House Dresses at $1.75. These are known as "seconds," and every dress bears the label of probably one of our best known manufacturers. There are many dresses here which were made to sell for $5, and may be chosen for $1.75 because of an almost imperceptible misstich or weave.

Every item on this page is worth special mention here, from fashionable Summer Dresses for Women at $7.50 to the $6 Eppo Petticoats at $2.65.

These low prices will prevail until merchandise is entirely sold, and then just as good (if not better) values will take their places.

POLICE BALKED BY DR. CARMAN

Refuses to Let Them Trace Women Witnesses.

WILL NOT SHOW HIS BOOKS

Physician Handicaps Authorities In Their Endeavor to Learn the Names of Two Women Who Fled on the Night of the Murder of Mrs. Bailey.

Freeport, N. Y., July 11.—District Attorney Smith is now centering his attention upon Dr. Edwin Carman, in whose home Mrs. Louise Bailey was murdered ten days ago. The district attorney said that if Dr. Carman would consent to tell all he knows about the events directly preceding the murder the mystery surrounding Mrs. Bailey's murder would be cleared up in five minutes.

Dr. Carman, it is asserted, has put several stumbling blocks in the way of the prosecutor's men, and he even refused to let detectives examine his books, although he had previously agreed to do so.

The detectives' purpose was twofold. First—and this is the most important point—they wanted to see if there was any indication on the books that Mrs. Bailey had called upon the doctor before the night she was murdered; second, they wished to try to find out by a process of elimination who the two women were who were in the doctor's waiting room when the shot was fired and who ran out of the house.

It was planned to visit every woman patient on the doctor's books and ask her if she was one of the women. It was hoped this course would throw a great deal of light on the movements of Mrs. Florence Carman, now in Mineola jail charged with the murder.

Relations Still a Mystery.

Whether or not Dr. Carman and Mrs. Bailey were either friends or had met before professionally is a point that has never been cleared up to the satisfaction of the district attorney.

"Do you know definitely whether Dr. Carman and Mrs. Bailey knew each other before the night she was murdered?" Mr. Smith was asked.

"Not definitely," he said.

That Mrs. Florence Carman, now in the county jail at Mineola on the charge that she caused the death of Mrs. Louise Bailey, was seen running upstairs in her home immediately after the fatal shot was fired through a window in her husband's office was the statement attributed to Celie Coleman, the kitchen maid in the Carman household.

In this new story, which the maid is said to have told of the circumstances around the shooting, she says that she was in her room on the rear of the second floor when the shot was fired instead of in the kitchen, as she testified at the inquest.

The maid now says, if the report be true, that she ran from her room at the sound of the shot and started downstairs. She saw Mrs. Carman running up and declares that her mistress said to her:

"Go back to your room and keep still."

Continuing, the girl's story is said to contain the statement that Mrs. Carman was at the time dressed in a shirt waist and a dark blue skirt instead of her night clothes, as the accused woman has already sworn.

District Attorney Smith issued this statement:

"The examination before a magistrate in the case of the People versus Florence C. Carman has been adjourned by stipulation until July 21.

"The district attorney has consented that George Levy, attorney for the defendant, may if he desires interview the witness Bardes.

"The case will be presented to the grand jury next Tuesday, July 14, and will be proceeded with as speedily as possible."

Story Being Investigated.

In the investigation of this report detectives were sent to question Mrs. Alfred Parris, a negro woman, of 43 Washington street, Rockville Centre. It was said that Mrs. Parris had heard the girl's story at first hand. She is her friend and also a friend of her cousin, who called on her shortly after the murder was committed. The story goes that Celia Coleman told more to her relatives and friends than she said at the inquest.

In her first statement the girl said that she was in the kitchen when the shot was fired and she denied stoutly that Mrs. Carman had been in the kitchen either before or after the murder. Her manner on the stand was sufficient for the district attorney to remark that the girl showed that she had been coached and knew enough to hide behind the phrase "I don't remember" when she was apparently cornered.

Senate Keeps Busy.

Washington, July 11.—With the senate adjourned over until Monday members of the committees having in charge the perfecting of the administration's anti-trust program planned to put in the intervening time in some strenuous work on those measures. It was expected that the completed trust legislation would be submitted to the senate on Monday.

SERVICE

CAN YOU USE $1,000.?

This is a question that can be readily answered by most of us, but the problem of how to obtain $1,000 is not so easily solved.

We offer a solution: Open an installment bond account with us; deposit $25 monthly and at the end of 38 months we will pay you $1,005.50, all you have paid in, plus 4 per cent. interest.

If $25 monthly is too large, pay less, the result will be proportionate. Circulars on request.

AN ACCIDENT.

The news flashes along the road. There is a hurrying to the scene. "Is anybody hurt?" is likely to be the first inquiry. Maybe the answer is, "Yes, badly. Send for the doctor, quick." Then it is that you will remember being advised to insure if you are the cause of the accident, driving your car, or it maybe an employe. In either case you will be asked to pay. You had better see us and get proper insurance coverage, now.

The HUDSON Six-40 for 1915

Another Year of Refinement—31 New Features

A New Price—$1,550

The Extra Tonneau Seats Disappear When Not Wanted

The "Coming Car" Has Come

The HUDSON Six-40 of last season revealed to you the typical modern car. It was a forecast of the coming ideal car.

It was built by the men who for many years had led in motor car designing. Howard E. Coffin and his 47 engineers had devoted three years to the model.

It revealed a new type Six, made light and economical. It introduced, in lines, finish and equipment, a new ideal of a distinguished car.

It fixed a new price on a quality car—$1,750 last year. That was lower than any comparable car—either a Four or a Six—had been quoted.

It established a new price standard in the high-grade field. And it brought smooth-running sixes within reach of legions of men who, up to that time, had been forced to buy Fours.

3,000 Were Disappointed

Men flocked by the thousands to this light, handsome Six. As the cars went out, the demand became overwhelming. Orders were placed for 3,000 cars beyond the factory output. At the end of the season, men were bidding for cars. And premiums as high as $200 were paid to get them.

That was because a Six—a quality Six—for the first time was selling below Fours of its class. Countless men who envied Sixes waited that condition.

Then we had saved 1,000 pounds in weight under the former average on this size car. Right materials and better designing did all this with no sacrifice of strength.

That lightness, with our new-type motor, reduced operative cost about 30 per cent as compared with former cars of this power and capacity. For the first time, a Six consumed less fuel than a Four.

We combined these attractions in the handsomest car of the year. We brought out many new ideas in equipment. So the HUDSON Six-40, in every way, typified the ideals of the times. The majority of motorists recognized there the coming type of car.

Now 31 Refinements

Now our famous corps of engineers has spent another year on this model. They have made it lighter still. The new-model weight is 2,890 pounds. They have worked out 31 important refinements—beauties, conveniences, comforts.

They have taken part by part and studied ways to improve it. Our 48 designers did this all last year.

Now the HUDSON Six-40 for 1915 fulfills all our dreams for the HUDSON. It will be accepted, we believe, as the gem-car of today.

A Trebled Output This Year Saves $200 Per Car

Now comes our best announcement. The welcome extended this HUDSON Six-40 has compelled us to treble our output. The car is so standardized that building three times as many will save us $200 per car.

As always, we offer that saving to you. This new model will sell at $1,550, f. o. b. Detroit. It will seem impossible when you see this car. Think that three years ago not a Six was sold under $3,000. And the Sixes of those days were not equal to this.

This price is beyond competition. There will be other cars of this type because motorists demand them. But the call is for HUDSONS, and our mammoth output means a price which no quality car can meet.

Some 1915 Features

An artistic streamline body.
Invisible hinges.
Improved "One-Man" top with quick-adjusting curtains.
Gasoline tank in dash.
Extra tires ahead of front door.
Disappearing extra tonneau seats.
Finest body finish.
A roomier, wider car.
Dimming searchlights.
Simplified Delco starting, lighting and ignition system with wiring in metal conduits.
Lights and ignition lock.
Even better carburetion.
Automatic spark advance.
Speedometer drive from transmission shaft.
Tubular propeller shaft.
Trunk rack on back.
90 pounds less weight — now 2,890 pounds.
$1550, fully equipped.

COME NOW

Come see this new model and all its new features. It will show you all the latest developments. Note in how many ways these HUDSON engineers have bettered the best they knew.

HUDSON Six-54

We built this same model for men who desire a big, impressive car. The HUDSON Six-54—the larger model—has a 135-inch wheelbase and more power. The price is $2,350 f. o. b. Detroit.

MULFORD ESTIL DIES IN 72D YEAR

Pioneer Merchant Succumbs to An Acute Attack of Heart Trouble.

NATIVE OF THIS CITY

Was Engaged in Stationery Business for Thirty-nine Years—Former Director and Vice-President of First National Bank.

Hugh Mulford Estil, aged 72 years, one of the pioneer business men of this city, died suddenly of heart trouble at his home on Park avenue, about 6 o'clock last night. He had been a sufferer with trouble of the heart for a number of years and was under constant treatment for the ailment. However, recently he seemed to be in fairly good health, and his death came as a great shock to his many friends.

Mr. Estil was born in Plainfield, as was his father and grandfather, and for nearly forty years he had been actively identified with the business life of the city. He first began clerking for the late William H. Williams, who was then engaged in the newspaper and stationery business where Schwed Brothers' clothing store is now located. Two years later Mr. Estil bought out the stationery business, remaining there for five years. He then removed to where Alfred K. Willett's shoe store is now, where he remained for ten years. At the end of that time he removed to what was then the new Coward building, his present location, where he was engaged in business for twenty-four years.

Although Mr. Estil never held any political office, he was always interested in the welfare of the city and devoted his best efforts to developing the business interest of the city. He was generous to a fault and throughout his whole life he was constantly doing something for others. His charity was dispensed in a quiet way and there are many people in Plainfield who have been the recipients of his benefactions.

Mr. Estil's ancestors came to this country from the Provence of France in 1664. For several years Mr. Estil was a director and vice president of the First National Bank and at one time was a director in the Plainfield Savings Institution. He was a life-long member of the First Baptist church. Owing to ill health he finally relinquished these business interests, devoting his entire time to his private business. Mr. Estil made a great many trips to Europe, which he always enjoyed.

There survives a sister, Mrs. Mary E. Wallace, with whom he lived; a nephew, Will F. Williams, who was manager for Mr. Estil's business, and three nieces, Mrs. F. R. Smalley, Mrs. Irving Niles and Miss Clara Williams, all of Plainfield. The funeral will be private, but friends may view the remains Wednesday morning between the hours of 10 and 12 o'clock.

RETIRING PASTOR IS PRESENTED WITH A WATCH

Rev. Conrad Blunk, pastor of the German Lutheran church, of the borough, for the past two and a half years, preached his farewell service, yesterday morning, having tendered his resignation as pastor of the local congregation some time ago. During the course of the service, Mr. Blunk was presented with a gold watch by the members of the Young Peoples' Society of the church. Mr. Blunk goes from the borough to Philadelphia, where he will continue his labors.

NARROW ESCAPE FROM DEATH ON PLEASURE TRIP

Arthur M. Harris, of Central avenue, has returned from an extended trip to the Pacific Coast, and left today for Schroon Lake, N. Y., to join his family for the summer. While in the West traveling on the Midland and Colorado Railroad, Mr. Harris narrowly escaped being killed. Riding on the rear of an observation coach while the train was crossing a high trestle, there was a terrific impact.

Quickly jumping to his feet to investigate the cause, Mr. Harris saw several coaches ahead of the one he was on, hanging over the trestle. Later it was learned that eleven people were injured and two or three were killed. In speaking of the accident, Mr. Harris said that it was a miracle that more passengers were not killed.

Mrs. John O'Conner and daughter, Margaret, are spending the summer with Mrs. O'Conner's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hypolite Texier, of Watchung.

FIRST SERVICE AT NETHERWOOD HOME

Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson Makes Address and Children's Choir Sings.

The first service of the season held at the Netherwood Fresh Air Home, yesterday afternoon, attracted a large number of friends of the work. Rev. Dr. Charles M. Anderson, of the First M. E. church, gave an excellent gospel address which interested both old and young. He urged the importance of one properly caring for the body, giving it time and attention for development. The speaker also pointed out the need of combining the spiritual with the physical in the development.

During the service the children's choir of the Home sang a number of selections under the direction of Clifford A. Braider, organist of the First M. E. church, who has given a great deal of his time to the fresh air work. Throughout the season there will be weekly entertainments as well as religious services.

MEMORIAL SERVICES FOR NOTED ZIONIST

The life and works of Dr. Herzel, the noted Zionist, were extolled at a memorial service held in Temple Sholem, yesterday afternoon, under the auspices of local Zionists. There was a large attendance, the temple being filled with friends and supporters of the Zionist movement. An interesting feature was the singing by a chorus of children from the Hebrew School under the direction of Dr. Miller.

Dr. Charles I. Hoffman, of the Oheb Shalom Synagogue, Newark, and Dr. Kapelowitz, of New York, were the principal speakers at the service. The former spoke not only of the life of Dr. Herzel, but of the progress of the Zionist movement as it has been carried on in Palestine for the past decade. Emphasis was also laid on the life of sacrifices of the noted Zionist.

Dr. Kapelowitz told somewhat in detail of the Zionist movement being carried on through the agency of various organizations. He spoke of the fifty-seven colonies of Hebrews now established in the Holy Land, through which modern railways, universities and other signs of civilizations are now to be found. The Order of B'nai Zion is helping in this work by securing funds in this country.

PLAINFIELDERS WHO VISITED LAKE HOPATCONG YESTERDAY

Many Plainfielders were visitors at Lake Hopatcong, yesterday, among them being former City Judge and Mrs. William N. Runyon and Mr. and Mrs. Tony Paroubek, who made the trip by automobile; the Misses Maud McAfee, Clara Runion, Alice Peacock, Loretta Feller, Josephine Quinn, Amy Moore and Elsie Moore, and Kenneth Phillips, Roy Woodhull, Charles Martin, Edmund La Porte, Bob Hamilton, Bud Klein, Henry Wierenga, Carroll Runyon, George Ball, William Wakefield, Bruce Conlin and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Harriman.

A number of automobile parties from this city arrived during the day and visited the various camps at the Lake, among the latter being that of Tommy Muir on Halsey Island. The bathing at the lake is exceptionally good at the present time and many took advantage of the opportunity to take a dip. Several large catches of bass and pickerel were also made by local anglers.

BOY MAY BE DISFIGURED FOR LIFE BY DOG'S BITE

Because he teased a dog owned by a man by the name of Bennett in Dunellen yesterday, Edward Schenck, a ten-year-old Piscataway township boy, may be disfigured for life. While playing with the animal the youth was taken unawares as it suddenly turned and snapped at him.

The boy's face was attacked by the canine and his nose was bitten. Dr. W. J. Whitford, of Dunellen, administered treatment to the victim and the wounds are such that they will probably leave permanent scars.

THE TEMPERATURE.

The temperature report from The State Trust Company for today is as follows: 9 a. m., 78 degrees; 11 a. m., 86 degrees; 1 p. m., 89 degrees.

MRS. MENGER IS IN HER 93D YEAR

Passes Birthday Anniversary Quietly at Her Daughter's Home.

IS UNUSUALLY ACTIVE

Venerable Woman is a Great Reader and Takes Much Interest in Current Events—Eyesight is Especially Good.

Mrs. Eliza Jane Menger, a well-known resident of this city for the past eighteen years, celebrated the ninety-second anniversary of her birthday, yesterday, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Cornelia A. Zabriskie, at 11 West End avenue, where she has lived since coming to Plainfield. Mrs. Menger enjoys especially good health, devoting a great deal of her time to reading and sewing. She is greatly interested in political events and keeps abreast of the times in these things as well as all current events.

Mrs. Menger enjoyed yesterday the company of a number of relatives and neighbors who dropped in to extend congratulations. Among the guests were several from New York. Mrs. Menger was born in New York, where she spent the greater part of her life. It was eighteen years ago that she removed to Plainfield with her daughter, Mrs. Zabriskie, and has continued to live here ever since. She has three children, Louis Menger, of New York; Mrs. Charles Smith, of South Beach, Conn., and Mrs. Zabriskie, of this city; also a sister in New York, five grandchildren and one great-granddaughter.

"GO-TO-CHURCH" CLUB MEMBERS ARE REWARDED

A large number of children attended the service of the Congregational church, yesterday morning, when Rev. Charles L. Goodrich, pastor of the church, presented awards to those members of the "Go-to-Church Club" who had a perfect attendance record for the past three months.

PUBLIC SERVICE EMPLOYES PLANNING FOR BIG EVENT

The second annual open air entertainment of the Public Service Railroad employes who are members of the Dunellen P. S. R. Recreation and Athletic Club promises to be even greater than the one of last year, many tickets having already been disposed of for the event. The outing will be held at Wayside Park, Dunellen, and will be conducted on a plan similar to the one of last year with a number of added features.

The festivities will be started in the afternoon and will continue throughout the evening with dancing, one of the leading attractions. Special arrangements have been made for those who enjoy terpsichore amusement and the large dance floor will be used exclusively for this purpose, with music furnished by a well known orchestra.

A baseball game and athletic meet will also be staged during the afternoon. The athletic fest will bring together the best athletes in the corporation in the field and track events and numerous handsome prizes have been offered for the first, second and third men to finish in every race and jump. An effective lighting scheme has been planned for the evening and a committee from the organization is now busily engaged in putting on the final touches.

FUNERAL OF MISS C. L. MARTIN.

A large number of relatives and friends attended the funeral services of Miss Catherine Martin, from the home of her brother, James A. Martin, of Westervelt avenue. Rev. Lewis Bond, of this city, officiated. The bearers included Elias H. Bird, Frank Corriell, William Shotwell, A. V. Searing, James Buckle and Loren Pope. Interment was made at the Presbyterian cemetery, the borough.

—Neuman Bros., the Watchung avenue grocers, are offering very fancy blackberries, red and black raspberries, huckleberries, gooseberries, plums, peaches, muskmelons, watermelons, oranges, grape fruit and fancy currants for jelly.—Adv. ***

MAYOR WILL APPOINT A CAPTAIN TONIGHT

Mayor Stewart announced this afternoon that he would make the appointment of a police captain at tonight's adjourned meeting of the Common Council. It has been expected up to this time that Detective-Sergeant Flynn would be the appointee.

Sergeant Higgins has also been an aspirant for the position. It was expected that the Mayor would make this selection at the monthly meeting of the Common Council last Monday night, but for some unknown reason the matter was held up.

WASHINGTON CLUB ENJOY AN OUTING

Henry C. White Remembered for His Services as Coach.

Members of the Washington Musical and Dramatic Club to the number of about twenty-five, were guests Saturday afternoon of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Jones, on an automobile picnic to Berkeley Heights. Three machines, donated by Mr. and Mrs. Champlain L. Riley, of the borough, carried the happy party to its destination. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Crofut White were guests of honor. The afternoon was spent playing baseball and other games, after which there was a bountiful dinner, served by Mr. and Mrs. Jones, assisted by Mrs. Riley.

After the "spread," Harry T. Shirley, president of the club, made a short speech and on behalf of the club, presented Mr. White with a beautiful bronze book rack in appreciation of his services as coach for the play which was given at the Plainfield Theatre, Fourth of July. Mr. White made a happy response, thanking the club for the gift and expressing his appreciation over the hearty co-operation of all who took part in the play. The party returned home early in the evening.

PATROLMAN M'GINLEY FIRED AT A SUSPICIOUS CHARACTER

Shots fired by Patrolman McGinley at a fleeing object on East Fourth street at an early hour this morning, failed to bring a suspicious looking individual to a halt. The officer noted a man about six feet in height emerge from the Union Beef Company's yard and as he drew near the place the object proceeded down the street at a lively gait.

McGinley gave chase and when he saw that the man was out-distancing him, fired a shot. The man disappeared in the dark and his identity is unknown.

RESENTS ANNOUNCEMENTS.

Washington, July 13.—President Wilson with decided emphasis today resented the published announcements that he was at war with the Senate and had launched a vigorous campaign to force that body to confirm to membership on the Federal Reserve Board his appointees, Paul M. Warburg and Thomas D. Jones. To visitors at the Executive Office the President insisted that he had no feud with the Senate. He said he was working in complete harmony with the Democratic majority in the Senate with one or two exceptions.

TWO ENGINES IN COLLISION.

Wharton, N. J., July 13.—Two engines came together late yesterday afternoon on a fifty foot trestle near here with such force that one was knocked from the track and fell to the ground below where the boiler exploded scattering wreckage in all directions. There were no fatalities, however, as the collision was carefully planned by a "movie" concern. The engines were old ones owned by the Wharton Iron and Steel Company.

I. O. B. A. PICNIC.

Plainfield Lodge, No. 627, I. O. B. A., enjoyed a picnic at Chimney Rock, yesterday. The trip to Bound Brook was made by special trolley, where the lodge members were met by automobiles which conveyed them to the rock. Dancing proved to be the feature of the occasion.

CHARLES GRANT IMPROVED.

Charles Grant, of West Front street, who has been seriously ill at his home for some time, is improving. Mr. Grant is employed by the New York American and has been unable to attend to his duties for some time. He is being attended by Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan.

RESUMES FULL TIME.

Pittsburgh, July 13—The Westinghouse plants resumed on full time this morning. Officials state that about two hundred of the strikers whose places were filled during the strike have not been re-employed.

SCHOOLEY HAILED AS STATE CHAMP

Plainfield Y. M. C. A. Athlete Triumphs in Newark Club's Regetta.

SMASHES OLD RECORD

Beat Out All Entrants for the All Around Champions Which Puts Him in the Lead for the New Jersey Title.

William H. Schooley, formerly of this city, and at present a member of the Plainfield Y. M. C. A., was the individual star of the annual handicap events of the Tuscarora Canoe Club, held on the Branch Brook Park lake, in Newark, Saturday afternoon. The Plainfield athlete proved a "dark horse" in the State's feature water event of the year and his performance places him at the head of amateur performers in New Jersey. Although the State championships will be held in Asbury Park the latter part of this month and Schooley will be called upon to defend his title within a short period of time, he is considered capable of wielding the paddle with the best talent that can be produced and it is anticipated that he will have little or no trouble in disposing of those who will face him on that occasion. Schooley won the all-around championship Saturday afternoon, scoring a total of seventeen points. This performance is considered a phenomenal one inasmuch as he beat the former record by a margin of six points. His racing Saturday was the best ever seen on a Newark lake and the water events at that place are conceded to be the championship settlers for New Jersey.

The little blonde's winnings included a first place in the hurry-scurry, an event in which he has held the championship three consecutive years; first in the club fours, second in the doubles and third in the eighth-mile tail end. It was the hurry-scurry in which Schooley loomed up as a star. He is a swimmer of no mean ability, holding several records in the Plainfield Y. M. C. A. at the present time, and naturally brought his knowledge of the crawl stroke into play in this unique event. He covered much ground in the 100-yard swim, which, together with a 100-yard paddle, made up the hurryscurry event. Hundreds of spectators lined the shores of the lake and Schooley's triumph placed him on the highest pinnacle of fame in the New Jersey aquatic world.

In the singles the local athlete cut in a close third. Eight canoes lined the starting mark and when the final spurt was uncorked the Plainfielder came through with a phenomenal burst of speed that worried the first and second men considerably near the finish line.

Schooley, who lives in Newark, is one of the best known members of the Plainfield Y. M. C. A., and competed in the all-around water championships held in the indoor tank last season. He is at present training for the monster regatta to be held on Deal lake July 25, and his friends hail him as a record breaker in the hurry-scurry and singles. He was evidently saving himself in the singles Saturday, for the harder events to come and could have shown much better form had he seen fit.

BOYS GO TO CAMP.

The choir boys of Bethel chapel to the number of twenty-five, left yesterday morning for their camp on Staten Island. Tucker Johnson accompanied the lads and helped them pitch their tents. The boys were conveyed to their camp in Councilman Martin's auto-truck.

AUTOMOBILE SKIDDED.

While rounding the curve at Park avenue and West Front street, yesterday, an automobile driven by J. W. Richards, of Boonton, skidded on the wet pavement and crashed into the curb. The rear wheel was demolished.

Prospective Purchasers of Autos

Don't forget that the Buick Motor Co. were one of the few that sold their entire output for 1914. Just consider that this output consisted of Roadsters, Touring Cars, Delivery Wagons and Trucks, actually 33,000. Compare this with what other manufacturers of automobiles did in 1914. There's a Reason. Now, Mr. Buyer, before you place your order for your 1915 automobile we insist that you investigate the Buick line. Four cylinder Roadster, $900.00; Touring, $950.00; Six Cylinder, $1,650.00; all fully equipped with Delco System. 'Nuff said. UNION SERVICES ATTENDED BY MANY

Rev. J. Y. Broek, of Trinity Reformed Church, Preaches the Sermon.

The second of the series of union services was held at the First M. E. church, last night, it being largely attended by members of the four uniting churches, First Baptist, First Presbyterian, Trinity Reformed and First M. E. Rev. Dr. Charles M. Anderson was in charge of the services, being assisted by Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, of the First Baptist church, and Rev. Dr. Charles E. Herring, who offered prayer and read the Scripture lesson.

Rev. J. Y. Broek, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, preached the sermon, which was an interesting and forceful discourse. The quartet choir of the church, under the direction of Clifford A. Braider, organist, sang several anthems, including solos. The service next Sunday night will be held at Trinity Reformed church and Rev Dr. Anderson will be the preacher.

SUSPICIOUS GIANT ARRESTED IN DEPOT

Chester Arthur Allen, of no Place in Particular, Taken Into Custody.

Chester Arthur Allen, a suspicious visitor with plenty of name, but no residence attached, was picked up by Patrolman Tobias Nolan at the Clinton Avenue railroad station late Saturday night and brought to police headquarters, where he could not give a satisfactory account of himself. Allen, who says he comes from no place in particular, and hangs his hat on the hook most convenient, was seen loitering around the railroad station early in the evening by Ticket Agent George Dyer, who informed the officer when the latter came on his beat.

The officer watched for the return of the man and found him peaking in the windows of the building shortly after 10:30 o'clock. The man's return was the signal for his apprehension by the officer and he was brought to headquarters.

Arraigned in court this morning, the man said he was looking for work and went to the Clinton Avenue station to wait for Monday morning to roll around. He was born in Worcester, Mass., and has been going from one place to another for years, according to his own statement. He was a formidable looking individual and it is the opinion of the police department that the ticket agent's suspicions were not unfounded.

A man standing six feet, four inches in heighth, wearing a Western hat of wide proportions appeared before the city judge, this morning, and given the benefit of the doubt when he related his story.

Allen says he has hiked from coast to coast on several different occasions. He attributes a slight deafness to an injury sustained in a blast in Waco, Utah, some years ago. He has several scars on his body which he says were caused by an operation for the transfusion of blood from his own body to that of another person in Illinois.

ALLEGED FREIGHT TRAIN ROBBERS ARE APPREHENDED

Wanted by the police of Jersey City as freight train robbers, three men were taken from train No. 54 at Dunellen, by Marshals Owen Mohan and Smalley, last night, and arraigned before Recorder Campbell in the Dunellen court, this morning. They gave their names as William McLean, of 242 Metheren street, Jersey City; William Holland, 42 Market street, Boston, and William Stanback, 119 Sherman avenue, Jersey City.

The Jersey City authorities went to Dunellen, this morning, for the men and according to information given out by them the trio has been operating with considerable success on the New Jersey Central. They are alleged to have boarded freight trains and after prying open the doors of cars filled with merchandise of various kinds, to have thrown it out along the tracks, where it was gathered up by accomplices.

TWO ACCIDENTS IN SAME PLACE

Motorcyclists and Automobilists Collided on Fanwood Roads Yesterday.

THREE ARE INJURED

Two Victims Removed to Hospital—Double Mishap Occurred Within Radius of 200 Feet—Motorcyclist Vanishes After Crash.

Two accidents between motorcycles and automobiles occurred within a two hundred yard radius at Fanwood, yesterday afternoon, two of the victims being removed to Muhlenberg Hospital for treatment. While crossing South avenue at Martine avenue shortly after 5 o'clock, James Motley, of this city, driving an automobile, hit a motorcycle tandem ridden by Richard W. Crowell and his sister, Miss Edith Crowell, of Water street, Rahway, at right angles. According to information received from bystanders the motorcyclists were traveling east at a clip said to have been between forty and fifty miles an hour and as the two vehicles sideswiped the lighter machine was lifted from the ground. Crowell and his sister were hurled into the air and landed in the gutter.

Residents of that section, hearing the crash and cries of the girl, were quickly on the scene and found the motorcyclists lying in the roadway in an unconscious condition. Dr. William H. Murray, of this city, happened to be passing the spot shortly after the accident and rendered "first aid" treatment to the victims. Crowell was bleeding profusely about the face and the woman appeared to be suffering internal injuries. The injured pair was conveyed to the hospital in automobiles and at that institution today it was stated that the woman was suffering from a fractured collarbone and numerous bruises about the head and body. Her brother escaped with slight injuries. He had a bad cut over one eye and cuts and bruises about the head and arms.

Both vehicles were badly damaged by the crash. The automobile mudguard and two wheels on one side were demolished and the motorcycle was reduced to a mass of scrap iron. Both drivers admitted, it is said, that they were committing an infraction of the speed laws when the accident happened and a mutual settlement was made on the scene.

The second mishap occurred on the opposite side of the New Jersey Central tracks, on North avenue. A Ford touring car, driven by Wallace Cattelle, of Fanwood, hit a motorcycle driven by a man from Newark. The two cars swerved to the side of the road near Sheelen's bridge and the blow was a glancing one. Cattelle was piloting the machine at the time and according to a statement made by him, the motorcyclist bore down on him at a high rate of speed. Glancing back at some obstacle over which his machine had passed in the roadbed the driver of the two-wheeled vehicle evidently did not see the approaching auto and crowded Cattelle to the right side of the gutter. The latter was unable to control his machine after it had been struck by the motorcycle and the auto hit a large tree at the side of the thoroughfare. The radiator and front lamps were demolished in the smash and Cattelle's five-year-old daughter, who was riding in the car, was hurled against the windshield. The automobilist hurried the injured child to the office of Dr. F. W. Westcott and when he went back to the scene of the accident the motorcyclist had vanished.

ENTERTAINMENT AND DANCE.

An entertainment and dance will be held Wednesday evening at the Columbus Club for the benefit of the Stony Hill R. C. church. Paroubek's orchestra will furnish the music for the occasion, while local and professional talent will provide the entertainment during the early portion of the evening. The Second Night Glee Club will render several selections. The latter part of the evening will be occupied by bowling and dancing, shadow dancing being the feature.

1915 Hudson Proclaimed the Ideal Car.

We have never in the history of the automobile industry experienced such overwhelming interest as shown in the new 1915 Hudson "Six 40," which reached us by express Friday morning. "It is the ideal car," was the unanimous verdict of the hundreds of people who have seen it. It is by far the best, the most up-to-date, the most desirable, the sweetest running, and the easiest riding car that we have ever handled, regardless of price. Thompson Auto Co.—Adv. ***

'Plains & Fanwood.

The danger of accidents at "Sheelen's" bridge is becoming more evident every day by the number of narrow escapes at that point. On either side of the bridge are turns in the roadway and this coupled with the fact that the sides of the bridge are of solid wood and very high makes it impossible to see anyone approaching. Both of the other bridges in this place over the New Jersey Central tracks are of steel framework allowing persons to see anyone approaching.

Paul Swartzer and family and Edward Miller, all of Brooklyn, were entertained over the week-end by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wiedenhaupt, of Madison avenue.

George Cameron, of New Market, who is taking the month off from his duties on the Central Railroad on account of a nervous ailment, is reported as feeling considerably better already.

The continual ringing of the local fire bell, which practically aroused the whole town from its slumber, about 3 o'clock this morning, was occasioned by the burning of the tool house of Frank Bowlby, which stood in the rear of his residence on Washington avenue. On account of the smallness of the building and the headway that the fire had gained before they were notified the local fire department could do nothing upon their arrival on the scene, but keep the conflagration from spreading. In the totally destroyed tool house was stored garden utensils, tools, lumber and a bicycle. The damage is estimated at $200. The fire was first discovered by Mrs. A. J. Hamley.

MEMORIAL TO CLARA BARTON.

Washington, D. C., July 13—The Clara Barton Memorial Association has been organized for the purpose of carrying into effect a project for the erection of a fitting memorial to Clara Barton at Glen Echo, Md. The famous Red Cross leader was born in the town of Oxford, Mass., but for the last eighteen years of her life she had made her home in Glen Echo. The tentative plans of the association call for the erection of a memorial building at a cost of $100,000. It will be in the nature of a museum and in it will be placed the relics, manuscripts, resolutions of thanks, etc., collected by Miss Barton during her long connection with the Red Cross Society. It is also proposed to erect nearby a training school for nurses.

B. P. O. E. FILLS DENVER.

Denver, Colo., July 13—The Elks' convention week is at hand and the familiar salutation of "Hello, Bill" is to be heard on the streets, in the railway stations, the hotel lobbies and other public places. While thousands of members of the order and other visitors arrived Saturday and yesterday, the real inflow did not begin until today. Big herds of Elk have come every hour and will still be coming when the midnight hour strikes tonight. The visitors have found a warm welcome awaiting them. Denver has put her best foot foremost in arranging the entertainment and has had the co-operation of other cities and resorts of Colorado. The entire city has blossomed out in a mass of purple and white bunting, while each night during the week the downtown section will be ablaze with tens of thousands of colored lights. Today the streets are thronged with enthusiastic crowds. Contests for officers are being discussed and also the place for the 1915 convention. But for the most part the visitors are engaged in renewing acquaintanceships and making merry generally.

REPRESENTATIVE CLAYTON

Father of Anti-trust Bills Which Will Be Reported This Week.

The senate committee on the judiciary practically completed its work on the Clayton bill supplementary to the Sherman anti-trust act, while the Rayburn bill, regulating issues of railway securities, was materially advanced toward a favorable report by the committee on interstate and foreign commerce. It is now hoped that the Clayton bill will be reported to the senate not later than Tuesday and that the Rayburn measure will follow it in a day or two.

No Wonder the Shade of Sir Isaac Newton Was Disgusted.

Augustine Birrell, author and statesman, at a newspaper men's dinner told a unique ghost story.

"I have been haunted ever since I was almost a boy," he said, "by the constant repetition of one and the same dream. It comes to me again and again. It is this: I dream I am walking about somewhere in some plain or desert, and I suddenly encounter the agitated ghost of Sir Isaac Newton. He approaches me, his eyes almost starting out of his head; he tells me who he is and how ignorant he is of all that has happened in the world of science since he left.

"'Now,' he says, 'I want you to tell me in a few words, for I have only a quarter of an hour left, all that has happened to the race—the progress. How is it? I know what it was when I left it. What is it now?' My heart sinks, and, covered with confusion, I stumble, I stutter, I stammer, I become more and more involved, my ignorance becomes more and more apparent, and at last the unhappy ghost, throwing up his hands, leaves me with dismay.

"That dream constantly comes to me. The only difference is that the moment the unhappy Sir Isaac Newton sees me now he says, 'Oh, that old ignoramus!' and departs."—Pall Mall Gazette.

FORCE OF VIBRATION.

A Musical Chord That Shattered a Huge Glass Bowl.

Discussing the proposition that a wineglass can be broken or shattered to pieces by a musical chord, Edgar Lucien Larkin in the New York American says:

"I had a huge glass bowl one foot in diameter resting on its glass stand. The flint glass was from one-quarter to three-quarters of an inch thick. I rosined a violin bow, drew it across the edge, and the entire hemisphere of solid glass disintegrated into hundreds of small pieces. The sound of breaking into fragments was entirely unknown to me, a crackling or grinding, and the bits of glass flew far apart.

"I had used this same bowl before classes for several years with violin bows. But on this particular day the students as well as I were surprised at the breaking and unearthly noise.

"The fact is I happened to vibrate the bowl with its key note—that is, set harmonic rate, which means the precise rate with which it was able to vibrate to send forth that note, for notes are rates of vibration, and they all obey rigid and beautiful harmonic mathematical laws, and these agree with other set and fixed laws."

The Great Leveler.

A well known New York millionaire and his wife went to a trottery one afternoon with the idea of doing a little incognito dancing. One of the professional partners approached.

"May I have the pleasure?" he said. The lady was gracious, and they whirled off into a lively onestep. When the number was over the rich man's wife complimented the professional on his dancing.

"Thank you, Mrs. Blank," he murmured, calling her by her real name. The husband pricked up his ears. "How the deuce did you know who we were?" he asked.

"Why, don't you remember me?" said the professional cavalier, straightening his beautifully tailored figure. "I was your chauffeur two years ago."—New York Post.

JUSTICE LURTON IS DEAD AT 70

Supreme Court Jurist Succumbs at Atlantic City.

DEATH SHOCKS CAPITAL.

Had Been In Poor Health For Some Time—Was Close Personal Friend of Ex-President Taft, Who Is Mentioned as Successor.

Washington, July 13.—Official Washington was shocked to learn of the death of Justice Horace Harman Lurton of the United States supreme court at Atlantic City. He had been in poor health for some time. He was seventy years old.

Justice Lurton's body will be brought to Washington tonight. The funeral party will leave here by the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad at 11:10 and go to Louisville, Ky., and then take the Louisville and Nashville to Nashville, Tenn. The interment will take place at Clarksville, Tenn., the home of Justice Lurton, where he began the practice of law.

All of Justice Lurton's associates in the supreme court have been notified. Chief Justice White has advised the marshal of the supreme court from White Sulphur Springs, where he is spending his vacation, that he will join the funeral train at that point and proceed to Tennessee. Justices Lamar and Vandevanter are the only members of the court now in Washington.

Appointed by Taft.

Judge Horace H. Hurton was appointed to the United States supreme court by President Taft in the latter part of 1909. At that time he was serving on the bench of the Sixth judicial circuit court of the United States at Nashville, Tenn., to which post he was named by President Cleveland.

The career of the late jurist was a singularly active one. Born in Campbell county, Ky., on Feb. 26, 1844, he got his early education at the hands of private instructors and in 1859 went to Chicago and entered Douglas university. Later he went to the University of Chicago and was a student in that institution at the outbreak of the civil war. Then with the first blast of that great conflict he laid aside his books and, hurrying to the south, volunteered his services. He was enlisted in the Thirty-fifth Tennessee as a sergeant major. Reports of that military organization's activities make conspicuous mention of his bravery.

The death of Justice Lurton means that President Wilson will be called on to make his first appointment to the supreme bench. Death was due to heart disease, brought on by asthma. Justice Lurton was seventy years old.

Before the death of Justice Lurton the supreme court was made up of six Republicans and three Democrats. The Democratic representation now is reduced to two—Chief Justice White and Associate Justice Lamar. It is generally assumed that a Democratic president will feel impelled under such circumstances to name a Democrat to succeed Justice Lurton. Furthermore, there has been an unwritten rule in the senate, which must confirm the nomination, that the minority representation on the supreme bench shall not fall below three at any time. President Taft recognized this rule when it was brought to his attention by ex-Senator Bailey and other leading Democrats of the senate and named Justice Lamar of Georgia for one of the vacancies.

This situation undoubtedly will cause regrets among many eminent men of all shades of political belief who would be glad to see the president nominate ex-President Taft as the successor of Justice Lurton. Mr. Taft has had an ambition to serve upon the supreme bench from the day he entered the practice of law. He went upon the federal bench originally when he was a young man in the hope that he would reach the supreme bench before he closed his career. When the opportunity came in President Roosevelt's administration Mr. Taft was not in a position, he thought, to relinquish the work he had in hand in order to gratify his ambition.

KILLED AT PHONE BY BOLT.

Brooklyn Man Meets Instant Death at Hillcrest Farm.

Monticello, N. Y., July 13.—Lightning instantly killed Herbert Hammott of 460 Nostrand avenue, Brooklyn, while he was waiting for an answer to a telephone call. Miss Louise Phillips of New York was also struck by the bolt and may die. Hammott, who was twenty-three years old, came to the Hillcrest farm, four miles from Monticello. A terrific electric storm was raging when he called on the telephone to ask about his trunks. A bolt of lightning struck the telephone wire and killed him.

Miss Phillips and F. Irvine Sanford, one of the proprietors of the Hillcrest House, were in the room. Sanford was only slightly shocked.
